This is a reproduction of a library book that was digitized by Google as part of an ongoing effort to preserve the information in books and make it universally accessible.

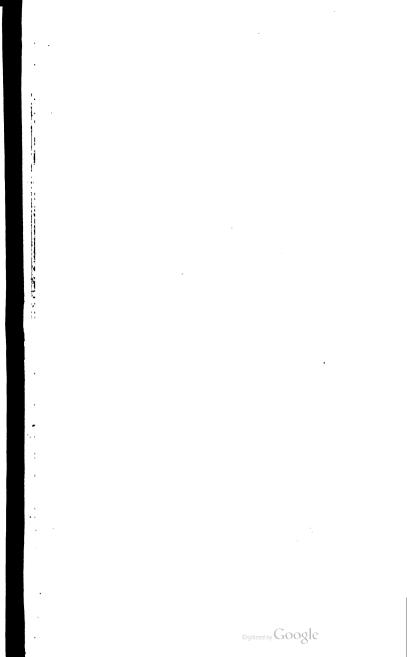

Google[®]books

https://books.google.com

Digitized by Google

λ.

fu Tall Copier Te numer ation of the colorion on the Be-than which had been dreet up to the Second Edition is know reserved in this Eight Ew! The adards Treamant to this colition Contrant of Prestons' reconciliation writh back & boolget 57 Preston 776

1486 aaa8

ILLUSTRATIONS

0 F

MASONRY.

WILLIAM PRESTON, PAST MASTER OF THE LODGE OF ANTIQUITY ACTING BY IMMEMORIAL CONSTITUTION.

BY

The man, whole mind on virtue bent, Purfues fome greatly good intent With undiverted aim; Serese, beholds the angry croud, Nor can their clamours fierce and loud, His flubborn honour tame.

BLACKLOCK.

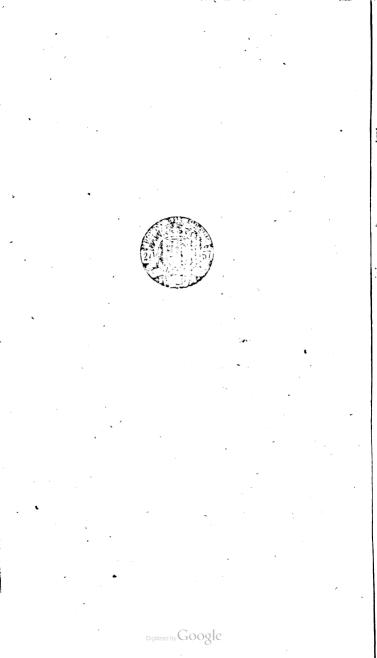

THE EIGHTH EDITION:

WITH ADDITIONS AND IMPROVEMENTS.

LONDON:

PRINTED FOR G. AND T. WILKIE, Nº 57, PATERNOSTER-ROW.

MDCCXCII.

TO THE

٩

RIGHT HONOURABLE

LORD PETRE,

PAST GRAND MASTER

OF THE

ANCIENT AND HONOURABLE SOCIETY

0 F

FREE AND ACCEPTED MASONS,

THIS TREATISE

15,

WITH THE GREATEST RESPECT.

INSCRIBED;

BY

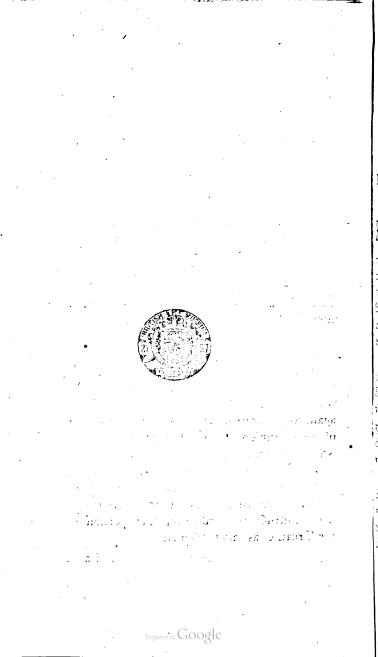

HIS LORDSHIP's

MOST OBEDIENT SERVANT AND BROTHER,

· WILLIAM PRESTON.

A 2

ADVERTISEMENT

۴, то

THE PRESENT EDITION.

FROM the circumftances that took place in the Society in 1779, and the illiberal treatment which I then experienced, I never entertained an idea of extending this Volume beyond its original fize. The editions published fince that time, have undergone corrections and alterations; but the quantity of sheets has not been increased.

[•] My reftoration to the privileges of the Society, in fo refpectable a manner, at the Grand Feaft in 1790; together with the gentlemen in whofe caufe I had embarked; has induced me again to ftep forward in promoting the purpoles of an infitution, to which I have ever been warmly attached.

With this view I have confiderably enlarged the prefent Edition; particularly in those parts which I conceived might be conducive to general instruction, confidering that portion of the Treatise as most effential.

A 3

Digitized by Google

I have

ADVERTISEMENT.

I have added to the hiftory two complete Sections, in which the narrative of the principal transactions of the Society is continued to the Grand Feaft in 1791.

To England alone, I have not confined my detail, but have introduced the most remarkable events in Masonry, under the English conflitution, on the Continent, as well as in India. Neither has the progress of the Society in Scotland escaped my attention; for the proceedings of the fraternity at laying the foundation-flone of the South Bridge of Edinburgh, and of the new College in that city, are minutely recorded.

To the poetical part, fundry Odes, Anthems, and Songs, are added, and others of lefs importance expunged.

In fhort, I have endeavoured to put the finishing stroke to the present Treatife, the success of which has far exceeded its merit; and should the additions be confidered real improvements, I shall be amply gratified for the pains I have taken.

Digitized by Google

Dean-street, Fetter-lane, January 1, 1792. W. P.

PREFACE.

THE favourable reception this Treatife has met with in the feveral Editions through which it has paffed, encourages the Author to hope that its appearance on a more enlarged fcale, will not render it lefs deferving the countenance of his Brethren.

The Author would be wanting in gratitude to bis friends, were he not to acknowledge the obligations he is under to many gentlemen for feveral curious extracts, and the perufal of many valuable manufcripts, which have enabled him to illustrate his fubject with greater accuracy and precifion.

This Tract is divided into Four Books: In the Firft, is included a Vindication of Mafonry, with a demonstration of its excellency. In the Second Book the Lectures of the different Degrees are illustrated, with occasional remarks, and a brief description is given of the ancient ceremonies of the Order. The Third Book contains the copy of a curious old Manuscript on Masonry, with annotations, the better to explain this authentic document of antiquity. The Fourth Book is restricted to the history of

A 4

Digitized by Google

Mafonry,

Mafonry, from its first appearance in England to the prefent time, in the course of which are introduced the most remarkable occurrences of the Society, both at home and abroad, with the names of the patrons and protectors of the fraternity at different periods. In this part of the work, the Author has found it necessfary to make confiderable additions. Throughout the whole is interspersed a number of explanatory notes, containing a variety of interesting and well-authenticated particulars.

At the end is given a collection of Anthems and Songs; fome of which have never appeared in any former publication. These being occafionally introduced in our affemblies, tend greatly to enliven the proceedings.

January 1ft, 1788.

Digitized by Google

Viii

INTRODUCTION.

WHOEVER attentively confiders the nature and tendency of the mafonic inftitution, muft readily perceive its general utility. From an anxious defire to difplay its value, I have been induced to offer the following fheets to the Public. Many reafons might have with-held me from the attempt; my inexperience as a writer, my attention to the duties of my profeffion, and the many abler hands who have treated the fubject before me: yet, under all these difadvantages, the perfuasion of friends, added to a warm zeal in the cause, have flimulated me to risk my reputation on the fate of my performance.

When I first had the honour to be elected Master of a lodge, I thought it proper to inform myfelf fully of the general rules of the Society, that I might be able to fulfil my own duty, and officially enforce a due obedience in others. The various methods I adopted with this view, excited in fome of fuperficial knowledge, an abfolute diflike of what they confidered as innovations; and in others who were better informed, a jealoufy of pre-eminence which the principles of Masonry ought to have A 5 checked.

checked. But notwithstanding these discouragements, I persevered in my intentions of supporting the dignity of the Society, and of discharging with fidelity the trust reposed in me. As candour and integrity, with a warm zeal, uninfluenced by interest and unbiassed by favour, will ever support a good cause, many of my opponents (pardon the expression) were soon convinced of their error, and not only applauded, but cheerfully concurred in the execution of my measures; while others, of less liberality, secretly approved what their former declared opinions forbad them publicly to adopt.

This agreeable fuccefs exceeding my moft fanguine wifnes, encouraged me to examine, with more minute attention, the contents of our various lectures. The rude and imperfect flate in which I found them, together with the difficulties I encountered in my fearch after the variety of modes eftablished in our affemblies, rather difcouraged me in the first attempt : perfevering, however, in the defign, I continued the pursuit; and with the affistance of a few friends, who had carefully preferved what ignorance and degeneracy had rejected as unintelligible and abfurd, I diligently fought for, and at length happily acquired, fome of the aneient and venerable landmarks of the Order.

This

2

2

INTRODUCTION

This fortunate acquisition increased my industry, and induced my friends to join me in exemplifying the beauty and utility of the mafonic system, and correcting the irregularities which had infensibly crept into our affemblies. We therefore fully determined to profecute our defign of effecting a general reformation.

To revive the wife charges and useful regulations of Malonry, which inattention had fuffered to fink into oblivion, was the first step we purfued at the commencement of our plan.

Directed by an affiduous fludy and careful perufal of those charges, we established them as the basis of our work. To imprint on the memory a faithful discharge of our duty, we reduced the more material parts of our fystem into practice, and profecuted our inquiries after full more useful knowledge.

To encourage others to join in our undertaking, we observed a general rule of reading, or ordering to be read, one or more of these charges at every regular meeting, and of offering our sentiments in elucidation of such particular passages as seemed obscure. By these means many useful hints were offered, which we gradually improved, till we succeeded in bringing into a connected form the several sections of which the three lectures of Masonry are composed.

The

xi

INTRODUCTION.

The progrefs daily made by our fyftem pointing out the neceffity of obtaining the fanction of our patrons, feveral brethren, gentlemen of acknowledged honour and integrity, joined us fome years ago in an application to the moft refpectable members of the Society for their countenance and protection; and we fo far happily fucceeded, as not only to obtain the wifhedfor fanction, but to fecure the promife of future affiftance and fupport. Since that time our plan has been fo generally approved, as to be univerfally admitted as the bafis of our Moral Lectures; and to that circumftance the prefent publication owes its fuccefs.

To conclude. Having thus ventured to appear in vindication of the ceremonies, and in fupport of the privileges, of Mafonry, I fhall be happy to be confidered a feeble inftrument in promoting its profperity. If I continue to meet with the approbation of my brethren, and fucceed in my expectation of giving the world a favourable idea of the inftitution, I fhall attain the full completion of my wifhes; and if my hopes are fruftrated, I fhall ftill indulge the not unpleafant reflection, of having exerted my beft endeavours in a good caufe.

Digitized by Google

January 1st, 1788.

W. P.

'xü

BOOK I.

A Vindication of Masonry, including a Domonstration of its Excellency.

SECT. I. Reflections on the fymmetry and proportion difplayed in the works of Nature, and on the harmony and affection which fubfift among the various species of beings of every rank and denomination. Page 1 IF. Friendship confidered, with the advantages refulting from it -IH. Origin of Mafonry, and its general advantages Masonry confidered under two denominations 10 V. Government of the fraternity explained 12 VI. Reafon why the fecrets of Masonry ought not to be publicly exposed; and the importance of those fecrets demonstrated 13 VII. Few Societies exempted from cenfure. Irregularities of majons no argument against the institution VIII. Charity the diffinguishing characteristic of maions 21 IX. The difcernment difplayed by majons in the proper choice of objects of charity X. Friendly admonitions 26 EULOGIUM 27 воок н.

General Remarks : including an Illustration of the Lectures ; a particular Defcription of the ancient Ceremonies ; and the Charges of all the Degrees. SECT. I. General Remarks - - 29 II. Ceremony of opening and closing a Lodge - - 31 Prayer

Digitized by Google

ŝ

| A CALL AND A |
|---|
| Prayer at opening the Lodge 35 |
| at closing the Lodge ib. |
| Charges and Regulations for the conduct |
| - and behaviour of masons 36 |
| |
| On the management of the craft in work- |
| ing, to be rehearled at opening the | | Lodge ib. |
| Laws for the government of the Lodge 37 |
| Charge on the behaviour of masons, to be |
| rehearfed at clofing the Lodge - 39 |
| SECT. III. Remarks on the FIRST LECTURE 41 |
| First Section 42 |
| |
| Declaration to be affented to by every |
| |
| Candidate, in an adjoining apartment, |
| previous to initiation 44 |
| Form of Proposition ib. |
| Prayer at Initiation 45 |
| Third Section 46 |
| Charge at Initiation into the First De- |
| gree ib. |
| Fourth Section 51 |
| Origin of masonic hieroglyphics - 52 |
| Fifth Section ib. |
| |
| |
| Brotherly Love, Relief, and Truth, ex- |
| plained ib . |
| Cardinal Virtues explained 55 |
| Equality among masons exemplified 56 |
| SECT. IV. Remarks on the SECOND LECTURE 57 |
| First Section 60 |
| Charge at Initiation into the Second |
| Degree 61 |
| Second Section 63 |
| Origin of Orders in Architecture - 64 |
| Five Orders explained 65 |
| General Remarks on the Senfers - 68 |
| |
| Five Senfes explained 69 |
| Moral |

xiv .

| Manul advantages of Occurrent | |
|--|------|
| Moral advantages of Geometry | 75 |
| Third Section | 76 |
| Fourth Section | 77 |
| Seven liberal Arts explained | 78 |
| The Globes explained | 81 |
| SECT. V. Remarks on the THIRD LECTURE | 82 |
| First Section | 83 |
| Prayer at Initiation into the Third | De- |
| gree | 84 |
| Charge at Initiation into the Third | Den |
| gree | ib. |
| Second Section | 86 |
| Third Section | ib. |
| Fourth Section | ib. |
| Fifth Section | ib. |
| Sixth Section | ib. |
| Seventh Section | |
| Eighth Section | 87 |
| Ninth Section | ib. |
| Tenth Section - | ib. |
| Eleventh Section | ib. |
| Twelfth Section | 88 |
| | ib. |
| SECT. VI. Of the ancient Ceremonies of the | |
| der | 89 |
| Form of Application for a Conflitution | 92 |
| Ceremony of Constitution | ib. |
| Ceremony of Confectation | 93 |
| - Ceremony of Installation | 95 |
| General Charges delivered at the Con | fti- |
| tution of a Lodge | 96 |
| Ancient Charges at ditto, from an | old |
| MS | ib. |
| Ceremony of laying a foundation-stone | 00 |
| Ceremony of Dedication | 113 |
| Ceremony at Funerals | 18 |
| General Remark on Funeral Proceffi | ons |
| | 19 |
| Hungrol Comico | 22 |
| | |

Digitized by Google

tr

BOOK HI.

The Principles of Mafonry explained.

| SECT. I. A Letter from the learned Mr. John Lo | cke |
|--|--------|
| to the Earl of Pembroke | 133 |
| Old Dialogue on Mafonry | 1.35 |
| Gloffary to ditto = | 143. |
| SECT. II. Remarks on ditto | 144. |
| Some Account of Pythagoras | 147 |
| Remarks on Secrecy | 1 5 2: |
| Inftances of the great veneration paid to | that |
| art by the ancients | ib. |
| The ftory of Papyrus | 153 |
| Curious explanation of the word ABRAC | 156. |
| Aftrology originally practifed by mafons | 157 |
| Interesting observations resulting theref | rom |
| | 1.58 |

BOOK IV.

The History of Masonry in England:

SECT. I. Masonry early introduced into England .--Account of the Druids .- Progress of Mafonry in England under the Romans .--Masons highly favoured by St. Alban 163 Account of the Druids 164 St. Alban procures a charter for the majons. from Caraufius 167 Some account of this venerable Martyr 168. SECT. II. Hiftory of Masonry in England under St. Auftin, King Alfred, and Athelftane; and also under the Knights Templars 169, Auftin patronizes the masons 171 Alfred favours the majons 172: Character of that Prince 173. First Grand Lodge of England formed at. York 174: Athelftane grants a charter to the masons, there ib. Claims,

Digitized by Google

- TVE

Claims of the prefent Grand Lodge at York examined 175 A general or Grand Lodge explained 177 Why allegiance is due to the Grand Lodge at York īb. Athelftane fallely accufed of murdering his brother Edwin -Magna Charta first obtained by the Normans from Henry I. 182 -Masonry under the Grand Master of the Knights Templars ib. SECT. III. History of Masonry in England during the reigns of Edward I. Edward II. Edward III. Richard II. Henry V. and Henry VI. 182 Edward III, patronizes the majons ib. Extract from an old record in his reign 184 Act for abolishing Chapters of masons 187 Judge Coke's opinion on that ftatute ib. Circumstances which gave rife to this Act 188 Dr. Anderson's observations on this Act 191 Civil commetions at this period ib. Duchefs of Gloucester accused of witchcraft. & condemned to perpetual imprisonment 197 Dake of Gloucester murdered -198 Character of that Prince ib. Cardinal of Winchefter's death, and anecdote concerning it N. - - ib. King Henry initiated into malonry, revifes the conflitutions, and patronizes the lodges 199 Hift. of Masonry in Scotland at this period 200 SECT. IV. Hiftory of Masonry in the South of England from 1471 to 1567 202 Masonry under the patronage of the Knights of Malta ib. ۹ Queen Elizabeth fends an armed force to break up the annual communication at York 205 A Grande

xviii

A Grand Master first appointed for the South of England; Sir T. Grefham elected 206 Some account of Sir Thomas Gretham ib. SECT. V. Progrefs of Masonry in the South of England from the reign of Elizabeth to the Fire of London 1666 297 Inigo Jones a zealous patron of matons 200 Some account of this artift ib. The appellation of Grand Master of England first given ib. • Banqueting-house Whitehall, described, 210 Other works executed by him 213 Extracts from Elias Ashmole's diary 212 Sir Chr. Wren prefides over the masons 216 Short account of this architect ib. Regulations of the masons in the reign of Charles II. 217 SECT. VI. Hift. of Mafonzy in England from the Fire of London to the accession of Geo. I. 219 London visited by the Plague -22Q Fire of London ib. Dr.Wren prepares a plan for the new city221 Citizens averfe to it 222 Foundation-flone of the Royal Exchange laid, and defeription of the building 223 Custom-house of London built ib. Theatrum Sheldonum at Oxford built 224 Monument erected; description of it ib. Dr. Wren defigns St. Paul's cathedral 227 The foundation-stone laid by K. Charles 228 Accurate description of the building ib. Bethlehem hospital in Moorfields built, and defcribed 237 Parish churches in London rebuilt, or repaired, after the Fire 238 State of Malonry at the Revolution 244 SECT. VII. History of the Revival of Masonry in the South of England -246 Hift.

| Hift. of Masonry in London at that time 247 |
|--|
| Establishment of the prefent Grand Lodge |
| in London ib. |
| Nature of its establishment 248 |
| Particular account of the four Old Lodges |
| which first formed the Grand Lodge, and |
| the privileges retained by them - 254 |
| Duke of Montague the first noble Grand | | Master after the Revival 257 |
| State of Masonry in the North of England |
| from 1705 to 1725 inclusive - 258 |
| The Grand Lodge of York deemed the | | Mother-Lodge of the kingdom - 259 |
| First division between the lodges in the North |
| and South on account of innovations made |
| by the latter 260 |
| SECT. VIII. History of Masonry from its revival in |
| the South of England to the death of King |
| George I 261 |
| Book of Constitutions first published 263 |
| Committee of Charity established - 265 |
| Masons of Wales unite nuder the banner of |
| the Grand Lodge of England - 267 |
| Provincial Grand Masters first appointed ib. |
| Office and Privilege of a Provincial Grand | | Master explained ib. |
| Death of King George I 268 |
| SECT. IX. Hiftory of Masonry in England during |
| the reign of King George II 269 |
| Masonry first established in India, and its |
| rapid progress there 271 |
| Duke of Norfolk's handsome present to the | | Society 272 |
| Regulations in the Committee of Charity 273 |
| Privileges granted to the Stewards - 274 |
| First country feast held at Hampstead 275 |
| Lodge at Hamburgh opened under the Eng- |
| lish Constitution 277 |
| Anderfon's |

xîx

Anderson's Ed. of Constitutions published 278 First encroachment on the Jurisdiction of the Grand Lodge at York ib. The lodge at York acknowledged to act independent under its own Grand Master 279 Stewards first appear at the Grand Lodge in their regalia 280 Certain privileges of the Stewards disputed 281 Frederick the late Prince of Wales initiated 282 The late King of Pruffia initiated 284 Grand Lodge in Prussia instituted under a Conflictution from Scotland ib. Regulations established by his Prussian Majefty for the government of the Society 285 Rife of the Society in London calling them-286 felves Ancient Majons Modes adopted to check their progrefs ib. They fallely assume the York banner 288 Harmony of the Society reftored through the influence of Lord Ward 200 Grand Lodge of Antigua inflituted 29I Public processions discontinued 202 New Regulations respecting the irregular masons in London 204 Death of King George II. 246 SECT. X. Hiftory of Masonry in the South of England from the Acceffion of George III. to the end of the year 1779. 297 - Subscriptions voted for purchasing furniture for the Grand Lodge -300. Dukes of Gloucester and Cumberland initiated ib. Compliment voted to the Dukes of York. Gloucester, and Cumberland 302 Treaty of union with the Grand Lodge of France ib. Plan of Incorporation laid before the Society 303 Cavear

xxi

Caveat entered against the Incorporation 305 Compact with the National Grand Lodge of the United Provinces 306 Bill for incorporating the Society brought into Parliament, and on the fecond reading rejected 307 Hall Committee inftituted 208 -Report to the Grand Lodge of the purchase of ground and premises for the Hall 300 50001. raifed on tontine by fubicription, for building the Hall 310 Foundation-ftone of the new Hall laid 311 Hall completed and dedicated 312 Brethren of St. John's lodge at Newcastle build a hall for their meetings 313 Proposals for an alliance with the Grand Lodge of Berlin approved 314 -Deputy or Affiftant Secretary appointed ib. Paft Grand Officers diftinguished by a jewel ib. Further regulations respecting ancient masons 315 The centure against them not extended to the lodges under the banner of Scotland, Ireland, or York 316 Free-masons Calendar first published ib. Fee of Conflictutions railed ib. . The tranquillity of the Society interrupted by private diffentions - -317 Confequence of these diffentions 318 Rife of the disputes with the lodge of Antiquity ib. Proceedings of the Gr. Lodge on that occasion 318 Lodge of Antiquity separates from the Grand Lodge, and forms an alliance with the Grand Lodge at York 319 Refolution of the Grand Lodge in justification of its proceedings in giving a fanction to three expelled members of the lodge of Antiquity, with their affociates, to bear the rank and title of that lodge 320 Reflections on that event ib. Lodge Lodge of Antiquity renews its alliance with the Grand Lodge, and harmony reftored 323 SECT. XI. Hiftory of the most remarkable events in the Society from 1779 to 1791 inclusive 324 Flourishing state of Masonry under the English conffitution in the East Indies ib. Omdit-ul-Omrah, eldeft fon of the Nabob of Arcot, initiated in the lodge at Tritchinopoly ib. A congratulatory letter from the Grand Lodge, with a prefent of a blue apron, and Book of Conflitutions, fent to his highness by fir J. Day 325 326 The answer returned Omur-ul-Omrah, brother to Omdit-ul-Omrah, 228 initiated Proceedings of the Society at Madras under brigadier general Horne ib. Grand Lodge established there ib. ib. Union of the brethren there Lodge of Perfect Unanimity No. I. at Madras instituted 329 One hundred pounds fent to America for the rehef of distressed brethren 332 Propofal for diffinguishing the Grand Officers with robes fet ande ib. New fubscription raised for the Hall fund, and honorary jewels prefented to the fubscribers 333 Privileges granted to them ib. Grand Officers at their appointment to be memib. bers of the Stewards lodge An Extra-Committee of Charity appointed to meet in fummer during the receis 334 An additional Grand Secretary appointed żb. Grand Lodge of Germany agreed to be reprefented in London 335 Measures, proposed to establish an union with the lodges of Scotland and Ireland ib. Duke of Cumberland elected Grand Mafter ib. Acting Grand Mafter first appointed 336 1000 l.

XXII

10001. of the Charity confolidated with the Hall 336 fund Regulations for the increase of the Hall fund 337 Office of Grand Portrait Painter appointed 338 Lodge erafed for making majons in the King's Bench prifon · _ -339 Fines to be levied on Deputy Grand Master and Grand Wardens when abfent ib. -Great improvements in the city of Edinburgh ib. Foundation-stone of the South Bridge laid 340 Ceremony observed on that occasion ib. Infcription deposited within the ftone 342 Plan for building the new College of Edinburgh approved 344 Ceremony observed at laying the foundation-stone of that structure 346 Addresses of the Gr. Master on that occasion ib. Principal Robertson's speech, in answer 349 Infeription placed within the ftone 353 Order of Harodim inftituted at London 355 Royal Cumberland Free-masons school instituted 356 * Duke of Clarence initiated into majonry 359 Prince of Wales initiated ib. Duke of York initiated ib. Prince Edward initiated ib. Prince of Wales elected Grand Mafter 260 Three elegant chairs and candlefticks provided for the Grand Lodge 361 ODES. I. Hail to the Craft, &c. 363 II. What folemn founds, &c. 364 III. Order is Heaven's first law, &c. 367

5

¢

IV. When first the golden morn, &c. - 368 V. Wake the lute and quiv'ring firings - 370 VI. Almighty Sire ! our heavenly king - 371 VII. Hail, univerfal Lord - - 372 VIII. Affist

VIII. Affift me, ye fair tuneful Nine ·373 IX. Urania, hail ! to thee we fing -374 X. Arife, gentle Muse, &c. -375

ANTHEMS.

I. Grant us, kind Heaven! what we request ib. II. By Masons' Art, th' aspiring dome 376 III. ' Let there be light !' the Almighty fpoke 377 IV. To Heaven's high Architect all praise . 10.

SONGS.

I. Arife, and blow thy trumpet, Fame! 378 II. Unite, unite, your voices raise 379 III. When earth's foundation first was laid ib. IV. Ere God the Universe began 380 V. While trifles lead the world aftray 381 VI. Not the fictions of Greece. &c. 382 VII. Ye dull ftupid Mortals, &c. VIII. While Princes and Heroes, &c. 384 385 IX. No Sect in the world, &c. ib. X. Genius of Masonry, descend 386 XI. When my divine Althæa's charms 288 XII. On, on, my dear brethren, &c. H. XIII. Hail Mafonry, thou craft divine ! 389 XIV. Let Majonry from pole to pole XV. When Heav'n defign'd, &c. 391 ib. XVI. Ye fons of fair Science, impatient to learn 392 XVII. Hail, Mafonry divine ! 394 XVIII. Let drunkards boast the power of wine ib. XIX. Come let us prepare 396 XX. Ye thrice happy few 397 XXI. When a Lodge of Free-majons, &c. ·399 XXII. In History we're told, &c. 400 XXIII. When Mafonry expiring lay, &c. 402 XXIV. Hail Mafonry ! thou facred Art 404 XXV. Come, ye Mafons, hither bring ib. XXVI. Whilft each poet fings, &c. 406 XXVII. When the Sun from the East, &c. 407 IL

LUS-

XXIV

ILLUSTRATIONS

OF

MASONRY.

BOOK I.

A VINDICATION OF MASONRY, INCLUDING DEMONSTRATION OF ITS EXCELLENCY.

SECTION I.

Reflections on the fymmetry and proportion difplayed in the works of Nature, and on the harmony and affection which fubfift among the various species of beings of every rank and denomination.

W HOEVER reflects on the objects that furround him, will find abundant reafon to admire the works of Nature, and to adore the all-fupreme Being who directs fuch aftonishing operations: he will be convinced, that infinite wifdom could alone defign, and infinite power accomplish, fuch amazing works. B Were

Were a man placed in a beautiful garden. would not his mind be affected with the most exquisite delight, on a calm furvey of its rich collections ? Would not the groves, the grottoes, the artful wilds, the flowery parterres, the opening viftos, the lofty cafcades, the winding ftreams, the whole variegated scene, awaken his fenfibility, and infpire his foul with the most exalted ideas? When he observed the delicate order, the nice fymmetry, and beautiful difpofition of every part, feemingly complete in itfelf, yet reflecting new beauties on the other, and nothing wanted to make one beautiful whole, would not his mind be agitated with the most bewitching fensations, and the view of the delightful fcene naturally lead him to admire and venerate the happy genius of him who contrived it?

If the productions of art can fo forcibly imprefs the mind with admiration, with how much greater aftonifhment and reverence muft we behold the operations of Nature ? On every hand the prefents to view unbounded fcenes of utility and delight, in which divine wifdom is moft ftrikingly confpicuous. Such fcenes are indeed too expanded for the narrow capacity of man to comprehend; yet, whoever contemplates the general fystem, will eafily perceive, from the uniformity

+++++11

uniformity of the plan, ample traces of an original fource, and be naturally directed to the first cause, the grand author of existence, the supreme governor of the world, the one perfect and unfullied beauty !

Befide all the pleafing profpects that everywhere furround us, and with which our fenfes are every moment gratified; befide the fymmetry, good order, and proportion, which appear in all the works of creation, there is fomething farther that attracts the reflecting mind, and draws its attention nearer to the Divinity —the univerfal harmony and affection which fubfift among the different fpecies of beings, of every rank and denomination. Thefe are the cements of the rational world, and by thefe alone does it fubfift. When they ceafe, nature muft be diffolved, and man, the image of his maker, and the chief of his works, be overwhelmed in the general chaos.

On a careful examination we fhall find, that in the whole order of beings, from the feraph which adores and burns, down to the meaneft infect, all, according to their rank in the fcale of existence, have, more or lefs, implanted in them, the principle of affociation with others of the fame species with themselves. Even the most inconfiderable animals are formed into dif-B 2 ferent

1

ferent ranks and focieties for mutual benefit and protection. Need we name the careful ant, or the industrious bee; infects which the wifest of men has recommended as patterns of unwearied industry and prudent forefight? When we farther purfue our remarks, we shall find, that the innate principle of friendship increases in proportion with the extension of our intellectual faculties; and that the only criterion by which a judgment can be formed, respecting the fuperiority of one part of the animal creation above the other, must be, by observing the degrees of kindness and good-nature in which it excels.

If fuch are the general principles which pervade the whole creation, how forcibly muft those leffons predominate in the affemblies of masons, where civilization and virtue, under the fanction of science and art, are ever most zealoufly cherished ?

SECT. II.

Friendship confidered, with the advantages resulting from it.

1

NO fubject can more properly engage the attention, than the humane and benevolent difpolitions which indulgent Nature has beflowed upon the rational fpecies. Thefe are replete with the happiest effects, and afford to the mind the most agreeable reflections. The breaft which is infpired with tender feelings, is naturally prompted to a reciprocal intercourfe of kind and generous actions. As human nature rifes in the scale of things, fo do the focial affections likewife arife. When friendship is firm and lafting, we enjoy the highest degree of happiness : but when it declines, we experience an equal degree of pain. _Where friendship is unknown, jealoufy and fuspicion prevail; but where virtue is the cement, true pleafure must be enjoyed. In every breast there exists a propenfity to friendly acts, and when those are exerted to effect, they fweeten every temporal enjoyment; and if they do not always totally remove the difquietudes, they at least tend to allay the calamities, of life.

Friendship is traced through the circle of private connexions to the grand fystem of uni-B 3 versal verfal benevolence, which no limits can circumfcribe, and its influence extends to every branch of the human race. Actuated by these sentiments, each individual centers his happiness in the happiness of his neighbour, and a fixed and permanent union is established among men.

Neverthelefs, though friendfhip, confidered as the fource of univerfal benevolence, is unlimited, it exerts its influence more or lefs powerfully as the objects it favours are nearer or more remote. Hence the love of friends and of country takes the lead in our affections, and gives rife to that true patriotifm, which fires the foul with the most generous flame, creates the best and most difinterested virtue, and infpires that public spirit and heroic ardour which enable us to support a good cause, and Tik our lives in its defence.

This commendable virtue crowns the lover of his country with unfading laurels, gives a luftre to his actions, and confecrates his name to pofterity. The warrior's glory may confift in murder, and the rude ravage of the defolating fword; but the blood of thoufands will never ftain the hands of his country's friend. His virtues are open, and of the nobleft kind. Confcious integrity fupports him againft the arm of power; and fhould he bleed by tyranthands, hands, he gloriously dies a martyr in the cause of liberty, and leaves to posterity an everlasting monument of the greatness of his foul.

Friendfhip not only appears divine when employed in preferving the liberties of our country, but fhines with equal fplendor in the more tranquil fcenes of life. Before it rifes into the noble flame of patriotifm, aiming deftruction at the heads of tyrants, thundering for liberty, and courting danger in defence of rights; we behold it calm and moderate, burning with an even glow, improving the foft hours of peace, and heightening the relifh for virtue. In thefe happy moments contracts are formed, focieties inftituted, and the vacant hours of life wifely employed in the cultivation of focial and polifhed manners.

SECT. III.

Origin of Mafonry, and its general advantages.

FROM the commencement of the world, we may trace the foundation of Mafonry. Ever fince fymmetry began, and harmony difplayed her charms, our Order has had a being. During many ages, and in many different countries, it has flourished. No art, no fcience preceded it. In the dark periods of antiquity, when lite-B Δ rature rature was in a low ftate, and the rude manners of our forefathers withheld from them that knowledge we now fo amply fhare, Mafonry diffufed its influence. This fcience unveiled, arts arofe, civilization took place, and the progrefs of knowledge and philofophy gradually difpelled the gloom of ignorance and barbarifm. Government being fettled, authority was given to laws, and the affemblies of the fraternity acquired the patronage of the great and the good, while the tenets of the profeflion were attended with unbounded utility.

7.

R.

Abstracting from the pure pleafures which arife from friendship fo wifely constituted as that which fublifts among masons, and which it is fcarcely possible that any circumstance or occurrence can erafe, we find that masonry is a fcience confined to no particular country, but diffused over the whole terrestrial globe. Whereever arts flourish, there it flourishes too. Add to this, that by fecret and inviolable figns, carefully preferved among the fraternity throughout the world, Mafonry becomes an univerfal language. Hence many advantages are gained : The diftant Chinefe, the wild Arab, and the American favage, will embrace a brother Briton; and will know, that befide the common ties of humanity, there is still a stronger obligation to induce induce him to kind and friendly offices. The fpirit of the fulminating prieft will be tamed; and a moral brother, though of a different perfuafion, engage his efteem. Thus, through the influence of Mafonry, which is reconcilable to the beft policy, all those disputes which embitter life, and four the tempers of men, are avoided; while the common good, the general defign of the craft, is zealoufly purfued.

From this view of the fyftem, its utility muft be fufficiently obvious. The univerfal principles of the art unite men of the moft opposite tenets, of the moft diftant countries, and of the most contradictory opinions, in one indiffoluble bond of affection, fo that in every nation a Mason finds a friend, and in every climate a home.

1

×

1

l

Such is the plan of our infitution; hence, in all our Lodges, union is cemented by fincere attachment, and pleafure reciprocally communicated in the cheerful obfervance of every obliging office. Virtue, the grand object in view, luminous as the meridian fun, fhines refulgent on the mind, enlivens the heart, and converts cool approbation into warm fympathy and cordial attention.

SECT. IV.

Masonry confidered under two denominations.

MASONRY is underftood under two denominations: it is operative, and fpeculative. By the former, we allude to a proper application of the ufeful rules of architecture, whence a ftructure will derive figure, ftrength, and beauty, and whence will refult a due proportion, and a juft correspondence in all its parts. By the latter, we learn to fubdue the paffions, act upon the fquare, keep a tongue of good report, maintain fecrecy, and practife charity.

Speculative Mafonry is fo far interwoven with religion, as to lay us under the ftrongeft obligations to pay that rational homage to the Deity, which at once conftitutes our duty and our happinefs. It leads the contemplative to view with reverence and admiration the glorious works of the creation, and infpires him with the moft exalted ideas of the perfections of his divine Creator.—Operative Mafonry furnifhes us with dwellings, and convenient fhelters from the viciffitudes and inclemencies of feafons; and while it difplays the effects of human wifdom, as well in the choice, as in the arrangement, of the fundry materials of which an edifice is compofed, posed, it demonstrates that a fund of fcience and industry is implanted in man for the best, most falutary, and beneficent purposes.

44

The lapfe of time, the ruthlefs hand of ignorance, and the devastations of war, have laid wafte and deftroyed many valuable monuments of antiquity, on which the utmost exertions of human genius have been employed. Even the temple of SOLOMON, fo fpacious and magnificent. and constructed by fo many celebrated artifts, escaped not the unsparing ravages of barbarous force. Free-malonry, notwithstanding, has still furvived. The attentive ear receives the found from the inftructive tongue, and the facred mysteries are fafely lodged in the repofitory of faithful breafts. Tools and implements of architecture, fymbols the most expressive! are felected by the fraternity, to imprint on the memory wife and ferious truths; and thus, through a fucceffion of ages, are transmitted unimpaired the excellent tenets of their inftitution.

BG

SECT. V.

The Government of the Fraternity explained.

THE mode of government observed by the fraternity will best explain the importance, and give the truess idea of the nature and defign, of the masonic system.

There are three classes of Masons, under different appellations. The privileges of these claffes are distinct, and particular means are adopted to preferve those privileges to the just and meritorious of each class. Honour and probity are recommendations to the first class; in which the practice of virtue is enforced, and the duties of morality inculcated, while the mind is prepared for focial converse, and a regular progress in the principles of knowledge and philosophy .--- Diligence, affiduity, and application, are qualifications for the fecond clafs : in which an accurate elucidation of science. both in theory and practice, is given. Here human reafon is cultivated by a due exertion of the rational and intellectual powers and faculties; nice and difficult theories are explained; new difcoveries produced, and those already known beautifully embellished .- The third class is composed of a felected few, whom truth and fidelity fidelity have diffinguished, whom years and experience have improved, and whom merit and abilities have entitled to preferment. With them the ancient landmarks of the Order are preferved; and from them we learn and practife the neceffary and instructive lessons, which at once dignify the art, and qualify its profess to illustrate its excellence and utility.

Digitized by Google

This is the eftablished mode of the masonic government when the rules of the fystem are observed. By this judicious arrangement, true friendship is cultivated among different ranks and degrees of men, hospitality promoted, industry rewarded, and ingenuity encouraged.

SECT. VI.

Reafons why the fecrets of Mafonry ought not to be publicly exposed; and the importance of those fecrets demonstrated.

IF the fecrets of Mafonry are replete with fuch advantage to mankind, it may be afked, why are they not divulged for the general good of fociety? To this it may be anfwered; Were the privileges of Mafonry to be indifcriminately beftowed, the defign of the inflitution would be fubverted; and being familiar, like many other important important matters, would foon lofe their value, and fink into difregard.

It is a weaknefs in human nature, that men are generally more charmed with novelty, than the real worth or intrinsic value of things. Innumerable testimonies might be adduced of this truth. The operations of Nature, however beautiful, magnificent, and useful, are overlooked, becaufe common and familiar. The fun rifes and fets, the fea flows and reflows, rivers glide along their channels, trees and plants vegetate, men and beafts act, yet thefe being perpetually open to view, pafs unnoticed. In fhort, the most astonishing productions of Nature escape observation on account of their familiarity, and excite not one fingle emotion, either in admiration of the great caufe, or of gratitude for the bleffing conferred. Virtue herfelf is not exempted from this unhappy bias in the conflictution of the human frame. Novelty influences all our actions and determi-What is new, or difficult in the acnations. quisition, however trifling or infignificant, readily captivates the imagination, and enfures a temporary admiration; while what is familiar, or eafily attained, however noble or eminent for its utility, is fure to be difregarded by the giddy and the unthinking.

Digitized by Google

Did

Did the particular fecrets or peculiar forms prevalent among Masons constitute the effence of the art, it might be alleged that our amufements were trifling, and our ceremonies fuperficial. But this is not the cafe. Having their use, they are preferved ; and from the recollection of the leffons they inculcate, the well-informed Mason derives instruction. Drawing them to a near infpection, he views them through a proper medium; adverts to the circumftances which gave them rife; dwells upon the tenets they convey; and finding them replete with useful information, adopts them as keys to the privileges of his art, and prizes them as facred. Thus convinced of their propriety, he estimates their value from their utility.

Many perfons are deluded by the vague fuppofition that our myfteries are merely nominal; that the practices eftablifhed among us are frivolous; and that our ceremonies might be adopted, or waved, at pleafure. On this falfe foundation, we have found them hurrying through all the degrees, without adverting to the propriety of one ftep they purfue, or poffefling a fingle qualification requifite for advancement. Paffing through the ufual formalities, they have accepted offices, and affumed 2 the

ŀ

1 í

ें। इ

the government of lodges, equally unacquainted with the rules of the inftitution they pretended to fupport, or the nature of the truft reposed in them. The confequence is obvious; anarchy and confusion have enfued, and the fubftance has been loft in the fhadow.—Hence men eminent for ability, for rank, and for fortune, have been led to view the diftinguished honours of Masonry with indifference, and, when their patronage has been folicited, have accepted offices with reluctance, or rejected them with difdain.

Under these disadvantages has Masonry long laboured, and every zealous friend to the Order must earnestly wish for a correction of the abuse. Of late years it must be acknowledged that Lodges have been better regulated, and the good effects of such government have been displayed in a proper observance of the general regulations.

Were the brethren who prefide over Lodges, properly inftructed previous to their appointment, and regularly apprized of the importance of their refpective offices, a general reformation would fpeedily take place. This would evince the propriety of our mode of government, and lead men to acknowledge, that our honours were defervedly conferred. The ancient confeguence

· Digitized by Google

r.

î.

4

. .

1

5

ż

FČ

quence of the Order would be reftored, and the reputation of the fociety preferved.

Such conduct alone can retrieve our character. Till prudent actions shall distinguish our title to the honours of Masonry, and regular deportment display the influence and utility of our rules; the world in general will not easily be led to reconcile the uniformity of our proceedings with the tenets of our profession.

SECT. VII.

Few Societies exempted from cenfure. Irregularities of Mafons no argument against the Institution.

A MONG the various focieties to which the occafions and inclinations of men have given birth, few, if any, are wholly exempted from cenfure. Friendship, however valuable in itfelf, and however universal its pretensions, has feldom operated fo powerfully in general affociations, as to promote that fincere attachment to the welfare and prosperity of each other, which is neceffary to constitute true happines. This may be associated to fundry causes, but to none with more propriety, than to the reprehensible motives which too frequently lead men to a participation of focial entertainments. If to pass an idle hour, to oblige a friend, of probably bably to gratify an irregular indulgence, we are induced to mix in company, is it furprifing that the important duties of fociety fhould be neglected, and that, in the quick circulation of the cheerful glafs, our nobleft faculties fhould be fometimes buried in the cup of ebriety ?

Google

It is a truth too obvious to be concealed, that the privileges of Masonry have long been proftituted for unworthy confiderations, and hence. their good effects have not been fo confpicuous. Many have been prevailed on to enrol their names in our records for the mere purpofes of conviviality, without once adverting to the propriety of the measure they were about to adopt, or inquiring into the nature of the particular engagements to which they are fubjected by becoming Masons. Not a few have been prompted by motives of interest, and many introduced with no other view than to gratify an idle curiofity, or pleafe as jolly companions. A general odium, or at least a careless indifference, has been the refult of fuch conduct. But here the evil ftops not. Those perfons, ignorant of the true defign of the inftitution, probably without any real defect in their own morals, are induced to recommend others of the fame caft to join the fociety for the fame purpose. Hence the most valuable part of Mafonry forry has been turned into ridicule, and the diffipations of a luxurious age have buried in oblivion principles, that might have dignified the most exalted characters.

When we confider the multitude and variety of members of which the fociety of Mafons is composed, and the small number who are really conversant with the tenets of the institution. our wonder will abate that fo few fhould be diftinguished for exemplary lives. From perfons who are precipitately introduced into the mysteries of Masonry without the requisite qualifications, it cannot be expected that great regard will be paid to the observance of duties which they perceive openly violated by their own initiation. Surely not; and it is an incontrovertible truth, that fuch is the unhappy bias in the difpolition of fome men, that though the fairest and best ideas were imprinted on the mind, they are fo carelefs of their own reputation as to difregard the most instructive lessons. We have reafon to regret, that even perfons diflinguished for a knowledge in the art, have been induced fometimes to violate the rules to which a pretended conformity had gained them No fooner have they been liberated applaufe. from the trammels, as they conceived, of a regular and virtuous conduct, in the temporary government

ċ

ţ.

1

þ

đ

C

ĥ

b

i. L

3

6

4

1 ú

:

2

1

İġ

government of a Lodge, than by improperly abufing the innocent and cheerful repaft, they have become flaves to vice and intemperance, and have not only difgraced themfelves, but reflected difhonour on the fraternity. By fuch indifcretion, the beft of inftitutions has been brought into contempt, and the more deferving part of the community has juftly conceived a prejudice against the fociety, of which it is difficult to wipe off the imprefilion.

Though fome, however, may thus transgress. no wife man will thence argue against the inftitution, or condemn the whole fraternity for the errors of a few miltaken individuals. Were the wicked lives of men admitted as an argument. against the religion which they profess, christianity itfelf, with all its beauties, might be exposed to censure. Thus much we may aver in favour of Masonry, that whatever imperfections may be found among its professors, the institution countenances none. Those who violate the laws, or infringe on good order, are marked with peculiar odium; and when mild endeayours to reform their lives are found ineffectual, they are expelled the Lodge, as unfit members of fociety,

Vain, therefore, is each idle furmise against the plan of Masonry; while its rules are properly

Digitized by Google

perly fupported, it will be proof against every attack of its most inveterate enemies. And men are not aware, that by decrying any laudable fystem, they derogate from the dignity of human nature itfelf, and from that good order and wife difposition of things which the almighty Author of the world has framed for . the government of mankind, and established as the basis of the moral system. Let them recolleft, that friendship and focial delights can never be the object of reproach. That that wifdom which hoary Time has fanctified, can never be the object of ridicule. Whoever therefore pretends to condemn, or even to cenfure, what he does not comprehend, will appear equally mean and contemptible; and the generous heart will readily pity the miftakes of ignorant prefumption.

SECT. VIII.

Charity the diffinguishing characteristic of Masons.

CHARITY is the chief of every focial virtue, and the diffinguishing characteristic of our Order. This virtue includes a fupreme degree of love to the great Creator and Governor of the universe, and an unlimited affection to the beings of his creation, of all characters and of every every denomination. This last duty is forcibly inculcated by the example of the Deity himfelf, who liberally difpenfes his beneficence to unnumbered worlds.

Digitized by Google

It is not particularly our province to enter into a disquisition of every branch of this amiable virtue; we shall only briefly state the happy effects of a benevolent disposition toward mankind, and shew that charity exerted on proper objects is the greatest pleasure man can possibly enjoy.

The bounds of the greatest nation, or the most extensive empire, cannot circumscribe the generosity of a liberal mind. Men, in whatever situation they are placed, are still, in a great measure, the same. They are exposed to similar dangers and missfortunes. They have not wisdom to forese, or power to prevent, the evils incident to human nature. They hang, as it were, in a perpetual sufpense between hope and fear, sickness and health, plenty and want. A mutual chain of dependence subsists throughout the animal creation. The whole human species are therefore proper objects for the exercise of human charity.

Beings who partake of one common nature, ought to be actuated by the fame motives and interefts. Hence, to footh the unhappy, by fympathizing pathizing with their misfortunes, and to reftore peace and tranquillity to agitated fpirits, conftitute the general and great ends of the mafonic inftitution. This humane, this generous difpofition fires the breaft with manly feelings, and enlivens that fpirit of compaffion, which is the glory of the human frame, and not only rivals, but outfhines, every other pleafure the mind is capable of enjoying.

ņ

All human paffions, when directed by the fuperior principle of reason, tend to promote some useful purpose; but compassion toward proper objects, is the most beneficial of all the affections, as it extends to greater numbers, and excites more lasting degrees of happines.

Poffeffed of this amiable, this godlike difpofition, Mafons are fhocked at mifery under every form and appearance. When we behold an object pining under the miferies of a diftreffed body or mind, the healing accents which flow from our tongue, alleviate the pain of the unhappy fufferer, and make even adverfity, in its difmal ftate, look gay. Our pity excited, we affuage grief, and cheerfully relieve diftrefs. When a brother is in want, every heart is prone to ache; when he is hungry, we feed him; when he is naked, we clothe him; when he is in trouble, we fly with fpeed to his relief. Thus

Thus we confirm the propriety of the title we bear, and demonstrate to the world at large, that BROTHER among Masons is something more than an empty name.

SECT. IX.

The difcernment difplayed by Masons in the proper choice of objects of charity.

T must be acknowledged by the most inveterate enemies of Masonry, that no fociety is more remarkable for the practice of charity, or any affociation of men more famed for difinterested liberality. It cannot be faid that Mafons meet only to indulge in convivial mirth, while the poor and needy pine for relief. Their quarterly contributions, exclusive of their private fubscriptions to relieve distress, prove the They are ever ready, in proportion contrary. to their circumstances, cheerfully to contribute to alleviate the misfortunes of their fellow-creatures; but justly confidering the variety of objects, whole feeming diffress the dictates of Nature as well as the ties of Masonry incline them to pity and relieve, they find it neceffary fometimes to inquire into the caufe of their misfortunes; left a misconceived tendernefs.

1

5

T.

ć,

f

ŗ,

I B

ŗ

•

ji Ĵ

r i à

e.

Cť.

į.

3

nefs of disposition, or an impolitic generofity of heart, might prevent them from making a proper diffinction in the objects. Though their hearts and ears are always open to the diftreffes of the deferving poor, yet their charity is not to be mifapplied, or difpenfed with a profuse liberality on perfons who may use Masonry as a cloak to cover imposture. Those who are burdened with a numerous offspring, and who, through age, fickness, infirmity, or any unforefeen accident in life, are reduced to poverty and want, particularly claim their attention, and feldom fail to experience the happy effects of their friendly affociations. To fuch objects, whole fituation is more eafy to be conceived. than expressed, they are induced liberally to extend their bounty. Hence they give convincing proofs of wifdom and difcernment; for though their benevolence, like their laws, be unlimited, yet their hearts glow principally with affection toward the deferving part of mankind.

From this view of the advantages refulting from the profession of Masonry, every candid and impartial mind must acknowledge its Supe-I riority to the-greater part of modern inftitutions; and if the picture here drawn be juft, it; must furely be no triffing acquisition to any government.

Digitized by Google

-25

vernment, or state, to have under its jurifdiction, a fociety of men, who are true patriots, loyal subjects, patrons of science, and friends to mankind.

SECT. X.

Friendly admonitions.

HAVING, in the explanation of the principles of Mafonry, endeavoured to demonftrate its real excellence and utility, I fhall conclude my obfervations with a few friendly admonitions; conceiving that they will be favourably received by my brethren, as they proceed from a fincere attachment to the intereft and reputation of the fociety.

Ufeful knowledge is the great object of our defire; with zeal then let us apply to the practice of Mafonry. Let us recollect, that the ways of wildom are beautiful, and lead to pleafure. Knowledge is attained by degrees, and cannot every where be found. Wildom feeks the fecret fhade, the lonely cell defigned for contemplation. There enthroned the fits, delivering her facred oracles. There let us feek her, and purfue the real blifs. Though the paffage be difficult, the farther we trace it, the eafier it will become.

Dialitized by Google

If

If we are united, the fociety must flourish. Let all private animolities give place to peace and good fellowship. Uniting in one defign, let us be happy ourfelves, and contribute to the happiness of others. By promoting useful arts, let our superiority and distinction be marked ; let us cultivate the moral virtues, and improve in all that is good and amiable; let the Genius of Masonry preside over our conduct, and under her fway let us act with becoming dignity. On every occasion, let us preferve an elevation of understanding, a politeness of manner, and an evennels of temper. Let our recreations be innocent, and purfued with moderation; and never let us fuffer irregular indulgences to impair our faculties, or expose our character to derifion. Thus we shall act in conformity to our precepts, and fupport the name we have long borne, of being a respectable, a regular, and an uniform fociety.

ĩ

ŝ

ī

1

6

ł

EULOGIUM.

MASONRY comprehends within its circle every branch of ufeful knowledge and learning, and juftly ftamps an indelible mark of pre-eminence on its genuine, profeffors, which neither chance, power, nor fortune can beftow. When its rules are ftrictly obferved, it is found C 2 to ILLUSTRATIONS, &c.

to be a fure foundation of tranquillity amidit the various difappointments of life; a friend that will not deceive, but will comfort and affift, in profperity and adverfity; a bleffing that will remain with all times, circumftances, and places, and to which recourfe may be had, when other earthly comforts fink into difregard.

Masonry gives real and intrinsic excellency to man, and renders him fit for the duties of social life. It calms domestic strife; it is company in folitude; and it gives vivacity, variety, and energy to social conversation. In youth, it checks the passions, and employs usefully the most active faculties; and in age, when sickness, imbecility, and disease have benumbed every corporeal sense, and rendered the union of soul and body almost intolerable, a reflection on the time spent in masonic pursuits will yield a perpetual fund of comfort and fatisfaction.

Such are the general advantages of Mafonry; to enumerate them feparately, would be an endlefs labour: it may be fufficient to obferve, that he who is poffeffed of this true fcience, and acts agreeably to the character he bears, has within himfelf the fpring and fupport of every focial virtue; a fubject of contemplation, that enlarges the mind, and expands all its powers; a theme that is inexhauftible, ever new, and always interefting.

· Digitized by Google

[29]

0 F

N -

R -

Y.

S

. M A

ĩ

BOOK II.

GENERAL REMARKS: INCLUDING AN ILLUSTRA-TION OF THE LECTURES; A PARTICULAR DE-SCRIPTION OF THE ANCIENT CEREMONIES; AND THE CHARGES USED IN THE DIFFERENT DEGREES.

SECT. I.

General Remarks.

MASONRY is an art equally ufeful and extensive. In every art there is a mystery, which requires a gradual progression of knowledge to arrive at any degree of perfection in it. Without much instruction, and more exercise, no man can be skilful in any art; in like manner, without an association to the various subjects treated in the different lectures of massionry, no perfon can be sufficiently acquainted with its true value.

C 3

Digitized by Google

It

It must not, however, be inferred from this remark, that perfons who labour under the difadvantages of a confined education, or whose sphere of life requires a more intense application to business or study, are to be discouraged in their endeavours to gain a knowledge of matonry. To qualify an individual to enjoy the benefits of the fociety at large, or to partake of its privileges, it is not absolutely necessary that he should be acquainted with all the intricate parts of the science. These are only intended for the diligent and affiduous mason, who may have leifure and opportunity to indulge such purfuits.

Though fome are more able than others, fome more eminent, fome more ufeful, yet all, in their different fpheres, may prove advantageous to the community; and our neceffities, as well as our conficiences, bind us to love one another. The induffrious tradefman certainly proves kimfelf a valuable member of fociety, and worthy of every honour that we can confer; but as the nature of every man's profettion will not admit of that leifure which is neceffary to qualify him to become an expert Maion, it is highly proper that the official duties of a lodge thould be executed by perfors whole education and fituation in life enable them to become adepts; as it muft

z 1

еż

rk:

рĹ.

លុះ ដេ rż

k:

i.

ń:

DÈ.

回位 ĺœ

1.:

'n.

r.

2¹ء تلق

in E

it C p C

0X

eri

'nŚ

. قناد

h

be allowed, that all who accept offices, and exercife authority, fhould be properly qualified to discharge the task assigned them, with honour to themfelves, and credit to their fundry ftations .- All men are not bleffed with the fame powers, nor the fame advantages; all men therefore are not equally qualified to govern .--Mafonry is wifely calculated to fuit the different ranks and degrees of men, as every one, according to his station and ability, may class with his equal. Founded upon the most generous principles, it admits of no difquietude among its profeffors; each class is happy in its particular affociation; and when all are met in general convention, neither arrogance and prefumption appear on the one hand, nor diffidence and inability on the other. The whole unite in one general plan, to promote that endearing happinefs which conftitutes the effence of civil fociety.

SECT. II.

The Ceremony of opening and closing a Lodge.

IN all regular affemblies of men, who are convened for wife and ufeful purpoles, the commencement and conclusion of buliness are so-C 4 companied companied with fome form. In every country of the world the practice prevails, and is deemed effential. From the most remote periods of antiquity it may be traced, and the refined improvements of modern times have not totally abolished it.

· 31

Ceremonies, when fimply confidered, it is true, are little more than visionary delusions; but their effects are fometimes important .--When they impress awe and reverence on the mind, and engage the attention, by external attraction, to folemn rites, they are interesting objects. These purposes are effected by judicious ceremonies, when regularly conducted and properly arranged. On this ground they have received the fanction of the wifest men in all ages, and confequently could not escape the notice of masons. To begin well, is the most likely means to end well: and it is judicioully remarked, that when order and method are neglected at the beginning, they will be feldom found to take place at the end.

The ceremony of opening and clofing a Lodge with folemnity and decorum, is therefore univerfally admitted among mafons; and though the mode in fome lodges may vary, and in every degree must vary, still an uniformity in the general practice prevails in every lodge; and the variation variation (if any) is folely occafioned by a want of method, which a little application might eafily remove.

Digitized by Google

5

1

ű

Ē.

į

.

Æ

م

ċ

2

Ţ,

p

3

ŀ

Ĵ.

ġ

[¢

3

į.

i c

Ņ

ŕ

ł

To conduct this ceremony with propriety, ought to be the peculiar fludy of every mafon; efpecially of those who have the honour to rule in our affemblies. To perfons who are thus dignified, every eye is naturally directed for propriety of conduct and behaviour; and from them, other brethren, who are less informed, will naturally expect to derive an example worthy of imitation.

From a fhare in this ceremony no mafon can be exempted. It is a general concern, in which all muft affift. This is the firft requeft of the mafter, and the prelude to all bufinefs. No fooner has it been fignified, than every officer repairs to his flation, and the brethren rank according to their degrees. The intent of the meeting becomes the fole object of attention, and the mind is infenfibly drawn from those indiferiminate fubjects of conversation, which are apt to intrude on our lefs ferious moments.

This effect accomplished, our care is directed to the external avenues of the lodge, and the proper officers, whole province it is to difcharge that duty, execute their truft with fidelity; and by certain mystic forms, of no recent date, inti- $C \varsigma$ mate mate that we may fafely proceed. To detect impostors among ourselves, an adherence to order in the character of masons ensues, and the lodge is either opened or closed in folemn form.

34

At opening the lodge, two purposes are wifely effected : the Master is reminded of the dignity of his character, and the brethren of the homage and veneration due from them in their fundry stations. These are not the only advantages refulting from a due observance of this ceremony; a reverential awe for the Deity is inculcated, and the eye fixed on that object, from whofe radiant beams light only can be derived. Here we are taught to adore the God of Heaven, and to supplicate his protection on our wellmeant endeavours. The Master assumes his government in due form, and under him his Wardens; who accept their truft, after the cuftomary falutations, as disciples of one general patron. The brethren then, with one accord, unite in duty. and refpect, and the ceremony concludes.

At closing the lodge, a fimilar form takes place. Here the lefs important duties of mafonry are not paffed over unobserved. The neceffary degree of fubordination in the government of a lodge is peculiarly marked, while the proper tribute of gratitude is offered up to the the beneficent Author of life, and his bleffing invoked, and extended to the whole fraternity. Each brother faithfully locks up the treasure which he has acquired, in his own fecret repofitory; and, pleased with his reward, retires, untainted and uncontaminated, to enjoy, and diffeminate, among the private circle of his friends, the fruits of his labour and industry in the lodge.

Thefe are faint outlines of a ceremony which univerfally prevails among mafons in every country, and diftinguishes all their meetings. It is arranged as a general fection in every degree, and takes the lead in all our illustrations.

A Prayer used at opening the Lodge.

May the favour of Heaven be upon this meeting; and as it is happily begun, may it be conducted with order, and closed with harmony ! Amen.

A Prayer used at closing the Lodge.

May the bleffing of Heaven reft upon us, and all regular mafons! may brotherly love prevail, and every moral and focial virtue cement us! Amen.

C 6 ·

Digitized by Google

Charges

Charges and Regulations for the conduct and behaviour of Masons.

A rehearfal of the ancient charges properly fucceeds the opening, and precedes the clofing, of a lodge. This was the conftant practice of our ancient brethren, and ought never to be neglected in our regular affemblies. A recapitulation of our duty, cannot be difagreeable to those who are acquainted with it; and to those who know it not, should any such be, it must be highly proper to recommend it.

Ancient Charges.

[To be rehearled at opening the Lodge.] On the Management of the Craft in working.

Masons employ themselves diligently in their fundry vocations, live creditably, and conform with cheerfulness to the government of the country in which they refide.

The most expert craftsman is chosen or appointed Master of the work, and is duly ho-noured by those over whom he presides.

The Master, knowing himfelf qualified, undertakes the government of the lodge, and truly difpenses his rewards, giving to every brother the approbation which he merits.

Digitized by Google

A craftiman,

A craftsman, who is appointed Warden of the work under the Master, is true to Master and fellows, carefully oversees the work, and his brethren obey him.

The Master, Wardens, and brethren receive their rewards justly, are faithful, and carefully finish the work they begin, whether it be in the first or second degree; but never put that work to the first, which has been accustomed to the fecond degree.

Neither envy nor cenfure is difcovered among mafons. No brother is fupplanted, or put out of his work, if he be capable to finish it; as no man, who is not perfectly skilled in the original defign, can, with equal advantage to the Master, finish the work begun by another.

All employed in mafonry meekly receive their rewards, and ufe no difobliging name. Brother or fellow are the terms or appellations they beftow on each other. They behave courteoufly within and without the lodge, and never defert the Mafter till the work is finished.

Laws for the government of the Lodge.

[To be rehearfed at opening the Lodge.]

You are to falute one another in a courteous manner, agreeably to the forms eftablished among mafons;

malons *; you are freely to give fuch matual inftructions as shall be thought neceffary or expedient, not being overseen or overheard, without encroaching upon each other, or derogating from that respect which is due to any gentleman, were he not a mason; for though as mafons we rank as brethren on a level, yet mafonry deprives no man of the honour due to his rank or character, but rather adds to his honour, especially if he has deferved well of the fraternity, who always render honour to whom it is due, and avoid ill-manners.

.

Charge

No private committees are to be allowed, or feparate converfations encouraged; the Mafter or Wardens are not to be interrupted, or any brother fpeaking to the Mafter; but due decorum is to be obferved, and a proper refpect paid to the Mafter, and prefiding officers.

These laws are to be firstly enforced, that harmony may be preferved, and the business of the lodge be carried on with order and regularity.

Amen. So mote it be.

* In a lodge, maions meet as members of one family; all prejudices, therefore, on account of religion, country, or private spinion, are removed.

Charge on the behaviour of Mefons.

[To be rehearfed at clofing the Lodge.]

When the Lodge is clofed, you may enjoy yourfelves with innocent mirth; but you are carefully to avoid excefs. You are not to compel any brother to act contrary to his inclination, or give offence by word or deed, but enjoy a free and eafy conversation. You are to use no immoral or obscene discourse, but at all times support with propriety the dignity of your character.

You are to be cautious in your words and carriage, that the most penetrating stranger may not discover, or find out, what is not proper to be intimated; and, if necessary, you are to wave a discourse, and manage it prudently, for the honour of the fraternity.

At home, and in your feveral neighbourhoods, you are to behave as wife and moral men: You are never to communicate to your families, friends, or acquaintance, the private transfactions of our different affemblies; but upon every occasion to confult your own honour, and the reputation of the fraternity at large.

You are to ftudy the prefervation of health, by avoiding irregularity and intemperance, that your

Digitized by Google

ILLUSTRATIONS

your families may not be neglected and injured, or yourfelves difabled from attending to your neceffary employments in life.

If a stranger apply in the character of a mafon, you are cautioully to examine him in fuch a method as prudence may direct, and agreeably to the forms established among masons; that you may not be imposed upon by an ignorant false pretender, whom you are to reject with contempt*, and beware of giving him any fecret hints of knowledge. But if you discover him to be a true and genuine brother, you are to refpect him; if he be in want, you are without prejudice to relieve him, or direct him how he may be relieved; you are to employ him, or recommend him to employment : however, you are never charged to do beyond your ability, only to prefer a poor brother, who is a good man and true, before any other perfon in the fame circumstances +.

Finally.;

• This injunction may frem uncharitable; but when it is confidered that the fecrets of Masonry are open to all men of probity and honour, well recommended, an illegal intruder, who could wifh to obtain that to which he has no claim, and to deprive the public charity of a fmall pittance at his admiffion, deferves no better treatment.

+ On this principle unfortunate captives in war, and fojourners accidentally caft on a diffant thore, are particular objects of atitention.

Digitized by Google

(40

Ľ

t: "

fi

1

ς.γ [5]:

्राः d ा

127 270

. T

. 15

10

......

ģ

F

Π,

5

Finally; Thefe rules you are always to obferve and enforce, and alfo the duties which have been communicated in the lecture; cultivating brotherly love, the foundation and capeftone, the cement and glory of this ancient fraternity; avoiding, upon every occafion, wrangling and quarrelling, flandering and backbiting; not permitting others to flander honeft brethren, but defending their characters, and doing them good offices, as far as may be confiftent with your honour and fafety, but no farther. Hence all may fee the benign influence of mafonry, as all true mafons have done from the beginning of the world, and will do to the end of time.

Amen. So mote it be.

SECT. III.

REMARKS on the FIRST LECTURE.

HAVING illustrated the ceremony of opening and clofing a Lodge, and inferted the Charges and Prayers usually rehearfed in our regular affemblies on these occasions, we shall now tention, and feldom fail to experience indulgence from masons; and, what is very remarkable, there has not been one inftance of a breach of fidelity or ingratitude where that indulgence has been extended.

Digitized by Google

enter

4t

enter on a disquisition of the different Sections of the Lectures appropriated to the three degrees of Masonry, giving a brief summary of the whole, and annexing to every Remark the particulars to which the section alludes. By these means the industrious mason will be instructed in the regular arrangement of the sections in each lecture, and be enabled with more ease to acquire a knowledge of the Art.

The First Lecture of Masonry is divided into fix fections, and each fection into different clauses. Virtue is painted in the most beautiful colours, and the duties of morality are enforced. In it we are taught fuch useful lessons as prepare the mind for a regular advancement in the principles of knowledge and philosophy. These are imprinted on the memory by lively and fensible images, to influence our conduct in the proper discharge of the duties of focial life.

The First Section.

The first fection of this lecture is fuited to all capacities, and may and ought to be known by every perfon who wishes to rank as a mason. It confists of general heads, which, though short and simple, earry weight with them. They not only ferve as marks of distinction, but communicate municate useful and intercsting knowledge when they are duly investigated. They qualify us to try and examine the rights of others to our privileges, while they prove ourselves; and as they induce us to inquire more minutely into other particulars of greater importance, they ferve as an introduction to subjects more amply explained in the following sections.

42

As we can annex to this remark no other explanation confistent with the rules of masonry, we must refer the more inquisitive to our regu-. lar assemblies for farther instruction.

The Second Section.

The fecond fection makes us acquainted with the peculiar forms and ceremonies at the initiation of candidates into malonry; and convinces us, beyond the power of contradiction, of the propriety of our rites; while it demonstrates to the most fceptical and helitating mind, their excellence and utility.

As in this fection we are taught the ceremony of initiation into the Order, the following particulars relative to that ceremony may be here introduced with propriety.

Digitized by Google

A Decla-

ILLUSTRATIONS

44

A Declaration to be affented to by every Candidate, in an adjoining apartment, previous to Initiation.

"Do you ferioufly declare, upon your honour, before these gentlemen", that, unbiaffed by friends against your own inclination, and uninfluenced by mercenary motives, you freely and voluntarily offer yourself a candidate for the mysteries of Masonry?"—I do.

"Do you ferioufly declare, upon your honour, before these gentlemen, that you are solely prompted to solicit the privileges of Masonry, by a favourable opinion conceived of the institution, a defire of knowledge, and a fincere wish, of being ferviceable to your fellow-creatures ?"---I do.

* Do you ferioufly declare, upon your honour, before these gentlemen, that you will cheerfully conform to all the ancient established usages and customs of the fraternity?"—I do.

Candidate is proposed in open lodge, in manner following:

" R. W. Master and brethren,

Digitized by Google

1. 24

"At the request of Mr. A. B. [mentioning his profession and residence] I propose him in form as a proper

* The Stewards of the Lodge.

ÌЭ

1. F. 2.

ii:

ų,

ł

.

ŀ,

2

Ľ,

.

1

.

a proper Candidate for the mysteries of Mafonry; I recommend him, as worthy to partake the privileges of the fraternity; and, in confequence of a declaration of his intentions voluntarily made, and properly attested, I believe he will cheerfully conform to the rules of the Order."

A Prayer used at the Initiation of a Candidate.

"Vouchfafe thine aid, Almighty Father of the Univerfe, to this our prefent convention; and grant that this candidate for mafonry may dedicate and devote his life to thy fervice, and become a true and faithful brother among us! Endue him with a competence of thy divine wifdom, that, by the fecrets of our Art, he may be better enabled to difplay the beauties of godlinefs, to the honour of thy holy Name! Amen."

Note. It is a duty incumbent on every Mafter of a lodge, just before the ceremony of initiation takes place, to inform the candidate of the purpose and defign of the inflitution; to explain the nature of his folemn engagements; and, in a manner peculiar to masons alone, to require his cheerful acquiescence to the duties of morality and virtue, and all the sacred tenets of the Order.

Digitized by Google

The

45.

ILLUSTRATIONS

The Third Section.

The third fection, by the reciprocal communication of our marks of diffinction, proves us to be regular members of the Order; and inculcates those neceffary and instructive duties, which at once dignify our characters in the double capacity of men and masons.

We cannot better illustrate this fection, than by inferting the following Charge at Initiation into the first Degree*.

BROTHER,

46

[As you are now introduced into the firft principles of Maſonry, I congratulate you on being accepted into this ancient and honourable Order : ancient, as having fubfifted from time immemorial; and honourable, as tending, inevery particular, fo to render all men, who will be conformable to its precepts. No inftitution was ever raifed on a better principle, or more folid foundation; nor were ever more excellent rules and ufeful maxims laid down, than are inculcated on all perfons at their initiation into the myſteries of Maſonry. Monarchs, in

* The paragraphs enclosed in brackets [] may be occasionally omitted, if time will not admit of delivering the whole Charge.

Digitized by Google -

all

.

**

1. 15

. . . .

1

5

2

÷

١.

2

d 1

ģ

Ś

2 31

į.

1

2

Ň

ì

ł

all ages, have been encouragers and promoters of the Art, and have never deemed it derogatory from their dignity, to level themfelves with the fraternity, extend their privileges, and patronife their affemblies.]

As a majon you are bound to be a ftrict obferver of the moral law, as contained in the holy writings *; to confider these as the unerring standard of truth and justice, and regulate your life and actions by their divine precepts. Herein is inculcated your duty to God; in never mentioning his name, but with that awe and reverence which is due from a creature to his creator ; to implore his aid in all your laudable undertakings; and to efteem him as the chief fquare, and doing unto him as you wish he fhould do unto you :--- and to yourfelf; in avoid-ing all irregularity and intemperance, which may impair your faculties, or debale the dignity of your profession. A zealous attachment to these duties will enfure public and private efteem.

In the ftate, you are to be a quiet and peaceable fubject, true to your fovereign, and just to your country; you are not to countenance difloyalty or rebellion, but patiently fubmit to

* The Bible; but in countries where it is not known, any other book, or emblem, which is underflood to contain the will of God. legal legal authority, and conform with cheerfulnefs to the government of the kingdom in which you live.

1. N. 1.

.....

2

٢

Ì

11 - 11 - 11

[In your outward demeanour be particularly careful to avoid cenfure or reproach; and beware of thofe who may artfully endeavour to infinuate themfelves into your effeem, with a view to betray your virtuous refolutions, or make you fwerve from the principles of this inflitution. Let not intereft, favour, of prejudice, bias your integrity, or influence you to be guilty of a difhonourable action; but let your conduct and behaviour be regular and uniform, and your deportment fuitable to the dignity of your profeffion.]

Above all, practife benevolence and charity; for by thefe virtues, mafons have been diftinguifhed in every age and country. [The inconceivable pleafure of contributing toward the relief of our fellow-creatures, is truly experienced by perfons of a humane difpofition; who are naturally excited, by fympathy, to extend their aid in alleviation of the miferies of others. This encourages the generous mafon to diftribute his bounty with cheerfulnefs. Supposing himfelf in the fituation of an unhappy fufferer, he liftens to his complaints with attention, bewails his misfortunes, and fpeedily relieves his diffrefs.]

Digitized by Google

The next object of your attention is our excellent Conftitutions. These contain the histoity of masonry from the earliest periods, with an account of illustrious persons who have enriched the Art in different countries; and the laws and charges, by which the brethren have been long governed.

A punctual attendance on our affemblies we next enjoin, especially on the duties of the lodge. to which you may belong. There, as in all other regular meetings of the fraternity, you are to behave with order and decorum, that harmony may be preferved, and the bufiness of masonry be properly conducted. [The rules of good manners you are not to violate; neither are you to use any unbecoming language, in derogation of the name of God, or toward the corruption of good manners: you are not to introduce of maintain any difpute about religion or politics; or behave irreverently while the lodge is engaged in what is ferious and important: but you are to pay a proper deference and refrect to the Mafter and prefiding officers, and diligently apply to your work in the Art, that you may fooner become a proficient therein, as well for your own credit, as the honour of the brethren by whom you have been received.]

Although

11

Although your frequent appearance at our regular meetings is earneftly folicited, yet it is not meant that mafonry fhould interfere with your neceffary vocations; for thefe are on no account to be neglected : neither are you to fuffer your zeal for the inftitution, to lead you into argument with thofe who, through ignorance, may ridicule it. At your leifure hours, you are toftudy the liberal arts and fciences; and that you may improve in mafonic difquifitions, converfe with well-informed brethren, who will be always as ready to give, as you will be to receive, inftruction.

Finally; keep facred and inviolable the myfteries of the Order, as thefe are to diftinguifh you from the reft of the community, and mark your confequence among mafons. If, in the circle of your acquaintance, you find a perfon defirous of being initiated into mafonry, be particularly attentive not to recommend him, unlefs you are convinced he will conform to our rules; that the honour, glory, and reputation of the inftitution may be firmly eftablifhed, and the world at large convinced of its good effects.

[From the attention you have paid to the recital of this charge, we are led to hope that you will effimate the real value of free-mafonry; and always imprint on your mind the dictates of truth, honour, and juftice.]

2

Digitized by Google

The

¥

Ż

ġ

i.

The Fourth Section.

The fourth fection rationally accounts for the origin of our hieroglyphical inftruction, and convinces us of the advantages which will ever accompany a faithful obfervance of our duty; it illustrates, at the fame time, certain particulars, of which our ignorance might lead us into error, and which, as masons, we are indisponsably bound to know.

To make a daily progrefs in the Art, is our conftant duty, and expressly required by our general laws. What end can be more noble, than the purfuit of virtue ? what motive more alluring, than the practice of juffice? or what instruction more beneficial, than an accurate elucidation of fymbolical mysteries which tend to embellish and adorn the mind ? Every thing that strikes the eye, more immediately engages the attention, and imprints on the memory ferious and folemn truths; hence mafons, univerfally adopting this method of inculcating the tenets of their Order by typical figures and allegorical emblems, prevent their mysteries from descending into the familiar reach of inattentive and unprepared novices, from whom they might not receive due veneration.

D 2

Digitized by Google

Our

Our records inform us, that the ulages and cuftoms of mafons have ever corresponded with those of the Egyptian philosophers, to which they bear a near affinity. Unwilling to expose their mysteries to vulgar eyes, they concealed their particular tenets, and principles of polity, under hieroglyphical figures; and expressed their notions of government by figns and fymbols, which they communicated to their Magi alone, who were bound by oath not to reveal them. The Pythagorean fystem feems to have been eftablished on a similar plan, and many orders of a more recent date. Masonry, however, is not only the most ancient, but the most moral inftitution that ever fubfifted; every character, figure, and emblem, depicted in a Lodge, has a moral tendency, and inculcates the practice of virtue.

.

2

3

[This fection closes with a definition of charity, for which fee page 21.]

The Fifth Section.

The fifth fection explains the nature and principles of our conflitution, and teaches us to difcharge with propriety the duties of the different departments which we are nominated to fuftain in the government of a lodge. Here, too, too, our ornaments are difplayed, our jewels and furniture fpecified, and a proper attention is paid to our ancient and venerable patrons.

To this remark little can be added, to explain the fubject of the fection, or affift the induftrious malon to acquire it. A punctual attendance on the duties of a lodge, we recommend as the most effectual means to enable him to become master of it; and a diligent application to the truths it demonstrates, will always incline him to improve by the example of the original patrons of the Art.

The Sixth Section.

The fixth fection, though the last in rank, is not the least confiderable in importance. It ftrengthens those which precede, and enforces, in the most engaging manner, a due regard to character and behaviour in public, as well as in private life; in the lodge, as well as in the general commerce of fociety.

This fection forcibly inculcates the moft inftructive leffons. Brotherly love, relief, and truth, are themes on which we here expatiate; and the cardinal virtues efcape not our notice.—By the exercise of brotherly love, we are taught to regard the whole human species as one family, the high and low, the D 3 rich rich and poor; who, as created by one Almighty Parent, and inhabitants of the fame planet, are to aid, fupport, and protect each other. On this principle, masonry unites men of every country, fect, and opinion, and conciliates true friendship among those who might otherwise have remained at a perpetual diftance.-Relief is the next tenet of our profession. To relieve the diftreffed, is a duty incumbent on all men; but particularly on mafons, who are linked together by an indiffoluble chain of fincere affection. To footh the unhappy, to fympathife with their misfortunes, to compaffionate their miferies, and to reftore peace to their troubled minds, is the grand aim we have in view. On this bafis, we establish our friendships, and form our connexions .- Truth is a divine attribute, and the foundation of every virtue. To be good and true, is the first lesson we are taught in mafonry. On this theme we contemplate, and by its dictates endeavour to regulate our conduct : hence, influenced by this principle, hypocrify and deceit are unknown, fincerity and plain-dealing diftinguish us, and the heart and tongue join in promoting each other's welfare, and rejoicing in each other's profperity.

3

To this illustration fucceeds an explanation of the four cardinal virtues—temperance, fortitude, prudence, prudence, and justice .- By the first, we are inftructed to govern the paffions, and check unruly defires. The health of the body, and the dignity of the fpecies, are equally concerned in a faithful observance of it.-By the fecond, we are taught to relift temptation, and encounter danger with fpirit and refolution. This virtue is equally diftant from rafhnefs and cowardice; and whoever poffeffes it, is feldom Ihaken, and never overthrown, by the ftorms that furround him .- By the third, we are instructed to regulate our conduct by the dictates of reason, and to judge and determine with propriety in the execution of every thing that may tend to promote either prefent or future well-being. On this virtue all the others depend; it is therefore the chief jewel that can adorn the human frame .--- Justice is the boundary of right, and conftitutes the cement of civil fociety. Without the exercise of this virtue, universal confusion would ensue: lawless force would overcome the principles of equity, and focial intercourse no longer exist. As justice in a great measure constitutes the real good man, fo it is reprefented as the perpetual fludy of the accomplifhed mafon.

The illustration of these virtues is accompanied with some general observations on the equa-D 4 lity

i

ILLUSTRATIONS

lity observed among masons.-In our affemblies no estrangement of behaviour is discovered. An uniformity of opinion, which is useful in exigencies, and pleafing in familiar life, univerfally prevails, ftrengthens all the ties of friendship, and equally promotes love and efteem. Masons are brethren by a double tie, and among brothers should exist no invidious distinctions. Though merit be always refpected, and honour rendered to whom it is due, the fame principles govern all .- A king is reminded, that although a crown may adorn his head, or a fceptre his hand, the blood in his veins is derived from the common parent of mankind, and is no better than that of the meaneft fubject .- The wifest fenator, or the most skilful artist, is taught, that, equally with others, he is by nature expofed to infirmity and difeafe; and that an unforeseen misfortune, or a disordered frame, may impair his faculties, and level him with the most ignorant of his fpecies. This checks pfide, and incites courtefy of behaviour .- Men of inferior talents, or not placed by fortune in fuch exalted stations, are instructed to regard their fuperiors with peculiar efteem, when they behold them, divested of pride, vanity, and external grandeur, condescending, in the badge of innocence and bond of friendship, to trace wifdom.

1

wifdom, and follow virtue, affifted by those who are of a rank beneath them. Virtue is true nobility, and wifdom the channel by which virtue is directed and conveyed; wifdom and virtue only can diftinguish masons.

Such is the arrangement of the different fections in the First Lecture, which, with the forms adopted at the opening and closing of a lodge, comprehends the whole of the First Degree of masonry. This plan has the advantage of regularity to recommend it, the support of precedent and authority, and the fanction and respect which flow from antiquity. The whole is a regular fystem of morality, conceived in a strain of interesting allegory, which must unfold its beauties to the candid and industrious inquirer.

SECT. IV.

REMARKS on the SECOND LECTURE.

MASONRY is a progreffive fcience, and is divided into different claffes or degrees, for the more regular advancement in the knowledge of its myfteries. According to the progrefs we make, we limit or extend our inquiries; and, in proportion to our capacity, we attain to a lefs or greater degree of perfection.

D 5

Digitized by Google

Mafonry

Mafonry includes within its circle almoft every branch of polite learning. Under the veil of its myfteries, is comprehended a regular fyftem of fcience. Many of its illuftrations, to the confined genius, may appear unimportant; but the man of more enlarged faculties will perceive them to be, in the higheft degree, ufeful and interefting. To pleafe the accomplifhed fcholar, and ingenious artift, mafonry is wifely planned; and, in the inveftigation of its latent doctrines, the philofopher and mathematician may experience equal delight and fatisfaction.

To exhauft the various fubjects of which it treats, would transferend the powers of the brighteft genius; ftill, however, nearer approaches to perfection may be made, and the man of wifdom will not check the progress of his abilities, though the task he attempts may at first feem infurmountable. Perfeverance and application remove each difficulty as it occurs; every step he advances, new pleasures open to his view, and instruction of the nobless kind attend his refearches. In the diligent pursuit of knowledge, the intellectual facultics are employed, in promoting the glory of God, and the good of man.

Digitized by Google

Such

Such is the refult of every illustration in mafonry. Reverence for the Deity, and gratitude for the bleffings of heaven, are inculcated in every degree. This is the termination of our inquiries, and beyond these limits our capacities cannot reach.

The first degree is well calculated to enforce the duties of morality, and imprint on the memory the nobleft principles which can adorn the human mind. It is therefore the best introduction to the fecond degree, which not only extends the fame plan, but comprehends a more diffusive system of knowledge. Here practice and theory join, in qualifying the industrious mason to share the pleasures which an advancement in the Art must necessarily afford. Listening with attention to the wife opinions of experienced craftsmen on important subjects, he gradually familiarifes his mind to useful instruction, and is foon enabled to investigate truths of the utmost concern in the general transactions of life.

From this fystem proceeds a rational amufement; while the mental powers are fully employed, the judgment is properly exercised. A fpirit of emulation prevails; and all are induced to vie, who shall most excel in promoting the valuable rules of the institution.

D 6

Digitized by Google

The

ILLUSTRATIONS

The First Section.

The first fection of the fecond degree accurately elucidates the mode of introduction into that particular class; and instructs the diligent craftiman how to proceed in the proper arrangement of the ceremonies used on the occasion. It qualifies him to judge of their importance, and convinces him of the neceffity of ftrictly adhering to every established usage of the Order. Here he is entrusted with particular tests, to en-. able him to prove his title to the privileges of this degree, while fatisfactory reafons are given for their origin. Many duties, which cement in the firmest union well-informed brethren, are illustrated in this fection; and an opportunity is given to make fuch advances in mafonry, as will always diftinguish the abilities of those who have arrived at preferment.

The knowledge of this fection is abfolutely neceffary for all craftsmen; and as it recapitulates the ceremony of initiation, and contains many other important particulars, no officer of a lodge should be unacquainted with it.

Digitized by Google

Charge

Charge at Initiation into the Second Degree *.

BROTHER,

Being advanced to the fecond degree of mafonry, we congratulate you on your preferment. [The internal, and not the external, qualifications of a man, are what mafonry regards. As you increase in knowledge, you will improve in focial intercourfe.

It is unneceffary to recapitulate the duties which, as a mafon, you are bound to difcharge; or enlarge on the neceffity of a ftrict adherence to them, as your own experience must have eftablished their value. It may be fufficient to obferve, that] Your pass behaviour and regular deportment have merited the honour which we have now conferred; and in your new character, it is expected that you will conform to the principles of the Order, by steadily perfevering in the practice of every commendable virtue.

The fludy of the liberal arts [that valuable branch of education, which tends fo effectually to polifh and adorn the mind] is earneftly recommended to your confideration; effectially the fcience of geometry, which is effablifhed as

* The featences included in brackets [.] may be occasionally omitted.

Digitized by Google

the

бі

the bafis of our Art. [Geometry, or Mafonry, originally fynonymous terms, being of a divine and moral nature, is enriched with the moft ufeful knowledge; while it proves the wonderful properties of nature, it demonstrates the more important truths of morality.]

The folemnity of our ceremonies requires from you a ferious deportment; you are therefore to be particularly attentive to your behaviour in our regular affemblies; to preferve our ancient ufages and cuftoms facred and inviolable; and induce others, by your example, to hold them in veneration.

Our laws and regulations you are ftrenuoufly to fupport; and be always ready to affift in feeing them duly executed. You are not to palliate, or aggravate, the offences of your brethren; but, in the decifion of every trefpafs againft our rules, you are to judge with candour, admonifh with friendfhip, and reprehend with juffice.

In our private affemblies, as a craftiman, you may offer your fentiments and opinions on fuch fubjects as are regularly introduced in the Lecture; and by this privilege, you may improve your intellectual powers; qualify yourfelf to become an ufeful member of foeiety; and, like a fkilful brother, ftrive to excel in every thing that is good and great.

[All

ł

.

б2

[* All regular figns and fummonfes, given and received, you are duly to honour, and punctually to obey; inafmuch as they confift with our profeffed principles. You are to fupply the wants, and relieve the neceffities, of your brethren, to the utmost of your power and ability: and on no account are you to wrong them, or to fee them wronged; but apprife them of approaching danger, and view their interest as infeparable from your own.

Such is the nature of your engagements as a craftiman; and to thefe duties you are bound by the most facred ties.]

3

The Second Section.

The fecond fection of this degree prefents an ample field for the man of genius to perambulate. It curforily fpecifies the particular claffes of mafonry, and explains the requifite qualifications for preferment in each. In the explanation of our ufages, many remarks are introduced, equally ufeful to the experienced artift and the fage moralift. The various operations of the mind are demonstrated, as far as they will admit of elucidation, and a fund of extensive fcience is explored throughout. Here we find

* This and the following paragraph are to be omitted, if previoufly used in the course of the ceremony.

employment

1 ģ

k

5

1

E-- 10

emloyment for leifure hours, trace feience from its original fource, and, drawing the attention to the fum of perfection, contemplate with admiration on the wonderful works of the Creator. Geometry is difplayed, with all its powers and properties; and, in the difquifition of this feience, the mind is filled with pleafure and delight. Such is the latitude of this fection, that the most judicious may fail in an attempt to explain it, as the rational powers are exerted to their utmost ftretch, in illustrating the beauties of nature, and demonstrating the more important truths of morality.

The orders of architecture come under confideration in this fection; a brief defcription of them may therefore not be improper.

By order in architecture, is meant a fyftem of all the members, proportions, and ornaments of columns and pilafters; or, it is a regular arrangement of the projecting parts of a building, which, united with those of a column, form a beautiful, perfect, and complete whole. From the first formation of fociety, order in architecture may be traced. When the rigour of feasons obliged men to contrive shelter from the inclemency of the weather, we learn that they first planted trees on end, and then laid others across, to support a covering.

64

covering. The bands which connected those trees at top and bottom, is faid to have given rife to the idea of the base and capital of pillars; and, from this fimple hint, originally proceeded the more improved art of architecture.

The five orders are thus claffed : the Tuscan, Doric, Ionic, Corinthian, and Composite.

The Tufcan is the moft fimple and folid of the five orders. It was invented in Tufcany, whence it derives its name. Its column is feven diameters high; and its capital, bafe, and entablature have but few mouldings. The fimplicity of the conftruction of this column renders it eligible where ornament would be fuperfluous.

The Doric order, which is plain and natural, is the moft ancient, and was invented by the Greeks. Its column is eight diameters high, and has feldom any ornaments on bafe or capital, except mouldings; though the frieze is diftinguifhed by triglyphs and metopes, and the triglyphs compose the ornaments of the frieze. The folid composition of this order, gives it a preference, in ftructures where ftrength, and a noble fimplicity, are chiefly required.

The Doric is the best proportioned of all the orders. The feveral parts of which it is composed are founded on the natural position of folid bodies. In its first invention it was more fimple fimple than in its prefent ftate. In after-times, when it began to be adorned, it gained the name of Doric; for when it was conftructed in its primitive and fimple form, the name of Tufcan was conferred on it. Hence the Tufcan precedes the Doric in rank, on account of its refemblance to that pillar in its original ftate.

66 ILLUSTRATIONS

The lonic bears a kind of mean proportion between the more folid and delicate orders. Its column is nine diameters high; its capital is adorned with volutes, and its cornice has denticles. There is both delicacy and ingenuity difplayed in this pillar; the invention of which is attributed to the Ionians, as the famous temple of Diana at Ephefus was of this order. It is faid to have been formed after the model of an agreeable young woman, of an elegant fhape, dreffed in her hair; as a contraft to the Doric order, which was formed after that of a ftrong yobuft man.

The Corinthian, the richeft of the five orders, is deemed a mafter-piece of art, and was invented at Corinth by Callimachus. Its column is ten diameters high, and its capital is adorned with two rows of leaves, and eight volutes, which fuftain the abacus. The frieze is ornamented with curious devices, the cornice with denticles and modillions. This order is ufed in ftately and fuperb ftructures.

Callimachus

.

.

....

Callimachus is faid to have taken the hint of the capital of this pillar from the following remarkable circumftance. Accidentally paffing by the tomb of a young lady, he perceived a bafket of toys, covered with a tile placed over an acanthus root, having been left there by her nurfe. As the branches grew up, they encompaffed the bafket, till, arriving at the tile, they met with an obftruction, and bent downwards. Callimachus, ftruck with the object, fet about imitating the figure ; the vafe of the capital he made to reprefent the bafket ; the abacus, the tile ; and the volute, the bending leaves.

4

1

1

ł

1

2

The Composite is compounded of the other orders, and was contrived by the Romans. Its capital has the two rows of leaves of the Corinthian, and the volutes of the Ionic. Its column has the quarter-round as the Tufcan and Doric orders, is ten diameters high, and its cornice has denticles or fimple modillions. This pillar is generally found in buildings, where ftrength, elegance, and beauty are difplayed.

The ancient and original orders of architecture, revered by masons, are no more than three, the Doric, Ionic, and Corinthian. To these the Romans have added two, the Tuscan, which they made plainer than the Doric; and the Composite, which was more ornamental, if not more

2

÷

Зţ

1

Ň,

Ś

7

more beautiful, than the Corinthian. The first three orders alone, however, shew invention and particular character, and effentially differ from each other: the two others have nothing but what is borrowed, and differ only accidentally; the Tuscan is the Doric in its earlieft state; and the Composite is the Corinthian enriched with the Ionic. To the Greeks, and not to the Romans, we are indebted for what is great, judicious, and distinct in architecture.

These observations are intended to induce the industrious craftsman to pursue his refearches into the rise and progress of architecture, by confulting the works of learned writers professedly upon the subject.

An analysis of the human faculties is also given in this fection, in which the five external fenses particularly claim attention.

When these topics are proposed in our affemblies, we are not confined to any peculiar mode of explanation; every man being at liberty to offer his sentiments under proper restrictions. The following thoughts on this important branch of learning may, however, be useful:

The fenfes we are to confider as the gifts of Nature, and though not the acquisition of our reafoning faculty, yet, in the use of them, are still subject fubject to reason. Reason, properly employed, confirms the documents of Nature, which are always true and wholesome : the diftinguishes the good from the bad; rejects the last with modesty, adheres to the first with reverence.

2

The objects of human knowledge are innumerable ; the channels by which this knowledge is conveyed, are few. Among thefe, the perception of external things by the fenfes, and the information we receive from human testimony, are not the leaft confiderable; the analogy between them, is obvious. In the testimony of Nature given by the fenses, as well as in human teftimony given by information, things are fignified by figns. In one as well as the other, the mind, either by original principles or by cuftom, passes from the fign to the conception and belief of the thing fignified. The figns in the natural language, as well as the figns in our original perceptions, have the fame fignification in all climates and nations, and the skill of interpreting them, is not acquired, but innate.

Having made these observations, we shall proceed to give a brief description of the five sense.

Hearing is that fenfe by which we diftinguish founds, and are capable of enjoying all the agreeable charms of music. By it we are enabled to enjoy the pleasures of fociety, and reciprocally to communicate to each other, our thoughts and intentions, our purposes and defires; while our reason is capable of exerting its utmost power and energy.

The wife and beneficent Author of Nature intended, by the formation of this fenfe, that we fhould be focial creatures, and receive the greateft and most important part of our knowledge by the information of others. For these purposes we are endowed with hearing, that, by a proper exertion of our rational powers, our happines may be complete.

1.1.1

.

÷

1

Ċ

ч(

ŝ,

i.

ť

Seeing is that fenfe by which we diffinguish objects, and in an inftant of time, without change of place or fituation, view armies in battle array, figures of the most stately structures, and all the agreeable variety difplayed in the landscape of nature. By this fense we find our way in the pathlefs ocean, traverfe the globe of earth, determine its figure and dimensions, and delineate any region or quarter of it. By it we meafure the planetary orbs, and make new difcoveries in the fphere of the fixed ftars. Nav more; by it we perceive the tempers and dispositions, the paffions and affections, of our fellowcreatures, when they wish most to conceal them, fo that though the tongue might be taught to lie and diffemble, the countenance would difplay play the hypocrify to the difcerning eye. In fine, the rays of light, which administer to this fense, are the most astonishing parts of the inanimate creation, and render the eye a peculiar object of admiration.

Of all the faculties, fight is the nobleft. The ftructure of the eye, and its appurtenances, evince the admirable contrivance of Nature for performing all its various external and internal motions, while the variety difplayed in the eyes of different animals, fuited to their feveral ways of life, clearly demonstrates this organ to be the master-piece of Nature's work.

Feeling is that fenfe by which we diffinguish the different qualities of bodies; fuch as heat "and cold, hardness and softness, roughness and smoothness, figure, folidity, motion, and extension; which, by means of certain corresponding fensations of touch, are presented to the mind as real external qualities, and the conception or belief of them is invariably connected with those corresponding fensations, by an original principle of human nature, which far tranfcends our inquiry.

All knowledge beyond our original perceptions is got by experience. The conftancy of Nature's laws connects the fign with' the thing fignified, and we rely on the continuance of that connection which experience hath difcovered.

Digitized by Google

Thefe

These three senses, hearing, feeing, and feeling, are deemed peculiarly effential among masons.

Smelling is that fenfe by which we diftinguish odours, the various kinds of which convey different impressions to the mind. Animal and vegetable bodies, and indeed most other bodies, while exposed to the air, continually fend forth effluvia of vaft fubtilty, as well in the ftate of life and growth, as in the ftate of fermentation and putrefaction. The volatile particles probably repel each other, and fcatter themfelves in the air, till they meet with other bodies to which they bear a chemical affinity, with which they unite, and form new concretes. These effluvia being drawn into the nostrils along with the air, are the means by which all bodies are fmelled. Hence it is evident, that there is a manifest appearance of defign in the great Creator's having planted the organ of fmell in the infide of that canal, through which the air continually paffes in refpiration.

Taffing enables us to make a proper diffinction in the choice of our food. The organ of this fenfe guards the entrance of the alimentary canal, as that of fmell guards the entrance of the canal for refpiration. From the fituation of both thefe organs, it is plain that they were intended by Nature to diffinguish wholesome food from from that which is naufcous. Every thing that enters into the ftomach must undergo the fcrutiny of Tasting; and by it we are capable of difcerning the changes which the fame body undergoes in the different compositions of art, cookery, chemistry, pharmacy, &c.

Google

Smelling and Tafting are infeparably connected, and it is by the unnatural kind of life men commonly lead in fociety, that these fenses are rendered less fit to perform their natural offices.

1

The proper use of these five fenses enables us to form just and accurate notions of the operations of Nature; and when we reflect on the objects with which our fenses are gratified, we become confcious of them, and are enabled to attend to them, till they become familiar objects of thought.

The fenfes, and indeed all the operations of the mind, are fo difficult to understand, and to analife, that the most judicious may fail in the attempt to explain them. The mind is ultimately affected by the fenses; when that is difeased, every fense loses its virtue. The fabric of the mind, as well as that of the body, is curious and wonderful; the faculties of the one are adapted to their several ends with equal wisdom, and no less propriety, than the organs of the E other.

ILLUSTRATIONS

other. The inconceivable wifdom of an Almighty Being is difplayed in the ftructure of the mind, which extends its power over every branch of fcience; and is therefore a theme peculiarly worthy of attention. In the arts and fciences which have least connexion with the mind, its faculties are ftill the engines which we must employ; the better we understand their nature and ufe, their defects and diforders, we shall apply them with the greater fuccefs. In the nobleft arts, the mind is the fubject upon which we operate.

3

1

.....

Wife men agree, that there is but one way to the knowledge of Nature's works—the way of obfervation and experiment. By our conftitution we have a ftrong propenfity to trace particular facts and obfervations to general rules, and to apply those rules to account for other effects, or to direct us in the production of them. This procedure of the underftanding is familiar to every human creature in the common affairs of life, and is the only means by which any real discovery in philosophy can be made.

On the mind all our knowledge must depend; what, therefore, can be a more proper fubject for the investigation of masons? By anatomical diffection and observation, we become acquainted with the body; but it is by the anatomy of the mind alone we discover its powers and principles.

Digitized by Google

1

To fum up the whole of this transcendent measure of God's bounty to man, we shall add, that memory, imagination, taste, reasoning, moral perception, and all the active powers of the foul, present a vast and boundless field for philofophical disquisition, which far exceeds human inquiry, and are peculiar mysteries, known only to Nature, and to Nature's God, to whom we and all are indebted for creation, preservation, and every bleffing we enjoy.

From this theme we proceed to illustrate the moral advantages of Geometry; a fubject on which the following observations may not be unacceptable.

į,

.

Geometry, the first and noblest of fciences, is the bafis on which the fuperstructure of masonry is erected. By geometry, we may curioufly trace Nature, through her various windings, to her most concealed recesses. By it, we may difcover the power, the wifdom, and the goodnefs of the grand Artificer of the universe, and view with delight the proportions which connect this vaft machine. By it, we may discover how the planets move in their different orbits, and demonstrate their various revolutions. By it, we may account for the return of feafons, and the variety of fcenes which each feafon difplays to the difcerning eye. Numberlefs worlds are around us, all framed E 2 framed by the fame Divine Artist, which roll through the vast expanse, and are all conducted by the fame unerring laws of Nature.

,

A furvey of Nature, and the obfervation of her beautiful proportions, first determined man to imitate the divine plan, and study symmetry and order. This gave rife to societies, and birth to every useful art. The architect began to defign, and the plans which he laid down, being improved by experience and time, have produced works which are the admiration of every age.

The Third Section.

The third fection of this degree has recourse to the origin of the inftitution, and views mafonry under two denominations, operative and fpeculative. These are separately confidered, and the principles on which both are founded, particularly explained. Their affinity is pointed out, by allegorical figures, and typical reprefentations. Here the rife of our government, or division into classes; is examined; the disposition of our rulers, fupreme and fubordinate, is traced; and reasons are affigned for the eftablishment of several of our present practices. The progrefs made in architecture, particularly in the reign of Solomon, is remarked; the number of artifts employed employed in building the temple of Jerufalem, and the privileges which they enjoyed, are fpecified; the period ftipulated for rewarding merit is fixed, and the inimitable moral to which that circumftance alludes, is explained; the creation of the world is defcribed; and many particulars recited, all of which have been carefully preferved among mafons, and tranfmitted from one age to another by oral tradition. In fhort, this fection contains a flore of valuable knowledge, founded on reafon and facred record, both entertaining and inftructive. The whole operates powerfully in enforcing the veneration due to antiquity.

Digitized by Google

We can afford little affiftance by writing to the industrious mason in this section; it can only be acquired by oral communication: for an explanation, however, of the connection between operative and speculative masonry, we refer him to the Fourth Section of Book I. page 10.

The Fourth Section.

The fourth and laft fection of this degree is no lefs replete with ufeful inftruction. Circumftances of great importance to the fraternity are here particularifed, and many traditional tenets and cuftoms confirmed by facred and profane E_2 record.

Digitized by Google

78

record. The celeftial and terreftrial globes are confidered with a minute accuracy; and here the accomplified gentleman may difplay his talents to advantage, in the elucidation of the fciences, which are claffed in a regular arrangement. The mode of rewarding merit is pointed out; the marks of diftinction which were conferred on our ancient brethren, as the reward of excellence, are named; and the duties, as well as the privileges, of the first branch of their male offspring, defined. This fection alfo contains obfervations on the validity of our forms, and concludes with the most powerful incentives to the practice of piety and virtue.

The feven liberal arts and fciences are illuftrated in this fection, it may not therefore be improper to infert here a thort explanation of them. Grammar teaches the proper arrangement of words according to the idiom or dialect of any particular people; and that excellency of pronunciation, which enables us to fpeak or write a language with accuracy, agreeably to reafon, and correct ufage.

Rhetoric teaches us to fpeak copioufly and fluently on any fubject, not merely with propriety alone, but with all the advantages of force and and elegance; wifely contriving to captivate the hearer by firength of argument and beauty of expression, whether it be, to intreat and exhort, to admonish or applaud.

Logic teaches us to guide our reafon difcretionally in the general knowledge of things, and direct our inquiries after truth. It confifts of a regular train of argument, whence we infer, deduce, and conclude, according to certain premifes laid down, admitted, or granted; and in it are employed, the faculties of conceiving, judging, reafoning, and difpofing; all of which are naturally led on from one gradation to another, till the point in queftion is finally determined.

.

-

.

4

Arithmetic teaches the powers and properties of numbers, which is varioufly effected, by letters, tables, figures, and infruments. By this art, reafons and demonstrations are given, for finding out any certain number, whole relation or affinity to another, is already known or difcovered.

Geometry treats of the powers and properties of magnitudes in general, where length, breadth, and thicknefs, are confidered. By this fcience, the architect is enabled to conftruct his plans, and execute his defigns; the general to arrange his foldiers; the engineer to mark out ground for encampments; the geographer to give us E 4.

the dimensions of the world, and all things therein contained, to delineate the extent of seas, and specify the divisions of empires, kingdoms, and provinces; by it, also, the aftronomer is enabled to make his observations, and to fix the duration of times and seasons, years and cycles. In fine, geometry is the foundation of architecture, and the root of the mathematics.

Mufic teaches the art of forming concords, fo as to compose delightful harmony, by a mathematical and proportional arrangement of acute, grave, and mixed founds. This art, by a feries of experiments, is reduced to a demonftrative fcience, with respect to tones, and the intervals of found only. It inquires into the nature of concords and discords, and enables us to find out the proportion between them by numbers.

2.2 2.5

Aftronomy is that divine art, by which we are taught to read the wifdom, ftrength, and beauty of the almighty Creator, in those facred pages, the celestial hemisphere. Affisted by aftronomy, we can observe the motions, measure the distances, comprehend the magnitudes, and calculate the periods and eclipse, of the heavenly bodies. By it, we learn the use of the globes, the system of the world, and the primary law of nature. While we are employed in the study of this fcience, we must perceive unparalleled inftances of wifdom and goodnefs, and, through the whole of creation, trace the glorious Author by his works.

80

The doctrine of the fpheres is included in the fcience of aftronomy, and particularly confidered in this fection.

The globes are two artificial fpherical bodies, on the convex furface of which are represented the countries, feas, and various parts of the earth, the face of the heavens, the planetary revolutions, and other important particulars. The fphere, with the parts of the earth delineated on its furface, is called the terrestrial globe; and that with the conftellations, and other heavenly bodies, the celeftial globe. Their principal use, befide ferving as maps to diftinguish the outward parts of the earth, and the fituation of the fixed ftars, is to illustrate and explain the phenomena arising from the annual revolution, and the diurnal rotation, of the earth round its own axix. They are the nobleft inftruments for improving the mind, and giving it the most distinct idea of any problem or propofition, as well as enabling it to folve the fame. Contemplating these bodies, we are inspired E 5 with with a due reverence for the Deity and his works, and are induced to apply with diligence and attention to aftronomy, geography, navigation, and the arts dependent on them, by which fociety has been fo much benefited.

Thus end the different fections of the fecond lecture, which, with the ceremony uicd at opening and clofing the lodge, comprehend the whole of the fecond degree of Mafonry. This lecture contains a regular fystem of science, demonstrated on the clearest principles, and founded on the most stable foundation.

SECT. V.

REMARKS on the THIRD LECTURE.

3

2

ż

ę

à

ż

IN treating with propriety on any fubject, it is neceffary to obferve a regular courfe. In the two firft degrees of mafonry, we have recapitulated the contents of the feveral fections, and fhould willingly have purfued the fame plan in the third degree, did not the variety of particulars of which it is composed, render it impossible to give an abstract, without violating the laws of mafonry. It may be fufficient to remark, that, in twelve fections, of which the lecture confifts, every circumstance that respects our government, and and the mode of our proceedings either on private or public occafions, is fatisfactorily explained. Among the brethren of this degree, the landmarks of the Order are preferved; and from them may be expected that fund of information, which expert and ingenious craftimen only can afford, whofe judgment has been matured by years and experience. To a complete knowledge of this lecture, few arrive; but it is an infallible truth, that he who acquires by merit the mark of preeminence which this degree affords, will receive a reward which amply compensates all his paft diligence and affiduity.

From this clafs, our rulers are felected; as it only from those who are capable of giving instruction, that we can properly expect to receive it.

The First Section.

The ceremony of initiation into the third degree, is particularly specified in this branch of the lecture, and here many other useful instructions are given.

Such is the importance of this fection, that we may fafely declare, that the perfon who is unacquainted with it, is ill qualified to act as a ruler or governor of the work.

Еб

Prayer

ILLUSTRATIONS

Prayer at Initiation into the Third Degree.

O Lord, direct us to know and ferve thee aright; profper our laudable undertakings; and grant, that, as we increase in knowledge, we may improve in virtue, and still farther promote thy honour and glory! Amen.

Charge at Initiation into the Third Degree.

BROTHER,

Your zeal for the inftitution of mafonry, the progrefs you have made in the myftery, and your ftedfaft conformity to our regulations, have pointed you out as a proper object of our favour and efteem.

You are now bound by duty, honour, and gratitude, to be faithful to your truft; to fupport the dignity of your character on every occation; and to enforce, by precept and example, obedience to the teners of the Order. Exemplary conduct is expected from you, to convince the world, that merit is the title to our privileges, and that on you our favours are not undefervedly beftowed.

In the character of a Mafter-mafon, you are authorifed to correct the errors and irregularities

Digitized by Google

of 1

1

2

3

.

of your uninformed brethren, and to guard them against a breach of fidelity, and every allurement to vicious practices. To preferve the reputation of the fraternity unfullied, must be your conftant care; and for this purpose, it is your province, to recommend to your inferiors, obedience and fubmiffion; to your equals, courtefy and affability; to your fuperiors, kindnefs and condescension. Universal benevolence you are always to inculcate; and, by the regularity of your own behaviour, afford the best example for the conduct of others lefs informed. The ancient landmarks of the Order, intrusted to your care, you are carefully to preferve; and while you caution the inexperienced against a breach of fidelity, never fuffer them to be infringed, or countenance a deviation from the eftablished ulages and cultoms of the fraternity.

Your virtue, honour, and reputation, are concerned, in fupporting, with dignity, the refpectable character you now bear. Let no motive, therefore, make you fwerve from your duty, violate your vows, or betray your truft; but be true and faithful, and imitate the example of that celebrated artift, whom you have this evening reprefented. Thus you will render yourfelf deferving of the honour which we have conferred, and merit the confidence that we have repofed.

Digitized by Google

The

The Second Section.

The fecond fection ferves as an introduction to the proceedings of a Chapter of Mafter-mafons, and illuftrates feveral points well known to experienced craftfmen. It inveftigates the ceremony of opening a Chapter, and recapitulates the most important circumstances in the 'two preceding degrees.

The Third Section.

The third fection is a preliminary introduction to the hiftorical traditions of the Order, and is chiefly collected from facred record, and other authentic writings.

The Fourth Section.

The fourth fection recites the historical traditions of the Order, and prefents to view a finished picture, of the utmost consequence to the fraternity.

The Fifth Section.

The fifth fection continues the hiftorical traditions of the Order.

The Sixth Section.

The fixth fection concludes the historical traditions of the Order.

Digitized by Google

The

The Seventh Section.

The feventh fection illustrates certain hieroglyphical emblems, and inculcates many useful leffons, to extend knowledge, and promote virtue.

This fection is indifpenfably neceffary to be underftood by every Master of a lodge.

The Eighth Section.

The eighth fection treats of the government of the fociety, and the difpolition of our rulers. It is generally rehearfed at installations.

The Ninth Section*.

The ninth fection illustrates the qualifications of rulers, and includes the ceremony of installation, in the grand lodge, as well as private lodges.

The Tenth Section.

The tenth fection comprehends the ceremonies of conftitution and confectation, and a variety of particulars explanatory of those ceremonies.

* For a particular account of many circumstances to which this and the two following fections relate, fee the Ceremonies of Conffitution, Confectation, Installation, &c. annexed to these Remarks.

Digitized by Google

.87

ILLUSTRATIONS

The Eleventh Section.

The eleventh fection illustrates the ceremonies used at laying the foundation stones of churches, chapels, palaces, hospitals, &c. also at dedications; and at funerals.

The Twelfth Section.

The twelfth fection recapitulates the remarkable circumftances in all the degrees, and corroborates the whole by infallible teftimony.

11 14

ļ

1

1

č

3

Having gone through the principal degrees of. masonry, and made such remarks on each degree, as tend to illustrate the subjects of which it treats, little farther can be wanted to encourage the zealous mafon to perfevere in his re-Whoever has traced the Art in a refearches. gular progrefs, from the commencement of the First to the conclusion of the Third Degree, according to the plan here laid down, will have amaffed an ample ftore of uleful learning; and must reflect with pleasure on the good effects of his past diligence and attention; while, by applying the whole to the general advantage of fociety, he will observe method in the proper distribution of what he has acquired, fecure to himfelf the veneration of majons, and the approbation of all good men.

34:01

89

SECT. VI.

Of the ancient Ceremonies of the Order.

WE now proceed to illustrate the ancient ceremonies of the Order, particularly those observed at the Constitution and Confecration of a Lodge, with the Installation of Officers; and for more general information, shall occafionally introduce the usual charges delivered on those occasions. We shall likewise annex an explanation of the ceremonies used at laying the foundation stores of public structures, at the dedication of public halls, and at funerals, and close this part of the treatise with the funeral fervice.

The Manner of conflictuting a Lodge, including the Ceremony of Confectation, &c.

Any number of Master-masons, not under feven, refolved to form a New Lodge, must apply, by petition *, to the Grand Master; setting forth,

• This mode of applying by petition to the Grand Mafter, and in confequence of which a warrant to meet as a regular lodge is granted, commenced only in the year 1718; previous to which time lodges were occafionally convened, and empowered, by inherent privileges vefted in the fraternity at large, to meet and act under the direction of fome able architect; and their proceedings being forth, 'That they are regular + mafons, and are 'at prefent, or have been, members of regu-'lar lodges ‡: That, having the profperity of 'the fraternity at heart, they are willing to exert 'their beft endeavours to promote and diffufe 'the genuine principles of mafonry: That, for 'the conveniency of their refpective dwellings, 'and other good reafons, they have agreed to form a New Lodge, to be named 'That, in confequence of this refolution, they 'pray for a warrant of conflitution, to em-'power them to affemble, as a regular lodge, 'on the of every month, at

; and then and thereto difcharge the duties of Mafonry in a regular and conftitutional manner, according to the original forms of the Order, and the laws of the Grand Lodge: That they have nominated and do recommend A. B, to be the first Master, being approved by the majority of the brethren convened in that diftrict where the lodge was hold, were deemed conftitutional. By fuch an authority the Lodge of Antiquity in London now holds, and the authority of that lodge has been repeatedly confirmed and acknowledged.

† By regular maions is to be underflood perfons initiated into Majonry in a conftitutional manner, agreeably to the charges and regulations of the Order.

1 Lodges regularly conflituted, or legally warranted by the Grand Lodge to act.

Digitized by Google

' and

2

14 17

.

ŝ

3

• and C. D. to be the first Senior Warden, and • E. F. to be the first Junior Warden, of the • faid Lodge: That, the prayer of the petition • being granted, they promise strict conformity • to every regular edict and command of the • Grand Master, and to all the constitutional • laws and regulations of the Grand Lodge.'

This petition, being figned by at leaft feven regular mafons, and recommended by the Mafters of three regular lodges adjacent to the place where the New Lodge is to be held, is delivered to the Grand Secretary; who, on prefenting it to the Grand Mafter, or in his abfence to the Deputy, and on its being approved by him, grants a difpenfation, authorifing the brethren specified in the petition, to affemble as mafons for forty days, and until fuch time as a conflitution can be granted by command of the Grand Lodge, or that authority be recalled.

•

.

Ĵ

In confequence of this difpentation, a lodge is held at the place therein specified; and the transactions thereof being properly recorded, are equally valid, for the time being, with those of a regular constituted lodge, provided they are afterwards approved by the brethren convened at the time of Constitution.

When the Grand Lodge has fignified an approbation of the New Lodge, and the Grand Master

ILLUSTRATIONS

Mafter is thoroughly fatisfied of the truth of the allegations fet forth in the petition, he appoints a day and hour for conftituting [and confecrating^{*}] the New Lodge; and for inftalling its Mafter, Wardens, and Officers.

If the Grand Master, in person, attends the ceremony, the lodge is faid to be constituted IN AMPLE FORM; if the Deputy Grand Master only, it is faid to be constituted IN DUE FORM; but if the power of performing the ceremony is vested in a subordinate Lodge, it is faid only to be constituted IN FORM.

Ceremony of Constitution.

On the day and hour appointed, the Grand Mafter and his Officers [or the Mafter and Officers of any private Lodge authorifed by the Grand Mafter for that purpofe] meet in a convenient room; and, being properly clothed, walk in proceffion to the lodge room. Silence being proclaimed, the lodge is opened by the Grand Mafter [or Mafter in the Chair] in all the degrees of Mafonry. A prayer is repeated in due form, and an ode, in honour of mafonry, fung. The Grand Mafter [or Mafter in the Chair] is then informed by the Grand Secretary, [or his locume tenens,] ' That feveral brethren, duly inftructed

* This is too frequently omitted.

Digitized by Google

4 in

.

0

1.1

÷

З,

r:

::

-

j.

: :

ĩ

ż

' the mysteries of masonry, [naming them,] de-' fire to be formed into a New Lodge, under his "Worship's [or the Grand Master's] patronage; * and that a difpensation has been granted to them for that purpofe, by virtue of which authority ' they have affembled as regular majons, and 'their transactions have been duly recorded.' The petition is read, as also the dispensation, and the warrant or charter of conftitution, granted in confequence of it. The minutes of the transactions of the New Lodge, while under dispensation, are read, and if approved, are declared to be regular, valid, and conftitutional. The Grand Master [or Master in the Chair] then takes the warrant in his hand, and requests the brethren of the New Lodge, publicly to fignify their approbation or difapprobation of the Officers nominated in the warrant to prefide over them. This being fignified accordingly, an anthem is fung, and an oration, on the nature and defign of masonry, delivered.

The ceremony of confectation fucceeds.

Ceremony of Confectation*.

The Grand Master, attended by his Officers, and fome dignified Clergyman, form themselves

• This is never to be used but when specially ordered.

Digitized by Google

in

ILLUSTRATIONS

in order round the lodge, which is placed in the centre, covered with white fattin. All devoutly kneeling, the preparatory prayer is rehearfed. The chaplain, or orator, produces his authority+, and being properly affifted, proceeds to confecrate[†]. Solemn mufic dignifies the ceremony, while the necessary preparations are made. The lodge is uncovered, and the first claufe of the confectation prayer rehearfed, all devoutly kneeling. The response is made, GLORY TO GOD ON HIGH. Incenfe is fcattered over the lodge, and the grand honours of mafonry are given. The grand Invocation is then pronounced, with the honours; after which the confectation prayer is concluded, and the refponfe repeated as before, together with the ho-The lodge is covered, and all rifing up, nours. folemn music is refumed, after which the bleffing is given, and the refponfe made as before, accompanied with the ufual honours. An anthem is fung, and, the brethren of the New Lodge coming forward, do homage to the Grand Mafter, and the confectation ends.

The

+ The conftitution roll.

1 Corn, wine, and oil, are the elements of confectation.

Digitized by GOOD

The above ceremony being finiflied, the Grand Mafter advances to the Pedeftal, and conftitutes the New Lodge in the following manner :

'In this my exalted character, to which the 'fuffrages of my brethren have raifed me, I in-'voke the NAME of the MOST HIGH, to whom be 'glory and honour, that he may be with you at 'your beginning; and, by the divine aid, I now 'conflitute and form you, my good brethren, 'into a Lodge of Free and Accepted Mafons. 'From henceforth I empower you to act, as a 'regular lodge, conflituted in conformity to the 'fites of our Order, and the charges of our 'ancient and honourable fraternity; and may 'God be with you !' Amen. [Flourifh with drums and trumpets.]

The grand honours are then given, and the ceremony of Installation fucceeds.

Ceremony of Installation.

The Grand Master * asks his Deputy, 'Whe-'ther he has examined the Master nominated 'in the warrant, and finds him well skilled in 'the noble science and the royal Art?' The

In this, and other fimilar inftances, where the Grand Mafter is fpecified as acting, may be underflood any Mafter who performs the ceremony.

Digitized by Google

Deputy

Deputy anfwering in the affirmative *, by the Grand Mafter's order, takes the candidate from among his fellows, and prefents him at the pedeftal; faying, 'Moft worfhipful Grand Mafter, '[or right worfhipful, as it happens,] I prefent 'my worthy brother A. B. to be inftalled Mafter of this New Lodge. I find him to be of good 'morals, and of great fkill, true and trufty; and as he is a lover of the whole fraternity, wherefoever difperfed over the face of the earth, I doubt not that he will difcharge his duty with fidelity.'

The Grand Master then orders a fummary of the ancient charges + to be read by the Grand Secretary [or acting Secretary] to the Master elect.

• I. You agree to be a good man and true, • and ftrictly to obey the moral law.

· II. You

2

1

ą.

4

ì

K = O = K = C

* A private examination is underftood to precede the inftallation of every Officer.

+ As the curious reader may wifh to know the ancient charges that were used on this occasion, we shall here infert them *verba*tim, as they are contained in a MS. in possession of the Lodge of Antiquity in London, written in the reign of James the Second.

* * * * * And furthermore, at diverse assessments, have been put and ordained diverse crafties by the best advise of magistrates and fellows. Tunc unus ex fenioribus tent. librum, et illi ponent manum juam juper librum.

Digitized by Google

< Every

• II. You agree to be a peaceable fubject, and • cheerfully to conform to the laws of the • country in which you refide.

· III. You

. 97:

⁴ Every man that is a maion take good heed to these charges ⁵ (wee pray), that is any man find himselfe guilty of any of these ⁶ charges, that he may amend himselfe, or principally for dread ⁶ of God, you that be charged to take good heed that you keepe all ⁶ these charges well, for it is a great evill for a man to forsiwear ⁶ himselfe upon a book.

.

.

r

C

ī.

t.

٢

• The first charge is, That yee shall be true men to God and • the holy church, and to use no error or herefie by your under-• standing and by wife men's teaching. Allo, ⁴ Secondly, That yee fhall be true liege men to the K.ig of ⁶ England, without treafon or any faifhood, and that yee know ⁶ no treafon or treachery, but yee fhall give knowledge thereof to ⁶ the King, or to his counfell; allfo yee fhall be true one to ⁶ another, (that is to fay) every mafon of the craft that is mafon ⁶ allowed, yee fhall doe to him as yee would be done unto ⁶ yourfelfe.

⁶ Thirdly, And yee fhall keepe truly all the counfell that ought ⁶ to be kept in the way of Maſonhood, and all the counfell of the ⁶ Lodge or of the chamber.—Allfo, that yee fhall be no theife ⁶ nor thieves to your knowledge free: that yee fhall be true to the ⁶ king, lord, or maſter that yee ſerve, and truely to ſee and worke ⁶ for his advantage.

⁴ Fourthly, Yee shall call all masons your fellows, or your ⁴ brethren, and no other names.

"Fifthly, Yee fhall not take your fellow's wife in villany, nor deflower his daughter or fervant, nor put him to no difworfhip.

• Sixthly, Yee fhall truly pay for your meat or drinke where-• feever yee goe, to table or bord. Allfo, yee fhall doe no villany • there, whereby the craft or fcience may be flandered.

• Thefe

F

ized by Google

• III. You promife not to be concerned in • plots or confpiracies against government, but • patiently to submit to the decisions of the • fupreme legislature.

· IV. You

.

12

2

$

2

"Thefe be the charges general to every true mafon, both mafters and fellowes."

• Now will I rehearfe other charges fingle for mafons allowed • or accepted.

• First, That no mason take on him no lord's worke, nor any • other man's, unlesse he know himselfe well able to perform the • worke, so that the craft have no flander.

• Secondly, Allfo, that no mafter take worke but that he • take 'reafonable pay for itt; fo that the lord may be truly • ferved, and the mafter to live honeftly, and to pay his fellows • truely. And that no mafter or fellow fupplant others of their • worke; (that is to fay) that if he hath taken a worke, or elfe • fhand mafter of any worke, that he fhall not put him out, un-• lefs he be unable of cunning to make an end of his worke. • And no mafter nor fellow fhall take no apprintice for lefs than • feaven yeares. And that the apprintice be free-born, and of • limbs whole as a man ought to be, and no baftard. And that • no mafter or fellow take no allowance to be made mafon without • the affent of his fellows, at the leaft fix or feaven.

• Thirdly, that he that be made be able in all degrees; that is, • free-born, of a good kindred, true, and no bondiman, and that • he have his right limbs as a man ought to have.

* Fourthly, That a mafter take no apprintice without he have * occupation to occupy two or three fellows at the leaft.

Fifthly, That no mafter or fellow put away any kord's worke to tafke that ought to be journey worke.

Sixthly, That every mafter give pay to his fellows and fervants as they may deferve, foe that he be not defamed with falle workeing. And that none flander another behind his backe, to make him loofe his good name.

Digitized by GOOG &

Seaventhly,

• IV. You agree to pay a proper refpect to • the civil magiftrate, to work diligently, live • creditably, and act honourably by all men.

• V. You agree to hold in veneration the • original rulers and patrons of the Order of • Mafonry, and their regular fucceffors, fupreme • and fubordinate, according to their flations; • and

• Seaventhly, That no fellow in the houfe or abroad anfwear • another ungodly or reproveablely without a caufe.

• Eighthly, That every mafter-mafon doe reverence his elder; • and that a mafon be no common plaier at the cards, dice, or • hazzard, nor at any other unlawfull plaies, through the which the • fcience and craft may be diffuonoured or flandered.

• Ninthly, That no fellow goe into the town by night, except he • have a fellow with him, who may beare him record that he was in • an honeft place.

• Tenthly, That every mafter and fellow shall come to the • affemblie, if itt be within fifty miles of him, if he have any • warning. And if he have trefpassed against the craft, to abide • the award of masters and fellows.

- 2

3

• Eleventhly, That every mafter-mafon and fellow that hath • trefpaffed against the craft shall shand to the correction of other • masters and fellows to make him accord; and if they cannot • accord, to go to the common law.

• Twelvethly, That a mafter or fellow make not a mould-frone, • fquare, nor rule, to no lowen, nor let no lowen worke within • their Lodge, nor without, to mould frone.

• Thirteenthly, That every major receive and cherifh ftrange • fellowes when they come over the countrie, and fet them on • worke if they will worke, as the manner is; (that is to fay) if • the major have any mould ftone in his place, he fhall give him a • mould ftone, and fett him on worke; and if he have none, the • major shall refresh him with money unto the next lodge.

F 2

· Fourteenthly, and to fubmit to the awards and refolutions of your brethren in general chapter convened, in every cafe confiftent with the conftitutions of the Order.

• VI. You agree to avoid private piques and • quarrels, and to guard against intemperance • and excess.

• VII. You agrée to be cautious in carriage • and behaviour, courteous to your brethren, • and faithful to your lodge.

• VIII. You promife to refpect genuine bre-• thren, and to difcountenance impostors, and all • diffenters from the original plan of Masonry.

• IX. You agree to promote the general good • of fociety, to cultivate the focial virtues, and to • propagate the knowledge of the Art.'

Oh the Master Elect signifying his affent to these Charges, the Secretary proceeds to read the following regulations:

• I. You promife to pay homage to the Grand • Maîter for the time being, and to his Officers, • Fourteenthly, That every majon thall truely ferve his mafter • for his pay.

"Fiftcenthly, That every mafter shall truely make an end of his worke, taske or journey, whetherfoe it be.

⁶ Thefe be all the charges and covenants that ought to be read ⁶ at the inftallment of mafter, or making of a free-mafon or ⁶ free-mafons. The almighty God of Jacob, who ever have you ⁶ and me in his keeping, blefs us now and ever. Amen.⁹

Digitized by Google

' when

10 00

d

à

100.

• when duly inftalled; and ftrictly to conform to • every edict of the Grand Lodge, or General • Affembly of Mafons, that is not fubverfive of • the principles and groundwork of Mafonry.

• II. You admit that it is not in the power of • any man, or body of men, to make innovation • in the body of mafonry.

• III. You promife a regular attendance on the • committees and communications of the Grand • Lodge, on receiving proper notice; and to pay • attention to all the duties of mafonry, on con-• venient occafions.

• IV. You admit that no new lodge fhall be • formed without permiffion of the Grand Mafter • or his Deputy; and that no countenance be • given to any irregular lodge, or to any perfon • clandeftinely initiated therein, being contrary to • the ancient charges of the Order.

• V. You admit that no perfon can be regularly • made a mafon in, or admitted member of, any • regular lodge, without previous notice, and due • inquiry into his character.

• VI. You agree that no visitors shall be re-• ceived into your lodge without due examina-• tion, and producing proper vouchers of their • having been initiated in a regular lodge.

• These are the regulations of the Grand Lodge • of Free and Accepted Masons.'

F₃

Digitized by Google

The

The Grand Master then addresses the Master Elect in the following manner : • Do you fub-• mit to those Charges, and promise to support • those Regulations, as Masters have done in all ' ages before you ?' The New Master having fignified his cordial fubmillion as before, is regularly installed, bound to his trust, and invested with the badge of office by the Grand Master, who thus falutes him : ' Brother A. B., · in confequence of your cheerful conformity to " the Charges and Regulations of the Order, I ' appoint you Master of this New Lodge, not doubting of your care, skill, and capacity. The warrant of conflitution is then delivered over to the New Master ; after which, the Holy . Writings, the rule and line, the fquare and compasses, the constitutions, the minute book, the mallet, the trowel, the chiffel, the moveable jewels, and all the infignia of his different officers, are feparately prefented to him, and charges fuitable to each, delivered *. The New Master

:

٦Ŀ

2

2

÷,

÷

* The fame ceremony and charges attend every fucceeding infallation.

-For the accommodation of those brethren, whose diftance from the metropolis may deprive them of gaining the neceffary instruction in this important rite, we shall here insert a few moral observations on the instruments of malonry, thus presented to the Master of a dodge at installation.

"The various implements of the profession are conblematical of our conduct in life, and, upon this occasion, carefully enumerated. "The is then conducted by the [Grand] Stewards, amidft the acclamations of the brethren, to the Grand Mafter's left hand, where he returns his becoming

102

"The Rule directs, that we should punctually observe our duty; prefs forward in the path of virtue, and, neither inclining to the right, nor to the left, in all our actions have eternity in view.

"The Line teaches, the criterion of moral rectitude, to avoid diffimulation in conversation and action, and to direct our steps to the path which leads to immortality.

"The Trowel teaches, that nothing can be united without proper cement, and that the perfection of a building muft depend on the proper difposition of that cement; fo Charity, the bond of perfection and focial union, muft link feparate minds and feparate inttrefts; that, like the radii of a circle which extend from the centre to every part of the circumference, the principle of universal benevolence may be diffused to every member of the community.

"The Plumb admonifhes, to walk upright in our flation, to hold the fcale of juffice in equal poife, to obferve the juff median between intemperance and pleafure, and to make our paffions and prejudices coincide with the line of our duty.

"The Square teaches, to regulate our actions by rule and line, and to harmonife our conduct by the principles of morality and virtue.

"The Compafies teach, to limit our duty in every flation, that, rifing to eminence by merit, we may live respected, and die regretted.

"The Lovel demonstrates, that we are descended from the fame flock, partake of the fame nature, and that the fame hope; and though diffinctions among men are neceffary to preferve fubordination, yet that no eminence of flation should make us forget that we are brethren, and that he who is placed on the lowest spoke of fortune's wheel, may be entitled to our regard; because a time will come, and the wifest knows not how soon, when all dif-

F 4

tinctions,

.103

becoming acknowledgments; first, to the Grand Master; and next, to all the officers in order: after which he is faluted by the Brethren in a grand chorus fuitable to the occasion. The members of the New Lodge then advance in procession, pay due homage to the New Master, and fignify their promise of subjection and obedience by the usual congratulations in the different degrees of masonry.

This ceremony being concluded, the Grand Mafter orders the New Mafter to enter immediately upon the exercise of his office; in appointing his wardens, whom he specifies by sinctions, but that of goodnefs, shall ceafe; and death, the grand leveller of human greatnefs, reduce us to the fame state.

"The Chiffel demonstrates, the advantages of difcipline and education. The mind, like the diamond, in its original flate, is unpolified; but as the effects of the chiffel on the external coat, foon prefents to view the latent beauties of the diamond; fo education diffeorers the latent virtues of the mind, and draws them forth to range the large field of matter and space, to difplay the fummit of human knowledge; our duty to God, and to man.

"The Mallet teaches, to lop off excrefcences, and fmooth furfaces; or, in other words, to correct irregularities, and reduces man to a proper level; fo that, by quiet deportment, he may, in the fchool of difcipline, learn to be coatent. What the Mallet is to the workman, enlightened reafon is to the paffions; it curbs ambition, it deprefies envy, it moderates anger, and it encourages good difpofitions; whence arife that comely order,

Which nothing earthly gives, or can defirey, The foul's calm funfhine, and the heart-felt joy.

Digitized by Google

name.

.

2

i,

ę

.

q

11 42

name. They are conducted to the pedeftal, prefented to the Grand Mafter, and inftalled by the Grand Wardens; after which the New Mafter * proceeds to inveft them with the badges of their offices in the following manner:

⁶ Brother C. D. I appoint you Senior Warden ⁶ of this lodge; and inveft you with the enfign ⁶ of your office[‡]. Your regular attendance on ⁶ our ftated meetings is effentially neceffary; in ⁶ my abfence you are to govern this lodge; in ⁶ my prefence you are to affift me in the govern-⁶ ment of it. I firmly rely on your knowledge ⁶ of mafonry, and attachment to the lodge, for ⁶ the faithful difcharge of the duties of this im-⁶ portant truft.⁷

• Brother E. F. I appoint you Junior Warden • of this lodge; and inveft you with the badge of • your office ‡. To you I entruft the examina-• tion of vifitors, and the introduction of can-• didates. Your regular and punctual attend-• ance is particularly requefted; and I have no • doubt that you will faithfully execute the duty • which you owe to your prefent appointment.

• When the Grand Mafter and his Officers attend to conflictute a new Lodge, the D. G. M. ufually invefts the new Mafter, the " Grand Wardens inveft the new Wardens, the Grand Treafurer and Grand Secretary inveft the Treafurer and Secretary, and the Grand Stewards the Stewards.

1 Here specify its moral excellence.

2

F 5

Digitized by Google

The

The New Master then addresses his Wardens together :

⁶ Brother Wardens, you are too good mem-⁶ bers of our community, and too expert in the ⁶ principles of mafonry, to require much infor-⁶ mation in the duties of your refpective offices : ⁶ fuffice it to mention, that I expect what you ⁶ have feen praife-worthy in others, you will ⁶ carefully imitate ; and what in them may have ⁶ appeared defective, you will in yourfelves ⁶ amend. Good order and regularity you muft ⁶ endeavour to promote ; for, by a due regard to ⁶ the laws in your own conduct, you can only, ⁶ expect obedience to them from the other mem-⁸ bers.'

The Wardens retire to their feats, and the Treafurer * is next invefted. The Secretary is then called to the pedeftal, and invefted with the, jewel of his office; upon which the New Mafter, thus addreffes him:

• I appoint you, brother G. H., Secretary of, • this lodge. It is your province to record the, • minutes, fettle the accounts, and iffue out the, • fummons for our regular meetings. Your good • inclinations to maforny and this lodge, I hope, • will induce you to difcharge your office with,

* This officer is not appointed by the Mafter, but elected by, the Lodge.

Digitized by Google

· fidelity,

3

5

Z

-3-4

ų

Ņ

ċ

D C

ź

fidelity, and by fo doing, you will merit the efteem and applause of your brethren.'

The Deacons are then named, and invefted, upon which the New Master addresses them as follows:

⁶ Brothers I. K. and L. M. I appoint you Dea-⁶ cons of this lodge. It is your province to at-⁶ tend on the Mafter and Wardens, and to act as ⁶ their proxies in the active duties of the lodge; ⁶ fuch as in the reception of candidates into the ⁶ different degrees of mafonry, and in the imme-⁶ diate practice of our rites. Those columns, as ⁶ badges of your office, I entrust to your care, ⁶ not doubting your vigilance and attention.²

C

-

.

2

2

ł

The Stewards are next called up, and invefted; upon which the following charge is delivered to them by the New Mafter :

• Brothers N. O. and P. Q. I appoint you • Stewards of this lodge. The duties of your • office are, to introduce vifitors, and fee that • they are properly accommodated; to col-• lect fubfcriptions and other fees, and keep • an exact account of the lodge expences. Your • regular and early attendance will afford the • beft proof of your zeal and attachment.'

The Master then appoints the Tyler, and delivers over to him the inftrument of his office, with a flort charge on the occasion; after which

F 6

Digitized by Google

107 he

108 ILLUSTRATIONS

he addresses the members of the lodge at large who are not in office, as follows:

· BRETHREN,

Such is the nature of our conftitution, that s as fome must of necessity rule and teach, fo • others must of course learn to submit and • obey. Humility in both, is an effential duty. " The brethren whom I have appointed to affift " me in the government of this lodge, are too " well acquainted with the principles of ma-' fonry, and the rules of good manners, to ex-' tend the power with which they are entrufted; " and you are too fensible of the propriety of their appointment, and of too generous difpolitions, to envy their preferment. From the know-· ledge I have of both officers and members, I truft we shall have but one aim, to please each • other, and unite in the grand defign of being happy, and of communicating happinels.'

The Grand Master then gives the brethrea joy of their officers, recommends harmony, and expresses a wish that the only contention in the lodge may be, a generous emulation to vie in cultivating the royal Art, and the moral virtues. The New Lodge join in the general falute, after which the new installed Master returns thanks for the honour of the constitution.

Digitized by Google

The

•

and the set of à ł

']

The Grand Secretary proclaims the New Lodge three times, with the honours of Mafonry. Flourish with horns each time.

The Grand Mafter orders the lodge to be regiftered in the Grand Lodge books, and the Grand Secretary to notify the fame to the regular lodges.

A fong* with a grand chorus, accompanied by the mufic, concludes the ceremony of conftitution, and the lodge is clofed with the ufual folemnities in the different degrees, by the Grand Mafter and his Officers; after which they return in proceffion to the apartment whence they came.

This is the ufual ceremony obferved by regular mafons at the conftitution of a New Lodge, which the Grand Mafter may abridge or extend at pleafure; but the material points are on no account to be omitted.

The Ceremony observed at laying the Foundation Stones of Public Structures.

9

This ceremony is conducted by the Grand Mafter and his Officers, affifted by the members of the Grand Lodge. No private member, or

• Many of the anthems and fongs used upon this and other eccasions, are inferted at the end of this volume.

Diaitized by Google

inferior

inferior officer of any private lodge, is admitted to join in the ceremony. Provincial Grand Mafters are authorifed to execute this truft in their feveral provinces, accompanied by their Officers, and the Mafters and Wardens of regular lodges under their jurifdiction. The chief magiftrate, and other civil officers of the place where the building is to be erected, generally attend on the occasion. The ceremony is thus conducted.

At the time appointed, the Grand Lodge is convened at fome convenient place approved by the Grand Mafter. A band of martial mufic is provided, and the brethren appear in the infignia of the Order, elegantly dreffed, with white gloves and aprons. The lodge is opened by the Grand Mafter, and the rules for regulating the proceffion to and from the place where the ceremony is to be performed, are read by the Grand Secretary. The neceffary cautions are then given from the chair, and the lodge is adjourned; after which the proceffion fets out in the following order:

Two Tylers, with drawn fwords:

Mufic;

Members of the Grand Lodge, two and two; A Tyler, in his uniform; Paft Grand Stewards;

· Digitized by Google

Grand

Grand Tyler; Prefent Grand Stewards, with white rods; Secretary of the Stewards' Lodge; Wardens of the Stewards' Lodge; MASTER of the Stewards' Lodge;

Choirifters ;

Architect;

Swordbearer, with the fword of ftate; Grand Secretary, with his bag; Grand Treafurer, with his ftaff;

The Bible *, Square, and Compaffes, on a crimfon velvet cufhion, carried by the Mafter of a Lodge, fupported by two Stewards with white rods;

Grand Chaplain; Provincial Grand Mafters; Paft Grand Wardens; Paft Deputy Grand Mafters; Paft Grand Mafters; Chief Magistrate of the place; Grand Wardens; Deputy Grand Mafter;

1

* When the Bible is mentioned, it applies to any book which is confidered to be the holy writings.

Digitized by Google

112

ILLUSTRATIONS

The conftitutions carried by the Master of the oldest Lodge *;

GRAND MASTER.

Two Stewards close the proceffion.

A triumphal arch is usually erected at the place where the ceremony is to be performed, with proper scaffolding for the reception of private brethren. The procession passes through the arch, and the brethren repairing to their ftands, the Grand Master and his Officers take their places on a temporary platform, covered with carpet. An ode on mafonry is fung. The Grand Master commands filence, and the necesfary preparations are made for laying the Stone, on which is engraved the year of our Lord and of Masonry, the name of the reigning Sovereign, and the name, titles, &c. of the Grand Mafter. The Stone is raifed up, by means of an engine erected for that purpofe, and the Grand Chaplain or Orator repeats a fhort prayer. The Grand Treasurer then, by the Grand Master's command, places under the Stone various forts of coin and medals of the prefent reign. Solemn mufic is introduced, an anthem fung, and

• In allusion to the Constitutions of the Order being originally wested in that Officer; who is always considered as the general Governor and Director of the Fraternity, in case of the refignation, or death, of the Grand Master.

Digitized by Google

the 1

,

the Stone let down into its place, and properly fixed; upon which the Grand Mafter descends to the Stone, and gives three knocks with his mallet. amidst the acclamations of the spectators. The Grand Master then delivers over to the Architect the various implements of architecture, intrusting him with the fuperintendence and direction of the work; after which he reafcends the platform, and an oration fuitable to the occasion is delivered. A voluntary fubscription is made for the workmen, and the fum collected is placed upon the ftone by the Grand Treasurer. A fong in honour of masonry concludes the ceremony, after which the proceffion returns to the place whence it fet out, and the lodge is clofed by the Grand Wardens.

The Ceremony observed at the Dedication of Masons' Halls.

On the day appointed for the celebration of the ceremony of Dedication, the Grand Master and his Officers, accompanied by all the Brethren who are members of the Grand Lodge, meet in a convenient room adjoining to the place where the ceremony is to be performed, and the Grand Lodge is opened in ample form, in all the degrees of masonry. The order of procession ccffion is read by the Grand Secretary, and a general charge refpecting propriety of behaviour given by the Deputy Grand Mafter. The lodge is then adjourned, and the proceffion formed as follows:

> Two Tylers, with drawn fwords; Mufic;

Members of the Grand Lodge, two and two;

A Tyler, in his uniform;

Paft Grand Stewards;

Grand Tyler;

Prefent Grand Stewards, with white rods; Secretary of the Stewards' Lodge;

Wardens of the Stewards' Lodge;

MASTER of the Stewards' Lodge:

Choirifters;

One Brother carrying a gold Pitcher, containing corn;

Two Brethren, with filver Pitchers, containing wine and oil;

Four Tylers, carrying the Lodge, covered with white fattin;

Architect ;

Grand Swordbearer, with the fword of state; Grand Secretary, with his bag;

Grand Treasurer, with his staff;

Digitized by Google

Bible,

1. 1. 4.

Bible, Square, and Compais, on a crimfon velvet cushion, carried by the Master of a Lodge, fupported by two Stewards;

Grand Chaplain; Provincial Grand Mafters; Paft Grand Wardens; Paft Deputy Grand Mafters; Paft Grand Mafters; Chief Magiftrate of the place; Two large lights; Grand Wardens; One large light; Deputy Grand Mafter; Conflictutions carried by the Mafter of the oldsft Lodge*;

GRAND MASTER.

Two Stewards close the procession.

Any Ladies who attend are then introduced, and the multiclans repair to their flation. On the proceffion reaching the Grand Mafter's chair, the Grand Officers are feparately proclaimed according to rank, as they arrive at that flation, and on the Grand Mafter's being proclaimed, a grand piece of mufic is performed, which continues while the proceffion is made three times round the Hall. The lodge is then ۲,

5

See the note in p. 112.

Digitized by Google

· placed

116

placed in the center, on a crimfon velvet couch : and the Grand Master having taken the chair, under a canopy of flate, the Grand Officers, and the Mafters and Wardens of the Lodges, repair to the places previoufly prepared for their reception : The three lights, and the gold and filver pitchers, with the corn, wine, and oil, are placed on the Lodge, at the head of which ftands the pedeftal, with the Bible open, and the Square and Compasses laid thereon, with the Constitution roll, on a crimfon velvet cushion. Matters being thus disposed, an anthem is fung, and an exordium on masonry given; after which the Architect addreffes the Grand Master in an elegant speech, returns thanks for the honour conferred on him, and furrenders up the implements which had been entrusted to his care at laying the foundation Stone. The Grand Mafter having expressed his approbation of the Architect's conduct, an ode in honour of majonry is fung, accompanied by the band, after which the ladies withdraw for refreshment; and such of the muficians as are not masons retire, in order to entertain the ladies during their repaft.

. . .

The lodge being tiled, the bulinefs of mafonry is refumed. The Grand Secretary informs the Grand Master, that it is the defign of the fraternity to have the Hall dedicated to Masonry; upon upon which he orders the Grand Officers to affift in the ceremony, during which the organ continues playing folemn mufic, excepting only at the intervals of dedication. The Lodge is uncovered, and the first procession being made round it, the Grand Master having reached the East, the organ is filent, and, IN THE NAME OF THE GREAT JEHOVAH, TO WHOM BE ALL GLORY AND HONOUR, he proclaims the Hall duly dedicated to MASONRY; upon which the Chaplain ftrews corn over the Lodge. The organ plays, and the fecond procession is made round the lodge, when, on the Grand Master's arrival at the East, the organ is filent, and he declares the Hall dedicated, as before, to VIRTUE; on which the Chaplain fprinkles wine on the Lodge. The organ plays, and the third proceffion is made round the Lodge, when, the Grand Mafter having reached the East, the mulic is filent, and the Hall is dedicated to UNIVERSAL BENEVOLENCE; upon which the Chaplain dips his fingers in the oil, and fprinkles it over the Lodge; and at each dedication the Grand honours are given. A folemn invocation is made to Heaven, and an anthem fung; after which the Lodge is covered, and the Grand Mafter retires to his chair.

2

1

The

ILLUSTRATIONS

The ladies being returned, an ode for the occation is performed; after which an oration is delivered by the Grand Chaplain, which is fucceeded by an anthem. Donations for the charity are then collected, the grand proceffion is refumed, and after marching three times round the Hall, preceded by the Tylers carrying the Lodge as at entrance, during which the mufic continues to play a grand piece, the proceffion returns to the place whence it fet out, where the laws of the Order are reheated, and the Grand Lodge is clofed in ample form in all the degrees.

The Ceremony observed at Funerals, according to ancient Custom : with the Service used on that octasion.

No mafon can be interred with the formalities of the Order, unlefs it be by his own fpecial requeft, communicated to the Mafter of the lodge of which he died a member, foreigners and fojourners excepted; nor unlefs he has been advanced to the third degree of mafonry, and from this reftriction there can be no exception. Fellow-crafts, or apprentices, are not entitled to the funeral obfequies.

The 118 hei Br

ĥ.

ور الم من الم

73

21.1 1.2

17

The Mafter of a lodge having received notice of a Mafter-mafon's death, and of his requeft to be interred with the ceremonies of the Order, fixes the day and hour for the funeral, and iffues his command to fummon the lodge; if more lodges are expected to attend, he muft make application by the Grand Secretary to the Grand Mafter or his Deputy, to prefide over fuch brethren from other lodges as may affift in forming the procefilon, who are to be under his direction for the time; and all the brethren prefent muft be properly clothed +.

The

ro

+ By an express law of the Grand Lodge, it is enacted, 'That 'no regular mason do attend any funeral, or other public * pro-'ceffion, clothed with the badges and enfigns of the Order, unlefs 'a differifation for that purpose has been obtained from the Grand 'Mafter, or his Deputy: under the penalty of forfeiting all the 'rights and privileges of the fociety; and of being deprived of the 'benefit of the general fund of charity, should he be reduced to 'want.'

Difpenfations for public proceffions are feldom granted but upon very particular occafions; it cannot, therefore, be thought that thele will be very frequent, or that regular mafons will be inclined to infringe an eftablifhed law, by attending those which are not properly authorised. Many public parades under this character have been made of late years; but these have not received the fanction of the Grand Master, or the countenance of any regular mason conversant with the laws of the fociety. Of this the public may be convinced,

• By public procession is meant a general convention of malousfor the purpose of making a public appearance.

ILLUSTRATIONS

The difpensation being obtained, the Master may invite as many lodges as he thinks proper, and the members of those lodges may accompany their officers in form; but the whole ceremony must be under the direction of the Master

of

convinced, if it be confidered that the reputation of the whole fraternity would be at rifk by irregularity on fuch an occasion. It cannot be imagined, that the Grand Matter, who is generally of noble birth, would either fo far degrade the dignity of his office, or the character of the fociety at large, as to grant a difpenfation from our established rules, for a public procession upon fo trifling an occasion as a private benefit at a playhoufe, public garden, or other place of general refort ; where neither the interest of the fraternity, nor the public good, can be concerned; and which, though it may be of fome private advantage, can never redound to the good of majonry, or the honour of its patrons.

This law was planned to put a ftop to mixed and irregular conventions of majons, and to prevent them from expoling to derifion the infignia of the Order, by parading through the freets on unimportant occasions; it was not intended, however, to restrict the privileges of any regular lodge, or to encroach on the legal prerosative of any installed Master. By the universal practice of mafons, every lodge is authorifed by the conftitution to act on fuch occasions, if the fociety at large be not dishonoured ; and every installed Master is fufficiently empowered by the constitution, without any other authority, to convene and govern his own lodge on any emergency, as at the funeral of its members, or on any occafion in which the honour of the fociety is concerned, being amenable to the Grand Lodge for mifconduct; but when brethren from other lodges are convened, who are not fubject to his controul, in that cafe a particular deputation is required from the Grand Mafter or his Deputy, who are the only general Directors of Mafons. . The Mafter of a lodge will never iffue a fummons for the public appearance of the lodge to which the deceased belonged, for which purpose only the dispensation is granted; and he and his officers must be duly honoured, and cheerfully obeyed, on the occasion.

Digitized by Google

r f

W2

ar e io Mé

ŕż.

ź:

ایس افتار

.

شتا

TC-

11

رسينان

ي وي وي

1

÷.

ŗ,

, (

s'

All the brethren who walk in proceffion, fhould obferve, as much as poffible, an uniformity in their drefs. Decent mourning, with white ftockings, gloves, and aprons *, is most fuitable. No perfon fhould be diftinguished with a jewel, unlefs he is an officer of one of the lodges invited to attend in form, and the officers of fuch lodges should be ornamented with fashes and hatbands; as also the officers of appearance of his lodge on a triffing occafion, or without approbation, when he knows that he is amenable to the General Affembly for his conduct, and, by the charges of his office, must fubmit to their award; fhould he, however, be fo imprudent as to act on this occafion improperly, the brethren of the lodge are warranted by the laws to refuse obedience to his fummons, but they are also amenable to the Grand Lodge for contumacy.

A Difpenfation is only neceffary in cafes where mafons from different lodges are indifcriminately convened, as it verts a power in certain individuals for the time being to fuperintend the behaviour of furth brethren, that no irregularity may enfue; but when a regular lodge is affembled under the aufpices of its Mafter, that Mafter is fufficiently empowered to prefide over his own lodge by the conftitution, an authority which no difpenfation can fuperfede; the former being an act of the fociety at large, the latter only an act of the Grand Mafter as an individual.

* This is the usual clothing of master masons.

G

Digitized by Google

the

122 ILLUSTRATIONS

the lodge to whom the difpenfation is granted, who are, moreover, to be diffinguished with white rods.

The Funeral Service.

The brethren being affembled at the house where the body of the deceased lies, the Master of the lodge to which he belonged, opens the lodge in the third degree, with the usual forms, and an anthem is sung. The body being placed in the centre on a couch, and the coffin in which it is laid being open, the master proceeds to the head of the corpfe, and the fervice begins.

MASTER. 'What man is he that liveth, and fhall not fee death ? fhall he deliver his foul from the hand of the grave ?

• Man walketh in a vain fhadow, he heapeth • up riches, and cannot tell who fhall gather • them.

• When he dieth, he fhall carry nothing away; • his glory fhall/not defcend after him.

• Naked he came into the world, and naked • he must return : the Lord gave, and the Lord • hath taken away ; bleffed be the name of the • Lord !'

The grand honours are then given, and certain forms used, which cannot be here explained. Solemn

Solemn mulic is introduced, during which the Mafter ftrews herbs or flowers over the body, and taking the sACRED BOLL in his hand, he fays,

' Let us die the death of the righteous, and ' let our last end be like his !'

The brethren answer,

12

π

Ŀ.

ite E ka

ŋŀ.

ΨÌ

i.

2

1, 2

5.

či l

Ø

T,

للحق

Ŀ

£

đć

hit

متألا

God is our God for ever and ever; he will be our guide even unto death !'

The Master then puts the roll into the cheft; upon which he fays,

⁴ Almighty Father I into thy hands we com-⁴ mend the foul of our loving brother.²

The brethren answer three times, giving the grand honours each time.

* The will of God is accomplifhed ! to be it.* The Mafter then repeats the following prayer :

• Most glorious God ! author of all good, and • giver of all mercy ! pour down thy bleffings • upon us, and strengthen our folemn engage-• ments with the ties of fincere affection ! May • the prefent instance of mortality remind, us of • our approaching fate; and draw our attention • toward thee, the only refuge in time of need! • that when the awful moment shall arrive, that • we are about to quit this transitory scene, the • enlivening prospect of thy mercy may dispel the • G 2 • gloom gloom of death; and after our departure hence in peace and in thy favour, we may be received into thine everlafting kingdom, to enjoy, in union with the fouls of our departed friends, the juft reward of a pious and virtuous life.

Amen.'

An anthem being fung, the Mafter retires to the pedestal, and the coffin is shut up. An oration, fuitable to the occasion, is delivered; and the Master recommending love and unity, the brethren join hands, and renew their pledged vows. The lodge is then adjourned, and the procession, to the place of interment, is formed:

The different lodges rank according to feniority, the junior preceding; each lodge forms one division, and the following order is obferved:

The Tyler, with his fword ;

The Stewards, with white rods; The Brethren, out of office, two and two;

The Secretary, with a roll;

The Treasurer, with his badge of office; Senior and Junior Wardens, hand in hand; The Pastmaster; The Master;

Digitized by Google

The

The Lodge to which the deceafed Brother belonged, in the following order; all the members having flowers or herbs in their hands; The Tyler; The Stewards;

Martial Mufic [Drums muffled, and Trumpets covered]; The Members of the Lodge; The Secretary and Treafurer; The Senior and Junior Wardens; The Paftmafter; The Holy Writings, on a cufhion, covered with black cloth, carried by the oldeft Member of the Lodge;

The Master; The Choiristers, finging an anthem; The Clergyman;

| Pall Bearers; | The BODY, with the regalia placed thereon, and two fwords crofied. | Pall Bearers; | |
|----------------|--|---------------|--|
| Chief Mourner; | | 3 | |

Affiftant Mourners ; Two Stewards ; A Tyler ;

G 3

Digitized by Google

Ì2ſ

One

ILLUSTRATIONS

One of two lodges advance, before the proseffion begins, to the church-yard, to prevent confusion, and make the necessary preparations. The brethren are not to defert their ranks, or change places, but keep in their different departments. When the procession arrives at the gate of the church-yard, the lodge to which the deceased brother belonged, the mourners, and attendants on the corpfe, halt, till the members of the other lodges have formed a circle round the grave, when an opening is made to receive them. They then advance to the grave; and the clergyman and officers of the acting lodge taking their station at the head of the grave, with the choirifters on each fide, and the mourners at the foot, the fervice is refumed, an anthem fung, and the following exhortation given :

21 . 1 . P. . 12

Maria and a second second

- 62. TO HI LO 10

.....

Here we vièw a firiking inftance of the uncertainty of life, and the vanity of all human purfuits. The last offices paid to the dead, are only ufeful as lectures to the living; from them we are to derive inftruction, and confider every folemnity of this kind, as a furmons to prepare for our approaching diffolution.

• Notwithstanding the various mementos of • mortality with which we daily meet, notwith-• standing Death has established his empire over • • all

Digitized by Google

all the works of Nature, yet, through fome unaccountable infatuation, we forget that we are born to die. We go on from one defign to another, add hope to hope, and lay out plans for the employment of many years, till we are fuddenly alarmed with the approach of Death, when we least expect him, and at an hour which we probably conclude to be the meridian of our existence.

• What are all the externals of majefty, the • pride of wealth, or charms of beauty, when • Nature has paid her juft debt? Fix your • eyes on the laft fcene, and view life ftript of • her ornaments, and exposed in her natural • meannefs; you will then be convinced of the • futility of those empty delusions. In the grave, • all fallacies are detected, all ranks are levelled, • and all diffinctions are done away.

• While we drop the fympathetic tear over the • grave of our deceased friend, let charity incline • us to throw a veil over his foibles, whatever • they may have been, and not with-hold from • his memory the praife that his virtues may have • claimed. Suffer the apologies of human nature • to plead in his behalf. Perfection on earth has • never been attained; the wifest, as well as the • best of men, have erred. His meritorious ac-G 4 • tions

Google

ILLUSTRATIONS

tions it is our duty to imitate, and from his weaknefs we ought to derive inftruction.

· Let the prefent example excite our most fe-' rious thoughts, and strengthen our resolutions of amendment. As life is uncertain, and all earthly purfuits are vain, let us no longer poftpone the important concern of preparing for eternity; but embrace the happy moment, " while time and opportunity offer, to provide against the great change, when all the pleafures of this world shall cease to delight, and · the reflections of a virtuous life yield the only comfort and confolation. Thus our expecta-' tions will not be frustrated, nor we hurried, unprepared, into the prefence of an all-wife and powerful Judge, to whom the fecrets of all hearts are known, and from whole dread · tribunal no culprit can escape.

⁶ Let us, while in this ftage of exiftence, fup-⁶ port with propriety the character of our pro-⁶ feffion, advert to the nature of our folemn ⁶ ties, and purfue with affiduity the facred te-⁶ nets of our Order : Then, with becoming re-⁶ verence, let us fupplicate the divine grace, to ⁶ enfure the favour of that eternal Being, whofe ⁶ goodnefs and power know no bound; that when ⁶ the awful moment arrives, be it foon or late, we ⁶ may be enabled to profecute our journey, with-⁶ out tout dread or apprehension, to that far distant country whence no traveller returns. By the light of the divine countenance, we shall pass, without trembling, through those gloomy mans frons where all things are forgotten; and at the great and tremendous day of trial and retribution, when, arraigned at the bar of divine justice, let us hope that judgment will be pronounced in our favour, and that we shall receive our reward, in the possibility of an immoratal inheritance, where joy flows in one continued ftream, and no mound can check its courfe.

Digitized by Google

The following invocations are then made by the Master, and the usual honours accompany each.

MASTER. ' May we be true and faithful; and ' may we live and die in love !'

Answer. 'So mote it be.'

MASTER. ' May we profess what is good, and ' always act agreeably to our profession !'

Answer. 'So mote it be.'

MASTER. ' May the Lord blefs us, and pro-' fper us; and may all our good intentions be ' crowned with fuccefs l'

ANSWER. So mote it be.'

The Secretaries then advance, and throw their rolls into the grave with the ufual forms, while the Mafter repeats with an audible voice :

Gs

Digitized by Google

129

Glory

• Glory be to God on high | on earth peace ! • good-will towards men !

ANSWER: 'So mote it be, now, from henceforth, and for evermore.'

The Matter then concludes the ceremony at the grave, in the following words:

From time immemorial it has been a cuftom among the fraternity of free and accepted mafons, at the requeft of a brother on his death-bed, to accompany his corpfe to the place of interment; and there to deposite his remains with the usual formalities.

• In conformity to this ufage, and at the fpecial requeft of our decealed brother, whole memory we revere, and whole loss we now deplore, we have affembled in the character of mafons, to refign his body to the earth whence it came, and to offer up to his memory, before the world, the last tribute of our affection; thereby demonstrating the fincerity of our paft efteem, and our inviolable attachment to the principles of the Order. • With proper refpect, therefore, to the ef-• tablished customs of the country in which we • live, with due deference to our superiors in • church and state, and with unlimited good-will • to all mankind, we here appear clothed as • masons, and publicly crave permission to ex-• prefs

⁴ prefs our fubmiffion to peace and good go-⁶ vernment, and our with to ferve the interefts ⁶ of mankind. Invefted with the badges of in-⁶ nocence, we humbly bow to the univerfal Pa-⁶ rent; and implore his bleffing on every zealous ⁶ endeavour to promote peace and good will, ⁶ and pray for our perfeverance in the principles ⁸ of piety and virtue.

• The great Creator having been pleafed, out • of his mercy, to remove our worthy brother • from the cares and troubles of a transitory ex-• iftence, to a flate of eternal duration; and • thereby to weaken the chain by which we are • united, man to man: may we, who furvive • him, anticipate our approaching fate, and be • more flrongly cemented in the ties of union • and friendship; that, during the flort fpace • allotted to our prefent existence, we may wifely • and ufefully employ our time; and in the • reciprocal intercourfe of kind and friendly • acts, mutually promote the welfare and hap-• pinefs of each other.

• Unto the grave we refign the body of our • deceafed friend, there to remain until the • general refurrection; in favourable expecta-• tion that his immortal foul may then partake • of joys which have been prepared for the • righteous from the beginning of the world: G 6 • And

Digitized by Google

ILLUSTRATIONS, &c.

• And may Almighty God, of his infinite good-• nefs, at the grand tribunal of unbiaffed juftice, • extend his mercy toward him, and all of us, • and crown our hope with everlafting blifs • in the expanded realms of a boundlefs eternity! • This we beg, for the honour of his name, to • whom be glory, now and for ever. Amen.'

Thus the fervice ends, and the ufual honours are given; after which the proceffion returns in form to the place whence it fet out, where the neceffary duties are complied with, and the bufinefs of mafonry is renewed. The regalia, and ornaments, of the deceafed, if an officer of a lodge, are returned to the Mafter, with the ufual ceremonies; after which the charges for regulating the conduct of the brethren are rehearfed, and the lodge is clofed in the third degree with a bleffing.

Digitized by Google

-132

[133]

ILLUSTRATIONS

OF 🚬

MASONERY.

BOOK III.

THE PRINCIPLES OF MASONRY EXPLAINED.

SECT. I.

A Letter from the learned Mr. John Locke, to the Right Hon. Thomas Earl of Pembroke, with an old Manuscript on the subject of Free-Masonry.

My LORD, 6th May, 1696. I HAVE at length, by the help of Mr. Collins, procured a copy of that MS. in the Bodleian library, which you were fo curious to fee : and, in obedience to your Lordship's commands, I herewith fend it to you. Most of the notes annexed to it, are what I made yesterday for the reading of my Lady Masham, who is become fo fond of masory, as to fay, that the now more than ever wishes herself a man, that the might be capable of admission into the fraternity.

Digitized by Google

The

The MS. of which this is a copy, appears to be about 160 years old; yet (as your lordfhip will observe by the title) it is itself a copy of one yet more ancient by about 100 years: for the original is faid to be the hand-writing of K. Henry VI. Where that prince had it, is at prefent an uncertainty; but it feems to me to be an examination (taken perhaps before the king) of fome one of the brotherhood of masons; among whom he entered himself, as it is faid, when he came out of his minority, and thenceforth put a stop to a perfecution that had been raifed against them: But I muss not detain your lordship longer by my preface from the thing itself.

I know not what effect the fight of this old paper may have upon your lordfhip; but for my own part I cannot deny, that it has fo much raifed my curiofity, as to induce me to enter myfelf into the fraternity, which I am determined to do (if I may be admitted) the next time I go to London, and that will be shortly. I am₅

My Lord,

Your Lordship's most obedient,

Digitized by Google

And most humble fervant,

JOHN LOCKE.

Certayne

Certayne Quefyons, with Anfweres to the fame, concerning the Mystery of MAGONRWE; writtene by the bande of kynge HENRWE, the fixthe of the name, and faithfullye capyed by me (1) JOHAN LEYLANDE, Antiquarius, by the commaunde of bis (2) Highneffe.

They be as followethe,

QUEST. What mote ytt be? (3)

di di

U.

5

1 r C

55

F

្រា

5

j., 1

0

E C

Ļ

Answ. Ytt beeth the fkylle of nature, the underftondynge of the myghte that ys hereynne, and its fondrye werckynges; fonderlyche, the fkylle of rectenyngs, of waightes and metynges, and the treu manere of façonnynge al thynges for mannes ufe; headlye, dwellinges, and buyldynges of alle kindes, and all odher thynges that make gudde to manne.

(1) JOHN LITLANDE was appointed by Henry VIII. at the diffolution of monafteries, to fearch for, and fave fuch books and records as were valuable among them. He was a man of great labour and indefity.

(2) HIS HIGHNESSE, meaning the faid king Henry VIII. Our kings had not then the title of majefly.

(3) What mote ytt be?] That is, what may this myffery of mafonry be? The anfwer imports, That it confifts in natural, mathematical, and mechanical knowledge. Some part of which (as appears by what follows) the mafons pretend to have taught the reft of mankind, and fome part they fill conceal.

Digitized by Google

QUEST.

QUEST. Where dyd it begynne?

Answ. Ytt dyd begynne with the (4) fyrfte menne in the efte, whych were before the (5) ffyrfte manne of the wefte, and comynge weftlye, ytt hathe broughte herwyth alle comfortes to the wylde and comfortleffe.

QUEST. Who dyd brynge ytt weftlye?

ANSW. The (6) Venetians, whoo beynge grate merchaundes, comed flyrste firomme the este ynn Venetia, for the commodytye of marchaundysynge beithe este and weste bey the redde and myddlelonde sees.

QUEST. Howe comede ytt yn Engelonde ?

(4) (5) Fyrste menne yn the este, &c.] It should seem by this, that masons believe there were men in the east before Adam, who is called the 'ffyrste manne of the weste;' and that arts and fciences began in the east. Some authors of great note for learning have been of the same opinion; and it is certain that Europe and Africa (which, in respect to Afia, may be called western countries) were wild and favage, long after arts and politeness of manners were in great perfection in China and the Indies.

(6) The Venetians, &cc.] In the times of monkish ignorance it is no wonder that the Phenicians should be missaken for the Venetians. Or, perhaps, if the people were not taken one for the other, fimilitude of found might deceive the clerk who first took down the examination. The Phenicians were the greatest voyagers among the ancients, and were in Europe thought to be the inventors of letters, which perhaps they brought from the east with other arts.

Digitized by Google

ANSW.

2

Answ. Peter Gower (7) a Grecian, journeyedde ffor kunnynge yn Egypte, and in Syria, and yn everyche londe whereas the Venetians hadde plauntedde maçonrye, and wynnynge entraunce yn al lodges of maçonnes, he lerned muche, and retournedde, and woned yn Grecia Magna (8), wackfynge, and becommynge a myghtye (9) wyfeacre, and gratelyche renowned,

(7) Peter Gower.] This must be another mistake of the writer. I was puzzled at first to guess who Peter Gower should be, the name being perfectly English; or how a Greek should come by fuch a name : But as foon as I thought of Pythagoras, I could scarce forbear smiling, to find that philosopher had undergone a metempfychofis he never dreamt of. We need only confider the French pronunciation of his name, Pythagore, that is, Petagore, to conceive how eafily fuch a miftake may be made by an unlearned clerk. That Pythagoras travelled for knowledge into Egypt, &c. is known to all the learned ; and that he was initiated into feveral different orders of priefts, who in those days kept all their learning fecret from the vulgar, is as well known. Pythaforas alfo made every geometrical theorem a fecret, and admitted only fuch to the knowledge of them, as had first undergone a five years filence. He is fuppofed to be the inventor of the 47th propolition of the first book of Euclid, for which, in the joy of his heart, it is faid he facrificed a hecatomb. He also knew the true fystem of the world, lately revived by Copernicus : and was certainly a most wonderful man. See his life by DION. HAL.

(8) GRECIA MAGNA, a part of Italy formerly to called, in which the Greeks had fettled a large colony.

(9) Wyfeacre.] This word at prefent fignifies fimpleton, but formerly had a quite contrary meaning. Wifeacre in the old Saxon, is philosophery wifeman, or wizard, and having been frequently nowned, and her he framed a grate lodge at Groton (10), and maked manye maconnes, fome whereoffe dyde journeye yn Fraunce, and maked manye maconnes, wherefromme, yn proceffe of tyme, the arte paffed yn Engelonde.

QUEST. Dothe maçonnes descouer here artes unto odhers?

Answ. Peter Gower, whenne he journeyede to lernne, was ffyrste (11) made, and anonne techedde; evenne soe shulde all odhers beyn recht. Natheless (12) maçonnes hauethe alweys yn everyche tyme, from tyme to tyme, communycatedde to mannkynde soche of her secrettes as generallyche myghte be usefulle; they haueth quently used ironically, at length came to have a direct meaning in the ironical sense. Thus Duas Scotus, a man famed for the subtilty and acuteness of his understanding, has, by the same method of irony, given a general name to modern dunces.

(10) Groton.] Groton is the name of a place in England. The place here meant is Crotona, a city of Grecia Magna, which in the time of Pythagoras was very populous.

(11) Fyrste made.] The word MADE I suppose has a particular meaning among the masons; perhaps it fignifies, initiated.

(12) Maçonnes haueth communycatedde, &c.] This paragraph hath fomething remarkable in it. It contains a juftification of the fecrecy fo much boafted of by mafons, and fo much blamed by others; afferting that they have in all ages difcovered fuch things as might be uleful, and that they conceal fuch only as would be hurtful either to the world or themfelves. What these focrets are, we fee afterwards.

Dititized by Google

keped

2

3

keped backe foche allein as fhulde be harmfulle yff they comed yn euylle haundes, oder foché as ne myghte be holpynge wythouten the techynges to be joynedde hetwythe in the lodge, oder foche as do bynde the freres more ftronglyche togeder, bey the proffytte and commodytye commynge to the confrerie herfromme.

QUEST. Whatte artes haueth the maçonnes techedde mankynde ?

Answ. The artes (13) agricultura, architectura, aftronomia, geometria, numeres, mufica, poefie, kymiftrye, governmente, and relygyonne. QUEST. Howe commethe maconnes more teachers than odher menne?

į

ć

2

Answ. The hemfelfe haueth allein in (14) arte of ffyndynge neue artes, whyche arte the

(13) The artes, agricultura, &c.] It feems a bold pretence this of the matons, that they have taught mankind all these arts. They have their own authority for it; and I know not how we shall differove them. But what appears most odd is, that they reckon religion among the arts.

(14) Arte of ffyndinge neue artes.] The art of inventing arts, muft certainly be a most useful art. My lord Bacon's Novum Organum is an attempt towards formewhat of the fame kind. But I much doubt, that if ever the masons had it, they have now loft it; fince to few new arts have been lately invented, and fo many are wanted. The idea I have of fuch an art is, that it muft be formething proper to be employed in all the fciences generally, as algebra is in numbers, by the help of which, new rules of arithmetic are, and may be found.

Digitized by Google

ffyrste

ffyrste maconnes receaued from Godde; by the whyche they fyndethe what artes hem plesethe, and the treu way of techynge the fame. Whatt odher menne doethe ffynde out, ys onelyche bey chaunce, and herfore but lytel I tro.

QUEST. What dothe the maçonnes concele and hyde ? 3

.

•

q

C, ç

ġ,

ł

of

ANSW. Thay concelethe the arte of ffyndynge neue artes, and thatt ys for here own proffytte, and (15) preife: Thay concelethe the arte of kepynge (16) fecrettes, thatt foe the worlde mayeth nothinge concele from them. Thay concelethe the arte of wunderwerckynge, and of forefayinge thynges to comme, that fo thay fams artes may not be ufedde of the wyckedde to an cuyell ende. Thay alfo concelethe the (17) arts of chaunges, the wey of wynnynge the faculty

(15) Preife.] It feems the masons have great regard to the reputation as well as the profit of their order; fince they make it one reason for not divulging an art in common, that it may do honour to the possession of it. I think in this particular they show too much regard for their own society, and too little for the rest of mankind.

(16) Arte of kepynge fecrettes.] What kind of an art this is, I can by no means imagine. But certainly fuch an art the mafona muft have : For though, as fome people fuppofe, they fhould have no fecret at all, even that muft be a fecret, which being difcovered, would expose them to the highest ridicule ; and therefore it requires the utmost caution to conceal it.

(17) Arte of chaunges.] I know not what this means, unkis it be the transmutation of metals.

Digitized by Google

(18) of Abrac, the skylle of becommynge gude and parfyghte wythouten the holpynges of fere and hope; and the universelle (19) longage of maconnes.

QUEST. Wylle he teche me thay fame artes? Answ. Ye shalle be techedde yff ye be werthye, and able to lerne.

QUEST. Dothe all maçonnes kunne more then other menne ?

Answ. Not fo. Thay onlyche haueth recht and occafyonne more then odher menne to kunne, butt manye doeth fale yn capacity, and manye more doth want induftrye, that ys perneceffarye for the gaynynge all kunnynge.

QUEST-

(18) Facultye of Abrac.] Here I am utterly in the dark. (19) Univerfelle longage of maconnes.] An univerfal language has been much defired by the learned of many ages. It is a thing rather to be wished than hoped for. But it feems the masons pretend to have fuch a thing among them. If it be true, I guess it must be fomething like the language of the Pantomimes among the ancient Romans, who are faid to be able, by figns only, to express and deliver any oration intelligibly to men of all nations and languages. A man who has all thefe arts and advantages, is certainly in a condition to be envied : But we are told that this is not the cafe with all malons; for though these arts are among them, and all have a right and an opportunity to know them, yet fome want capacity, and others industry, to acquire them. However, of all their arts and fecrets, that which I most defire to know is, " The fkylle of becommynge gude and parfyghte;' and I with it were communicated to all mankind, fince there is nothing more

.

1

142 ILLUSTRATIONS

QUEST. Are maçonnes gudder men then odhers?

Answ. Some maconnes are not to virtuous as fome odher menne; but, yn the moste parte, thay be more gude then thay would be yf thay war not maconnes.

QUEST. Doth maçonnes love eidher odher myghtylye as beeth fayde ?

Answ. Yea verylyche, and yt may not odherwife be : for gude menne and treu, kennynge eidher odher to be foche, doeth always love the more as thay be more gude.

[Here endethe the queftyonnes, and awnfweres.]

more true than the beautiful fentence contained in the laft anferer, ' That the better men are, the more they love one another.' Virtue having in itfelf fomething fo amiable as to charm the hearts of all that behold it.

Digitized by Google

3

.

3.4

A GLOSSARY of antiquated Words in the foregoing Manuscript.

Albein, only Ċ, Alweys, always 1 Beithe, both Commodytye, conveniency R, Confrerie, fraternity 3 Fagennynge, forming Fore-fayinge, prophelying Freres, brethren Headlye, chiefly Hem plesetbe, they please ÷, Hemfelfe, themfelves Her, there, their 6 Hereynne, therein Herwyth, with it Holpynge, beneficial Kunne, know Kunnynge, knowledge Make gudde, are beneficial Wylde, favage Metynges, measures Mote, may Middlelonde, Mediterranean

Ľ

5

i

Ż

Myghte, power Occafyonne, opportunity Odber., other . Onelyche, only Pernecessarya, abfolutely negeffary Preife, honour Recht, right Rechenyngs, numbers Sanderlyche, particularly Skylle, knowledge Wacksynge, growing Werck, operation Wey, way Whereas, where Woned, dwelt Wunderwerchyngesworking miracles Wynnynge, gaining Ynn, into

SECT.

Google

ILLUSTRATIONS

SECT. II.

Remarks on the preceding Manufcript, and on the Annotations of Mr. LOCKE.

THIS dialogue possesses a double claim to our regard; first; for its antiquity, and next for the notes added to it by Mr. Locke, who, though not at that time enrolled in the order of masons, offers just conjectures on their history and traditions.

Ĵţ,

1

Every reader must feel a fecret fatisfaction in the perufal of this ancient manufcript, efpecially the true mason, whom it more nearly concerns. The recommendation of a philosopher of as great merit and penetration as this nation ever produced, added to the real value of the piece itself, must give it a fanction, and render it deferving a ferious examination.

The conjecture of the learned annotator concerning its being an examination taken before King Henry of one of the fraternity of mafons, is juft. The fevere edict paffed at that time against the fociety, and the difcouragement given to the mafons by the bishop of Winchefter and his party, induced that prince, in his riper years, to make a strict forutiny into the nature of the mafonic institution; which was attended attended with the happy circumstance of gaining his favour, and his patronage. Had not the civil commotions in the kingdom during his reign, attracted the notice of government, this act would probably have been repealed, through the intercession of the duke of Gloucester, whose attachment to the fraternity was conspicuous.

Page 135. What mote ytt be ?] Mr. LOCKE observes, in his annotation on this question, that the answer imports, that masses consists of natural, mathematical, and mechanical knowledge; fome part of which, he fays, the masses pretend to have taught mankind, and fome part they ftill conceal.—The arts which they have communicated to the world, are particularly specified in an answer to one of the following questions; as are also those which they have reftricted to themselves for wise purposes.—Morality, however, ought to have been included in this answer, as it constitutes a principal part of the masses.

Page 136. Where dyd ytt begynne ?] In the annotation to the answer on this question, Mr. Locke feems to suggest, that masons believed there were men in the east before Adam, which is indeed a mere conjecture. This opinion may H

Digitized by Google

be countenanced by many learned authors, but mafons comprehend the true meaning of mafonry taking rife in the eaft and fpreading to the weft, without having recourfe to the præadamites. Eaft and weft are terms peculiar to their fociety, and when mafonically adopted, very intelligible to the fraternity*, as they refer to certain forms and eftablished customs among themselves. From the east, it is well known, learning extended to the weftern world, and gradually advanced into Europe.

Page 136. Who dyd brynge ytt weftlye?] The judicious correction of an illiterate clerk, in the anfwer to this queftion as well as the next, reflects credit on the ingenious annotator. The explanation is just, and the elucidation accurate.

Page 136. Howe comede ytt yn Engelonde ?] The records of the fraternity inform us, that Pythagoras was regularly initiated into mafonry; and being properly inftructed in the myfteries of the Art, propagated the principles of the Order in other countries into which he travelled.

* And behold the glory of the God of Ifrael came from the way of the Eaft. Ezek. xliii. 2.

Digitized by Google

Pythagoras

ŝ

•

;

2

ĩ

ē

Ţ

() ()

.

Pythagoras lived at Samos, in the reign of Tarquin, the last king of the Romans, in the year of Rome 220; or, according to Livy, in the reign of Servius Tullius, in the year of the world 3472. From his extraordinary defire of knowledge, he travelled into feveral countries, and enriched his mind with learning. He was the first who took the name of philosopher; that is, a lover of wildom. His fystem of morality was admirable. He made unity the principle of all things, and believed that between God and man there were various orders of fpiritual beings, who administered to the divine will. His difciples brought all their goods into a common ftock, contemned the pleafures of fense, abstained from fwearing, eat nothing that had life, and believed in the doctrine of metempfychofis, or transmigration of fouls. The chief aim of this philosopher's moral doctrine, was to purge the mind from the impurities of the body; and it feems to have had more real piety in it than other fystems, but less exactness.

Pythagoras travelled first into Egypt, where he was initiated into the mysteries of the priests, who, in those days, kept all their learning fecret from the vulgar. He made every geometrical theorem a fecret, and admitted only those to the knowledge of his fystem, who had first under-H 2 gone gone a probation of five years filence. To his difcovery is attributed the 47th proposition of the first book of Euclid *, which, in geometrical folutions and demonstrations of quantities, is of excellent use; and for which, in the joy of his heart, he is faid to have facrificed a hecatomb. He was well versed in astronomy, and thoroughly understood the true system of the world revived by Copernicus.

Digitized by Google

The pupils who had been initiated by this philosopher in the fciences and ftudy of nature at the Crotonian school, dispersed abroad, and taught the doctrines of their preceptor, in all the countries through which they travelled.

Page 138. Dothe maçonnes defcouer here artes unto odhers ?] Mafons, in all ages, have fludied the general good of mankind. Every art, which is neceffary for the fupport of authority and good government, or which can promote fcience, they have cheerfully communicated to the world. Points of no public utility, as their peculiar tenets, myftic forms, and folemn rites, they have carefully concealed. By thefe, mafons have been

* THEOREM.] In any right-angled triangle, the fquare which is definited upon the fide fubtending the right-angle, is equal to the fquares definited upon the fides which contain the right angle. Euclid. lib. i. prop. 47.

diftin-

11 12 m

.

1. 6. 51

-

2

.

1

1

ŝ

2

diftinguished in various countries, and the privileges of their Order kept facred and inviolable.

Page 139. Whatte artes haueth the maconnes techedde mankynde ?] The arts which the mafons have publicly taught, are here fpecified. appears to have furprifed the learned annotator, that religion should be ranked among the arts propagated by the fraternity. Mafons have always paid due obedience to the moral law, and inculcated its precepts with powerful energy on their followers. The doctrine of one God, the creator and preferver of the universe, has been their firm belief in every age. Under the influence of this doctrine, their conduct has been regulated through a fuccession of years. The progrefs of knowledge and philosophy, aided by divine revelation, having abolished many vain fuperflitions of antiquity, and enlightened the minds of men with the knowledge of the true God, and the facred tenets of the christian faith. masons have readily acquiesced in every measure which could promote a religion fo wifely calculated to make men happy. In those countries, however, where the gospel has not reached, and christianity difplayed her beauties, masons have purfued the universal religion, or the religion of Нз nature ; nature; that is, to be good men and true, by whatever denomination or perfuafion they are diftinguifhed; and by this univerfal fyftem, the conduct of the fraternity ftill continues to be regulated. A cheerful compliance with the eftablifhed religion of the country in which we live, fo far as it corresponds with the tenets of mafonry, is earneftly recommended in our affemblies; and this univerfal conformity, notwithftanding private fentiment and opinion, ansfwers the laudable purpofe of conciliating true friendfhip among men of every perfuasion, and has proved the cement of general union.

2.4 6.5

. . . .

4

2

2

.

107

.

5

i;

٢

ř

Page 139: Howe commethe maçonnes more teachers than odher menne ?] The answer implies, that masons, from the nature and government of their association, have greater opportunities than other men, of improving their talents, and therefore are understood to be better qualified to instruct others.

Mr. Locke's obfervation on mafons having - the art of finding new arts, is judicious, and his explanation juft. The fraternity have always made the ftudy of the arts, a principal part of their private amufement; in their affemblies, nice and difficult theories have been canvaffed and explained; new difcoveries produced, and those already already known, illuftrated. The different claffes eftablifhed, the gradual progreffion of knowledge communicated, and the regularity obferved throughout the whole fyftem of their government, are evident proofs, that thofe who are initiated into the myfteries of the mafonic Art, may difcover new arts; and this knowledge they acquire by inftruction from, and familiar intercourfe with, men of genius and ability, on almoft every important branch of fcience.

130

1

r

Page 140. What dothe the maconnes concele and hyde ?] The answer imports, the art of finding new arts, for their profit and praife; and then particularifes the different arts they carefully conceal. Mr. Locke's remark, . That this " fhews too much regard for their own fociety, • and too little for the reft of mankind,' is rather fevere, when he has before admitted the propriety of concealing from the world what is of no real public utility, left, being converted to bad ufes, the confequences might be prejudicial to fociety. By the word praife, is here meant, that honour and respect to which masons are entitled, as the friends of fcience and learning, and which is abfolutely neceffary to give a fanction to the wife doctrines they propagate. Their fidelity gives them a claim to effeem; and the rectitude of H 4 of their manners will always demand veneration.

Digitized by Google.

Of all the arts which the mafons profefs, the art of fecrecy particularly diftinguishes them. Taciturnity is a proof of wisdom, and is allowed to be of the utmost importance in the different transactions of life. The best writers have declared it to be an art of inestimable value; and that it is agreeable to the Deity himself, may be easily conceived, from the glorious example which he gives, in concealing from mankind the fecrets of his providence. The wissent of men cannot pry into the arcana of heaven; nor can they divine to-day, what to-morrow may bring forth. .

:

Ę

12

.

Many inftances may be adduced from hiftory, to fhew the high veneration that was paid to the art of fecrecy by the ancients. Pliny informs us, that Anaxarchus, being imprifoned with a view to extort from him fome fecrets with which he had been intrufted, and dreading that exquifite torture might induce him to betray his truft, bit his tongue in the middle, and threw it in the face of Nicocreon, the tyrant of Cyprus.—No torments could make the fervants of Plancus betray the fecrets of their mafter ; with fortitude they encountered every pain, and ftrenuoufly fupported their fidelity, amidft the moft fevere tortures,

z

7

ţ,

.

3

į,

2

Ĺ

÷

ÿ

1

Ċ

5 tortures, till death put a period to their fufferings .- The Athenians bowed to a statue of brafs, which was reprefented without a tongue, to denote fecrecy .--- The Egyptians worfhipped Harpocrates, the god of filence, who was always reprefented holding his finger at his mouth.-The Romans had their goddefs of filence, named Angerona, to whom they offered worthip .---Lycurgus, the celebrated law-giver, as well as. Pythagoras, the great fcholar, particularly recommended this virtue; effectially the laft, who, as we have before observed, kept his disciples. filent during five years, that they might learn the valuable fecrets he had to communicate unto them. This evinces that he deemed fecrecy the rareft, as well as the nobleft art *..

Mr.

* The following flory is related by a Roman historian (Aulus Gellius); which, as it may be equally pleafing and instructive, we shall infert at full length.

The fenators of Rome had ordained, that, during their confultations in the fenate-houfe, each fenator fhould be permitted to bring his fon with him, who was to depart, if occasion required; but this favour was not general, being refricted only to the fons of noblemen; who, in those days, were tutored from their infancy in the virtue of ferrecy, and thereby qualified, in their riper years, to discharge the most important offices of government with fidelity and wifdom. About this time it happened, that the fenators met on a very important cafe, and the affair requiring mature deliberation, they were detained longer than usual in the fenate houfe, and the conclusion of their determinations adjourned to the following, $H \leq day s$,

Digitized by Google

Mr. Locke has made feveral judicious obfervations on the answer which is given to the question here proposed. His being in the dark concern-day; each member engaging, in the mean time, to keep fecret the. transactions of the meeting. Among other noblemen's fons, who attended on the occasion, was the fon of the grave Papyrus ; a family of great renown and fplendor. This youth was no lefs remarkable for the extent of his genius, than for the prudence of his deportment. On his return home, his mother, anxious to know what important cafe had been debated in the fenate that day, which had detained the fenators fo long beyond the ufual hour, intreated him to relate the particulars. The noble and virtuous youth told her, it was a bufine's not in his power to reveal, he being folemnly enjoined to filence. On hearing this, her importunities were more. earneft, and her inquiries more minute. By fair speeches and intreaties, with liberal promifes, the endeavoured to break open this little cafket of fecrecy; but thefe-means proving ineffectual, the adopted rigorous measures, and had recourse to ftripes and violent threats; being determined that force should extort, what lenity could not effect. The youth, finding his mother's threats to be very harsh, but her firipes more severe, with a noble and herois fpirit, thus endeavoured to relieve her anxiety, without violating his fidelity :

Madam, you may well blame the fenate for their long fitting, at leaft for prefuming to call in queffion a cafe fo truly impertipent; except the wives of the fenators are allowed to confult on it, there can be no hope of a conclution. I fpeak this only from my own opinion; I know their gravity will eafily confound my juvenile apprehensions; yet, whether nature or duty inftructs me to do fo, I cannot tell. It feems neceffary to them, for the increase of people, and the public good, that every fenator should be allowed two wives; or otherwise, their wives two hushandss
I shall hardly incline to call, under one roof, two men by the name of father; I had rather with cheerfulnes falute two wo-

Digitized by Google

f mea

ŝ

1

5

1

2

3

1 concerning the meaning of the faculty of Abrac, I am noways furprifed at, nor can I conceive how he could otherwise be. ABRAC is an abbreviation /

ž

đ.

-

5

::

.

e

÷

-

į.

r

J

' men by the name of mother. This is the question, Madam, " and to-morrow it is to be determined."

His mother hearing this, and he feeming unwilling to reveal it, the took it for an infallible truth. Her blood was quickly fired, and rage enfued. Without inquiring any farther into the merits of the cafe, the immediately difpatched meffengers to all the other ladies and matrons of Rome, to acquaint them of the weighty affair now under deliberation in the fenate, in which the peace and welfare of their whole lives were fo nearly concerned. The melancholy news foon fpread a general alarm; and a thoufand conjectures were formed. The ladies, being refolved to give their affiftance in the decision of this weighty point, immediately affembled. Headed by young Papyrus's mother, on the next morning they proceeded to the fenate-houfe. Though it is remarked, that. a parliament of women are feldom governed by one fpeaker, yet the affair being urgent, the hafte pertinent, and the cafe (on their behalf) of the utmost confequence, the revealing woman must speak for all the reft. It was agreed, that the thould infift on the neceffity of the concurrence of the fenators' wives to the determination of a law in which they were fo particularly interested. When they came to the door of the fenate-house, fuch a noise was made, for admiffion to fit with their hufbands in this grand confultation, that all Rome feemed to be in an uproar. Their bufinefs, however, must be known, before they could gain an audience. This being complied with, and their admission granted, such an elaborate oration was made by the female speaker on the occasion, in behalf of her fex, as aftonished the whole fenators. She requested, that the matter might not be haftily determined, but be ferioufly canvaffed according to juffice and equity; and expressed the determined refolutions of herfelf and her fifters, to oppose a measure to unconfti-H 6 tutional, viation of the word ABRACADABRA. In the days of ignorance and fuperfitition, that word had a magical fignification; but the explanation of it is now loft*.

Digitized by Google

155

tutional, as that of permitting one husband to have two wives, who could fcarcely pleafe one. She proposed, in the name of her fifters, as the most effectual way of peopling the state, that if any alteration were to be made in the established custom of Rome, women might be permitted to have two husbands. The senators being informed of Papyrus's scheme to preferve his reputation, and the riddle being publicly folved, the ladies were greatly confounded, and departed with blushing cheeks; while the noble youth, who had thus proved himfelf worthy of his truss, was highly commended for his fidelity. To avoid a like tumult in future, it was refolved, that the custom of introducing the fons of fenators should be abolissed. Papyrus, however, on account of the attachment to his word, and his discreet policy, was excepted from this restriction, and ever afterwards freely admitted into the fenate-house, where many honours were conferred upon him.

The virtue and fidelity of young Papyrus are indeed worthy of imitation; but the mafons have fiill a more glorious example in their own body, of a brother, accomplifhed in every art, who, rather than forfeit his honour, or betray his truft, fell a factifice to the cruel hand of a barbarous affaffin.

* Mr. Hutchinfon, in his ingenious treatife, entitled The Spiris of Mafoury, gives the following explanation of the word ABRAC, which, as it is new and curious, I shall here insert in that gentleman's own words.

" " ABRAC, or ABRACAR, was a name which Bafilides, a reliif gious of the fecond century, gave to God; who, he faid, was the author of three hundred and fixty-five.

"The author of this fuperfitition is faid to have lived in the time of Adrian, and that it had its name after ABRASAN OF ABRASAN OF

· Digitized by Google

Our

Our celebrated annotator has taken no notice of the majons having the art of working miracles, and forefaying things to come. Aftrology was

"ABRAXAS, the denomination which Bafilides gave to the "Deity. He called him the Supreme God, and afcribed to him "feven fubordinate powers or angels, who prefided over the hea-"vens: and alfo, according to the number of the days in the year, "held, that three hundred and fixty-five virtues, powers, or intel-"ligences, exifted as the emanations of God; the value, or nu-"merical diffinction of the letters in the word, according to the "ancient Greek numerals, made 365.

A B P A X A Z.

4

"Among antiquaries, ABRAXAS is an antique gem, or ftone, with the word ABRAXAS engraved on it. There are a great many kinds of them, of various figures and fizes, mostly as old as the third century. Perfons profeffing the religious principles of Bafilides wore this gem with great veneration as an amuket, from whofe virtues, and the protection of the Deity, to whom it was confectated, and with whofe name it was inferibed, the wearer derived health, profperity, and fafety.

"There is deposited in the British Museum such a gem, which is a befil stone of the form of an egg. The head is in camio, the reverse in taglio.

"In church hiftory, ABRAX is noted as a myftical term, ex-" "preffing the Supreme God; under whom the Bafilidians fup-"poled three hundred and fixty-five dependent deities: it was the "principle of the gnoftic hierarchy, whence fprang their multi-"tudes of thæons. From ABRAXAS proceeded their PRIMO-"GENIAL MIND; from the primogenial mind, the LOGOS, or "word; from the Logos, the PHRONÆSIS, or prudence; from "the Phronæfis, SOPHIA and DYNAMIS, or wildom and "ftrength; from thefe two proceeded PRINCIPALITIES, " POWERS.

was received as one of the arts which merited their patronage; and the good effects refulting from the ftudy of it, may fully vindicate the countenance given by the masons to this delufion.

The ancient philosophers applied with unwearied diligence to discover the aspects, magnitude, distances, motions, and revolutions of the heavenly bodies; and, according to the discoveries they made, pretended to foretell future events, and to determine concerning the secrets of Providence: Hence this study grew, in a course of time, to be a regular science, and was admitted among the other arts practifed by masons.

Aftrology, it must be owned, however vain and delufive in itfelf, has proved extremely ufeful to mankind, by promoting the excellent fcience of aftronomy. The vain hope of reading the fates of men, and the fuccefs of their defigns, has been one of the ftrongeft motives to induce them, in all countries, to an attentive obfervation of the celeftial bodies; whence they have been taught to meafure time, to mark the "POWERS, and ANGELS; and from thefe, other angels, to the "number of three hundred and fixty-five, who were supposed to the have the government of so many celestial orbs committed to their care."

duration

ż

Ċ)

. 3

3

Ľ,

3

.

¥58 ę

duration of feafons, and to regulate the operations of agriculture.

2

.

c

1

The fcience of aftrology, which is nothing more than the fludy of nature, and the knowledge of the fecret virtues of the Heavens, is founded on fcripture, and confirmed by reafon Mofes tells us, that the fun, and experience. moon, and stars, were placed in the firmament, to be for figns, as well as for feafons. We find the Deity thus addreffing Job, " Canft thou " bind the fweet influences of the Pleiades, or loofe " the bonds of Orion ?" We are instructed in the Book of Judges, that " they fought from "Heaven; the flars in their courses fought " against Sifera." The ancient philosophers were unanimous in the fame opinion ; as well as Lord Bacon among the moderns. Milton thus expresses himself on the subject :

Of planetary motions and a/peEs In fextile, fquare, and trine, and oppofite, Of noxious efficacy, and when to join In fynod unbenign, and taught the fixed Their influence malignant when to frower, &c.

It is well known that inferior animals, and even birds and reptiles, have a foreknowledge of futurity. And can we think that Nature has with-held from man those favours, which she has fo fo liberally bestowed on the raven, the cat, and the fow? No, the aches in your limbs, and the fhootings of your corns, before a tempefb or a shower, will evince the contrary. Man, who is a microcofm, or world in miniature, unites in himfelf all those powers and qualities which are fcattered throughout nature, difcerns from certain figns the future contingencies of his being, and, finding his way through the palpable obfcure to the visible diurnal and nocturnal sphere, marks. the prefages and predictions of his happiness or mifery. The mysterious and recondite doctrine of fympathies in Nature, is admirably illustrated from the fympathy between the moon and thefea, by which the waters of the ocean are, in a certain, though inconceivable manner, drawn. after that luminary. In these celestial and terrestrial sympathies, there can be no doubt but that the vegetative foul of the world transfers a fpecific virtue from the heavens to the elements, to animals, and to man. If the moon alone rule the world of waters, what effects must the combination of folar, ftellar, and Iunar influences operate upon the land? It is univerfally confeffed, that aftrology is the mother of aftronomy, and though the daughter hath rebelled against. the mother, it has been long predicted and expected, that the venerable authority of the parent will prevail in the end.

Digitized by Google

Page.

11 100

.

Page 141. Wylle he teche me thay fameartes?] By the anfwer to this queftion, we learn the neceffary qualifications which are required in a candidate for mafonry—a good character, and an able capacity.

Page 141. Dothe all maçonnes kunne more then odher menne?] The answer only implies, that masons have a better opportunity than the reft of mankind, of improving in useful knowledge; but a want of capacity in some, and of application in others, obstructs the progress of many.

.

.

ċ

2

T.

1

5

2

Page 142. Are maçonnes gudder menne then odhers ?] Mafons are not underftood to be more virtuous in their lives and actions, than other men may be; but it is an undoubted fact, that a firict conformity to the rules of the profession of mafonry, may make them better men than they otherwife would be.

Page 142. Dothe maçonnes love eidher odher myghtylye as beeth fayde?] The anfwer to this queftion is truly great, and is judicioufly remarked upon by the learned annotator.

By the answers to the three last questions, the objections of cavillers against masonry are refuted;

162- ILLUSTRATIONS, &c.

futed; its excellency is difplayed; and every cenfure paffed upon it, on account of the trankgreffions of its profeffors, entirely removed. No bad man, whole character is known, can be enrolled in our records; but fhould he impofe upon us, and we are unwarily led to receive him, our endeavours are exerted to reform him : and, by being a malon, it is probable he may become a better fubject to his fovereign, and a more valuable member to the ftate, than if he were not in the way of those advantages.

Upon the whole, Mr. Locke's obfervations on this curious manufcript well deferve a ferious and careful examination; and there remains little doubt, that the favourable opinion this philofopher conceived of the fociety of mafons before his admiffion, was fufficiently confirmed after his initiation.

[163]

ILLUSTRATIONS

0 F

M A S O N R Y.

BOOK IV.

THE HISTORY OF MASONRY IN ENGLAND.

SECT. I.

Majonry early introduced into England.—Account of the Druids.—Progress of Majonry in England under the Romans.—Majons bighly favoured by St. Alban.

THE history of Britain, previous to the invation of the Romans, is to mixed with fable, as not to afford any fatisfactory account, either of the original inhabitants of the island, or of the arts practifed by them. It appears, however, from the writings of the best historians, that they were not defitute of genius or taste. There are yet in being the remains of fome stupendous works, executed by them much earlier than the time of the Romans; and those vostiges of of antiquity, though defaced by the cruel hand of time, difplay no fmall fhare of ingenuity in their invention, and are convincing proofs that the fcience of mafonry was not unknown in those rude ages.

The Druids, it is faid, retained many ufages among them fimilar to those of masons; but of what they chiefly confisted, at this distance of time we cannot with certainty discover. These philosophers held their affemblies in woods and groves, and observed the most impenetrable secrecy in explaining their principles and opinions, which, being known only to themselves, must have perished with them.

1 . . .

2

ł

k .

The Druids were the priefts of the Britons, Gauls, and other Celtic nations. They were divided into three claffes: the bards, who were poets and muficians, formed the first clafs; the vates, who were priefts and physiologists, composed the fecond clafs; and the third clafs confisted of the Druids, who added moral philosophy to the fludy of physiology.

It is fuggested, that the Druids derived their fystem of government from Pythagoras. Study and speculation were the favourite pursuits of these philosophers. In their private retreats, they entered into a disquisition of the origin, laws, and properties of matter, the form and magnitude tude of the univerfe, and even the moft fublime and hidden fecrets of Nature. On thefe fubjects they formed a variety of hypothefes, which they delivered to their difciples in verfe, that they might more eafily retain them in memory, being bound by oath not to write them.

ς,

2

į,

ò

Ċ.

Ľ,

p

٢

5

Ø

ģ

In this manner the Druids communicated their particular tenets, and under the veil of myftery concealed every branch of ufeful knowledge. This fecured to their order univerfal admiration and refpect, while their religious inflructions were every where received with reverence and fubmiffion. To them was committed the education of youth, and from their feminaries iffued many valuable productions. They determined all caufes, ecclefiaftical and civil; they taught philofophy, aftrology, politics, rites, and ceremonies; and in their fongs recommended the heroic deeds of great men to the imitation of pofterity.

It would be contrary to the intention of this treatife, to enlarge on the ufages that prevailed among thofe ancient philofophers, on which we can offer at beft but probable conjectures; it will therefore be more prudent to abbreviate our obfervations on this head, and leaving the experienced mafon to make his own reflections on their affinity to the mafonic rites, proceed to relate late occurrences of more importance, and better authenticated.

Digitized by Google

24 22

į

1

11.54

Upon the arrival of the Romans in Britain, arts and fciences came with them, and began to flourifh. As civilization increafed, mafonry rofe into efteem, and was encouraged by Cæfar, and feveral of the Roman generals who fucceeded him in the government of this ifland. At this period, the fraternity were employed in erecting walls, forts, bridges, cities, temples, palaces, courts of juftice, and other ftately works. Hiftory is filent concerning their lodges or conventions, and tradition affords but an imperfect account of the ufages and cuftoms which prevailed in their affemblies.

The wars which broke out between the conquerors and the conquered, obftructed for fome time the progrefs of mafonry in Britain, where it continued in a low flate till the time of the Emperor Caraufius, when it revived under his aufpices: This general, having flaken off the Roman yoke, contrived every means to render his perfon and government acceptable to the people. He poffeffed real merit, encouraged learning and learned men, improved the country in the civil arts, and being refolved to eftablifh an empire in Britain, collected the beft workmen and artificers from all parts, who, under his fway,

Digitized by Google

fway, enjoyed peace and tranquillity. The mafons he held in great veneration, and appointed Albanus, his fleward, principal fuperintendant over their affemblies. Under this patron, lodges, or conventions of the fraternity, were formed, and the bufinefs of mafonry began to be regularly conducted. Through the influence of Albanus, the mafons obtained a charter from Caraufius, to hold a general council, at which we learn this worthy knight prefided in perfon as Grand Mafter, and affifted at the reception of many perfons into mafonry. To this council, the name of Affembly was afterwards given*. Albanus was born at Verulam, (now St. Alban's, in Hertfordfhire,) of a noble family. In his

T.

ć

*

j,

Ē

[1

b

Ċ

1

* An old MS. which was deftroyed with many others in 1720, faid to have been in the posseficient of Nicholas Stone, a curious fculptor under Inigo Jones, contains the following particulars

⁶ St. Alban loved mafons well, and cherifhed them much, and ⁶ made their pay right good ; for he gave them ij s. per weeke, ⁶ and iij d. to their cheer † ; whereas, before that time, in all the ⁶ land, a mafon had but a penny a day, and his meat, until St. ⁶ Alban mended itt. And he gott them a charter from the King ⁶ and his counfell for to hold a general counfell, and gave itt to ⁶ hame Affemblie. Thereat he was himfelfe, and did helpe to ⁶ make mafons, and gave them good charges.⁹

+ A MS. written in the reign of James II. before cited in this rolume, contains an account of this circumftance, and increases the weekly pay to 3s. 6d., and 3d. a day for the bearers of burdens.

youth

youth he travelled to Rome, where he ferved feven years under the Emperor Diocletian. On his return home, by the example and perfuation of Amphibalus of Caer-leon (now Chefter), who had accompanied him in his travels, he was converted to the Christian faith, and, in the tenth and last perfecution of the Christians, was beheaded, A. D. 303.

St. Alban was the first who fuffered martyrdom for the Christian religion in Britain, of which the venerable Bede gives the following account. The Roman governor having been informed that St. Alban harboured a Christian in his house, fent a party of foldiers to apprehend Amphibalus. St. Alban immediately put on the habit of his guest*, and prefented himself to the officers. He was carried before a magistrate, where he behaved with fuch a manly freedom, and fo powerfully supported the cause of his

* The garment which Alban wore upon this occafion was called a Caracalla; it was a kind of cloak with a cowl, refembling the vefiment of the Jewifh priefts. Walfingham relates, that it was preferved in a large cheft in the church of Ely, which was opened in the reign of Edward II. A. D. 1314; and Thomas Rudburn, another writer of equal authority, confirms this relation; and adds, That there was found with his garment an old writing in thefe words: 'This is the Caracalla of St. Amphi-' balus, the monk and preceptor of St. Alban; in which that f proto-martyr of England fuffered death, under the cruel perfe-' cution of Diocletian againft the Christians.'

Digitized by Google

friend,

:

.

3

2

2 þ

č,

ĩ

ī

ł

ż

.

2

4

ł

friend, as not only to incur the difpleafure of the judge, but to bring upon himfelf the punifhment above specified.

The old conftitutions affirm, that St. Alban was employed by Caraufius to environ the city of Verulam with a wall, and to build him a fine palace; and that the Emperor, as a reward for his diligence in executing thofe works, appointed him fteward of his houfehold, and chief ruler of the realm. However this may be, there is great reafon to believe, from the corroborating teftimonies of ancient hiftorians, that this knight was a celebrated architect, and a great encourager of good workmen; it cannot therefore be fuppofed, that free-mafonry would be neglected under fo eminent a patron.

SECT. II.

History of Masonry in England under St. Austin, King Alfred, and Athelstane; and also under the Knights Templars.

AFTER the departure of the Romans from Britain, mafonry made but a flow progrefs, and in a little time was almost totally neglected. The irruptions of the Picts and Scots obliged the fouthern inhabitants of the island to folicit the affiftance of the Saxons, to repel these in-I vaders.

As the Saxons increased, the native vaders. Britons funk into obscurity, and ere long yielded the fuperiority to their protectors, acknowledging their fovereignty and jurifdiction. Thefe rough and ignorant heathens, defpifing every thing but war, foon put a finishing stroke to all the remains of ancient learning which had efcaped the fury of the Picts and Scots. They continued their depredations with unreftrained rigour, till the arrival of fome pious teachers from Wales and Scotland, when many of these savages were reconciled to Christianity, and the doctrines of that religion gained ground among them. As Christianity spread, masonry rose into repute, and lodges were again formed*; but thefe lodges being under the direction of foreigners, were feldom convened, and never attained to any degree of confideration or importance.

Masonry continued in this fituation till the year 557, when Auftin, with forty more monks, among whom the sciences had been preferved, came into England. Auftin was commissioned by pope Gregory, to baptize Ethelbert king of Kent, who appointed him the first archbission of Canterbury. This monk, and his affociates, propagated the principles of christianity among

See the Book of Conflictutions.

Digitized by Google

2

the

2

.

**

r

- * 2

ł

5 ŗ

χ

2

2

P,

5

F.

Ŧ.

r

1

Ţ.,

j;

ľ

ê

the inhabitants of Britain, and by their influence. in little more than fixty years, all the kings of the heptarchy were converted. Masonry flourished under the patronage of Auftin, and many foreigners came at this time into England, who introduced the Gothic style of building. Austin feems to have been a zealous encourager of architecture, for he appeared at the head of the fraternity in founding the old cathedral of Canterbury in 600, and the cathedral of Rochefter in 602; St. Paul's, London, in 604; St. Peter's. Weftminster, in 605; and many others+. Several palaces and caftles were built under his anfpices, as well as other fortifications on the borders of the kingdom, by which means the number of mafons in England were confiderably increafed.

A few expert brethren arrived from France in 680, and formed themfelves into a lodge, under the direction of Bennet, abbot of Wirral, who was foon after appointed by Kenred, king of Mercia, infpector of the lodges, and general fuperintendant of the majons.

During the heptarchy, masonry continued in a low state; but in the year 856, it revived under the patronage of St. Swithin, who was employed

+ See the Monasticon Anglicanum.

[2

Digitized by Google

ployed by Ethelwolph, the Saxon king, to repair fome pious houfes; and from that time it gradually improved till the reign of Alfred, A. D. 872, when, in the perfon of that prince, it found a zealous protector.

Masonry has, for the most part, kept pace with the progress of learning; and the patrons and encouragers of the latter, have generally been most remarkable for cultivating and promoting the former. No prince ever fludied more to polish and improve the understandings of his subjects than Alfred, and no one could therefore prove a better friend to masonry. By his indefatigable assisted his people to imitate his example, and thereby reformed their diffolute and barbarous manners. Mr. Hume, in his History of Great Britain, relates the following particulars of this celebrated prince:

1 P. 1 - 1 - 1

"Alfred ufually divided his time into three equal portions: one was employed in fleep, and the refection of his body by diet and exercife; another in the difpatch of bufinefs; and a third, in ftudy and devotion. That he might more exactly measure the hours, he made use of burning tapers of equal lengths, which he fixed in lanthorns; an expedient fuited to that rude age, when the art of defcribing fun-dials, and the mechanism

Digitized by Google

mechanism of clocks and watches, were totally unknown. By this regular distribution of time, though he often laboured under great bodily infirmities, this martial hero, who fought in perfon fifty-fix battles by fea and land, was able, during a life of no extraordinary length, to acquire more knowledge, and even to compose more books, than most fludious men, bleft with greater leifure and application, have done in more fortunate ages."

2

. .

As this prince was not negligent in encouraging the mechanical arts, masonry claimed a a great part of his attention. He invited from all quarters industrious foreigners to repeople his country, which had been defolated by the ravages of the Danes. He introduced and encouraged manufactures of all kinds among them; no inventor or improver of any ingenious art did he suffer to go unrewarded; and he appropriated a feventh part of his revenue for maintaining a number of workmen, whom he constantly employed in rebuilding his ruined cities, caftles, palaces, and monasteries. The university of Oxford was founded by him.

On the death of Alfred in 900, Edward fucceeded to the throne, during whofe reign the masons continued to hold their lodges, under the fanction of Ethred, his fifter's husband, and I 3 Ethelward, Ethelward, his brother, to whom the care of the fraternity was intrusted. Ethelward was a prince of great learning, and an able architect; he founded the university of Cambridge.

Edward died in 924, and was fucceeded by Athelftane his fon, who appointed his brother Edwin patron of the mafons. This prince procured a charter from Athelftane, empowering them to meet annually in communication at York. In this city the firft Grand Lodge of England was formed in 926, at which Edwin prefided as Grand Mafter. Here many old writings were produced in Greek, Latin, and other languages, from which the conftitutions of the Englifh lodges are originally derived *.

Athelstane

E

2

2

1

* A record of the fociety, written in the reign of Edward IV. faid to have been in the possession of the famous Elizs Afhmole, founder of the Museum at Oxford, and unfortunately destroyed, with other papers on the fubject of masonry, at the Revolution, gives the following account of the flate of masonry at this period :

⁶ That though the ancient records of the brotherhood in Eng-⁶ land were many of them deftroyed, or loft, in the wars of the ⁶ Saxons and Danes, yet king Athelftane, (the grandfon of king ⁶ Alfrede the Great, a mighty architect,) the firft annointed king ⁸ of England, and who translated the Holy Bible into the Saxon ⁴ tongue, (A. D. 930,) when he had brought the land into reft ⁶ and peace, built many great works, and encouraged many ma-⁴ fons from France, who were appointed overfeers thereof, and ⁸ brought with them the charges and regulations of the lodges, ⁶ preferved

2

2

2

j;

Ç.

Ĵ

5

1

ż

:

2

5 ř,

Ţ,

5

•

j,

¢

Athelftane kept his court for fome time at York, where he received feveral embaffies from foreign princes, with rich prefents of various kinds. He was loved, honoured, and admired by

* preferved fince the Roman times; who also prevailed with the * king to improve the conftitution of the English lodges accord-* ing to the foreign model, and to increase the wages of working * masons.

That the faid king's brother, prince Edwin, being taught mafonry, and taking upon him the charges of a mafter-mafon, for the love he had to the faid craft, and the honourable principles whereon it is grounded, purchafed a free charter of king Athelftane, for the mafons having a correction among themfelves, (as it was anciently expressed,) or a freedom and power to regulate themfelves, to amend what might happen amifs, and to hold a yearly communication and general affembly.

⁴ That accordingly prince Edwin fummoned all the mafons in ⁵ the reakm to meet him in a congregation at York, who came ⁴ ⁴ and composed a general lodge, of which he was Grand Mafter; ⁵ and having brought with them all the writings and records ex-⁶ tant, fome in Greek, fome in Latin, fome in French, and other ⁶ languages, from the contents thereof that affembly did frame ⁶ the confliction and charges of an English lodge, made a law to ⁶ preferve and obferve the fame in all time coming, and ordained ⁶ good pay for working mafons, &c.⁹

From this zera we date the re-eftablifhment of free-mafonry in England. There is at prefent a Grand Lodge of mafons in the eity of York, who trace their exiftence from this period. By wirtue of Edwin's charter, it is faid, all the mafons in the realm were convened at a general affembly in that city, where they eftablifhed a general or grand Lodge for their future government. Under the patronage and jurifdiction of this Grand Lodge, it is alleged, the fraternity confiderably increafed, and kings, princes,

I 4

Digitized by Google

and

by all the princes of Europe, who fought his friendship and courted his alliance. He was a mild fovereign, a kind brother, and a true friend. The only blemish that historians find in the whole and other eminent perfons, who had been initiated into mafonry, paid due allegiance to that Grand Affembly. But as the events of the times were various and fluctuating, that Affembly was more or lefs refpectable; and in proportion as mafonry obtained encouragement, its influence was more or lefs extensive. The appellation of Ancient York Mafons, is well known in Ireland and Scotland; and the univerfal tradition is, that the brethren of that appellation originated at Auldby near York. This carries with it fome marks of confirmation; for Auldby was the feat of Edwin.

There is every reafon to believe that York was deemed the original feat of mafonic government; no other place has pretended to claim it, and the whole fraternity have, at various times, univerfally acknowledged allegiance to the authority effablished there; but whether the present affociation in that city is entitled to that allegiance, is a fubject of inquiry which it is not my province to investigate. To that assembly recourse must be had for information. Thus much, however, is certain, that if a General Affembly or Grand Lodge was held there, (of which there is little doubt if we can rely on our records and conffitue tions, as it is faid to have existed there in Queen Elizabeth's time,) there is no evidence of its regular removal, by the confent of its members, to any other place in the kingdom ; and, upon that ground, the brethren at York may probably claim with justice the privilege of affociating in that character. A number of respectable meetings of the fraternity appear to have been convened at fundry times in different parts of England, but we cannot find an inflance on record, till a very late period, of any general meeting (fo called) being held in any other place befide York.

Digitized by Google

To

:

.

ċ

:

2

ė

5

ł

whole reign of Athelftane, is the fuppofed murder of his brother Edwin. This youth was diftinguished for his virtues, and having died two years before his brother, a false report was fpread,

2

•

2

•

t

1

ź

5

ŀ,

ż

2

ŗ

2

1

.

ż

To understand this matter more clearly, it may be necessary to advert to the original inftitution of that affembly, called a General or Grand Lodge. It was not reftricted then, as it is now underflood to be, to the Mafters and Wardene of private lodges with the Grand Master and his Wardens at their head ; it confisted of as many of the fraternity at large as, being within a convenient distance, could attend, once or twice in a year, under the aufpices of one general head, elected and installed at one of these meetings, and who, for the time being, received homage as the fole governor of the whole body. The idea of confining the privileges of majonry, by a warrant of conflictution, to certain individuals, convened on certain days, at certain places, had no exiftence. There was but one family among mafons, and every mafon was a branch of that family. It is true, the privileges of the different degrees of the Order always centered in certain numbers of the fraternity, who, according to their advancement in the Art, were authorized by the ancient charges to affemble in, hold, and rule lodges, at their will and difcretion, in fuch places as best fuited their convenience, and when so assembled, to receive pupils and deliver inftructions in majonry; but all the tribute from these individuals, separately and collectively, rested ultimately in the General Affembly, to which all the fraternity might repair, and to whole award all were bound to pay fubmiffion.

As the conflictutions of the English Lodges are derived from this General Affembly at York; as all majons are bound to obferve and preferve those in all time coming; and as there is no fatisfactory proof that fuch affembly was ever regularly removed by the resolution of its members, but that, on the contrary, the fra-I 5:

77

fpread, of his being wrongfully put to death by him. But this action is fo improbable in itfelf, fo inconfiftent with the character of Athelftane, and indeed fo flenderly attefted, as to be undeferving a place in hiftory *.

The

2

h

•

ŀ

ternity still continue to meet in that city under this appellation, it may remain a doubt, whether, while these constitutions exist as the standard of masonic conduct, that assembly may not justly claim the allegiance to which their original authority entitled them; and whether any other convention of masons, however great their confequence may be, can, consistent with those conflictuions, withdraw their allegiance from that assembly, or fet asside an authority, to which not only antiquity, but the concurrent approbation of masons for ages, under the most folemn engagements, have repeatedly given a fanction.

It is to be regretted, that the idea of fuperiority, and a wifh to acquire abfolute dominion, fhould occafion a conteft among mafons. Were the principles of the Order better underflood, and more generally practified, that would not be the cafe, and the intention of the infitution be more fully anfwered. Every mafon would confider his brother as his fellow, and he who, by generous and virtuous actions, could beft promote the happinefs of fociety, would always be moft likely to receive homage and refpect.

* The excellent writer of the Life of King Athelftane + has given fo clear and fo perfect a view of this event, that the reader cannot receive greater fatisfaction than in that author's own words:

"The bufinefs of Edwin's death is a point the most obfcure in the flory of this king, and, to fay the truth, not one even of our beft hiftorians hath written clearly, or with due attention, con-+ Biog. Brit. vol. i. p. 63. Ift edit.

Diaitized by Google

cerning

The activity and princely conduct of Edwin qualified him, in every refpect, to prefide over fo celebrated a body of men as the mafons. Under him they were employed in repairing and

1

•

z

ŝ

ï

1

p

3

:

The fact as commonly received, is this: The king, cerning it. fuspecting his younger brother Edwin, of defigning to deprive him of his crown, caufed him, notwithstanding his protestations of innocency, to be put on board a leaky thip, with his armourbearer and page. The young prince, unable to bear, the feverity of the weather, and want of food, desperately drowned himself. Some time after, the king's cup-bearer, who had been the chief caufe of this act of cruelty, happened, as he was ferving the king at table, to trip with one foot, but recovering himfelf with the other, ' See,' faid he, pleafantly, ' how brothers afford each " other help ;' which firiking the king with the remembrance of of what himfelf had done, in taking off Edwin, who might have helped him in his wars, he caufed that bufinefs to be more thoroughly examined, and finding his brother had been faifely accufed, caufed his cup-bearer to be put to a cruel death, endured himfelf feven years sharp penance, and built the two monasteries of Middleton and Michelness, to atone for this base and bloody fact *."

Dr. Howel, speaking of this flory, treats it as if very indifferently founded, and, on that account, unworthy of credit +. Simeon of Durham, and the Saxon Chronicle, fay no more, than that Edwin was drowned by his brother's command, in the year 933 1. Brompton places it in the first, or, at farthest, in the fecond year of his reign; and he tells us the story of the rotten

- * Speed's Chronicle, book vii. chap. 38.
- + Gen. Hift. P. iv. c. 2. fect. 10.
- 1 Simeon Dunelm. p. 154. Chron. Saxon. p. 111.

I 6

thip,

and building many churches and fuperb edifices, which had been deftroyed by the ravages of the Danes and other invaders, not only in the city. of York, but at Beverley, and other places.

On the death of Edwin, Athelftane undertook in perfon, the direction of the lodges, and the thip, and of his punishing the cup-bearer *. William of Malmfbury, who is very circumstantial, fays, he only tells us what he heard §; but Matthew the flower-gatherer + flamps the whole down as an indubitable truth. Yet thefe difcordant dates are not to be accounted for. 'If he was drowned in the fecond, he could not be alive in the tenth year of the king; the first is the more probable date, because about that time there certainly was a confpiracy against king Athelstane, in order to dethrone him, and put out his eyes, yet he did not put the author of it to death ; is it likely then, that he should order his brother to be thrown into the fea upon bare fuspicion ? But the reader must remember, that we cite the fame historians who have told us this ftory, to prove, that Athelitane was unanimoufly acknowledged king, his brethren being too young to govern; one would think, then, they could not be old enough to confpire. If we take the fecond date, the whole ftory is deftroyed ; the king could not do feven years penance, for he did not live fo long; and as for the tale of the cup-bearer, and his stumbling at the king's table, the fame ftory is told of Earl Godwin, who murdered the brother of Edward the Confessor. Lastly, nothing is clearer from history, than that Athelftane was remarkably kind to his brothers and fifters, for whole fakes he lived fingle, and therefore one would think his brother had lefs temptation to confpire against him.

• Chronicon. p. 828. § De Geft, R. A. lib. ii. † Matth. Florideg.

Digitized by Google

Art

Art of mafonry was propagated in peace and fecurity under his fanction.

When Athelstane died, the masons dispersed, and the Art continued in an unsettled state till the reign of Edgar in 960, when the fraternity were again collected by St. Dunstan, under whose auspices they were employed on some pious structures; but meeting with no permanent encouragement, their lodges soon declined.

.

After Edgar's death masonry remained in a low condition upwards of fifty years. In 1041, it again revived, under the patronage of Edward the Confessor, who superintended the execution of several great works. He rebuilt Westminster Abbey, affisted by Leofrick earl of Coventry, whom he appointed to superintend the masons. The Abbey of Coventry, and many other structures, were finissed by this accomplissed architect.

William the Conqueror acquired the crown . of England in 1066: and he appointed Gundulph bifhop of Rochefter, and Roger de Montgomery earl of Shrewfbury, joint patrons of the mafons, who, at this time, excelled both in civil and military architecture. Under their aufpices the fraternity were employed in building the Tower of London, which was completed in the reign of William Rufus, who rebuilt London bridge bridge with wood, and first constructed the palace and hall of Westminster in 1087.

On the acceffion of Henry I. the lodges continued to affemble. From this prince, the firft Magna Charta, or charter of liberties, was obtained by the Normans. Stephen fucceeded Henry in 1135, and employed the fraternity in building a chapel at Weftminster, now the House of Commons, and several other works. These were finished under the direction of Gilbert de Clare marquis of Pembroke, who at this time presided over the lodges.

During the reign of Henry II. the Grand Master of the Knights Templars superintended the masons, and employed them in building their Temple in Fleet-street, A. D. 1155. Masonry continued under the patronage of this Order till the year 1199, when John fucceeded his brother Richard in the crown of England. Peter de Colechurch was then appointed Grand Maf-He began to rebuild London bridge with ter. stone, which was afterwards finished by William Alcmain in 1209. Peter de Rupibus fucceeded Peter de Colechurch in the office of Grand Master, and Geoffrey Fitz-Peter, chief surveyor of the king's works, acted as deputy under him. Under the aufpices of these two artists, masonry flourished during the remainder of this and the following reign.

Digitized by Google

1

10. 10.

•

182

SECT. III.

History of Masonry in England, during the Reigns of Edward I. Edward II. Edward III. Richard II. Henry V. and Henry VI.

Ľ

1

.

.

2

j,

1

1 75

f

ŀ

ON the acceffion of Edward I. A. D. 1272, the care of the mafons was entrufted to Walter Giffard, archbifhop of York; Gilbert de Clare, earl of Gloucefter; and Ralph, lord of Mount Hermer, the progenitor of the family of the Montagues. These architects superintended the finishing of Westminster Abbey, which had been begun in 1220, during the minority of Henry III. In the reign of Edward II. the fraternity were employed in building Exeter and Oriel colleges, Oxford; Clare-hall, Cambridge; and many other structures; under the auspices of Walter Stapleton, bishop of Exeter, who had been appointed Grand Master of the masons in 1307.

Mafonry flourished in England during the reign of Edward III. who became the patron of science, and the encourager of learning. He applied with indefatigable affiduity to the conftitutions of the Order; revised and meliorated the ancient charges, and added several useful regulations to the original code of laws by which which the fraternity had been governed. He patronized the lodges, and appointed five deputies under him to infpect their proceedings; viz. 1. John de Spoulee, who rebuilt St. George's chapel at Windfor, where the order of the garter was first instituted, A. D. 1350; 2. William a Wykeham, afterwards bishop of Winchester, who rebuilt the caftle of Windfor at the head of 400 free-masons A. D. 1357; 3. Robert a Barnham, who finished St. George's hall at the head of 250 free-masons, with other works in the caftle, A. D. 1375; 4. Henry Yeuele, (called in the old records, the King's free-mafon,) who built the Charter-houfe in London; King's hall, Cambridge; and Queensborough castle; and who alfo rebuilt St. Stephen's chapel, Weftminfter: and 5. Simon Langham, abbot of Weftminster, who rebuilt the body of that cathedral as it now stands. From some old records still extant, it appears, that at this period lodges were numerous, and that communications of the fraternity were held under the protection of the civil magistrate *.

¥84

Richard

. * An old record of the Society runs thus :

In the glorious reign of King Edward III. when lodges were more frequent, the Right Worfhipful the Mafter and Fellows, with confent of the lords of the realm (for moft great men were then mafons) ordained,

· That

Richard II. having fucceeded his grandfather Edward III. in 1377, William a Wykeham was continued Grand Mafter. He afterward rebuilt Weftminfter-hall as it now ftands; and employed the fraternity in building New College, Oxford, and Winchefter college, both of which he founded at his own expence.

Henry,

• That for the future, at the making or admiffion of a brother, • the conftitution and the ancient charges should be read by the • Mafter or Warden.

Ċ

ſ,

ſ.

ę

¢

• That fuch as were to be admitted mafter-mafons, or maiters • of work, fhould be examined whether they be able of cunning to • ferve their refpective lords, as well the loweft as the higheft, to • the honour and worfhip of the aforefaid Art, and to the profit of • their lords ; for they be their lords that employ and pay them for • their fervice and travel.

The following particulars are also contained in a very old MS. of which a copy is faid to have been in the possification of the late George Payne Efq. Grand Master in 1718.

• That when the Mafter and Wardens meet in a lodge, if need • be, the fheriff of the county, or the mayor of the city, or alder-• man of the town, in which the congregation is held, fhould be • made fellow and fociate to the Mafter, in help of him againft • rebels, and for upbearing the rights of the realm.

• That entered prentices, at their making, were charged not to • be thieves or thieves maintainers; that they should travel ho-• nestly for their pay, and love their fellows as themselves, and • be true to the king of England, and to the realm, and to the • lodge.

That, at fuch congregations, it shall be inquired, whether any mafter or fellow has broke any of the articles agreed to; and if the offender, being duly cited to appear, prove rebel, and will not

785

Henry, duke of Lancaster, taking advantage of Richard's abfence in Ireland, got the parliament to depose him, and next year caused him to be murdered. Thus he supplanted his cousin, and mounted the throne by the name of Henry IV. He appointed Thomas Fitz Allen, earl of Surrey, Grand Master. After the famous victory of Shrewsbury, he founded Battle-abbey and Fotheringay; and in this reign the Guildhall of London was built. The king dying in 1413, Henry V. succeeded to the crown; when Henry Chicheley, archbishop of Canterbury, obtained the direction of the fraternity, under whose auspices lodges and communications were frequent.

Henry VI. a minor, fucceeding to the throne in 1422, the parliament endeavoured to difturb the masons, by passing the following act to prohibit their chapters and conventions :

⁴ not attend, then the lodge fhall determine againft him, that he ⁶ fhall forfwear (or renounce) his mafonry, and fhall no more ufe ⁴ this craft; the which if he prefeme for to do, the fheriff of the ⁶ county fhall prifon him, and take all his goods into the king? ⁶ hands, till his grace be granted him and iffued. For this can? ⁶ principally have thefe congregations been ordained, that as well ⁵ the loweft as the highest fhould be well and truly ferved in this ⁶ Art aforefaid, throughout all the kingdom of England. Amen, ⁸ fo mote it be.⁷

3 Hen.

2

2

Ş.

è

3 Hen. VI. cap. 1. A. D. 1425.

MASONS fball not confederate in Chapters or Congregations.

• WHEREAS, by the yearly congregations and · confederacies made by the masons in their ge-• neral affemblies, the good courfe and effect of • the flatutes of labourers be openly violated and · broken, in fubverfion of the law, and to the great damage of all the commons ; our fovereign Lord the King, willing in this cafe to · provide a remedy, by the advice and confent aforefaid, and at the fpecial request of the commons, hath ordained and established that t fuch chapters and congregations shall not be * hereafter holden; and if any fuch be made, • they that caufe fuch chapters and congregations to be affembled and holden, if they thereof be convict, shall be judged for felons : and that the other masons, that come to such chapters or congregations, be punished by imprisonment of their bodies, and make fine and ranfome at • the king's will *.'

ڌ

5 ø

£

This

187

• Judge Coke gives the following opinion on this flatute : • All the flatutes concerning labourers before this act, and • whereunts this act doth refer, are repealed by the flatute of • 5 Elia.

This act was never put in force, nor the fraternity deterred from affembling, as ufual, under archbishop Chicheley, who still continued to preside over them*. Notwithstanding this rigorous edict, the effect of prejudice and malevolence

5 Eliz. cap. 4. about A. D. 1562, whereby the caufe and end of making this act is taken away, and confequently the act is become of no force; for ceffante ratione legis, ceffat ip fa lex: and the indictment of felony upon this flatute muft contain, " That those chapters and congregations are to the violating and · breaking of the good course and effect of the flatutes of labourers; which now cannot be fo alleged, because these ftatutes be repealed. Therefore this would be put out of the Charge of juffices of the peace. INSTITUTES, Part III. fol. 19. It is plain, from the above opinion, that this act, though never expressly repealed, can have no force at present. The masons may reft very quiet, continue to hold their affemblies, and propagate their mysteries, as long as a conformity to their profetied principles entitles them to the fanction of government. Mafonry is too well known in this country, to raife any fufpicion in the legiflature. The greatest personages have presided over the society, and under their aufpicious government, at different times, an acquifition of patrons, both great and noble, has been made. It would therefore be abfurd to imagine, that any legal attempt will ever be made to difturb the peace and harmony of a fociety fo truly refpectable, and fo highly honoured.

Ì

* The Latin Register of William Molart, prior of Canterbury, in manufcript, pap. 88. entitled, 'Liberatio generalis Domini 'Gulielmi Prioris Ecclefiæ Christi Cantuariensis, erga Fastuma 'Natalis Domini 1429,' informs us, that, in the year 1429, dusiog the minority of this prince, a respectable lodge was held at Canterbury, volence in an arbitrary fet of men, lodges were formed in different parts of the kingdom; and tranquillity and felicity reigned among the fraternity.

* As the attempt of parliament to fuppress the lodges and communications of masons renders the transactions of this period worthy attention, it may not be improper to state the circumstances which are supposed to have given rise to this harsh edict.

The duke of Bedford, at that time regent of the kingdom, being in France, the regal power was vefted in his brother Humphrey, duke of Gloucefter*, who was ftyled protector and guardian of the kingdom. The care of the young king's perfon and education was entrufted to Henry Beaufort, bifhop of Winchefter, the Canterbury, under the patronage of Henry Chicheley, the archbishop; at which were present Thomas Stapylton, the Master; John Morris, custos de la lodge lathomorum, or warden of the lodge of masons; with fifteen fellow-crasts, and three entered apprentices, all of whom are particularly named.

* This prince is faid to have received a more learned education than was ufual in his age, to have founded one of the first public libraries in England, and to have been a great patron of learnedmen. If the records of the fociety may be relied on, we have reason to believe, that he was particularly attached to the masons, having been admitted into their Order, and affisted at the initiation of king Henry in 1442.

Digitized by Google

duke's

duke's uncle. The bishop was a prelate of great capacity and experience, but of an intriguing and dangerous character. As he afpired to the fole government of affairs, he had continual difputes with his nephew the protector, and gained frequent advantages over the vehement and impolitic temper of that prince. Invefted with power, he foon began to fhew his pride and haughtinefs, and wanted not followers and agents, who were buly to augment his influence +.

The

ie.

à:

٤.

1

5

١_ě

£,

4

÷.

ų

q

+ In a parliament held at Weftminster on the 17th of November 1423, to answer a particular end, it was ordained, " That f if any perfon, committed for grand or petty treafon, should " wilfully break out of prifon, and escape from the fame, it should • be deemed petty treason, and his goods be forfeited *.' About this time, one William King, of Womolton in Yc Ithire, ferwant to fir Robert Scott, lieutenant of the Tower, pretended, that he had been offered by fir John Mortimer, (coufin to the lately deceased Edward Mortimer, earl of March, the nearest in blood to the English crown, and then a prifoner in the Tower,) ten pounds to buy him clothes, with forty pounds a year, and to be made an earl, if he would affift Mortimer in making his escape; that Mortimer faid, he would raife 40,000 men on his enlargement, and would strike off the heads of the rich bifbop of Winchefter, the duke of Gloucester, and others. This fellow undertook to prove upon oath the truth of his affertion. A thort time after, a fcheme was formed to cut off Mortimer, and an opportunity foon offered to carry it into execution. Mortimer being per-١R mitted one day to walk to the Tower wharf, was fuddenly pur-¥.

* Wolfe's Chronicle, published by Stowe.

Digitized by Google

fued.

The animolity between the uncle and nephew daily increased, and the authority of parliament, at length, was obliged to interpose. On the laft day of April, 1425, the parliament met at Weftminster. The fervants and followers of the peers coming thither, armed with clubs and staves, occasioned its being named THE BATT PARLIAMENT. Several laws were made, and, among the reft, the act for abolishing the fociety of masons*; at least, for preventing their assemblies and congregations. Their meetings being

i T

> fued, feized, brought back, accufed of breaking out of prison, and of attempting his escape. He was tried, and the evidence of King being admitted, was convicted, agreeably to the late flatute, and afterwards beheaded.

> The death of Mortimer occafioned great murmuring and difcontent among the people, and threatened a fpeedy fubversion of those in power. Many hints were thrown out, both in public and private assemblies, of the fatal consequences which were expected to fucceed this commotion. The amazing progress it made, justly alarmed the fuspicions of the ambitious prelate, who spared no pains to exert his power on the occasion.

> * Dr. Anderson, in the first edition of the Book of Constitutione, in a note, makes the following observation on this act:

> This act was made in ignorant times, when true learning > was a crime, and geometry condemned for conjuration; but it > cannot derogate from the honour of the ancient fraternity, who,
> to be fure, would never encourage any fuch confederacy of their > working brethren. By tradition, it is believed, that the parliament were then too much influenced by the illiterate clergy, > who 191

being fecters they attracted the attention of the afpiring prelate, who determined to fupprefs them*.

The

2

2

-

.

11.

ł

.

1

2

1

2

4

.....

ż

Ŀ,

ı

.

ł

• who were not accepted maions, nor underflood architecture, (as • the clergy of fome former ages,) and were generally thought • unworthy of this brotherhood. Thinking they had an inde-• feafible right to know all fecrets, by virtue of auricular con-• feffion, and the maions never confeffing any thing thereof, the • faid clergy were highly offended, and at first furfecting them of • wickednefs, reprefented them as dangerous to the flate during • that minority, and foon influenced the parliament to lay hold • of fuch fuppofed arguments of the working maions, for making • an act that might feem to reflect diffonour upon even the whole • fraternity, in whofe favour feveral acts had been before and • after that period made.

* The bishop was diverted from his perfecution of the masons, by an affair in which he was more nearly concerned. On the morning of St. Simon and Jude's day, after the lord mayor of London had returned to the city from Weftminster, where he had been taking the usual charges of his high office, he received a special meffage, while feated at dinner, from the duke of Gloucefter, requiring his immediate attendance. He immediately repaired to the palace, and being introduced into the prefence, the duke commanded his lordship to fee that the city was properly watched the following night, as he expected his uncle would endeavour to make himfelf mafter of it by force, unlefs fome effectual means were adopted to ftop his progress. This command was frictly obeyed ; and, at nine o'clock the next morning, the bishop of Winchester, with his servants and followers, attempting to enter the city by the bridge, were prevented by the vigilance of the citizens, who repelled them by force. This unexpected repulse enraged the haughty prelate, who immediately collected a numerous body of archers and other men at arms, and commanded them

Digitized by Google

The fovereign authority, how even the law of Gloucester, a protector of the realm, the execution of the laws, and all that re-them to affault the gate with fhot. The citizens directly flut up their fhops, and crowded to the bridge in great numbers, when a general maffacre would certainly have enfued, had it not been for the timely interposition, and prudent administration, of the mayor and aldermen, who happily ftopt all violent measures, and prevented a great effusion of blood.

ż

÷

đ

75 ŕ

.

5

ć

2

1 ž

ţ,

à

1

The archbishop of Canterbury, and Peter, duke of Coimbra, eldeft fon of the king of Portugal, with feveral others, endeavoured to appease the fury of the two contending parties, and, if possible, to bring about a reconciliation between them; but all ta no purpose, neither party would yield. They rode eight or ten times backward and forward, using every fcheme they could devise to prevent further extremities; at last they fucceeded in their mediation, and brought the parties to a conformity; when it was agreed, that all hostile proceedings should drop on both fides, and the matter be referred to the award of the duke of Bedford; on which peace was reftored, and the city remained in quiet.

The bifhop loft no time in transmitting his cafe to the duke of Bedford; and in order to gloss it over with the best colours, he wrote the following letter:

* RIGRT high and mighty prince, and my right noble, and * after one leiueft [earthly] lord; I recommend me unto your * grace with all my heart. And as you defire the weifare of the * king our fovereign lord, and of his realms of England and * France, your own weal [health] with all yours, hafte you * hither: For by my troth, if you tarry long, we fhall put this * land in jepardy [adventure] with a field, fuch a brother you * have here; God make him a good man. For your wifdom K * well

Digitized by Google

104

related to the solution of the malous at this critical juncture. The duke, knowing them to be innocent of the acculations which the bifhop well knowsth that the profit of France flandeth in the welfare of England, &c. The bleffed Trinity keep you. Written ia great hafte at London, on All-hallowen-even, the 31st of October, 1425.

· By your fervant, to my lives end,

'HENRY, WINCHESTER.'

1

1

.

ċ

0 ŝ

. ..

ŝ

;

1

This letter had the defired effect, and haftened the return of the duke of Bedford to London, where he arrived on the 10th of January, 1425-6. On the 21ft of February he held a great council at St. Albans, adjourned it to the 15th of March at Northampton, and to the 25th of June at Leicefter. Batts and flaves being now prohibited, the followers of the members of parliament attended with flones in a fling, and plummets of lead. The duke of Bedford employed the authority of parliament to reconcile the differences which had broke out between his brother and the bifhop of Winchefter; and obliged thefe rivals to promife before that affembly, that they would bury all quartels in oblivion. Thus the long wifhed-for peace between thefe two great perfonages was, to all appearance, accomplified.

During the difcuffion of this matter before parliament, the duke of Gloucefter exhibited the following charge, among five others, against the bishop of Winchefter: ' That he had, in his letter to ' the duke of Bedford at France, plainly declared his malicious ' purpose of assembling the people, and stirring up a rebellion in ' the nation, contrary to the king's peace.'

The bifhop's answer to this accufation was, 'That he never * had any intention to difturb the peace of the nation, or raife * a rebellion; but that he sent to the duke of Bedford, to folicit * his

1

ï.,

2

1

17

ļ,

I

ż.

.

1

5

Ľ,

ġ,

3

÷

5 è

j,

2

2

į,

4

bishop of Winchester had laid against them, took them under his protection, and transferred the charge of rebellion, fedition, and treason, from them, to the bishop and his followers; who, he afferted, were the first violators of the public peace, and the most rigorous promoters of civil difcord.

The bishop was sensible that his conduct could not be justified by the laws of the land; he

⁶ his fpeedy return to England, to fettle all thole differences ⁶ which were fo prejudicial to the peace of the kingdom : That ⁸ though he had indeed written in the letter, That if be tarried, sue ⁶ foculd put the land in adventure by a field, fuch a brother you have ⁶ bere; he did not mean it of any defign of his own, but con-⁶ cerning the feditious affemblies of mafons, carpenters, tylers, and ⁶ plaifterers; who, being diffafted by the late act of parliament ⁶ againft the exceflive wages of thole trades, had given out many ⁶ feditious fpeeches and menaces againft certain great men, which ⁶ tended much to rebellion *: That the duke of Gloucefter did ⁶ not ufe his endeavour, as he ought to have done in his place, ⁶ to fupprefs fuch unlawful affemblies; fo that he feared the ⁶ king, and his good fubjects, mut have made a field to withftand ⁶ them; to prevent which, he chiefly defired the duke of Bedford ⁶ to come over.⁹

As the masons are unjustly suspected of having given rife to the above civil commotions, I thought it necessary to infert the foregoing particulars, in order to clear them from this false charge. Most of the circumstances here mentioned, are extracted from Wolfe's Chronicle published by Stowe.

* The above particulars are extracted from one of Elias Afhmole's MSS, on the fubject of Free-malonry.

K 2

therefore

therefore prevailed on the king, through the interceffion of the parliament, whole favour his riches had obtained, to grant letters of pardon for all offences committed by him, contrary to the ftatute of provifors, and other acts of præmunire; and five years afterward, he procured another pardon, under the great feal, for all crimes whatever, from the creation of the world to the 26th of July 1437.

2

1

2

1

7

e

ż

x 7

7

1

2

. 3

×

ŝ

* . .

6

ŝ,

4

Notwithstanding these precautions of the cardinal, the duke of Gloucester drew up, in 1442, fresh articles of impeachment against him, and presented them in perfon to the king; earnessly intreating that judgment might be passed upon him, according to his crimes. The king referred the matter to his council, at that time composed principally of ecclessifics, who extended their favour to the cardinal, and made such a flow progress in the business, that the duke, wearied out with their tedious delays and fraudulent evasions, dropt the profecution, and the cardinal escaped.

Nothing could now remove the inveteracy of the cardinal againft the duke; he refolved to deftroy a man whofe popularity might become dangerous, and whofe refentment he had reafon to dread. The duke having always proved a ftrenuous friend to the public, and, by the

196

the authority of his birth and station, having hitherto prevented absolute power from being vested in the king's person, Winchester was enabled to gain many partisans, who were easily brought to concur in the ruin of the prince *.

с. С

.

Ľ

7,

2

j,

11

ľ

.

5

1

1

Ľ

ü

تە.

1

R.

2

2

K

ŀ

To accomplifh this purpofe, the bifhop and his party concerted a plan to murder the duke. A parliament being fummoned to meet at St. Edmondfbury in 1447, there they expected he would lie ontirely at their mercy. Accordingly he no fooner appeared, on the fecond day of the feffions, than he was accufed of treafon, and thrown into prifon; where he was found, the

• The bifnop planned the following fcheme at this time to irritate the duke of Gloucefter: His duchefs, the daughter of Reginald lord Cobham, had been accufed of the crime of witchsraft, and it was pretended that a waxen figure of the king was found in her pofieffion ; which fhe, and her affociates, Sir Roger Bolingbroke, a prieft, and one Margery Jordan of Eye, melted in a magical manner before a flow fire, with an intention of making Henry's force and vigour wafte away by like infenfible degrees. The accufation was well calculated to affect the weak and credulous mind of the king, and gain belief in an ignorant age. The duchefs was brought to trial, with her confederates, and the prifoners were pronounced guilty : the duchefs was condemned to do public penance in London for three days, and to fuffer perpetual imprifonment; the others were executed.

The protector, provoked at fuch repeated infults offered to his duchefs, made a noble and flout refiftance to these most abomin-ble and shameful proceedings, but it unfortunately ended in his own deftruction.

K 3

Digitized by Google

next next day, cruelly murdered. It was pretended that his death was natural; but though his body. which was exposed to public view, bore no marks of outward injury, there was little doubt of his having fallen a facrifice to the vengeance After this dreadful cataftrophe, of his enemies. five of his fervants were tried for aiding him in his treasons, and condemned to be hanged, drawn, and quartered. They were hanged accordingly, cut down alive, ftripped naked, and marked with a knife to be quartered; when the marquis of Suffolk, through a mean and pitiful affectation of popularity, produced their pardon, and fayed their lives; the most barbarous kind of mercy that can poffibly be imagined !

The duke of Gloucefter's death was univerfally lamented throughout the kingdom. He had long obtained, and deferved, the firname of GOOD. He was a lover of his country, the friend of good men, the protector of mafons, the patron of the learned, and the encourager of every ufeful art. His inveterate perfecutor, the hypocritical bifhop, ftung with remorfe, fcarcely furvived him two months; when, after a long life fpent in fallehood and politics, he funk into oblivion, and ended his days in mifery •.

After

•

1.1

1

þ

3

2

p.

4

* The wickednefs of the cardinal's life, and his mean, bafe, and unmanly death, will ever be a bar against any vindication of his

After the death of the cardinal, the mafons continued to hold their lodges without danger of interruption. Henry established various feats of erudition, which he enriched with ample endowments, and distinguished by peculiar immunities; thus inviting his subjects to rife above ignorance and barbarism, and reform their turbulent and licentious manners. In 1442, he was initiated into masonry, and, from that time, subject the ancient charges, revised the constitutions, and, with the con-

1

2

1

4

1

7 7 51

Ľ

ţ!

ţ

.,1

ŗ

. -

¢,

73

Ľ

2

his memory, for the good which he did while alive, or which the money he had amaffed could do after his death. When in his laft moments, he was heard to utter these mean expressions: 'Why 'fhould I die, who am possified of so much wealth ? If the whole 'kingdom could fave my life, I am able by my policy to preferve 'it, or by my money to purchase it. Will not death be bribed, 'and money do every thing ?' The inimitable Shakesser, after giving a most horrible picture of defpair, and a tortured conficience, in the perfon of the cardinal, introduces king Henry to him with these fharp and piercing words:

· Lord Cardinal, if thou think'ft on heaven's blifs,

· · · Lift up thy hand, make fignal of that hope.'

------ He dies, and makes no fign.

Hen. VI. Act 3.

• The memory of the wicked shall rot, but the unjustly perfecuted • shall be had in everlasting remembrance.

Digitized by Google

fent

fent of his council, honoured them with his fanction *.

Encouraged by the example of the fovereign, and allured by an ambition to excel, many lords and gentlemen of the court were received into mafonry, and purfued the Art with diligence and affiduity⁺. The king in perfon prefided over

* A record in the reign of Edward IV. runs thus: ' The com-' pany of maions, being otherwife termed free-maions, of auntient ' flaunding and good reckoninge, by means of affable and kind ' meetyngs dysenfe tymes, and as a lovinge brotherhode ufe to ' doe, did frequent this mutual affembly in the tyme of Henry VI. ' in the twelfth yeare of his most gracious reign, A. D. 1434.' The fame record fays farther, ' That the charges and laws of the ' free-maions have been feen and perufed by our late foveraign ' king Henry VI. and by the lords of his most honourable coun-' cil, who have allowed them, and declared, That they be right ' good and reafonable to be holden, as they have been drawn out ' and collected from the records of auntient tymes,' &c. &cc.

From this it appears, that before the troubles which happened in the reign of this unfortunate prince, free-malons were held in high effimation.

+ While these transactions were carrying on in England, the masons were countenanced and protected in Scotland by king James I. After his return from captivity, he became the patron of the learned, and a zealous encourager of masonry. The Scottish records relate, that he honoured the lodges with his royal prefence; that he settled a yearly revenue of four pounds Scots, (an English noble,), to be paid by every master-mason in Scotland; to a Grand Master, choice by the Grand Lodge, and approved by the crown, one nobly born, or an eminent clergyman, who had his

Digitized by Google

AND AN AN AN AN

ą

5

2

2 а 4

5

C,

over the lodges, and nominated William Wanefleet, bifhop of Winchefter, Grand Mafter; who built at his own expence Magdalene college, Oxford, and feveral pious houfes. Eton college, near Windfor, and King's college, Cambridge, were founded in this reign, and finifhed under the direction of Wanefleet. Henry alfo founded Chrift's college, Cambridge; and his queen, Margaret of Anjou, Queen's college, in the fame univerfity. In fhort, during the life of this prince, the arts flourifhed, and many fagacious states fuely the states of the stat

1

r

ŗ.

::

ŗ

نر. ج

5.

¢#

t

1

his deputies in cities and counties, and every new brother at entrance paid him also a fee. His office empowered him to regulate in the fraternity what fhould not come under the cognizance of law-courts. To him appealed both mason and lord, or the builder and founder, when at variance, in order to prevent law-pleas; and, in his absence, they appealed to his Deputy or Grand Warden, that refided next to the premises.

K 5

Digitized by Google

SECT.

SECT. IV.

History of Masonry in the South of England from 1471 to 1567.

MASONRY continued to flourish in England till the peace of the kingdom was interrupted by the civil wars between the two royal houles of York and Lancaster; during which it fell into an almost total neglect, that continued till 1471, when it again revived under the auspices of Richard Beauchamp, bishop of Sarum; who had been appointed Grand Master by Edward IV. and had been honoured with the title of chancellor of the garter, for repairing the castle and chapel of Windsor.

14. 02

D. C. P. D. D. X. D. P. D. N. W.

2

N.

3

During the fhort reigns of Edward V. and Richard III. mafonry was on the decline; but on the acceffion of Henry VII. A. D. 1485, it rofe again into efteem, under the patronage of the Mafter and fellows of the order of St. John at Rhodes, (now Malta₇) who affembled their grand lodge in 1500, and chofe Henry their protector. Under the royal aufpices, the fraternity once more revived their affemblies, and mafonry refumed its priftine fplendor.

On the 24th of June 1502, a lodge of mafters was formed in the palace, at which the king prefided in perfon as Grand Mafter; and having appointed ÷

1

ž

7

2

ţ,

ŝ,

d

Ş

ĩ

pointed John Islip, abbot of Westminster, and fir Reginald Bray, knight of the garter, his wardens for the occasion, proceeded in ample form to the eaft end of Westminster Abbey, where he laid the foundation ftone of that rich mafterpiece of Gothic architecture, known by the name of Henry the feventh's chapel. This chapel is fupported by fourteen Gothic buttreffes, all beautifully ornamented, and projecting from the building in different angles; it is enlightened by a double range of windows, which throw the light into fuch a happy disposition, as at once to please the eye, and afford a kind of folemn gloom. These buttreffes extend to the roof, and are made to ftrengthen it, by being crowned with Gothic arches. The entrance is from the east end of the abbey, by a flight of black marble steps, under a noble arch, leading to the body of the chapel. The gates are of brass. The stalls on each fide are of oak, as are also the feats, and the pavement is black and white The capeftone of this building was marble. celebrated in 1507.

Under the direction of fir Reginald Bray, the palace of Richmond was afterward built, and many other flately works. Brazen-nofe college Oxford, and Jefus and St. John's colleges, Cambridge, were all finished in this reign.

K 6

Henry

Digitized by Google

Henry VIII. fucceeded his father in 1000 and appointed cardinal Wolfey, Grand Mafter. This prelate built Hampton court, Whitehall, Chrift church college, Oxford, and feveral other noble edifices; all of which, upon his difgrace, were forfeited to the crown, A. D. 1530. Thomas Cromwell, earl of Effex, fucceeded the cardinal in the office of Grand Master; and employed the fraternity in building St. James's palace, Chrift's hofpital, and Greenwich caftle, In 1534, the king and parliament threw off allegiance to the pope of Rome, and the king being declared fupreme head of the church, no lefs than 926 pious houses were suppressed; many of which were afterwards converted into stately manfions for the nobility and gentry. Under the direction of John Touchet lord Audley, who, on Cromwell's being beheaded in 1540, had fucceeded to the office of Grand Mafter. the fraternity were employed in building Magdalene college, Cambridge, and feveral other ftructures.

1

ì

Edward VI. a minor, fucceeded to the throne in 1547, and his guardian and regent, Edward Seymour, duke of Somerfet, undertook the management of the mafons, and built Somerfethoufe in the Strand; which, on his being beheaded, was forfeited to the crown in 1552. John John Poynet, bishop of Winchester, then became the patron of the fraternity, and prefided over the lodges till the death of the king in 1553.

5

.

i.

1

5

1

Ż

C

ú

2

The masons then remained without any nominal patron till the reign of Elizabeth, when fir Thomas Sackville accepted the office of Grand Mafter. Lodges had been held, however, during this period, in different parts of England; but the General or Grand Lodge appears to have been affembled in the city of York, where, it is faid, the fraternity were numerous and respectable.

The following circumstance is recorded of Elizabeth : Hearing that the masons were in poffeffion of fecrets which they would not reveal, and being jealous of all fecret affemblies, she fent an armed force to York, with intent to break up their annual grand lodge*. This design, however, was happily frustrated by the interposition of fir Thomas Sackville; who took care to initiate fome of the chief officers which she had fent on this duty. They joined in communicacation with the masons, and made fo favourable a report to the queen on their return, that she countermanded her orders, and never afterwards attempted to disturb the meetings of the fraternity.

This confirms the observations in a former Note on the en. Idence of the Grand Lodge at York, p. 175 & feg.

Digitized by Google.

Sir

Sir Thomas Sackville held the office of Grand Mafter till 1567, when he refigned in favour of Francis Ruffel, earl of Bedford, and fir Thomas Grefham⁺, an eminent merchant, diftinguished by

+ Sir Thomas Gresham proposed to crect a building, at his own expence, in the city of London, for the fervice of commerce, if the citizens would purchase a proper spot for that purpose, His propofal being accepted, and fome houses between Cornhill and Threadneedle street, which had been purchased on that account, having been pulled down, on the 7th of June 1566, the foundation ftone of the intended building was laid. The work was carried on with fuch expedition, that the whole was finished in November 1567. The plan of this edifice was formed upon that of the Exchange at Antwerp, being, like it, an oblong fquare, with a portico, supported by pillars of marble, ten on the north and fouth fides, and feven on the east and weft ; under which stood the shops, each feven feet and a half long, and five feet broad ; in all 120; twenty-five on each fide east and west, thirty-four and a half north, and thirty-five and a half fouth, each of which paid fir Thomas 41. 105. a year on an average. There were likewife other fhops fitted up at first in the vaults below, but the dampnefs and darknefs rendered them fo inconvenient, that the vaults were foon let out to other ufes. Upon the roof flood, at each corner, upon a pedeftal, a grafs-hopper, which was the creft of for Thomas's Arms. This edifice, on its being first crected, was called fimply, the Bourfe; but on the 23d of January 1570, the queen, attended by a great number of her nobles, came from her palace of Somerfet house in the Strand, and paffing through Threadneedle-freet, dined with fir Thomas at his houfe in Bishopfgate-ftreet ; and after dinner her majesty returned through Cornhill, entered the Bourfe on the fouth fide, and having viewed every past of the building, particularly the gallery which extended sound the whole Aractuse, and which was furnified with thops filied

1 1 1

1

2

1. 2. 12 ...

•

Ļ

206 by his abilities, and great fuccefs in trade. To the former, the care of the brethren in the northern part of the kingdom was affigned, while the latter was appointed to fuperintend the meetings in the fouth, where the fociety had confiderably increased, in confequence of the honourable report which had been made to the queen. Notwithstanding this new appointment of a Grand Master for the fouth, the General Affembly continued to meet in the city of York as heretofore, where all the records were kept ; and to this affembly, appeals were made on every important occasion.

:

(6

ç,

2

2

¢,

1

1

¢

÷

SECT. V.

Progrefs of Majonry in the South of England from the Reign of Elizabeth to the Fire of London in 1666.

THE queen being affured that the fraternity were composed of skilful architects, and lovers of the Arts, and that state affairs were points in which they never interfered, was per-fitted with all forts of the finelt wares in the city, the cauled the edifice to be proclaimed, in her prefence, by a herald and trompet, The Royal Exchange; and on this occasion, it is faid, fir Themas appeared publicly in the character of Grand Mafter. The original building ftood till the fire of London in 1666, when it perithed amids the general havoe, and was reftored to its prefent magnificence.

Digitized by Google

fealy

fectly reconciled to their affemblies, and mafonry made a confiderable progrefs at this period. During her reign, lodges were held in different places of the kingdom, particularly in London, and its environs, where the brethren increafed confiderably. Several great works were carried on there, under the aufpices of fir Thomas Grefham, from whom the fraternity received every encouragement.

Charles Howard, earl of Effingham, fucceeded fir Thomas in the office of Grand Mafter, and continued to prefide over the lodges in the fouth till the year 1588, when George Haftings, earl of Huntingdon, was chosen, who remained in that office till the death of the queen in 1603.

ţ

1

2

ł

1 11 M

On the demife of Elizabeth, the crowns of England and Scotland were united in her fucceffor James VI. of Scotland, who was proclaimed king of England, Scotland, and Ireland, on the 25th of March 1603. At this period, mafonry flourished in both kingdoms, and lodges were convened under the royal patronage. Several gentlemen of fine taste returned from their travels, full of laudable emulation to revive the old Roman and Grecian masonry. These ingenious travellers brought home fragments of old columns, curious drawings, and books of architecture. Among the number number was the celebrated Inigo Jones, fon of Inigo Jones, a citizen of London, who was put apprentice to a joiner, and had a natural tafte for the art of defigning. He was first renowned for his skill in landscape painting, and was patronized by the learned William Herbert, afterward earl of Pembroke. He made the tour of Italy at his lordship's expence, where he improved under fome of the best difciples of the famous Andrea Palladio. On his return to England, he laid aside the pencil, and confined his study to architecture. He became the Vitruvius of Britain, and the rival of Palladio.

_{lized by}.Google

ς.

Г.

: ; ;

Ċ

1

7

ţ.

đ

ſ,

4

ŗ,

ł

This celebrated artift was appointed general furveyor to king James I. under whole aufpices the feience of mafonry flourished. He was nominated Grand Master of England*, and was deputized by his fovereign to prefide over the lodges. During his administration, feveral learned men were initiated into mafonry, and the fociety confiderably increased in reputation and confequence. Ingenious artifts daily reforted to England, where they met with great

* The Grand Mafter of the North bears the title of Grand Mafter of all England, which may probably have been occasioned by the title of Grand Mafter of England having been at this time conferred on Inigo Jones, and which title the Grand Mafters in the South bear to this day.

Digitized by Google

encourage-

210 encouragement. Lodges were confiituted as feminaries of inftruction in the fciences and polite arts, after the model of the Italian fchools; the communications of the fraternity were effablifhed, and the annual feftivals regularly obferved.

-

ŗ

1 1 N

ł

. 9

ė,

ŝ)

ł

č

Ŷ

2

1.5

2

ł

ì

Many curious and magnificent structures were finished under the direction of this accomplished architect; and, among the reft, he was employed, by command of the fovereign, to plan a new palace at Whitehall, worthy the refidence of the kings of England. This he accordingly executed; but for want of a parliamentary fund, no more of the plan than the prefent Banqueting-houfe was ever finished. In 1607, the foundation stone of this elegant piece of true majonry was laid by king James, in prefence of Grand Mafter Jones, and his wardens, William Herbert earl of Pembroke, and Nicholas Stone efq. master-mason of England, who were atended by many brothers, clothed in form, and other eminent perfons, invited on the occasion. The ceremony was conducted with the greatest pomp and splendor, and a purse of broad pieces of gold laid upon the stone, to enable the masons to regale. This building is faid to contain the finest single room of its extent since the days of Augustus, and was intended for the reception of ambaffa-

s.

ļ

ŗ,

-

È

e E

Ľ

÷

Ë

ز. زرآ

ý

1

ţ,

ز

1

, .

ambaffadors, and other audiences of state. The whole is a regular and flately building, of three stories; the lowest has a rustic wall, with small fquare windows, and by its ftrength happily ferves as a bafis for the orders. Upon this is raifed the Ionic, with columns and pilasters; and between the columns, are well-proportioned windows, with arched and pointed pediments: over these, is placed the proper entablature : on which is raifed a fecond feries of the Corinthian order, confifting of columns and pilasters, like the other, column being placed over column, and pilaster over pilaster. From the capitals are carried festoons, which meet with masks, and other ornaments, in the middle. This feries is also crowned with its proper entablature, on which is raifed the balustrade, with attic pedeftals between, which crown the work. The whole is finely proportioned, and happily executed. The projection of the columns from the wall, has a fine effect in the entablatures; which being brought forward in the fame proportion, yields that happy diversity of light and shade fo effential to true architecture. The internal decorations are also striking. The cieling of the grand room, in particular, which is now used as a chapel, is richly painted by the celebrated hr Peter Paul Rubens, who was ambaffador

Digitized by Google

in

in England in the time of Charles I. The fubject is, the entrance, inauguration, and coronation of king James, reprefented by pagan emblems; and it is juftly efteemed one of the most capital performances of this eminent master. It has been pronounced one of the finest cielings in the world.

Inigo Jones continued in the office of Grand Mafter till the year 1618, when he was fucceeded by the earl of Pembroke ; under whofe aufpices many eminent, wealthy, and learned men were initiated, and the mysteries of the Order held in high effimation.

On the death of king James in 1625, Charles alcended the throne. The earl of Pembroke prelided over the fraternity till 1630, when he religned in favour of Henry Danvers, earl of Danby; who was fucceeded in 1633 by Thomas Howard, earl of Arundel, the progenitor of the Norfolk family. In 1635, Francis Ruffel, earl of Bedford, accepted the government of the fociety; but Inigo Jones having, with indefatigable affiduity, continued to patronize the lodges during his lordfhip's administration, he was reelected the following year, and continued in ofsce till his death in 1646*.

The

1

2

.

ą

۲,

: ')

ः २

ų,

16

₹2 4 j

۲,

×,

è,

9

٩,

ų,

42 51

ŧ,

Ł

'¥d ≥e

相

è

 That lodges continued regularly to affemble at. this time, agreears from the Diary of the learned antiquary, Ellas Alhmole, where

The taste of this celebrated architect was difplayed in many curious and elegant structures, both in London and the country; particularly in designing the magnificent row of Great Queenstreet, where he fays : 'I was made a free-majon at Warrington, Lancashire, with Colonel Henry Mainwaring, of Kerthingham, in " Chefhire, by Mr. Richard Penket the Warden, and the fellowcrafts, (all of whom are specified,) on 16th October 1646.' In another place of his Diary he fays: " On March the 10th, 1682, s about 5 hor. post merid. I received a Tummons to appear at a · lodge, to be held the next day at Mafons' Hall in London. March 11, Accordingly I went, and about noon were admitted into the fellowship of free-masons, Sir Willi m Wilson knt. Capt. Richard Borthwick, Mr. William Woodman, Mr. Wit-'liam Gray, Mr. Samuel Taylour, and Mr. William Wife. "I was the fenior fellow among them, it being thirty-five years fince I was admitted. There were prefent, befide myfelf, the fellows after-named ; Mr. Thomas Wife, mafter of the majons' ' company this prefent year, Mr. Thomas Shorthofe, and 7 more We all dined at the Half-moon tavern; old free-malons. " Cheapfide, at a noble dinner prepared at the charge of the new " accepted mafons."

An old record of the Society defcribes a coat of arms much the fame with that of the London company of freemen malons ; whence it is generally believed that this company is a branch of that ancient fraternity; and in former times, no man, it alfo appears, was made free of that company, until he was initiated in forme lodge of free and accepted malons, as a neceffary qualification. This practice fill prevails in Scotland among the operative malons.

The writer of Mr. Ashmole's life, who was not a mason, before his History of Berkshire, p. 6. gives the following account of masonry:

" He

213

$14 ILLUSTRATIONS

ftreet, and the west fide of Lincoln's Inn Fields, with Lindsey-house in the centre; the late Chirurgeon's-hall and theatre, now Barber's-hall, in Monkwell-street; Shaftesbury-house, late the London lying-in hospital for married women, in

"He (Mr. Afhmole) was elected a brother of the company of free-mafons; a favour effecemed fo fingular by the members, that kings themfelves have not difdained to enter themfelves of this Society. From these are derived the adopted mafons, accepted mafons, or free-mafons; who are known to one another all over the workly by certain fignals and watch-words known to them alone. They have feveral lodges in different countries for their reception; and when any of them fall into decay, the brotherhood is to relieve them. The manner of their adoption or admiffion is very formal and folemn, and with the adminifration of an oath of fecrecy, which has had to better fate than all other oaths, and has ever been moft relitie youfly observed; nor has the world been yet able, by the inadto vertency, furprife, or folly of any of its members, to dive inte this myftery, or make the leaft difcovery."

Ē

Ċ

t

3

2

.

2

Ż

۲,

÷,

£

ŝ

i e

1 ŧ a

N

b)

11

4 à ŧ;

6

ě,

t j

1

tı.

In fome of Mr. Afhmole's manufcripts, there are many valuable collections relating to the hiftory of the free-mafons, as may be gathered from the letters of Dr. Knipe of Chrift-church, Oxford, to the publisher of Afhmole's Life; the following extracts from which will authenticate and illustrate many facts in this hiftory:

"As to the ancient Society of free malons, concerning whome you are defirous of knowing what may be known with certainty, I shall only tell you, that if our worthy brother E. Ashmole efq. had executed his intended defign, our fraternity had been as much obliged to him as the brethren of the most noble of the Garter. I would not have you surprised at this eremetion, or think it at all too assumings The Sovereigns of "that

ý.

k

14

Б,

R.

Ø,

8

r.

5

6.

đ

Hi.

bi,

ģ.

1

gi)

G.

j.

ķ.

ð

÷

1

1.

3

,

ý.

j.

d

i

in Alderfgate-ftreet; Bedford-houfe in Bloomfbury-fquare; Berkley-houfe, Piccadilly, lately burnt, and rebuilt, now in the poffeffion of the duke of Devonfhire; and York-ftairs, at Thames, &c. Befide thefe, he defigned Gunnerfbury-

"that Order have not difdained our fellowfhip, and there have "been times when Emperors were alfo free-mafons. What "from Mr. Afhmole's collection I could gather was, that the "report of our Society taking rife from a bull granted by the "pope in the reign of Henry VI. to fome Italian architects, to "travel over all Europe to erect chapels, was ill-founded. Such " a bull there was, and thofe architects were mafons. But this " bull, in the opinion of the learned Mr. Afhmole, was confirm-" aive only, and did not by any means create our fraternity, or " even eftablift them in this kingdom. But as to the time and" " manner of that eftabliftment, fomething I fhall relate from the " fame collections.

" St. Alban, the proto-martyr, eftablished malonry here, and "from his time it flourished, more or lefs, according as the " world went, down to the days of king Athelftane, who, for the "fake of his brother Edwin, granted the majons a charter. "Under our Norman princes they frequently received extraordi-" nary marks of royal favour. There is no doubt to be made, that " the skill of masons, which was always transcendently great, "even in the most barbarous times; their wonderful kindness " and attachment to each other, how different foever in condi-"tion; and their inviolable fidelity in keeping religiously their " fecrets ; muft have exposed them, in ignorant, troublefome, and " fuperstitious times, to a vast variety of adventures, according to " the different state of parties, and other alterations in govern-By the way, it may be noted, that the masons were " ment. " always loyal, which exposed them to great feverities when " power wore the appearance of justice, and those who committed " treafon nerfbury-house near Brentford; Wilton-house in Wiltshire; Castle-abbey in Northamptonshire; Stoke-park; part of the quadrangle at St. John's, Oxford; Charlton-house, and Cobham-hall, in Kent; Coles-hill in Berkshire; and the Grange, in Hampshire.

The breaking out of the civil wars obstructed the progress of masonry in England for some time. After the Restoration, however, it began to revive under the patronage of Charles II. who had been received into the Order during his exile*.

On the 27th December 1663, a general affembly was held, at which Henry Jermyn, earl of St. Alban's, was elected Grand Mafter; who appointed Sir John Denham knt. his deputy, and Mr. (afterwards Sir) Chriftopher Wren[†],

" treafon punished true men as traitors. Thus, in the 3d year of Henry VI. an act passed to abolish the fociety of masons and to hinder, under grievous penalties, the holding chapters, lodges, or other regular assemblies; yet this act was afterwards [virtually] repealed; and even before that, king Henry and feveral lords of his court, became fellows of the craft."

* Some lodges in the reign of Charles II. were conftituted by leave of the feveral noble Grand Mafters, and many gentlemen and famous fcholars requefted at that time to be admitted of the fraternity.

† He was the only fon of Dr. Christopher Wren, dean of k Windfor, and was born in 1632. His genius for arts and a

Google

fciences ¥1

12 14

.t

.

5

1

4

22

ч;

 \mathbf{v}_{i}

2

Q;

1

5

and

and John Webb his wardens. Several useful regulations* were made at this affembly, for the better fciences appeared early. At the age of thirteen, he invented a new aftronomical inftrument, by the name of Pan-organum, and wrote a treatife on the origin of rivers. He invented a new pneumatic engine, and a peculiar inftrument of use in gnomonics, to folve this problem, viz. . On a known plane, in a known elevation, to defcribe fuch lines with the expedite turning of rundes to certain divisions, as by the shadow of the style may " shew the equal hours of the day.' In 1646, at the age of 14, he was admitted a gentleman commoner in Wadham college, Oxon, where he greatly improved under the inftructions and friendship of Dr. John Wilkins and Dr. Seth Ward, who were gentlemen of great learning, and afterward promoted by king Charles II. to the mitre. His other numerous juyenile productions in mathematics, prove him to be a fcholar of the highest eminence. He affifted Dr. Scarborough in anatomical preparations, and experiments upon the muscles of the human body : whence are dated the first introduction of geometrical and mechanical fpeculations in anatomy. He wrote difcourses on the longitude; on the variations of the magnetical needle; de re nautica weterum; how to find the velocity of a fhip in failing; of the improvements of gallies; and how to recover wrecks. Befide thefe, he treated on the convenient way of using artillery on thip, board ; how to build on deep water ; how to build a mole into the fea, without Puzzolan dust, or cifterns ; and of the improvement of river navigation, by the joining of rivers. In fhort, the works of this excellent genius appear to be rather the united efforts of a whole century, than the production of one man.

* Among other regulations that were made at this affembly, were the following :

• 1. That no perfon, of what degree foever, be made or ac-• cepted a free-maion unleis in a regular lodge, whereof one to

L

Digitized by Google

217

A dec

better government of the lodges, and the greatest harmony prevailed among the whole fraternity.

Thomas Savage, earl of Rivers, having fucceeded the earl of St. Alban's in the office of

• be a Mafter or a Warden in that limit or division where such • lodge is kept, and another to be a craftsman in the trade of • free-masonry.

2. That no perfor hereafter shall be accepted a free-malon, but fuch as are of able body, honest parentage, good reputation, and an observer of the laws of the land.

⁴ 3. That no perfon hereafter who shall be accepted a free-⁶ mason, shall be admitted into any lodge or affembly, until he ⁶ has brought a certificate of the time and place of his acceptation ⁶ from the lodge that accepted him, unto the master of that limit ⁶ or division where such lodge is kept : And the faid Master shall ⁴ enrol the fame in a roll of parchment to be kept for that pur-⁶ pole, and shall give an account of all such acceptations at every ⁶ general affembly.

4. That every perfon who is now a free-mafon, fhall bring to the Mafter a note of the time of his acceptation, to the end the fame may be enrolled in fuch priority of place as the brother deferves; and that the whole company and fellows may the better know each other.

5. That for the future the faid fraternity of free-malons shall be regulated and governed by one Grand Master, and as many Wardens as the faid Society shall think fit to appoint at every annual general assembly.

• 6. That no perfon shall be accepted, unless he be twenty one • years old, or more.'

Many of the fraternity's records of this and the preceding reign were loft at the Revolution; and not a few were too haftily burnt in our own times by fome forupulous brothers, from a fear of making difcoveries prejudicial to the interefts of mafonry.

Digitized by Google

Grand

Grand Master in June 1666, fir Christopher Wren was appointed Deputy under his lordship, and diftinguished himself more than any of his predeceffors in office, in promoting the prosperity of the few lodges which occasionally met at this time*; particularly the old lodge of St. Paul's, now the lodge of Antiquity, which he patronized upwards of 18 years. The honours which this celebrated character afterwards received in the fociety, are evident proofs of the unfeigned attachment of the fraternity toward him.

SECT. VI.

The History of Masonry in England from the Fire of London +, to the Accession of George I.

THE year 1666 afforded a fingular and awful occasion for the utmost exertion of masonic abilities. The city of London, which had been visited in the preceding year by the plague,

* It appears from the records of the Lodge of Antiquity, that Mr. Wren at this time attended the meetings regularly, and that, during his prefidency, he prefented to the lodge, three mahogany candlefticks, at that time truly valuable, which are ftill preferved, and highly prized, as a memento of the efteem of the honorable donor.

+ For many of the particulars contained in this fection, I am indepted to Mr. Noorthouck's edition of the Book of Conflitutions, plague, to whofe ravages, it is computed, above 100,000 of its inhabitants fell a facrifice*, had fcarcely recovered from the alarm of that dreadful contagion, when a general conflagration reduced the greateft part of the city within the walls to afhes. This dreadful fire broke out on the 2d of September, at the houfe of a baker in Pudding-lane, a wooden building, pitched on the outfide, as were alfo all the reft of the houfes in that narrow lane. The houfe being filled with faggots and brufh-wood, foon added to the rapidity of the flames, which raged with fuch fury, as to fpread four ways at once.

L 2

Jonas Moore and Ralph Gatrix, who were appointed furveyors on this occasion to examine the ruins, reported, that the fire over-ran 373 acres within the walls, and burnt 13,000 houses, tions, published in 1784; which, much to the honour of that gentleman, is executed in a masterly manner, and interspected with several judicious remarks.

* The ftreets were at this time narrow, crooked, and incommodious; the houfes built chiefly of wood, clofe, dark, and il contrived; with feveral ftories projecting beyond each other as they rofe, over the contracted ftreets. Thus the free circulation of air was obfructed, the people breathed a flagmant and unwholefome element, replete with foul effluvia, fufficient of itfelf to generate putrid diforders. From this circumftance, the inhabitants were continually exposed to contagious diforders, and the buildings to the ravages of fire.

Digitized by Google

89 parish

t

đ

1

3

....

2

ς;

H = H

5

늰

1ċ

12

34

.

2

þ

J.

G;

ξį,

89 parifh churches, befides chapels, leaving only 11 parifhes ftanding. The Royal Exchange, Cuftom-houfe, Guildhall, Blackwell-hall, St. Paul's cathedral, Bridewell, the two compters, fifty-two city companies halls, and three city gates, were all demolifhed. The damage was computed at 10,000,0001. fterling*.

After fo fudden and extensive a calamity, it became neceffary to adopt fome regulations to guard against any fuch catastrophe in future. It was therefore determined, that in all the new buildings to be erected, ftone and brick fhould be fubstituted in the room of timber. The King and the Grand Master immediately ordered deputy Wren to draw up the plan of a new city, with broad and regular ftreets. Dr. Chriftopher Wren was appointed furveyor general and principal architect for rebuilding the city, the cathedral of St. Paul, and all the parochial churches enacted by parliament, in lieu of those that were destroyed, with other public structures. This gentleman, conceiving the charge too important for a fingle perfon, felected Mr. Robert Hook, professor of geometry in Gresham college, to affist him ; who was immediately employed in meafuring, adjusting, Anderfon's Hiftory of Commerce, vol. ii. p. 130.

L 3

Digitized by Google

and

and fetting out the ground of the private ftreets to the feveral proprietors. Dr. Wren's model and plan were laid before the king and the house of commons, and the practicability of the whole fcheme, without the infringement of property, clearly demonstrated; it unfortunately happened, however, that the greater part of the citizens were abfolutely averfe to alter their old poffeffions, and to recede from building their houses again on the old foundations. Many were unwilling to give up their properties into the hands of public truftees, till they should receive an equivalent of more advantage; while others expreffed distruft. Every means were tried to convince the citizens, that by removing all the church-yards, gardens, &c. to the out-fkirts of the city, fufficient room would be given to augment the ftreets, and properly to dispose of the churches, halls, and other public buildings, to the perfect fatisfaction of every proprietor; but the representation of all these improvements had no weight. The citizens chose to have their old city again, under all its difadvantages, rather than a new one, the principles of which they were unwilling to understand, and confidered as innovations. Thus an opportunity was loft, of making the new city the most magnificent, as well as the most commodious for health and trade,

7

÷

2

7

k

1

2

0 ż

Ľ,

N

ŗ,

2

3

ŗ

2

i,

trade, of any in Europe. The architect, cramped in the execution of his plan, was obliged to abridge his fcheme, and exert his utmost labour, fkill, and ingenuity to model the city in the manner in which it has fince appeared.

On the 23d of October 1667, the king in perfon levelled in form the foundation ftone of the new Royal Exchange, now allowed to be the fineft in Europe; and on the 28th September 1669, it was opened by the lord mayor and aldermen. Round the infide of the fquare, above the arcades, and between the windows, are the ftatues of the fovereigns of England. In the tentre of the fquare, is erected the king's ftatue to the life, in a Cæfarean habit, of white marble, executed in a mafterly manner by Mr. Gibbons, then grand warden of the fociety.

In 1668, the Custom-house for the port of London, fituated on the fouth fide of Thamesstreet, was built, adorned with an upper and lower order of architecture. In the latter, are stone columns, and entablement of the Tuscan order : and in the former, are pilasters, entablature, and five pediments of the Ionic order. The wings are elevated on columns, forming piazzas; and the length of the building is 189 feet; its breadth in the middle, 27; and at the west end, 60 feet.

Digitized by Google

This

224

This year alfo, deputy Wren and his warden Webb finished the Theatrum Sheldonium at Oxford, defigned and executed at the private expence of Gilbert Sheldon, archbishop of Canterbury, 'an excellent architect and able defigner. On the 9th of July 1669, the capestone of this elegant building was celebrated with joy and festivity by the craftsmen, and an elegant oration delivered on the occasion by Dr. South.

Deputy Wren, at the fame time alfo, built, at the expence of the University, that other master-piece of architecture, the pretty museum near this theatre.

In 1671, Mr. Wren began to build that great fluted column called the Monument, in memory of the burning and re-building of the city of London. This stupendous pillar was finished in 1677. It is 24 feet higher than Trajan's pillar at Rome, and built of Portland ftone, of the Doric order. Its altitude, from the ground, is 202 feet; the greatest diameter of the shaft or body of the column, 15 feet; the ground plinth, or bottom of the pedestal, 28 feet square; and the pedeftal 40 feet high. Over the capital, is an iron balcony, encompassing a cone 32 feet high, fupporting a blazing urn of gilt brafs. Within is a large flair-cafe of black marble, containing 345 fteps, each ftep ten inches and an

i

. . .

2

ł,

27

ţ,

23

÷,

È,

.

đ

IC.

ë,

1 21

h

্য 掖 ð,

ġ

an half broad, and fix inches thick. The weft fide of the pedeftal is adorned with curious emblems, by the mafterly hand of Mr. Cibber, father to the late poet-haureat Colley Cibber; in which eleven principal figures are done in altor and the reft in baffo relievo. That to which the eye is particularly directed, is a female, reprefenting the City of London, fitting in a languishing posture, on a heap of ruins. Behind her, is Time, gradually raifing her up; and at her fide, a woman, representing Providence, gently touching her with one hand, while, with a winged fceptre in the other, the directs her to regard two goddeffes in the clouds; one with a cornucopia, denoting plenty; the other, with a palm branch, the emblem of peace. At her feet is a bee-hive, to flew that, by industry and application, the greatest misfortunes may be overcome. Behind Time, are the Citizens, exulting at his endeavours to reftore her; and beneath, in the midft of the ruins, is a dragon, the fupporter of the city arms, who endeavours to preferve them with his paw. At the north end, is a view of the City in flames, the inhabitants in confternation, with their arms extended upward, crying for affiftance. Oppofite the City, on an elevated pavement, stands the King, in a Roman habit, with a laurel on his head, and a trun-LS cheon cheon in his hand; who, on approaching here commands three of his attendants to defcend to her relief. The first represents the Sciences, with a winged head, and circle of naked boys dancing thereon, and holding Nature in her hand, with her numerous breafts, ready to give affistance to all. The second is Architecture, with a plan in one hand, and a fquare and pair of compasses in the other. The third is Liberty, waving a hat in the air, and fhewing her joy at the pleafing profpect of the city's fpeedy reco-Behind the King, ftands his brother, the very. duke of York, with a garland in one hand, to crown the rifing city, and a fword in the other. for her defence. The two figures behind them, are Justice and Fortitude ; the former with a coronet, and the latter with a reined lion; while, under the pavement, in a vault, appears Envy gnawing a heart. In the upper part of the back ground, the re-construction of the city is reprefented by fcaffolds and unfinished houses, with builders at work on them. The north and fouth fides of the pedestal have each a Latin infcription, one defcribing the defolation of the city. the other its reftoration. The east fide of the pedestal has an infeription, expressing the time in which the pillar was begun, continued, and brought to perfection. In one line continued round round the bafe, are thefe words: "This pillar "was fet up in perpetual remembrance of the "moft dreadful burning of this Protestant city, "begun and carried on by the treachery and "malice of the Popish faction, in the beginning "of September, in the year of our Lord 1666, "in order to the carrying on their horrid plot "for extirpating the Protestant religion, and "old English liberty, and introducing popery "and flavery." This infeription, upon the duke of York's accession to the crown, was erased; but, foon after the Revolution, restored again.

226

.

1

The rebuilding of the city of London was vigoroufly profecuted, and the reftoration of St. Paul's cathedral claimed particular attention. Dr. Wren drew feveral defigns, to difcover what would be most acceptable to the general taste; and finding perfons of all degrees declare for magnificence and grandeur, he formed a defign according to the very best stile of Greek and Roman architecture, and caufed a large model of it to be made in wood; but the bifhops deciding that it was not fufficiently in the cathedral ftile, the furveyor was ordered to amend it. and he then produced the fcheme of the prefent structure, which was honoured with the king's approbation. The original model, however, which was only of the Corinthian order, like L 6 St.

St. Peter's at Rome, is still kept in an apartment of the cathedral, as a real curiosity.

In 1673, the foundation ftone* of this magnificent cathedral, defigned by deputy Wrén, was laid in folemn form by the King, attended by Grand Master Rivers, his architects and craftsmen, in the presence of the nobility and gentry, the lord mayor and aldermen, the bission and clergy, &c. During the whole time this structure was building, Mr. Wren acted as master of the work and furveyor, and was ably affisted by his wardens, Mr. Edward Strong and his fon.

St. Paul's cathedral is planned in the form of a long crofs; the walls are wrought in ruftic, and ftrengthened, as well as adorned, by two rows of coupled pilafters, one over the other; the lower Corinthian, and the upper Composite. The fpaces between the arches of the windows, and the architecture of the lower order, as well as those above, are filled with a variety of enrichments.

The west front is graced with a most magnificent portico, a noble pediment, and two stately

* The mallet with which the king levelled this foundation frome was lodged by fir Christopher Wren in the old lodge of St. Paul, now the lodge of Antiquity, where it is fill preferved as a great curiofity.

Digitized by Google

į.

turrets.

÷

;

turrets. There is a grand flight of steps of black marble that extend the whole length of the portico, which confifts of twelve lofty Corinthian columns below, and eight of the Composite order above; these are all coupled and fluted. The upper feries support a noble pediment, crowned with its acrotevia; and in this pediment is an elegant representation in bas relief, of the conversion of St. Paul, executed by Mr. Bird, an artist, whose name, on account of this piece alone, is worthy of being transmitted to posterity. The figures are well executed : the magnificent figure of St. Paul, on the apex of the pediment, with St. Peter on his right, and St. James on his left, produce a fine effect. The four Evangelists, with their proper emblems, on the front of the towers, are judiciously disposed, and skilfully finished; St. Matthew is distinguished by an angel; St. Mark, by a hon; St. Luke, by an ox; and St. John, by an eagle.

To the north portico, there is an afcent by twelve circular fteps of black marble, and its dome is fupported by fix grand Corinthian columns. Upon the dome is a well-proportioned urn, finely ornamented with feftoons; over the urn is a pediment, fupported by pilafters in the wall, in the face of which are carved the royal arms, with the regalia, fupported by angels. Statues

230

Statues of five of the apostles are placed on the top, at proper distances.

The fouth portico answers to the north, and, like that, is fupported by fix noble Corinthian columns; but as the ground is confiderably lower on this fide of the church than the other, the afcent is by a flight of twenty-five steps. This portico has also a pediment above, in which is a phœnix rifing out of the flames, with the motto, RESURGAM, underneath it; as an emblem of rebuilding the church. A remarkable accident is faid to have given rife to this device, which was particularly remarked by the architect as a favourable omen. When Dr. Wren was marking out the dimensions of the building, and had fixed on the centre of the great dome, a common labourer was ordered to bring him a flat ftone from among the rubbish, to leave as a direction to the masons. The stone which the man brought, happened to be a piece of a grave-stone, with nothing remaining of the infcription but this fingle word, in large capitals, RESURGAM; and this circumftance left an impression on Dr. Wren's mind, that could never afterwards be erafed. On this fide of the building, are likewife five flatues, which correspond with those on the apex of the north pediment.

Digitized by Google

.

T

:

1

1. 1. 1. 1.

ų

4 0

At

At the eaft end of the church is a fweep, or circular projection for the altar, finely ornamented with the orders, and with fculpture; particularly a noble piece in honour of king William III.

The dome, which rifes in the centre of the whole, is fuperlatively grand. Twenty feet above the roof of the church is a circular range of thirty-two columns, with niches placed exactly against others within. These are terminated by their entablature, which fupports a handfome gallery, adorned with a balustrade. Ahove these columns is a range of pilasters, with windows between; and from the entablature of thefe, the diameter decreafes very confiderably; and two feet above that, it is again contracted. From this part the external fweep of the dome begins, and the arches meet at 52 feet above. On the fummit of the dome, is an elegant balcony, and from its centre rifes the lantern. adorned with Corinthian columns. The whole is terminated by a ball, on which ftands a crofs, both of which are elegantly gilt.

This noble fabric is furrounded, at a proper diftance, by a dwarf ftone wall, on which is placed the most magnificent balustrade of cast iron perhaps in the universe, four feet fix inches in height, exclusive of the wall. In this inclofure fure are feven beautiful iron gates, which, together with the balufters, in number about 2500, weigh 200 tons and 85 pounds.

231

1

2

121 a

11 11

3

F1 12.

4

t

2

1

.

調査会の

¢

In the centre of the area of the grand weft front, on a pedeftal of excellent workmanship, stands a statue of queen Anne, formed of white marble, with proper decorations. The figures on the base represent Britannia, with her spear; Gallia, with the crown in her lap; Hibernia, with her harp; and America, with her bow. These, and the colossal statues with which the church are adorned, were executed by the ingenious Mr. Hill.

A ftrict regard to the fituation of this cathedral, due east and west, has given it an oblique appearance with respect to Ludgate-street in front; so that the great front gate in the furrounding iron rails, being made to regard the street in front, rather than the church to which it belongs, the statue of queen Anne, that is exactly in the middle of the west front; is thrown on one fide the straight approach from the gate to the church, and gives an idea of the whole edifice being awry.

Under the grand portico, at the weft end, are three doors, ornamented at the top with bas relief. The middle door, which is by far the largeft, is cafed with white marble, and over it is is a fine piece of baffo relievo, in which St. Paul is reprefented preaching to the Bereans. On entering the door, the mind is ftruck by the extent of the vifta. An arcade, fupported by lofty and maffy pillars on each hand, divide the church into the body and two aifles; and the view is terminated by the altar at the extremity of the choir; fubject, neverthelefs, to the intervention of the organ standing across, which forms a heavy obstruction. The pillars are adorned with columns and pilasters of the Corinthian and Composite orders; and the arches of the roof are enriched with fhields, feftoons, chaplets, and other ornaments. In the aisle, on one hand, is the confistory; and opposite, on the other, the morning prayer chapel. These have very beautiful screens of carved wainscot, which are much admired.

Over the centre, where the great aisles crofs, each other, is the grand cupola, or dome, the vast concave of which inspires a pleasing awe. Under its centre is fixed in the floor, a brass plate, round which the pavement is beautifully variegated; but the figures into which it is formed, can nowhere be fo well feen as from the whispering-gallery above. Here the spectrator has at once a full view of the organ, richly ornamented with carved work, and the entrance to

Digitized by Google

234 to the choir directly under it. The two aifles on the fides of the choir, as well as the choir itfelf, are inclosed with very fine iron rails and gates. t j

Z

Ľ

14 è,

.

;;

ŭ

10 10

ł

Ą

1

1.1

27 12

ž

ç

i,

The altar-piece is adorned with four noble fluted pilafters, painted and veined with gold, in imitation of lapis loculi, and their capitals are double gilt. In the intercolumniations below, are nine marble pannels, and above are fix windows, in the two feries. The floor of the whole church is paved with marble; and within the the rails of the altar, with porphyry, polifhed, and laid in feveral geometrical figures.

In the great cupola, which is 108 feet in diameter, the architect feems to have imitated the Pantheon at Rome, excepting that the upper order is there only umbratile, and diffinguilhed by different coloured marbles; while, in St. Paul's, it is extant out of the wall. The Pantheon is no higher within than its diameter; St. Peter's is two diameters; the former fnews its concave too low, the latter too high : St. Paul's is proportioned between both, and therefore fnews its concave every way, and is very lightfome by the windows of the upper order. These Arike down the light through the great colonnade that encircles the dome without, and ferves for the abutment, which is brick of the thickness of two two bricks; but as it rifes every way five feet high, it has a courfe of excellent brick of 18 inches long, banding through the whole thicknefs; and, to make it ftill more fecure, it is furrounded with a vaft chain of iron, ftrongly linked together at every ten feet. This chain is let into a channel, cut into the bandage of Portland ftone, and defended from the weather by filling the groove with lead. The concave is turned upon a center, which was judged neceffary to keep the work true; but the center is laid without any ftandards below for fupport. Every ftory of the fcaffolding being circular, and the ends of all the ledgers meeting as fo many tings, and truly wrought, it fupported itfelf.

As the old church of St. Paul had a lofty fpire, Dr. Wren was obliged to give his building an altitude that might fecure it from fuffering by the comparison. To do this, he made the dome without, much higher than within, by raising a ftrong brick cone over the internal cupola, so constructed as to support an elegant ftone lantern on the apex. This brick cone is supported by a cupola formed of timber, and covered with lead: between which and the cone are easy stairs, up to the lantern. Here the superitation is only ribbed,

Ľ

ž

.....

2

,

1

3

.,

w29

bed, which the architect thought lefs Gothic than to flick it full of fuch little lights as are in the cupola of St. Peter's, that could not without difficulty be mended, and, if neglected, might foon damage the timbers. As the architect was fenfible that paintings are liable to decay, he intended to have beautified the infide of the cupola with mofaic work; which, without the leaft fading of colours, would be as durable as the building itfelf : but in this he was over-ruled, though he had undertaken to procure four of the moft eminent artifts in that profession from Italy, for the purpose. This part, therefore, is now decorated by the pencil of Sir James Thornhill, who has reprefented the principal passages of St. Paul's life, in eight compartments. Thefe paintings are all feen to advantage by means of a circular opening, through which the light is transmitted with admirable effect from the lantern above; but they are now cracked, and fadly decayed.

The choir of this cathedral was fo far prepared for use, that divine service was performed in it for the first time on the thanksgiving day for the peace of Ryswick, Dec. 2, 1697*; and in 1710, the last stone on the top of the lantern was laid by Mr. Christopher Wren, the fon of the architect. This noble fabric, lofty enough to be difcerned at fea eaftward, and at Windfor to the weft, was begun and completed in the fpace of 35 years, by one architect, the great fir Christopher Wren; one principal mason, Mr. Strong; and under one bishop of London, Dr. Henry Compton: whereas St. Peter's at Rome was 155 years in building, under twelve fucceffive architects, affisted by the police and interest of the Roman fee, and attended by the beft artifts in fculpture, statuary, painting, and mofaic work.

* Howell's Medulla, Hift. Ang.

The various parts of this fuperb edifice I have been thus particular in defcribing, as it reflects honour on the ingenious architect who built it, and as there is not an inftance on record of any work of equal magnitude having ever been completed by one man.

While the cathedral of St. Paul's was carrying on, as a national undertaking, the citizens did not neglect their own immediate concerns, but reftored fuch of their halls and gates as had been deftroyed. In April 1675, was laid the foundation ftone of the prefent Bethlehem-hofpital for lunatics, in Moorfields. This is a magnificent building, 540 feet long, and 40 broad, befide the two wings, which were not added until until several years afterward. The middle and ends of the edifice project a little, and are adorned with pilasters, entablatures, foliages, &c. which, rifing above the reft of the building, have each a flat roof, with a handfome bahustrade of stone. In the centre is an elegant tur-' ret, adorned with a clock, gilt ball, and vane. The whole building is brick and ftone, inclofed by a handfome wall, 680 feet long, of the fame In the center of the wall, is a large materials. pair of iron gates; and on the piers on which thefe are hung, are two images, in a reclining posture, one reprefenting raving, the other melancholy, madne/s. The expression of these figures is admirable; and they are the workmanship of Mr. Cibber, the father of the laureat before mentioned.

The college of Phyficians alfo, about this time, difcovered fome tafte in erecting their college in Warwick-lane, which, though little known, is efteemed by good judges a delicate building.

The fraternity were now fully employed; and by them the following parish churches, which had been confumed by the great fire, were gradually rebuilt, or repaired :

Allhallows, Bread-ftreet, finished 1694; and the fteeple completed 1697.

Digitized by Google

All-

-

¢

12 . 44

Allhallows the Great, Thames-ftreet, 1683.

Allhallows, Lombard-street, 1694.

St. Alban, Wood-street, 1685.

- St. Anne and Agnes, St. Anne's-lane, Alderfgateftreet, 1680.
- St. Andrew's Wardrobe, Puddledock-hill, 1692.
- St. Andrew's, Holborn, 1687.
- St. Anthony's, Watling-street, 1682.
- St. Augustin's, Watling-street, 1683; and the steeple finshed 1695.
- St. Bartholomew's, Royal Exchange, 1679.
- St. Benedict, Grace-church-ftreet, 1685.
- St. Benedict's, Threadneedle-ftreet, 1673.

St. Bennet's, Paul's Wharf, Thames-ftr. 1683.

- St. Bride's, Fleet-ftreet, 1680; and farther adorned in 1699.
- Chrift-church, Newgate-street, 1687.
- St. Christopher's, Threadneedle-street, (fince taken down to make room for the Bank,) repaired'in 1696.
- St. Clement Danes, in the Strand, taken down 1680, and rebuilt by fir Chrift. Wren 1682.
- St. Clement's, East Cheap, St. Clement's-lane, 1686.
- St. Dennis Back, Lime-ftreet, 1674.
- St. Dunftan's in the East, Tower-street, repaired in 1698.
- St. Edmond's the King, Lombard-street, re-] built in 1674.

Digitized by Google

St.

St. George, Botolph-lane, 1674. St. James, Garlick-hill, 1683. St. James, Weftminster, 1675. St. Lawrence Jewry, Cateaton-street, 1677. St. Magnes, London-bridge, 1676; and the steeple in 1705.

St. Margaret, Lothbury, 1690.

St. Margaret Pattens, Little Tower-ftr. 1687.

i

.

'n

.

17

Ċ,

Ľ

Ċ

it 덴

Se - 21

111

3

÷(

14

1

i,

2

ł,

3

Ľ,

h

St. Martin's, Ludgate, 1684.

St. Mary Abchurch, Abchurch-lane, 1686.

St. Mary's-at-hill, St. Mary's-hill, 1672.

St. Mary's Aldermary, Bow-lane, 1672.

St. Mary Magdalen, Old Fish-street, 1685.

St. Mary Somerfet, Queenhithe, Thames-ftreet, 1683.

St. Mary le Bow, Cheapfide, 1683. This church was built on the wall of a very ancient one in the early time of the Roman colony; the roof is arched, and fupported with ten Corinthian columns; but the principal ornament is the fteeple, which is deemed an admirable piece of architecture, not to be paralelled by that of any other parochial church. It rifes from the ground a fquare tower, plain at bottom, and is carried up to a confiderable height in this fhape, but with more ornament as it advances. The principal decoration of the lower part is the door-cafe; a lofty, lofty, noble arch, faced with a bold and wellwrought ruftic, raifed on a plain folid course from the foundation. Within the arch, is a portal of the Doric order, with well-proportioned columns; the frieze is ornamented with triglyphs, and with fculpture in the metopes. There are fome other flight ornaments in this part, which is terminated by an elegant cornice, over which rifes a plain course, from which the dial projects. Above this, in each face, there is an arched window, with Ionic pilafters at the fides. The entablature of the order is well wrought; it has the fwelling frieze, and fupports on the cornice an elegant baluftrade, with Attic pillars over Ionic columns. Thefe fuftain elegant fcrolls, on which are placed urns with flames, and from this part the steeple rifes circular. There is a plain courfe to the height of half the fcrolls, and upon this is raifed an elegant circular feries of Corinthian columns. These support a second balustrade with scrolls; and above there is placed another feries of columns of the Composite order; while, from • the entablature, rifes a fet of fcrolls fupporting the fpire, which is placed on balls, and terminated by a globe, on which is fixed a vane.

Digitized by Google

St. Mary Woolnoth's, Lombard-fireet, repaired in 1677.

Μ

Digitized by Google

St.

St. Mary Aldermanbury, rebuilt 1677. St. Matthew, Friday-Street, 1685. St. Michael, Bafinghall-ftreet, 1679. St. Michael Royal, College-hill, 1694. St. Michael, Queenhithe, Trinity-lane, 1677. St. Michael, Wood-ftreet, 1675. St. Michael, Crooked-lane, 1688. St. Michael, Cornhill, 1672. St. Mildred, Bread-street, 1683. St. Mildred, Poultry, 1676. St. Nicholas, Cole-abbey, Old Fish-street, 1677. St. Olive's, Old Jewry, 1673. St. Peter's, Cornhill, 1681. St. Sepulchre's, Snow-hill, 1670. St. Stephen's, Coleman-street, 1676. St. Stephen's, Walbrook, behind the Manfionhouse, 1676. Many encomiums have been bestowed on this church for its interior beauties. The dome is finely proportioned to the church, and divided into fmall compartments, decorated with great elegance, and crowned with a lantern; the roof is alfo divided into compartments, and fupported by noble Corinthian columns raifed on their pedestals. This church has three aifles and a crofs aifle, is 75 feet long, 36 broad, 34 high, and 58 to the lantern. It is famous all over Europe, and justly reputed the master-piece of fir Chriftopher

x

i.

'n ù

ģ

ŝ

4

ľ

2 j

Ķ

3

ł;

Christopher Wren. There is not a beauty, of which the plan would admit, that is not to be found here in its greatest perfection. St. Swithin's, Cannon-Street, 1673. St. Vedast, Foster-lane, 1607.

While these churches, and other public buildings, were going forward under the direction of fir Christopher Wr 1, king Charles did not confine his improvements to England alone, but commanded fir Wi am Bruce, bart. Grand Mafter of Scotland, to rebuild the palace of Holyrood-houfe at Edinburgh; which was accordingly executed by that architect in the best Augustan style.

The private business of the Society was not neglected during the profecution of the great works above described, but lodges were held at different places, and many new ones constituted. to which the best architects reforted.

In 1674, the earl of Rivers refigned the office of Grand Mafter, and was fucceeded by George Villiers, duke of Buckingham, who left the care of the brethren to his wardens, and fir Chriftopher Wren, who still continued to act as deputy. In 1679, the duke refigned in favour of Henry Bennett', earl of Arlington; but this nobleman was too deeply engaged in ftate affairs, to attend to

M 2

Digitized by Google

to the duties of mafonry: the lodges, however, continued to meet under his fanction, and many refpectable gentlemen joined the fraternity.

On the death of the king in 1685, James II. fucceeded to the throne; during whole reign the fraternity were much neglected. The earl of Arlington dying this year, the lodges met in communication, and elected fir Christopher Wren Grand Master, who appointed Gabriel Cibber and Mr. Edward Strong* his wardens. Masonry continued in a declining state for many years, and a few lodges only occasionally met in different places.

At the Revolution, the Society was fo much reduced in the fouth of England, that no more than feven regular lodges met in London and its fuburbs, of which two only were worthy of notice; the old lodge of St. Paul's, over which fir Chriftopher had prefided during the building of that ftructure; and a lodge at St. Thomas'shofpital, Southwark, over which fir Robert Clayton, then lord mayor of London, prefided during the rebuilding of that hofpital \ddagger .

* Both these gentlemen were members of the old lodge of St. Paul with fir Christopher Wren, and bore a principal share in all the improvements which took place after the fire of London; the latter in particular displayed his abilities in the cathedral of St. Paul.

* See the Book of Conflictutions, 1738, p. 106, 107.

Digitized by Google

King

3

ï

7

7

4

3

13. 12

4

0 11

2

ľ,

ł

5

1

13 ...

King William, having been privately initiated into mafonry in 1695, approved the choice of fir Chriftopher Wren as Grand Mafter, and honoured the lodges with his royal fanction; particularly one at Hampton Court, at which it is faid his majefty frequently prefided during the building of the new part of that palace. Kenfington palace was built during this reign, under the direction of fir Chriftopher; as were alfo Chelfea hofpital, and the palace of Greenwich; the latter of which had been recently converted into an hofpital for feamen, and finished after the defign of Inigo Jones.

At a general affembly and feast of the masons in 1697, many noble and eminent brethren were present, and among the rest, Charles duke of Richmond and Lenox, who was at that time master of a lodge at Chichester. His grace was proposed and elected Grand Master for the following year, and having engaged fir Christopher Wren to act as his deputy, he appointed Edward Strong senior and Edward Strong junior his wardens. His grace continued in office only one year, when he was succeeded by fir Christopher, who continued at the head of the fraternity till the death of the king in 1702.

During the following reign, mafonry made no confiderable progrefs. Sir Chriftopher's age and M 3 infirmities infirmities drawing off his attention from the duties of his office, the lodges began to decreafe, and the annual feftivals were entirely neglected*. The old lodge at St. Paul, and a few others, continued to meet regularly, but confifted of few members[†]. To increafe their numbers, a propolition was made, and afterwards agreed to, that the privileges of mafonry fhould no longer be reftricted to operative mafons, but extend to men of various profeffions, provided they were regularly approved and initiated into the Order. In confequence of this refolution, many new regulations took place, and the Society once more rofe into notice and efteem.

SECT. VH.

History of the Revival of Masonry in the South of England.

ON the accellion of George I. the malons in London and its environs, finding themfelves deprived of fir Christopher Wren, and their annual meetings difcontinued, refolved to cement under a new Grand Master, and to revive the communications and annual festivals of the Society. With this view, the lodges at the Book of Conditutions, 1738, p. 108. + Ibid.

Digitized by Google

Goofe

:i

ì

Ŀ.

1.1.1.

1

T

:

.

5

2

1. 1. 10 la

...

14 0

J,

1

4

Goofe and Gridiron in St. Paul's Church-yard, the Crown in Parker's-lane near Drury-lane, the Apple-tree tavern in Charles-street Coventgarden, and the Rummer and Grapes tavern in Channel-row Westminster, the only four lodges in being in the fouth of England at that time, with fome other old brethren, met at the Appletree tavern above mentioned in February 1717; and having voted the oldest master-mason then present into the chair, constituted themselves a Grand Lodge pro tempore in due form. At this meeting it was refolved to revive the quarterly communications of the fraternity; and to hold the next annual affembly and feast on the 24th of June, at the Goofe and Gridiron in St. Paul's Church-yard, (in compliment to the oldeft lodge, which then met there,) for the purpose of electing a Grand Master among themselves, till they fhould have the honour of a noble brother at their head. Accordingly, on St. John the Baptist's day 1717, in the third year of the reign of king George I. the affembly and feast were held at the faid houfe; when the oldest master-mafon, and master of a lodge, having taken the chair, a lift of proper candidates for the office of Grand Mafter was produced : and the names being feparately proposed, the brethren, by a great majority of hands, elected Mr. Anthony M 4 Sayer

Digitized by Google

Sayer Grand Mafter of mafons for the enfuing year; who was forthwith invefted by the faid oldeft mafter, inftalled by the mafter of the oldeft lodge, and duly congratulated by the affembly, who paid him homage. The Grand Mafter then entered on the duties of his office, appointed his wardens, and commanded the brethren of the four lodges to meet him and his wardens quarterly in communication, enjoining them at the fame time to recommend to all the fraternity a punctual attendance on the next annual affembly and feaft.

Among the variety of regulations which were propofed and agreed to at this meeting, was the following: "That the privilege of affembling as mafons, which had hitherto been unlimited", fhould be vefted in certain lodges or affemblies of mafons convened in certain places; and that every lodge to be hereafter convened, except the four old lodges at this time exifting, fhould be legally authorifed to act by a warrant from the Grand Mafter for the time being, granted to cer-

* A fufficient number of malons met together within a certain diffrict, at this time, had ample power to make malons, and difcharge every duty of malonry, without a warrant of confitution. The privilege was inherent in themfelves as individuals; and this privilege is full enjoyed by the two old lodges now extant.

tain

~

3

-

.

1

3

1

2

11 - C

2

:

tain individuals by petition, with the confent and approbation of the Grand Lodge in communication; and that without fuch warrant no lodge should be hereafter deemed regular or conftitutional." In confequence of this regulation, fome new lodges were foon after convened in different parts of London and its environs, and the masters and wardens of these lodges were commanded to attend the meetings of the Grand Lodge, make a regular report of their proceedings, and transmit to the Grand Master, from time to time, a copy of any bye-laws they might form for their own government; that no hws established among them might be contrary to, or fubverfive of, the general regulations by which the fraternity had been long governed.

In compliment to the brethren of the four old lodges by whom the Grand Lodge was then formed, it was refolved, " That every privilege which they collectively enjoyed by virtue of their immemorial rights, they fhould ftill continue to enjoy; and that no law, rule, or regulation to be hereafter made or paffed in Grand Lodge, fhould deprive them of fuch privilege, or encroach on any landmark which was at that time eftablished as the ftandard of masonic government." When this resolution was confirmed, the old masons in the metropolis, agreeably M 5 to

to the refolutions of the brethren at large, vefted all their inherent privileges as individuals in the four old lodges, in truft that they would never fuffer the old charges and ancient landmarks to be infringed. The four old lodges then agreed to extend their patronage to every new lodge which fhould hereafter be conflituted according to the new regulations of the Society; and while they acted in conformity to the ancient conftitutions of the order, to admit their Mafters and Wardens to fhare with them all the privileges of the Grand Lodge, excepting precedence of rank.

+ 1

2

1

ŝ

1.

4

Ŗ

ł

.

...

1

. 'ş

ţ

Matters being thus amicably adjusted, all the brethren of the four old lodges confidered their attendance on the future communications of the Society as unneceffary, and therefore trusted implicitly to their Masters and Wardens. refting fatisfied that no measure of importance would ever be adopted without their approbation. The officers of the old lodges, however, foon began to difcover, that the new lodges, being equally reprefented with them at the communications, would, in process of time, so far outnumber the old ones, as to have it in their power, by a majority, to fubvert the privileges of the original majons of England, which had been centered in the four old lodges : they therefore,

Digitized by Google

Yore, with the concurrence of the brethren at large, very wilely formed a code of laws for the future government of the Society, and annexed thereto a conditional claufe, which the Grand Mafter for the time being, his fucceffors, and the Master of every lodge to be hereafter constituted, were bound to preferve inviolable in all time coming. To commemorate this circumstance, it has been cuftomary, ever fince that time, for the Master of the oldest lodge to attend every Grand Installation; and taking precedence of all prefent, the Grand Master only excepted, to deliver the book of the original conftitutions to the new installed Grand Master, on his promifing obedience to the ancient charges and general regulations. The conditional claufe above referred to, runs thus :

"Every annual Grand Lodge has an inherent power and authority to make new regulations, or to alter thefe, for the real henefit of this ancient fraternity; provided always THAT THE OLD LAND-MARKS BE CAREFULLY PRESERVED; and that fuch alterations and new regulations be proposed and agreed to at the third quarterly communication preceding the annual grand feast; and that they be offered also to the perusal of all the brethren before dinner, in writing, even of the youngest apprentice; the M 6

251

" approbation and confent of the majority of all the brethren prefent, being abfolutely neceffary to make the fame binding and obligatory."

This remarkable claufe, with thirty-eight regulations preceding it, all of which are printed in the firft edition of the Book of Conftitutions, were approved, and confirmed by one hundred and fifty brethren, at an annual affembly and feaft held at Stationers'-hall on St. John the Baptift's day 1721*, and in their prefence fubfcribed by the Mafter and Wardens of the four old lodges on one part : and by Philip duke of Wharton, then Grand Mafter ; Theophilus Defaguliers, M. D. and F. R. S. Deputy Grand Mafter ; Jofhua Timfon, and William Hawkins, Grand Wardens ; and the Mafters and Wardens of fixteen lodges which had been conftituted between 1717 and 1721, on the other part.

) 5

1

2

Y,

ú,

Ċ,

1

ų,

By the above prudent precaution of our ancient brethren, the original conflictutions were eftablished as the basis of all future masonic jurifdiction in the south of England; and the ancient land-marks, as they are emphatically ftyled, or the boundaries set up as checks to innovation, were carefully secured against the attacks of future invaders. The sour old lodges, in confequence of the above compact, in which they con-

* See the first edition of the Book of Constitutions, p. 58.

fidered themfelves as a diftinct party, continued to act by their original authority; and fo far from furrendering any of their rights, had them ratified and confirmed by the whole fraternity in Grand Lodge affembled. No regulations of the Society which might hereafter take place could therefore operate with refpect to those lodges, if fuch regulations were contrary to, or fubversive of, the original constitutions by which they were governed; and while their proceedings were conformable to those conflitutions, no power known in masonry could legally deprive them of any right which they had ever enjoyed.

The neceffity of fixing the original conftitutions as the ftandard by which all future laws in the Society were to be regulated, was fo obvious, and fo clearly underftood by the whole fraternity at this time, that it was eftablifhed as an unerring rule, at every inftallation, public and private, to make the Grand Mafter, and the Mafters and Wardens of every lodge, engage to fupport the conftitutions; to which every mafon alfo was bound by the ftrongeft ties at initiation. Every one who acknowledges the univerfality of mafonry to be its higheft glory, must admit the propriety of this conduct; for were no ftandard fixed for the government government of the Society, maforry might be exposed to variations, which might effect usly defiroy all the good effects that have hitherto refulted from its universality and extended progress *.

Digitized by Google

During

С

2 à;

t

ż

Ę

b

5

÷.

÷,

1

1

ų

27

ો

24

.

1

11 12

¥,

à

Ċ,

ر: ان

• When the earlier editions of this book were printed, the suthor was not fufficiently acquainted with this part of the hiftory of maionry in England. The above particulars have been carefully extracted from old records and authentic manuscripts, and are in many points confirmed by the old books of the lodge of Antiquity, as well as the first and second editions of the Book of Conflictutions.

The following account of the above four old lodges may prove acceptable to many readers :

2. The old lodge of St. Paul, now named the lodge of Antiquity, No. 1, formerly held at the Goofe and Gridiron in St. Paul's Church-yard, is fill extant, (in 1791.,) and regularly meets The Free-masons Tavern in Great Queen-fleer, Lincoln'sinn Fields, on the third Wednesday of every month. This lodge is in a very flourishing flate, and possession valuable records and other ancient relics.

2. The old lodge, No. 2, formerly held at the Crown in Parker's-lane in Drury-lane, has been extinct above fifty years, by the death of its members.

3. The old lodge, No. 3, formerly held at the Apple-tree Tavern in Charles-fireet, Covent-garden, has been diffolved many years. By the Lift of Lodges inferted in the Book of Conftitutions printed in 1738, it appears that, in February 1722-3, this lodge was removed to the Queen's Head in Knave's Acre, on account of fome difference among its members; and that the members who met there, came under a new confliction; though, fays the Book of Conftitutions, they wanted it not, and ranked as No. 10, in the Lift. Thus they inconfiderately renounced their former rank under an immemorial confitution.

The ٦.

During the administration of Mr. Sayer, the Society made no very rapid progress. Several brethren joined the old lodges; but only two new lodges were constituted.

Mr. Sayer was fucceeded in 1718 by George Payne efq. who was particularly affiduous in recommending a ftrict obfervance of the communications. He collected many valuable manufcripts on the fubject of mafonry, and earneftly defired that the brethren would bring to the Grand Lodge any old writings or records concerning the fraternity, to fhew the ufages of ancient times; and in confequence of this general

4. The lodge, No. 4, formerly held at the Rummer and Grapes Tavern in Channel-row, Westminster, was from thence removed to the Horn Tavern in New Palace Yard, where it continued to meet regularly till within these few years; when, finding themfelves in a declining flate, the members agreed to incorporate with a new and flourishing lodge, entitled the Samerfet-booffe Lodge, which immediately affumed their rank.

It is a queftion that will admit of fome difcuffion, whether any of the above old lodges can, while they exift as lodges, furrender up their rights; for those rights seem to have been granted by the old masons of the metropolis to them in truft; and any individual member of the four old lodges might object, if he please, to their furrender, and in that cafe they never could be given up. It is very remarkable, that the four old lodges have always preferved their exiginal power of making, passing, and raising masons, being termed Masters Lodges; whiles other lodges, for many years afterwards, had no fuch power, it having been the custom to pass and raise masons at the Grand Lodge only.

intimation,

intimation, feveral old copies of the Gothic conflitutions were produced, arranged, and digefted-

On the 24th of June 1719, another affembly and feaft was held at the Goofe and Gridiron before mentioned, when Dr. Defaguliers was unanimoufly elected Grand Mafter. At this feaft, the old, regular, and peculiar toafts or healths of the free-mafons were introduced; and from this time we may date the rife of freemafonry on its prefent plan in the South of England. The lodges, which had confiderably increafed by the vigilance of the Grand Mafter, were vifited by many old mafons who had long neglected the craft, feveral noblemen were initiated, and a number of new lodges conflituted.

At an affembly and feast held at the Goose and Gridiron on the 24th June 1720, George Payne efq. was re-elected Grand Master, and, under his mild but vigilant administration, the lodges continued to flourish.

This year, at fome of the private lodges, to the irreparable lofs of the fraternity, feveral valuable manufcripts, concerning their lodges, regulations, charges, fecrets, and ufages, (particularly one written by Mr. Nicholas Stone, the warden under Inigo Jones,) were too haftily burnt by fome fcrupulous brethren, who were alarmed at the publication of the mafonic conftitutions.

Digitized by Google

At

н Ц

3

.

17 Fr - 12

t j

t

:i(

¢

Ŋ

:(

건

1 łO

2.2

12 2

1 ŋ

ł

3

At a quarterly communication held this year at the Goofe and Gridiron on the feftival of St. John the Evangelift, it was agreed, That, in future, the new Grand Mafter shall be named and proposed to the Grand Lodge fome time before the feast *; and if approved, and present, he shall be faluted as Grand Master elect : and that every Grand Master, when he is installed, shall have the fole power of appointing his deputy and wardens, according to ancient custom.

At a Grand Lodge held in ample form on Lady-day 1721, brother Payne proposed for his fucceffor, John duke of Montague, at that time master of a lodge. His grace, being present, received the compliments of the lodge. The brethren expressed great joy at the prospect of being once more patronifed by the nobility; and unanimoufly agreed, that the next affembly and feast should be held at Stationers'-hall; and that a proper number of stewards should be appointed to provide the entertainment; but Mr. Jofiah Villeneau, an upholder in the Borough. generously undertook the whole management of the business, and received the thanks of the Society for his attention.

* By an old record of the lodge of Antiquity it appears, that the new Grand Mafter was always propoled and prefented for approbation in that lodge before his election in the Grand Lodge.

Digitized by Google

While

Ľ,

ź

2

X.

ų

3

3(

i,

ľ

12 . 10 . EU

ä

The set of the set of the set

.

R

While majonry was thus foreading its influence over the fouthern part of the kingdom, it was not neglected in the North. The General Affembly, or Grand Lodge, at York, continued regularly to meet as heretofore. In 1705, under the direction of fir George Tempest bart. then Grand Master, feveral lodges met, and many worthy brethren were initiated in York and its Sir George being fucceeded neighbourhood. by the right hon. Robert Benfon, lord mayor of York, a number of meetings of the frateraity was held at different times in that city, and the grand feast during his mastership is faid to have been very brilliant. Sir William Robinson bart. fucceeded Mr. Benfon in the office of Grand Master, and the fraternity feem to have confiderably increased in the North under his aufpices. He was fucceeded by fir Walter Hawkefworth bart. who governed the Society with great prodit. At the expiration of his mastership, fir George Tempest was elected a second time Grand Master; and from the time of his election in 1714 to 1725, the Grand Lodge continued regularly to affemble at York under the direction of Charles Fairfax elq. fir Walter Hawkefworth bart. Edward Bell efq. Charles Bathurst efg. Edward Thomson efg. M. P. John Johnfon M. D. and John Marsden efq. all of whom, whom, in rotation, during the above period, regularly filled the office of Grand Master in the North of England.

From this account, which is authenticated by the books of the Grand Lodge at York, it appears, that the revival of majonry in the South of England did not interfere with the proceedings of the fraternity in the North. For a feries of years the most perfect harmony fublisted between the two Grand Lodges, and private lodges flourished in both parts of the kingdom under their feparate jurifdiction. The only diffinction which the Grand Lodge in the North appears to have retained after the revival of masonry in the the South, is in the title which they claim, viz. The Grand Lodge of all England; while the Grand Lodge in the South paffes only under the denomination of The Grand Lodge of England. The latter, on account of its fituation, being encouraged by fome of the principal nobility, foon acquired confequence and reputation ; while the former, reftricted to fewer, though not lefs respectable, members, seemed gradually to decline. Till within thefe few years, however, the authority of the Grand Lodge at York was never challenged; on the contrary, every mafon in the kingdom held that affembly in the higheft veneration, and confidered himfelf bound by the charges

1

1

٢.

¢

5 t

ŀ.

٢

: :

j.

2

2

P.,

3

Ì

KI W 137

ş.

9 -29

1

Ċ

÷,

6

ž

5

charges which originally fprung from that affembly. To be ranked as descendants of the original York masons, was the glory and boast of the brethren in almost every country where masonry was established; and, from the prevalence and universality of the idea, that in the city of York majonry was first established by charter, the masons of England have received tribute from the first states in Europe. It is much to be regretted, that any feparate interefts should have destroyed the social intercourse of masons; but it is no lefs remarkable than true, that the brethren in the North and those in the South are now in a manner unknown to each other. Notwithstanding the pitch of eminence and fplendor at which the Grand Lodge in London has arrived, neither the lodges of Scotland nor Ireland court its correspondence. This unfortunate circumstance has been attributed to the introduction of fome modern innovations among the lodges in the South. As to the coolnefs which has sublissed between the Grand Lodge at York and the Grand Lodge in London, another reason is assigned. A few brethren at York having, on fome trivial occasion, feceded from their ancient lodge, they applied to London for a warrant of conftitution. Without an inquiry into the merits of the cafe, their application was honoured.

Digitized by Google

noured. Inftead of being recommended to the Mother Lodge to be reftored to favour, thefe brethren were encouraged to revolt; and permitted, under the banner of the Grand Lodge at London, to open a new lodge in the city of York itfelf. This illegal extension of power juftly offended the Grand Lodge at York, and occasioned a breach, which time, and a proper attention to the rules of the Order, only can repair.

ż

d

16) 1.2

11 6

z

ŀ

ł

1 ||

1

¢î

ţ.

ł

ŀ

ĮÛ

ì

l

SECT. VIII.

History of Masonry from its Revival in the South of England till the Death of King George I.

THE reputation of the Society being now eftablished, many noblemen and gentlemen of the first rank defired to be received into the lodges, which had increased confiderably during the administration of Mr. Payne. The business of masonry was found to be a pleasing relaxation from the fatigue of busines; and, uninfluenced by politics or party, a happy union was thus effected among the most respectable characters in the kingdom.

On the 24th of June 1721, Grand Master Payne and his wardens, with the former grand officers, and the masters and wardens of twelve lodges, lodges, met the Grand Mafter elect at the Queen's Arms Tavern in St. Paul's Churchvard*, where the Grand Lodge was opened in ample form. Having confirmed the proceedings of the last Grand Lodge, several gentlemen were initiated into malonry at the request of the duke of Montague; and, among the reft, Philip lord Stanhope, afterwards earl of Chefterfield. From the Queen's Arms the Grand Lodge marched in proceffion in their clothing to Stationers'-hall in Ludgate-ftreet, where they were joyfully received by one hundred and fifty brethren, properly clothed. The Grand Mafter having made the first procession round the hall, took an affectionate leave of his brethren; and, being returned to his place, proclaimed the duke of Montague his fucceffor for the enfuing year. The general regulations compiled by Mr. Payne in 1721+, and compared with the ancient records and immemorial usages of the fraternity, were read, and met with general approbation ; after which Dr. Defaguliers made an elegant oration on the fubject of mafonry.

262

Soon after his election, the Grand Master gave convincing proofs of his zeal and attention, by

* The old lodge of St. Paul's, now the lodge of Antiquity, having been removed hither.

+ See the Book of Conffitutions printed in 1723.

command-

ż

1

17 . 61

1

1

1

Ţ

1

1

4

3

.....

î.

Digitized by Google

commanding Dr. Defaguliers and James Anderfon, A. M. men of genius and education, to revife, arrange, and digeft the Gothic confitutions, old charges, and general regulations. This tafk they faithfully executed; and at the enfuing Grand Lodge held at the Queen's Arms St. Paul's Church-yard on the 27th of December 1721, being the feftival of St. John the Evangelift, they prefented the fame for approbation. A committee of fourteen learned brothers was then appointed to examine the manufcript; and to make their report; and on this occafion feveral very entertaining lectures were delivered, and much ufeful information given by fome old brethren.

At a Grand Lodge held at the Fountain Tavern in the Strand, in ample form, on the 25th of March 1722, the committee reported, that they had perused the manuscript, containing the history, charges, regulations, &c. of masonry, and, after some amendments, had approved thereof. The Grand Lodge ordered the whole to be prepared for the press, and printed with all possible expedition. This order was strictly obeyed, and in little more than two years the Book of Constitutions appeared in print, under the following title : "The Book of Constitutions " of the Free Masons : containing the History, " Charges, " Charges, Regulations, &c. of that Most An-" cient and Right Worschipful Fraternity. For " the Use of the Lodges." London, 1723.

þ

3

1

÷

2;

'n

43

1 N 1

20

In January 1722-3, the duke of Montague refigned in favour of the duke of Wharton, who was very ambitious to attain the office. His grace's relignation proceeded from the motive of reconciling the brethren to this nobleman, who had incurred their displeasure, by having convened, in opposition to the refolutions of the Grand Lodge, on the 25th of March, an irregular affembly of mafons at Stationers'hall, on the festival of St. John the Baptist, in order to get himfelf elected Grand Mafter. The duke of Wharton, fully fenfible of the impropriety of his conduct, publicly acknowledged his error; and promifing in future a ftrict conformity and obedience to the refolutions of the Society, was, with the general confent of the brethren, approved as Grand Mafter elect for the enfuing year. His grace was regularly invefted and inftalled on the 17th of January 1722-3 by the Grand Master, and congratulated by upwards of twenty-five lodges, who were prefent in the Grand Lodge on that day. The diligence and attention of the duke of Wharton to the duties of his office foon eftablished his reputation in the Society; and under under his patronage mafonry made a confiderable progrefs in the South of England. During his prefidency, the office of Grand Secretary was first established, and William Cowper efq. being appointed, that gentleman executed the duties of the department feveral years.

ľ

s)

E

RE

5

0E

ß

Ľ.

N

k

÷

I.

j,

The duke of Buccleugh fucceeded the duke of Wharton in 1723. This nobleman was no lefs attached to mafonry than his predecefior. Being abfent on the annual feftival, he was infalled by proxy at Merchant-taylors'-hall, in prefence of 400 mafons.

His grace was fucceeded in the following year by the duke of Richmond, under whofe admini-. ftration the Committee of Charity was inftituted *. Lord

* The duke of Buccleugh first proposed the scheme of raising a general fund for distressed masses. Lord Paisley, Dr. Defaguliers, Colonel Houghton, and a few other brethren, supported the cuke's proposition; and the Grand Lodge appointed a committee to confider of the most effectual means of carrying the scheme into execution. The report of the committee was transmitted to the lodges, and afterward approved by the Grand Lodge. The disposal of the charity was first vested in feven brethren; but this number heing found too finall, nine more were added. It was afterward resolved, that twelve masses of contributing lodges, in rotation, with the Grand Officers, should form the Committee; and by another regulation fince made, it has been determined, that all Pass and Present Grand Officers, with the Masses of all regular lodges which shall have contributed within twelve montheto the charity, shall be members of the Committee.

Digitized by GOOGL

The

Lord Paisley, afterwards earl of Abercorn, being active in promoting this new establishment, was elected Grand Master in the end of the year 1725. Being in the country at the time, his lordship was installed by proxy. During his abfence, Dr. Defaguliers, who had been appointed his deputy, was very attentive to the duties of his office; having visited the lodges, and diligently promoted masonry. On his lordship's return to town, the earl of Inchiquin was proposed to fucceed him, and was elected in February 1726.

The Committee meets four times in the year, by virtue of a fummons from the Grand Mafter or his Deputy. The petitions of the brethren who apply for charity, are confidered at thefe meetings; and if the petitioner be found a deferving object, he is immediately relieved with five pounds: if the circumftances of his cafe are of a peculiar nature, his petition is referred to the next Communication, where he is relieved with any fum the commaittee may have fpecified, not exceeding twenty guineas at one time. By thefe means the diffreifed have always found ready relief from this general charity, which is folley fupported by the voluntary contributions of different lodges out of their private fund, without being burdenforme on any member of the fociety.

Thus the Committee of Charity has been eftablished among the Free and accepted Masons in London; and though the sums annually expended to relieve distressed brethren have, for several years past, amounted to many thousand pounds, there still remains a confiderable sum in referve.

All complaints and informations are confidered at the Committee of Charity, from which a report is made to the next Grand Lodge, where it is generally approved.

Digitized by Google

The

2

2

7

3

ī.

2

1

÷,

ih

Ż

₹;

) Ç

đ

۰,

ų,

÷Ż

2

1

١.,

1

ľ

è

1 í

Ļ

1 è

í

-

1 ø

ġ i ĩ

ł

s, t

7

The Society now flourished in town and country, and under the patronage of this pobleman the Art was propagated with confiderable fuccefs. This period was rendered remarkables by the brethren of Wales first uniting under the banner of the Grand Lodge of London. In Wales are fome venerable remains of ancient mafonry, and many flately ruins of caftles, executed in the Gothic ftyle, which evidently demonstrate that the fraternity must have met with encouragement in that kingdom in former times. Soon after this happy union, the office of Provincial Grand Master* was instituted, and the first deputation granted by earl Inchiquin, on the 10th of May 1727, to Hugh Warburton efq. for North Wales; and on the 24th of June following, to fir Edward Manfell bart. for South

* A Provincial Grand Mafter is the immediate reprefentative of the Grand Mafter in the diffrict over which he is limited to prefide; and being invefted with the power and honour of a Deputy Grand Mafter is his province, may conflictute lodges therein, if the confent of the Mafters and Wardens of the lodges already conflicted within his diffrict have been obtained, and the Grand Lodge in London has not difapproved thereof. He wears the clothing of a Grand Officer, and ranks in all public affermblies immediately after Paft Deputy Grand Mafters. He muft in perfon, or by deputy, attend the quarterly meetings of the Mafters and Wardens of the lodges in his diffrict, and transmit to the Grand Lodge, once in every year, the proceedings of those meetings, with a regular state of the lodges under his jurifdiction.

N 2

Digitized by Google

Wales.

Wales. The lodges in the country now began to increase, and deputations were granted to several gentlemen, to hold the office of Provincial Grand Master in different parts of England, as well as in fome places abroad where lodges had been conftituted by English masons. During the earl of Inchiquin's mastership, a warrant was iffued for opening a new lodge at Gibraltar. - Among the variety of noble edifices which were finished during the prefidency of lord Inchiquin, was that excellent ftructure of the church of St. Martin's in the Fields; the foundation stone of which, it being a royal parish church, was laid, in the king's name, on the 20th of March 1721, by brother Gibb the architect, in prefence of the Lord Almoner. the furveyor general, and a large company of mafons.

In the beginning of June 1727, the death of the king was announced. He was fucceeded in the throne of these kingdoms by his fon George II. who, with his queen Caroline, was crowned at Westminster on the 11th of October following.

Digitized by Google

::3

ï,

:Ĩ

1

:(

T;

31

r.

x

. .

;;

1

Ľ

269

SECT. IX.

History of Masonry in England during the Reign of King George II.

THE first Grand Lodge after his majesty's accession to the throne, was held at the Devil Tavern, Temple-bar, on the 24th of June 1727; at which were prefent, the earl of Inchiquin, Grand Master, his officers, and the Masters and Wardens of forty lodges. At this meeting it was refolved to extend the privilege of voting in Grand Lodge to Past Grand Wardens; that privilege having been heretofore reftricted to Past Grand Masters, by a resolution of 21st November 1724; and to Past Deputies, by another refolution of 28th February 1726.

The Grand Mafter having been obliged to take a journey into Ireland before the expiration of his office, his lordship transmitted a letter to William Cowper efq. his Deputy, requesting him to convene a Grand Lodge for the purpole of nominating lord Colerane Grand Master for the enfuing year. A Grand Lodge was accordingly convened on the 19th of December 1727, when his lordship was regularly proposed Grand Master elect, and being unanimously approved, on the 27th of the fame month was N₃ duly

bigitized by Google

duly invefted with the enfigns of his high office at a grand feast at Mercers'-hall, in the prefence of a numerous company of the brethren. His lordship attended two communications during his mafterfhip, and feemed to pay confiderable attention to the duties of his office. He conftituted feveral new lodges, and granted a deputation to hold a lodge in St. Bernard's-ftreet, At the laft Grand Lodge under his Madrid. - lordship's auspices, Dr. Desaguliers moved, that the ancient office of Stewards might be revived, to affift the Grand Wardens in preparing the feaft; when it was agreed that their appointment thould be annual, and the number reftricted to twelve.

1

2

2

3

÷

ŗ

ł

Ŀ

1 ii)

1

ż,

à à

it :

ŧ,

1

÷

t

3

t

à

Ľ

i,

2 ò

:(

2

Lord Kingfton futceeded lord Colerane, and was invefted with the enfigns of his high office on the 27th of December 1728, at a grand feaft held at Morcers'-hall. His lordfhip's zeal and attachment for the fraternity were very confpieuous, not only by his regular attendance on the communications, but by his generous prefent to the Grand Lodge, of a curious pedeftal, a rich cufhion with gold knobs and fringes, a velvet bag, and a new jewel fet in gold for the ufe of the Secretary. During his lordfhip's administration, the Society flourished at home and abroad. Many lodges were constituted, and among the reft, reft, a deputation was granted to George Pomfret efq. authorifing him to open a new lodge at Bengal. This gentleman first introduced masonry into the English fettlements in India, where it has fince made fo rapid a progress, that, within these few years, upwards of fifty lodges have been constituted there, eleven of which are now held in Bengal. The annual remittances to the charity and public funds of the Society from this and the other factories of the East India Company, amount to a considerable fum.

Digitized by Google

At a Grand Lodge held at the Devil Tavera on the 27th of December 1729, Nathaniel Blackerby efq. the Deputy Grand Mafter, be+ ing in the chair, in the absence of lord Kingston, produced a letter from his lordship, authoriting him to propose the duke of Norfolk Grand Mafter for the enfuing year. This nomination meeting with general approbation, the usual compliments were paid to his grace, and he was faluted Grand Master elect. At an assembly and feast at Merchant-taylors'-hall on the 29th of January following, his grace was duly invefted and inftalled, according to ancient form, in the prefence of a numerous and brilliant company of masons. His grace's absence in Italy soon after his election, prevented him from attending any more than one communication during his mafter-N 4 thip; thip; but the bufinefs of the Society was diligently executed by Mr. Blackerby his Deputy, on whom the whole management devolved. His grace was peculiarly attached to the Society; among other fignal proofs of his effeem, he transmitted from Venice to England the following noble prefents for the use of the Grand Lodge: 1. Twenty pounds to the charity. 2. A large folio book, of the finest writing paper, for the records of the Grand Lodge, richly bound in Turkey and gilt, with a curious frontifpiece in vellum, containing the arms of Norfolk, amply displayed, and a Latin inscription of the family titles, with the arms of mafonry elegantly emblazoned. 3. A fword of ftate for the Grand Master, being the old trusty fword of Gustavus Adolphus king of Sweden, which was next wore by his brave fucceffor in war Bernard duke of Saxe-Weimar, with both their names on the blade, and further enriched with the arms of Norfolk in filver on the fcab-For these handfome prefents his grace bard. seceived the public thanks of the Society.

Digitized by Google

It is not furprifing that mafonry should flourifh under fo respectable a banner. His grace appointed a Provincial Grand Master over the lodges in the Circle of Lower Saxony, and established by deputation a Provincial Grand Lodge Lodge at New Jerfey in America. A provincial patent was also made out under his aufpices for Bengal. From this period we may date the commencement of the consequence and reputation of the Society in Europe, daily applications being made for establishing new lodges, and the most respectable characters of the age defiring their names to be enrolled in our records.

Digitized by Google

The duke of Norfolk was fucceeded by lord Lovel, afterwards earl of Leicester, who was inftalled at Mercers'-hall on the 20th of March 1731. His lordship being at the time much indifposed with an ague, was obliged to withdraw foon after his installation. Lord Colerane, however, acted as proxy during the feast. On the 14th of May, the first Grand Lodge after lord Lovel's election was held at the Rofe Tavern in Mary-le-bone, when it was voted, that in future all Past Grand Masters and their Deputies shall be admitted members of the quarterly Committees of Charity, and that every committee shall have power to vote five pounds for the relief of any diffrested mason; but no larger fum, without the confent of the Grand Lodge in Communication being first had and obtained. This refolution is still in force.

During the prefidency of lord Lovel, the nobility made a point of honouring the Grand N 5 Lodge

273:

Lodge with their prefence. The dukes of Norfolk and Richmond, the earl of Inchiquin, and lords Colerane and Montagu, with feveral other perfons of diffinction, feldom failed to give their attendance; and though the fubfcriptions from the lodges were inconfiderable, the Society was enabled to relieve many worthy objects with fmall fums. As an encouragement to gentlemen to accept the office of Steward, it was ordered that in future each Steward fhould have the privilege of nominating his fuccefior at every annual grand feaft.

The most remarkable event of lord Lovel's administration, was the initiation of Francis duke of Lorraine, grand duke of Tufcany, afterward emperor of Germany. By virtue of a deputation from his lordship, a lodge was held at the Hague, where his highness was received into the two first degrees of masonry. At this lodge Philip Stanhope earl of Chefterfield, then ambaffador there, prefided; ---- Strickland, efq. acted as Deputy, and Mr. Benjamin Hadley with a Dutch brother as Wardens. His highnefs coming to England the fame year, was advanced to the third degree at an occasional lodge convened for the purpole at Houghton-hall in Norfolk, the feat of fir Robert Walpole ; as was alfo Thomas Pelham, duke of Newcastle.

Digitized by Google

.2.

The

ı

1

Ę

ł

:

- 14

3

Ľ

2 ć

12-12

5

3

Ę,

The Society being now in a very flourishing fate, deputations were granted from England, for establishing lodges in Russia and Spain.

Lord Viscount Montagu was installed Grand Mafter at an affembly and feast at Merchant Taylors'-hall on the 10th of April 1732. Among the diftinguished perfonages present on that occafion were, the dukes of Montagu and Richmond ; the earl of Strathmore ; and lords Colerane, Teynham, and Carpenter; fir Francis Drake and fir William Keith barts, and above four hundred other brethren. At this meeting it was first proposed to have a country feast, and agreed that the brethren should dine together at Hampftead on the 24th of June, for which purpose cards of invitation were sent to feveral of the nobility. On the day appointed, the Grand Master and his Officers, the dukes of Norfolk and Richmond, the earl of Strathmore, lords Carpenter and Teynham, and above a hundred other brethren, met at the Spikes at Hampftead, where an elegant dinner was provicled. Soon after dinner, the Grand Mafter refigned the chair to lord Teynham, and from that time till the expiration of his office never attended another meeting of the Society. His lord fhip granted a deputation for conflictuting a lodge at Valenciennes in French Flanders, and another N.6

Digitized by Google

S

5

l

another for opening a new lodge at the Hotel de Buffy in Paris. Several other lodges were also conftituted under his lordship's aufpices; but the Society were particularly indebted to Thomas Batson esq. the Deputy Grand Master, who was very attentive to the duties of his office, and carefully superintended the government of the craft.

1

•

ţ

1

•

1

ų,

2

c

ł,

The earl of Strathmore fucceeded lord Montagu in the office of Grand Master, and being in Scotland at the time, was installed by proxy at an affembly at Mercers'-hall on the 7th of June 1733. On the 13th of December a Grand Lodge was held at the Devil tavern, at which his lordship and his officers, the earl of Crawford, fir Robert Mansel, a number of Past Grand Officers, and the Masters and Wardens of fiftythree lodges, were prefent. Several regulations were confirmed at this meeting respecting the Committee of Charity; and it was determined, that all complaints, in future to be brought before the Grand Lodge, fhould be previoufly examined by the Committee, and from thence referred to the next Communication.

The hiftory of the Society at this period affords no remarkable incident to record. Some confiderable donations were collected, and diftributed among diftreffed masons, to encourage the fettlement

Digitized by Google

ź

ŕ

I

z

ŗ,

y,

ţ.

Ľ

k

ð

t٠

ç, fettlement of a new colony which had been juft eftablifhed at Georgia in America. Lord Strathmore thewed every attention to the duties of his office, and regularly attended the meetings of the Grand Lodge: under his aufpices the Society flourifhed at home and abroad, and many genteel prefents were received from the Eaft Indies. Eleven German mafons applied for authority to open a new lodge at Hamburgh under the patronage of the Grand Lodge of England, for which purpofe his lordfhip was pleafed to grant a deputation; and foon after, feveral other lodges were conftituted in Holland under the Englifh banner.

The earl of Strathmore was fucceeded by the earl of Crawford, who was inftalled at Mercers'hall on the 30th of March 1734. Public affairs attracting his lordfhip's attention, the communications during his administration were neglected. After eleven months vacation, however, a Grand Lodge was convened, at which his lordfhip attended, and apologifed for his long absence. In order to atone for his past omiftion, he commanded two communications to be held in little more than fix weeks. The dukes of Richmond and Buccleugh, the earl of Balcarras, lord Weymouth, and other eminent perfons, honoured the Grand Lodge with their their prefence during the earl of Crawford's prefidency.

The most remarkable proceedings of the Society at this period related to a new edition of the Book of Constitutions, which brother James Anderson was ordered to prepare for the prefs; and which made its appearance in January 1738, considerably enlarged and improved.

3

.

4

t

e,

Ś

ų

ζ

ð

Among the new regulations which took place under the administration of lord Crawford, was the following: That if any lodge within the bills of mortality shall cease to meet twelve calendar months, the faid lodge shall be erafed out of the lift; and if re-instated, shall lofe its former rank. Some additional privileges were granted to the Stewards, in confequence of an application for that purpose; and to encourage gentlemen to ferve the office, it was agreed. that in future all Grand Officers, the Grand Mafter excepted, shall be elected out of that body. A few refolutions also passed, respecting illegal conventions of malons, at which it was reported many perfons had been initiated into malonry on fmall and unworthy confiderations.

The earl of Crawford feems to have made the first encroachment on the jurifdiction of the Grand Lodge in the city of York, by configureing

Digitized by Google

)

S

i,

l

i

ŗ.,

ŗ

¢

ĸ

ļ

Ľ

1

ţ

d

l

i

ing two lodges within their diffrict; and by granting, without their confent, three deputations, one for Lancafhire, a fecond for Durham, and a third for Northumberland. This circumftance the Grand Lodge at York highly refented, and ever after viewed the proceedings of the brethren in the metropolis with a jealous eye. All friendly intercourfe ceafed, and the York mafons from that moment confidered their interefts diffinct from that of the mafons under the Grand Lodge in London*.

Lord Weymouth fucceeded the earl of Crawford, and was initalled at Mercers'-hall on the 17th of April 1735, in prefence of the dukes of Richmond and Athol; the earls of Crawford, Winchelfea, Balcarras, Wemys, and Loudon; the marquis of Beaumont; lords Cathcart and

* In confirmation of the above fact, I thall here infert a paragraph copied from the Book of Conflictions published in 1738. After inferting a lift of Provincial Grand Mafters appointed for different places abroad, it is thus expressed : "All these foreign "lodges are under the patronage of our Grand Mafter of England ; "but the old lodge at York city, and the lodges of Scotland, "Ireland, France, and Italy, affecting independency, are under "their own Grand Mafters; though they have the fame condi-"tutions, charges, regulations, &cc. for fubfance, with their "bethern of England, and are equally zealous for the Augustan "file, and the fecrets of the ancient and honourable frater-"mity." Book of Conflictions 3738, p. 195.

Digitized by Google

Vere

280

Vere Bertie; fir Cecil Wray and fir Edward Manfel barts. and a fplendid company of other brethren. Several lodges were conflituted during lord Weymouth's prefidency; and, among the reft, the Stewards' Lodge. His lordfhip granted a deputation to hold a lodge at the feat of the duke of Richmond at Aubigny in France; and, under his patronage, masonry extended confiderably in foreign countries. He islued warrants to open a new lodge at Lifbon, and another at Savannah in Georgia; and, by his fpecial appointment, provincial patents were made out for South America, and Gambay in West Africa. Lord Weymouth never honoured any of the communications with his prefence during his prefidency; but this omiffion was lefs noticed, on account of the vigilance and attention of his Deputy, John Ward, efq. afterward lord vifcount Dudley and Ward, who applied with the utmost anxiety to every bufiness which concerned the interest and well-being of the Society.

One circumstance occurred while lord Weymouth was Grand Master, of which it may be necessary to take notice. The twelve Stewards, with fir Robert Lawley, Master of the Stewards' Lodge, at their head, appeared for the first time in their new badges at a Grand Lodge held at the Devil Tavern on the 11th of December 1735. On this occasion they were not permitted

to 22 ġ

i A

С. П. С.

Ŀ

Ű.

1

3

;(

1 u K

- 1

e. E β_{i}

2

52

2

У. Ş

11 11

÷

1

ļ

ί

2

ļ

1

•

.

1.0

4

3

,

to vote as individuals; but it being afterwards proposed that they should enjoy this privilege, and that the Stewards' Lodge should in future be represented in Grand Lodge by twelve members, many lodges objected to the measure as an encroachment on the privilege of every other lodge under the confitution. When the motion was put up for confirmation, such a disturbance ensued, that the Grand Lodge was obliged to be closed before the sentiments of the brethren could be collected on the subject. Of late years the punctilio has been waved, and the twelve Stewards are now permitted to vote in every Communication as individuals*.

* It was not till the year 1770 that this privilege was strictly warranted ; when, at a Grand Lodge, on the 7th of February, at the Crown and Anchor tavern in the Strand, the following refolution paffed : " As the right of the Members of the Stewards'  Lodge in general to attend the Committee of Charity appears " doubtful; no mention of fuch right being made in the laws of 44 the Society, the Grand Lodge are of opinion, That they have se no general right to attend; but it is hereby refolved, that the " Stewards' Lodge be allowed the privilege of fending a number ee of brethren, equal to any other four lodges, to every future  Committee of Charity; and that, as the Mafter of each private " lodge only has a right to attend, to make a proper diffinction is between the Stewards' lodge and the other lodges, that the " Mafter and three other members of that lodge be permitted to 44 attend at every fucceeding Committee on behalf of the faid " Lodge." This refolution, however, was not intended to deprive any lodge which had been previously constituted, of its regular rank and precedence.

Digitized by Google

The

The earl of Loudon fucceeded lord Weymouth, and was inftalled Grand Mafter at Fifhmongers'-hall on the 15th of April 1736. The duke of Richmond; the earls of Albemarke and Crawford; lords Harcourt, Erskine, and Southwell; Mr. Anstis garter king at arms, Mr. Brady lion king at arms, and a numerous company of other brethren, were prefent on the occasion. His lordship constituted feveral lodges, and granted three provincial deputations during his prefidency, viz. one for New England; another for South Carolina, and a third for Cape Coast Castle in Africa.

.

•

2

I

2 .1

12

4: 41

æ

N,

걸

¢,

١Ł

Q.

The earl of Darnley was elected Grand MaG ter, and duly inftalled at Fishmongers'-hall on the 28th of April 1737, in prefence of the duke of Richmond, the earls of Crawford and Wemys, lord Gray, and many other refpectable brethren. The most remarkable event of his lordship's administration, was the initiation of the late Frederick prince of Wales, his prefent majefty's father, at an occasional lodge conwoned for the purpose at the palace of Kew, over which Dr. Defaguliers prefided as Mafter. Lord Baltimore, col. Lumley, the hon. major Madden, and feveral other brethren were pre-His royal highness was advanced to the fent. fecond degree at the fame lodge; and at another lodge, c. í 1

Digitized by Google

lodge, convened at the fame place foon after, raifed to the degree of a mafter mafon.

ī.

ċ

ż

.

1

Ľ

Ý

1 á të të

ŀ

٢,

•

-

There cannot be a better proof of the flourifhing flate of the Society at this time, than by adverting to the refpectable appearance of the brethren in Grand Lodge, which the Grand Mafter never failed to attend. Upwards of fixty lodges were reprefented at every Communication during lord Darnley's administration, and more Provincial patents iffued by his lordfhip, than by any of his predeceffors. Deputations were granted for Montferratt, Geneva, the Circle of Upper Saxony, the Coast of Africa, New York, and the Islands of America*.

The marquis of Carnarvon, afterwards duke of Chandos, fucceeded lord Darnley in the office of Grand Mafter, and was duly invefted and congratulated at an affembly and feaft held at Fifhmongers'-hall on the 27th of April 1738. At this affembly, the duke of Richmond; the earls

* At this time the authority granted by patent to a Provincial Grand Mafter was limited to one year from his first public appearance in that character within his province; and if, at the expiration of that period, a new election by the lodges under his jurification did not take place, subject to the approbation of the Grand Master, the patent was no longer valid. Hence we find, within the course of a few years, different appointments to the fame station; but the office is now permanent, and the fole sppointment of the Grand Master.

Digitized by Google

of

:

1. I E E. . I . .

.

3

3 įĮ

t;

£.

i þ

Ĵ.

3(

÷

Ð

i:

. Ju

T.

Ŀ,

0

7

of Inchiquin, Loudon, and Kintore; lords Colerane and Grey; and a numerous company of other brethren, were present. The marquis shewed every attention to the Society during his prefidency, and, in testimony of his esteem, prefented to the Grand Lodge a gold jewel for the use of the Secretary; the device, two cross pens in a knot; the knot and points of the pens being curioufly enamelled. Two deputations for the office of Provincial Grand Mafter were granted by his lordfhip, one for the Caribbee Islands, and the other for the West Riding of Yorkshire. This latter appointment was confidered as another encroachment on the jurifdiction of the Grand Lodge at York, and to widened the original breach between the brethren in the North and the South of England, that all future correspondence between the two Grand Lodges totally ceafed.

On the 15th of August 1738, Frederick the Great, afterwards king of Prussia, was initiated into masonry, in a lodge at Brunswick, under the Scots constitution, being at that time Prince Royal. So highly did he approve of the institution, that, on his accession to the throne, he commanded a Grand Lodge to be formed at Berlin, and for that purpose obtained a patent from Edinburgh. Thus was masonry regularly established established in Prussia, and under that fanction it has flourished there ever fince. His majefty's attachment to the Society foon induced him to establish feveral new regulations for the advantage of the fraternity; and among others, he ordained, 1. That no perfon should be made a mason, unless his character was unimpeachable, and his manner of living and profession respect-2. That every member fhould pay 25 rixable. dollars (or 41. 3s.) for the first degree; 50 rixdollars (or 81. 6s.) on his being initiated into the fecond degree; and 100 rix-dollars on his being made a master-mason. 3. That he should remain at least three months in each degree; and that every fum received fhould be divided by the Grand. Treasurer into three parts : one to defray the expences of the lodge; another to be applied for the relief of distressed brethren; and the third to be allotted to the poor in general.

Digitized by Google

ŝ

.

0

-

No other remarkable occurrence is recorded to have happened during the administration of the marquis of Carnarvon, except a proposition for establishing a plan to appropriate a portion of the charity to place out the fons of masons apprentices, which, after a long debate in Grand Lodge, was rejected.

Some difagreeable altercations arole in the Society about this period. A number of diffatisfied

Digitized by Google

fied brethren feparated themfelves from the regular lodges, and held meetings in different places for the purpole of initiating perfons into mafonry, contrary to the laws of the Grand Lodge. These second brethren taking advantage of the breach which had been made in the friendly intercourfe between the Grand Lodges of London and York, on being cenfured for their conduct. immediately affumed, without authority, the character of York majons. The measures adopted to check them, flopped their progrefs for fome time; till, taking advantage of the general murmur which had fpread abroad on account of the innovations that had been introduced, and which feemed to authorife an omiffion of, and a variation in, the ancient ceremonies, they role again into notice. This imprudent measure of the regular lodges offended many old masons; but, through the mediation of John Ward efq. afterwards lord vifcount Dudley and Ward, matters were accommodated, and the brethren feemingly reconciled. This, however, proved only a temporary fuspension of hostilities, for the flame foon broke out anew, and gave rife to commotions, which afterward materially interrupted the peace of the Society.

1

i

ì

4

2

....

z

1.1.1

;

1

Lord Raymond fucceeded the marquis of Carnarvon in May 1739, and under his lordfhip's hip's aufpices the lodges were numerous and refpectable. Notwithstanding the flourishing fate of the Society, irregularities continued to prevail, and feveral worthy brethren, ftill adverfe to the encroachments which had been made on the eftablished system of the institution. were highly difgulted at the imprudent proceedings of the regular lodges. Complaints were preferred at every fucceeding committee, and the communications fully employed in adjusting differences and reconciling animolities. More fecefions taking place, it became necessary to pass votes of centure on the most refractory, and to enact laws to difcourage irregular affociations of the fraternity. This brought the power of the Grand Lodge in question; and in opposition to the laws which had been established in that affembly, lodges were formed without any legal warrant, and perfons initiated into maloary on fmall and unworthy confiderations. To difappoint the views of these deluded brethren, and to diffinguish the persons initiated by them, the Grand Lodge readily acquiefced in the imprudent measures which the regular masons had adopted, measures which even the urgency of the cafe could not warrant. Though this had the intended effect, it gave rife to a new fubterfuge. The brethren who had feceded from the r.

.

G

1

2

Ìĝ

4

5

ŝ

- A - A

1

£.

ļ ą,

4

Ŋ

4

the regular lodges immediately announced independency, and affumed the appellation of ancient: masons. They propagated an opinion, that the ancient tenets and practices of majonry were preferved by them; and that the regular lodges, being composed of modern masons, had adopted new plans, and were not to be confidered as acting under the old establishment. To counteract the regulations of the Grand Lodge, they instituted a new Grand Lodge in London, profeffedly on the ancient fystem, and under that affumed banner conftituted feveral new lodges. These irregular proceedings they pretended to justify under the feigned fanction of the Ancient York Conflitution, and many gentlemen of reputation were introduced among them, fo that their lodges daily increased. Without authority from the Grand Lodge at York, or from any other established power in masonry, they perfevered in the measures they had adopted, formed committees, held communications, and appointed Under the false appellation of annual feasts. the York banner, they gained the countenance of the Scotch and Irish masons, who, placing implicit confidence in the representations made to them, heartily joined in condemning the measures of the regular lodges in London, as tending, in their opinion, to introduce novelties. into into the Society, and to fubvert the original plan of the inflitution. The irregular mafons in London having thus acquired an eftablifhment, noblemen of both kingdoms honoured them with their patronage for fome time, and many refpectable names and lodges were added to their lift. Of late years, however, the fallacy has been detected, and they have not been fo fuccefsful ; many of their beft members have deferted them, and a number of lodges have renounced their banner, and come under the patronage of the Grand Lodge of England.

During the prefidency of lord Raymond, no confiderable addition was made to the lift of lodges, and the communications were feldom honoured with the company of the nobility. His lordfhip granted only one deputation for a provincial Grand Mafter during his prefidency, viz. for Savoy and Piedmont.

The earl of Kintore fucceeded lord Raymond in April 1740; and, in imitation of his predeceffor, continued to difcourage irregularities. H-s lordfhip appointed feveral provincials: particularly, one for Ruffia; one for Hamburgh and the Circle of Lower Saxony; one for the West Riding of York, in the room of William Horton efq. deceased; and one for the island of Barbadoes.

.l

1

0

Digitized by Google

-The

The earl of Morton was elected on the 10th of March following, and installed with great folemnity the fame day at Haberdashers'-hall, in presence of a respectable company of the nobility, foreign ambaffadors, and others. Several feasonable laws were passed during his lordship's mastership, and some regulations made concerning processions and other ceremonies. His lordthip prefented a staff of office to the Treasurer, of neat workmanship, blue and tipt with gold; and the Grand Lodge refolved, that this officer fhould be annually elected, and, with the Secretary and Sword-bearer, be permitted to rank in future as a member of the Grand Lodge. A large cornelian feal, with the arms of majonry, fet in gold, was prefented to the Society, at this time, by brother Vaughan, the Senior Grand Warden; and William Vaughan efq. was appointed by his lordfhip Provincial Grand Mafter for North Wales.

and the second and the 2

E . 2

Lord Ward fucceeded the earl of Morton in April 1742. His lordfhip was well acquainted with the nature and government of the Society, having ferved every office from the Secretary in a private lodge to that of Grand Mafter. His lordfhip loft no time in applying effectual remedies to reconcile the animofities which prevailed; he recommended to his officers, vigilance lance and care in their different departments; and, by his own conduct, fet a noble example how the dignity of the Society ought to be fupported. Many lodges, which were in a declining ftate, by his advice, coalefoed with others in better circumftances; fome, which had been negligent in their attendance on the communications, after proper admonitions were reftored to favour; and others, which perfevered in their contumacy, were erafed out of the lift. Thus his lordfhip manifefted his regard for the interefts of the Society, while his lenity and forbearance were univerfally admired.

290

The unanimity and harmony of the lodges feemed to be perfectly reftored under his lordfhip's administration. The free-masons at Antigua built a large hall in that island for their meetings, and applied to the Grand Lodge for liberty to be flyled the Great Lodge of St. John's in Antigua, which favour was granted to them in April 1744.

Lord Ward continued two years at the head of the fraternity, during which time he conftituted many lodges, and appointed feveral Provincial Grand Mafters; viz. one for Lancaster, one for North America, and three for the island of Jamaica. He was succeeded by the earl of Strathmore, during whose administration, being O 2 absent

ILLUSTRATIONS.

ľ,

3

ż

h

ġ

1

¢

ì

Ņ

:

-

ì

E. 14

ð

ŀ

7

i,

3

÷

N.

:

ŝ

N. 14

abfent the whole time, the care and management of the Society devolved on the other Grand Officers, who carefully fludied the general good of the fraternity. His lordship appointed a Provincial Grand Master for the island of Bermuda.

Lord Cranftonn was elected Grand Mafter in April 1745, and prefided over the fraternity with great reputation two years. Under his aufpices mafonry flourifhed, feveral new lodges were conftituted, and one Provincial Grand Mafter was appointed for Cape Breton and Louifbourg. By a refolution of the Grand Lodge at this time it was ordered, that public proceffions on feaft-days fhould be difcontinued; occafioned by fome mock proceffions, which a few difgufted brethren had formed, in order to burlefque thofe public appearances.

Lord Byron fucceeded lord Cranftoun, and was inftalled at Drapers'-hall on the 30th of April 1747. 'The laws of the committee of charity were, by his lordfhip's order, revifed, printed, and diftributed among the lodges, and a handfome contribution to the general charity was received from the lodge at Gibraltar. During five years that his lordfhip prefided over the fraternity, no diligence was fpared to preferve the privileges of mafonry inviolable, to redrefs grievances,

Ľ

ii.

i.

d

1

ances, and to relieve diffrefs. When bulinefs required his lordfhip's attendance in the country, Fotherley Baker efq. his Deputy, and Secretary Revis, were particularly attentive to the bufinefs of the Society. The former was diffinguidhed by his knowledge of the laws and regulations; the latter, by his long and faithful fervices. Under the aufpices of lord Byron, provincial patents were iffued for Denmark and Norway, Pennfylvania, Minorca, and New York.

On the 20th of March 1752, lord Carysfort accepted the office of Grand Mafter. The good effects of his lordthip's application to the real interests of the fraternity foon became visible, by the great increase of the public fund. 'No Grand Officer ever took more pains to preferve, or was more attentive to recommend, order and decorum. He was ready, on all occasions, to visit the lodges in person, and to promote harmony among the members. Dr. Manningham, his Deputy, was no lefs vigilant in the execution of his duty. He conftantly vifited the lodges in his lordfhip's absence, and used every endeavour to cement union among the brethren. The whole proceedings of this active officer were conducted with prudence, and his candor and affability gained him universal esteem. The 03 Grand

Digitized by Google

294

Grand Mafter's attachment to the Society was fo obvious, that the brethren, in teftimony of their gratitude for his lordfhip's great fervices, re-elected him on the 3d of April 1753; and during his prefidency, provincial patents were iffued for Gibraltar, the Bahama Iflands, New York, Guernfey, Jerfey, Alderney, Sark, and Mann; alfo for Cornwall, and the counties of Worcefter, Gloucefter, Salop, Monmouth, and Hereford.

The marquis of Carnarvon (afterward duke of Chandos) fucceeded lord Carysfort in March 1754. He began his administration by ordering the Book of Constitutions to be reprinted, under the infpection of a committee, confisting of the Grand Officers, and fome other respectable brethren. The Grand Master's zeal and attention to the true interests of the Society were shewn on every occasion. He presented to the Grand Lodge, a large filver jewel, gilt, for the use of the Treasurer, being cross keys in a knot, enamelled with blue; and gave several other proofs of his attachment. ŗ

Soon after the election of the marquis of Carnarvon, the Grand Lodge took into confideration a complaint against certain brethren, for affembling, without any legal authority, under the denomination of ancient majons; who, as fuch, fuch, confidered themfelves independent of the Society, and not fubject to the laws of the Grand Lodge, or to the control of the Grand Master. Dr. Manningham, the Deputy Grand Mafter, pointed out the neceffity of discouraging their meetings, as being contrary to the laws of the Society, and openly fubverfive of the allegiance due to the Grand Master. On this reprefentation the Grand Lodge refolved, that the meeting of any brethren under the denomination of masons, other than as brethren of the ancient and honourable Society of Free and Accepted Malons established upon the universal fystem, is inconfistent with the honour and intereft of the craft, and a high infult on the Grand Master and the whole body of masons. In confequence of this refolution, fourteen brethren, who were members of a lodge held at the Ben Jonfon's head in Pelham-street, Spitalfields, were expelled the Society, and that lodge was ordered to be erased out of the lift.

No preceding Grand Master granted fo many provincial deputations as the marquis of Carnarvon; in lefs than two years the following patents were iffued; 1. for South Carolina; 2. for South Wales; 3. for Antigua; 4. for all North America where no former provincial was appointed; 5. for Barbadoes, and all other his O 4 majefty's

ILLUSTBATIONS

-

έ,

1

1

I

ć

31

2

£.

٢

£

2

1

2

.

ì

.

.

Ţ,

.

majesty's islands to the windward of Guadaloupe; 6. for St. Eustatius, Cuba, and St. Martin's, Dutch Caribbee islands in America; 7. for Scilly, and the adjacent islands; 8. for all his majesty's dominions in Germany, with a power to chuse their successors; and 9. for the County Palatine of Chester, and the City and County of Chester. The greater part of these appointsments appear to have been mere honorary grants in favour of individuals, few of them having been attended with advantage to the Society.

The marquis of Carnarvon continued to prefide over the fraternity till the 18th of May 1757. when he was fucceeded by lord Aberdour; during whole mastership the Grand Lodge voted, among other charities, the fum of fifty pounds to be fent to Germany, to be diffributed among fuch of the foldiers as were majons in prince Ferdinand's army, whether English, Hanoverians, or Heffians. This fum was foon after remitted to general Kingfley for the intended purpofe. Such was the state of masonry during the reign of George II. On the 5th of October 1760, his majesty, being suddenly seized at his palace at Kenfington, by a violent diforder, fell down speechles; and notwithstanding every endeavour to effect his recovery, foon expired, in the 77th year of his age, and the 34th of his reign.

Digitized by Google

reign. It may be truly faid, that this period was the golden æra of mafonry in England; the fciences were culfwated and improved, the royal art was diligently propagated, and true architecture clearly underftood; the fraternity were honoured and efteemed; the lodges patronifed by exalted characters; and charity, humanity, and benevolence, were the diffinguishing characteriftics of mafons.

SECT. X.

History of Masonry in the South of England from the Accession of George III. to the end of the year 1779.

N the 6th of October 1760, his prefent majefty George III. was proclaimed. No prince ever afcended the throne, whole private virtues and amiable character had so justly endeared him to his people. To fee a native of England the fovereign of these realms, afforded the most glorious prospect of fixing our happy constitution in church and flate on the firmest base. Under fuch a patron the polite arts could not fail of meeting with every encouragement; and to the honour of his majesty it is to be observed, that, fince his acceffion to the throne, by his royal munificence no pains have been spared to explore diftant regions in purfuit of useful knowledge, and to diffuse science throughout every part of his dominions.

Digitized by Google

Mafonry

Ľ

.

ŝ

ų

.

ż

3

1

ľ

ì

ŝ

by

Mafonry now flourished at home and abroad under the English Constitution, and lord Aberdour continued at the head of the fraternity five years, during which time the public festivals and quarterly communications were regularly held. His lordship equalled any of his predeceffors in the number of appointments to the office of Provincial Grand Master, having granted the following deputations: 1. for Antigua and the Leeward Caribbee Islands; 2. for the town of Norwich and county of Norfolk; 2. for the Bahama Islands, in the room of the governor deceased; 4. for Hamburgh and Lower Saxony; 5. for Guadaloupe; 6. for Lancafter; 7. for the province of Georgia; 8. for Canada; o. for Andalufia, and places adjacent; 10. for Bermuda; 11. for Carolina; 12. for Mulquito Shore; and 13. for East India. The fecond of these appointments, viz. for Norwich, is that by which the Society has been most benefited. By the diligence and attention of the late Edward Bacon efq. to whom the patent was first granted, the lodges in Norwich and Norfolk confiderably increased, and masonry was regularly conducted in that province under his infpection for many years.

Lord Aberdour held the office of Grand Mafter . till the 3d of May 1762, when he was fucceeded

Digitized by Google

298

270 ³¹...

by earl Ferrers, during whole prefidency nothing remarkable occurred. The Society feems at this time to have loft much of its confequence; the general affemblies and communications not having been honoured with the prefence of the nobility as formerly, and many lodges erafed out of the lift for non-attendance on the duties of the Grand Lodge *. By the diligence and attention, however, of the late general John Salter, then Deputy Grand Master, the business of the Society was carried on with regularity, and the fund of charity confiderably increased. Provincial patents were made out during earl Ferrers's prefidency; 1. for Jamaica; 2. for East India, where no particular provincial was before appointed; 3. for Cornwall; 4. for Armenia; 5. for Westphalia; 6. for Bombay; 7. for the Dukedom of Brunswick; 8. for the Grenades, St. Vincent, Dominica, Tobago, &e.; and 9. for Canada. From these appointments no confiderable emoluments have refulted to the Society, excepting from the third and fixth; George Bell for Cornwall; and James Todd for Bombay. Both these gentlemen were particularly attentive to the duties of their respective offices, especially * Since this period new Confitutions have been too eafily granted, and lodges multiplied beyond proportion, to fuit the views of intersefted performs

06

Digitized by Google

the

the former, to whom the Society is in a great measure indebted for the flourishing state of mafonry in Cosnwall.

ţ

.....

ľ

1

.

1

0

į,

<

é)

ŝ

· · · · · · · ·

Ł

ų,

Ż

5

1 .4

On the 8th of May 1764, lord Blaney was elected Grand Master, at an assembly and feast. at Vintners'-hall. His lordship not being-prefent, lord Ferrers invested John Revis elg. late Deputy Grand Master, as his lordship's proxy. His lordship continued in office two years, during which time, being chiefly in Ireland, the bufinels of the Society was faithfully executed by his deputy, general Salter, an active and vigilant officer. The scheme of opening a subscription for the purchase of furniture for the Grand Lodge was agitated about this time, and fome money collected for the purpose; but the defign dropt for want of encouragement. A new edition of the Book of Constitutions was ordered to be printed under the infpection of a committee, with a continuation of the proceedings of the Society fince the publication of the laft edition.

The moft remarkable event of lord Blaney's prefidency, was the initiation of their royal highneffes the dukes of Gloucester and Cumberland; the former, at an occasional lodge assembled at the Horn tavern Westminster, on the 16th of February 1766, at which his lordship prefided in perfon; perfon; the latter, at an occasional lodge affembled at the Thatched House tavern in St. James'sfreet, under the direction of general Salter.

The following deputations for the office of Provincial Grand Master were granted by lord Blaney : 1. for Barbadoes; 2. for Upper Saxony; 2. for Stockholm ; 4. for Virginia ; 5. for Bengal; 6. for Italy; 7. for the Upper and Lower Rhine, and the Circle of Franconia; 8, for Antigua; o. for the Electorate of Saxony; 10. for Madras, and its dependencies; 11. for Hampfhire; and 12. for Montferrat. The fifth, tenth, and eleventh of these appointments have been faithfully executed. By the indefatigable affiduity of that truly masonic luminary, Thomas Dunckerley efg. in whole favour the appointment for Hampshire was first made out, mafonry has made confiderable progrefs, not only within that province, but in many other counties in England. Since his first appointment to this office, he has accepted the fuperintendence of the lodges in Dorfetshire, Effex, Gloucestershire, Somersetshire, and Herefordshire*. The re-

* In grateful teffimony of the zealous and indefatigable exertions of this gentleman for many years, to promote the honour and intereft of the Society, the Grand Lodge has refolved, that he fhall rank as a Paft Senior Grand Warden, and in all proceffions take place next the prefent Senior Grand Warden for the time being.

Digitized by Google

vival

vival of the Bengal and Madras appointments have been alfo attended with fuccefs, as the late liberal remittances from the Eaft Indies amply flow.

ł

n

ï

¢.

1

Ŧ

•

1

1

.

.

2

Among feveral regulations refpecting the fees of conftitutions, and other matters which paffed during lord Blaney's administration, was the following: That as the Grand Lodge entertained the highest fense of the honour conferred on the Society by the initiation of the dukes of Gloucester, and Cumberland; it was refolved, that each of their royal highness should be prefented with an apron, lined with blue filk; and that, in all future processions, they should rank as Past Grand Masters, next to the Grand Officers for the time being. The fame compliment was also paid to their royal brother the late duke of York, who had been initiated into masonry while on his travels.

The duke of Beaufort fucceeded lord Blaney, and was inftalled by proxy at Merchant Taylors'hall on the 27th of April 1767. Under the patronage of his grace the Society flourished.

In the beginning of 1768, two letters were received from the Grand Lodge of France, expreffing a defire of opening a regular correfpondence with the Grand Lodge of England. This was cheerfully agreed to; and a Book of Conftitutions, a lift of the lodges under the conftitution.

Digitized by Google

conftitution of England, with the form of a deputation, elegantly bound, were ordered to be fent as a prefent to the Grand Lodge of France.

Several regulations for the future government of the Society were made about this time, particularly one respecting the office of Provincial Grand Master. At a Grand Lodge held at the Crown and Anchor tavern in the Strand, on the 29th of April 1768, it was resolved that ten guineas should be paid to the fund of charity on the appointment of every Provincial Grand Master who had not ferved the office of Grand Steward.

The most remarkable occurrence during the administration of the duke of Beaufort, was the plan of an incorporation by royal charter. At a Grand Lodge held at the Crown and Anchor tavern on the 28th of October 1768, a report was made from the Committee of Charity held on the 21st of that month, at the Horn tavern in Fleet-street, of the Grand Master's intentions to have the Society incorporated, if it met with the approbation of the brethren; the advantages of fuch a measure were fully explained, and a plan for the purpose was submitted to the confideration of the committee. The plan being approved, the thanks of the Grand Lodge were voted to the Grand Master, for his attention to the the interests and prosperity of the Society. The hon. Charles Dillon, then Deputy Grand Mafter. informed the brothren, that he had fubmitted to the committee a plan for railing a fund to build a hall, and purchase jewels, furniture, &c. for the Grand Lodge, independent of the general fund of charity; the carrying of which into execution, he apprehended, would be a proper prelude to an incorporation, fhould it be the wifh of the Society to obtain a charter. The plan being laid before the communications feveral. amendments were made, and the whole referred. to the next Grand Lodge for confirmation. Th. the mean time it was refolved, that the faid plan flould be printed, and transmitted to all the lodges on record *. The duke of Beaufort finding that the Society approved of incorporation, contributed his best endeavours to carry the defign into immediate execution: though at first he was oppoled by a few brethren, who misconceived his. good intentions, he perfevered in promoting every measure that might facilitate the plan; and a. copy of the intended charter was foon after printed, and difperfed among the lodges. Before:

ILLUSTRATIONS

* This plan confided chiefly of certain fees to be paid by the-Grand Officers annually, by new lodges at their conffictution, by brethren at initiation into malonry, or admiffion, into lodges as members, &c.

Digitized by Google

the

ÿ

ċ

5

,

Z,

.

3

ż

ą

ģ

E.

ŝ

j

į,

i v

1 đ

.

.

Ľ

i

1

5

3

3.04

the Society, however, had some to any determined refolution on the business, the members of a respectable lodge, then held at the Half Moon tavern Cheapfide, entered a caveat in the attorney general's office, against the incorporation; and this circumstance being reported to the Grand Lodge, an impeachment was laid against that lodge, for unwarrantably exposing the private refolutions of the Grand Lodge; and it being determined that the members of the faid lodge had been guilty of a great offence, in prefuming to appole the refolutions of the Grand Lodge, and endeavouring to fruffrate the intentions of the Society, a motion was made. That it should be erafed from the lift of lodges; but, m the Mafter of the lodge, acknowledging the sult, and, in the name of himfelf and his brothren, making a proper apology, the motion was withdrawn, and the offence forgiven. From the seturn of the different lodges it appeared, that one hundred and fixty-eight had voted for the incorporation, and only forty-three against it; upon which a motion was made in Grand Lodge, on the 28th of April 1769, that the Society should be incorporated, which was carried in the affirmative by a great majority.

At a Grand Lodge held at the Crown and Anchor tavers on the 27th of October 1769, it ioogle

Ξ

TI.

Ī

Ē

!r

÷

ĺ.

Ľ

ż

i.

. 10)

1 ue

ž

.

ę

2

.

1

2

Ś

2

5

;

it was refolved, That the fum of 13001. then standing in the names of Rowland Berkeley efg. the Grand Treasurer, and Mr. Arthur Beardmore and Mr. Richard Nevison his fureties, in the three per cent. bank confolidated annuities, in trust for the Society, be transferred into the names of the prefent Grand Officers; and at an Extraordinary Grand Lodge on the 20th of November following, the Society was informed that Mr. Beardmore had refused to join in the transfer ; upon which it was refolved that letters should be fent, in the name of the Society, figned by the acting Grand Officers, to lord Blaney the Paft Grand Master, and to his Deputy and Wardens, to whom the Grand Treasurer and his furcties had given bond, requesting their concurrence in the refolutions of the Grand Lodge of the 20th of October laft. Mr. Beardmore, however, dying foon after, the defire of the Grand Lodge was complied with by Mr. Nevilon, and the transfer regularly made.

At a Grand Lodge held at the Crown and Anchor tavern on the 25th of April 1770, the Provincial Grand Mafter for foreign lodges acquainted the Society, that he had lately received a letter from Charles baron de Boetzelaer, Grand Mafter of the National Grand Lodge of the United Provinces of Holland and their dependencies.

Digitized by Google

pendencies, requesting to be acknowledged as fuch by the Grand Lodge of England, whole fuperiority he confessed; and promising, that if the Grand Lodge of England would agree in future not to conftitute any new lodge within his jurifdiction, the Grand Lodge of Holland would observe the fame restriction with respect to all parts of the world where lodges were already established under the patronage of England. Upon these terms he requested that a firm and friendly alliance might be established between the Officers of both Grand Lodges, an annual correspondence carried on, and each Grand Lodge regularly made acquainted once in every year with the most material transactions of the other. On this report being made, the Grand Lodge agreed, that fuch an alliance or compact should be immediately entered into, and executed, agreeably to baron de Boetzelaer's request.

In 1771, a bill was brought into parliament by the hon. Charles Dillon, then Deputy Grand Mafter, for incorporating the Society by act of parliament; but on the fecond reading of the bill, it having been oppofed by Mr. Onflow, at the defire of feveral brethren, who had petitioned the house against it, Mr. Dillon moved to postpone the confideration of it fine die; and thus the defign of an incorporation fell to the ground.

The

The duke of Beaufort comfituted feveral new lodges, and granted the following provincial deputations, during his prefidency : 1. for South a Carolina; 2. Jamaica; 3. Barbadoes; 4. Naples ł and Sicily; 5. the Empire of Ruffia; and 6. the ï Austrian Netherlands. The increase of foreign 1 lodges occasioned the institution of a new officer, ş a Provincial Grand Mafter for foreign lodges in ł general; and his grace accordingly nominated a 3 gentleman for that office. He also appointed ï Provincial Grand Mafters for Kent, Suffolk, 1 Lancashire, and Cumberland. Another new ap-'n pointment likewife took place during his grace's ţ, administration, viz. the office of General Inł spectors or Provincial Grand Masters for lodges ÷ within the bills of mortality; but the majority of 1 the lodges in London difapproving the appointj ment, the authority was foon after withdrawn.

Lord Petre fucceeded the duke of Beaufort on the 4th of May 1772, when feveral regulations were made for better fecuring the property belonging to the Society. A confiderable fum having been fubfcribed for the purpose of building a hall, a committee was appointed to fuperintend the management of that business. Every measure was adopted to enforce the laws for raising a new fund to carry the designs of the Bociety into execution, and no pains were spared by

308

12

ά£

Ŋ.

nić) Cela

-F7

ł.

1

10 D

gadi rel 2

iks mi

ΠÖ

рт.

): 1917

цę

pro - je iz

y ki O tişt

FI

in i oi 🖄

by the committee to complete the purpose of their appointment. By their report to the Grand Lodge on the 27th of April 1774, it appeared, that they had contracted for the purchase of a plot of ground and premifes, confifting of two large commodious dwelling+houfes, and a large garden, fituated in Great Queen-ftreet, Lincoln's-Inn-Fields, late in the pofferfion of Philip Carteret Webb efq. deceased, the particulars of which were specified in a plan then delivered; that the real value appeared to be 3,2051. at the haft, but that 3,1801. was the fum contracted to be paid for the premises; that the front house might produce ool. per annum, and the back house would furnish commodious committee-100ms, offices, kitchens, &c. and that the garden was fufficiently large to contain a complete hall for the use of the Society, the expence of which. was calculated not to exceed 30001.* This report met with general approbation. Lord Petre, the dukes of Beaufort and Chandos, earl Ferrers, and lord vifcount Dudley and Ward, were appointed truftees for the Society, and the convey-

* Notwithflanding this effimate, it appears by the Grand Treafurr's accounts, that above 20,000 l. have been expended on this building, and that there fill remains a confiderable debt due from the hall fund to fundry tradefmen, exclusive of an annuity of 2 gol. on account of a tontine.

Digitized by Google

309 ance

ance of the premises purchased was made in their names.

On the 22d of February 1775, the hall committee reported to the Grand Lodge, that a plan had been proposed and approved for raising coool. to complete the defigns of the Society, by granting annuities for lives, with benefit of furvivorship; a plan now known under the name of Tontine. It was accordingly refolved, That there should be one hundred lives at 501. each ; that the whole premifes belonging to the Society in Great Queen-street, with the hall to be built thereon, should be vested in trustees, as a security to the fubscribers, who should be paid 51. per cent. for their money advanced, the whole interest amounting to 2501. per annum; that this interest should be divided among the subscribers, and the furvivors or furvivor of them; and, upon the death of the laft furvivor, the whole to determine for the benefit of the Society. The Grand Lodge approving the plan, the fubfcription immediately commenced, and in lefs than three months was complete; upon which the truftees of the Society conveyed the eftate to the truftees of the tontine, in purfuance of a refolution of the Grand Lodge for that purpofe.

Digitized by Google

On

Ż

E C

35

Ľ

Q

2 ŋ

ř,

.

TIO

On the 1st of May 1775, the foundation-stone* of the new hall was laid in folemn form +, in the

• Within the foundation-frome was deposited a plate, with the following infeription :

ANNO REGNI GEORGII TERTII QUINDECIMO. SALUTIS HUMAN.Æ, MDCCLXXV. MENSIS MAII DIE PRIMO, HUNC PRIMUM LAPIDEM, AULÆ LATOMORUM, (ANGLICE, FREE AND ACCEPTED MASONS) POSUERIT HONORATISSIMUS ROB. EDV. DOM. PETRE, BARO PETRE, DE WRITTLE, SUMMUS LATOMORUM ANGLIÆ MAGISTER; ASSIDENTIBUS VIRO ORNATISSIMO ROWLANDO HOLT, ARMI-GERO, SUMMI MAGISTRI DEPUTATO; VIRIS ORNATISSIMIS JOH. HATCH ET HEN. DAGGE, SUMMIS GUBERNATORIBUS: PLENOQUE CORAM FRATRUM CONCURSU; QUO ETIAM TEMPORE REGUM, PRINCIPIUMQUE - VIRORUM FAVORE, STUDIOQUE SUSTENTATUM-MAXIMOS PER EUROPAM HONORES OCCUPAVERAT NOMEN LATOMORUM, CUI INSUPER NOMINI SUMMUM ANGLIÆ CON-VENTUM PRÆSSE FECERAT UNIVERSA FRATRUM PER ORBEM MULTITUDO. E COELO DESCENDIT. INDOI DEATTON.

+ For the ceremony observed on this occasion see p. 109. preferce

312 ILLUSTRATIONS

prefence of a numerous company of the brethren. After the ceremony, the company proceeded in carriages to Leatherfellers'-hall, where an elegant entertainment was provided on the occafion; and at this meeting the office of Grand Chaplain was first instituted.

The building of the hall went on rapidly, fo that it was finished in little more than twelve months. On the 23d of May 1776, it was opened, and dedicated*, in folemn form, to MASONRY, VIRTUE, and UNIVERSAL CHARITY and BENEVOLENCE, in the prefence of a brilliant affembly of matons. A new Ode+, written and fet to mufic on the occasion, was performed, before a number of ladies, who had honoured the Society with their company on that day. An exordium on majonry, not lefs elegant than instructive, was given by the Grand Secretary, and an excellent oration delivered by the Grand Chaplain. In commemoration of an event fo pleafing to the Society, it was agreed, that the anniverfary of the ceremony fhould be ever after regularly kept.

Thus was completed, under the aufpices of a nobleman, whole amiable character as a man, and zeal as a malon, may be equalled,

- * For the ceremony of dedication fee p. 113.
- + For this Ode fee the end of the volume.

Digitized by Google

but ĩ,

.

11 PT 11

3

.

4

:

3

E

ŝ,

ł

but cannot be furpaffed, that elegant and highly finished room in Great Queen-street, in which the annual affembly and quarterly communicacations of the fraternity are held; and to the accomplifhment of which many lodges, as well as private individuals, have liberally fubfcribed. It is to be regretted, that the finances of the Soeiety will not admit of its being folely referved for majonic purpofes.

The brethren of St. John's lodge in Newcaftle, animated by the example fet them in the metropolis, opened a fubfcription among themfelves for the purpose of building, in the Low Friar Chair in that town, a new hall for their meetings; and, on the 23d of September 1776, the foundation stone * of that building was laid

* Underneath the ftone was placed a copper-plate, with the following infeription : ÆDIFICII HVIVS IN MVTVAM AMICITIAM STABILIENDAM PRO SUMMI NATURZE NUMINIS ARCHITECTI REGNATORIS VENERATIONE PRO VERI INVESTIGATIONE MORVM SCIENTIÆ ARTIVMQ. BONARVM INGENVO CVLTV HVMANI GENERIS BENEFICIO SOLATIVM TEMPESTIVVM PRÆBENDO CONVENTVI FRATERNO SACRI FR ANCISCVS PEACOCK PRÆFECT. HONORAND. FVNDAMENTA POSVIT IX CALEND. OCTOB. AN. SAL. HVM. MDCCLXXVI. AN. CONSORT. MMMMMDCCLXXVI.

Р

313

ħ۳

by Mr. Francis Peacock, then Mafter of the lodge. This edifice was fpeedily completed, furnished, and dedicated; but we fince learn, that it has been fold, and appropriated to other purposes.

.

ì

2

1.2

The brethren of Germany, hearing of the flourishing state of the Society in England, folicited our friendship and alliance. The Grand Lodge at Berlin, under the patronage of the prince of Hesse-Darmstadt, requested to be in friendly union and correspondence with their brethren of England; and the Grand Lodge of Germany engaged to pay tribute, and remit an annual donation to the fund of charity. Thus the business of the Society considerably increased; and it was resolved, that the Grand Secretary should be permitted in future to employ a deputy, or assistant, at an annual falary proportioned to his labour.

On the 14th of February 1776, the Grand Lodge refolved, That in future all Paft Grand Officers fhould be permitted to wear a particular gold jewel, the ground enamelled blue; and each officer be diftinguished by the jewel which he wore while in office; with this difference, that fuch honorary jewel should be fixed within a circle, or oval; on the borders of which were to were to be inferibed his name, and the year in which he ferved the office. This jewel to be worn in Grand Lodge pendant to a broad blue riband, riband, and, on other occasions, to be fixed to the breaft by a narrow blue riband*.

Many regulations respecting the government of the fraternity were established during lord Petre's administration. The meetings of irregular masons again attracted notice, and, on the 10th of April 1777, the following law was enacted : " That the perfons who affem-"ble in London, and elfewhere, in the cha-" racter of majons, calling themfelves Ancient " Majons, and at prefent faid to be under the " patronage of the duke of Athol, are not to " be countenanced, or acknowledged, by any " regular lodge, or mason, under the constitu-" tion of England : nor fhall any regular mafon " be prefent at any of their conventions, to give " a fanction to their proceedings, under the pe-" nalty of forfeiting the privileges of the So-"ciety: nor shall any perfon initiated at any " of their irregular meetings, be admitted into " any lodge, without being re-made +. That " this

ý

ĩ

· How far the introduction of this new ornament is reconcilable to the original practices of the Society, I will not prefume to determine; but it is the opinion of many old mafons, that multiplying honorary diffinctions, only leffen the value and importance of the real jewels, by which the acting officers of every lodge are diftinguished.

+ Remark .- This cenfure only extends to those irregular lodges in London, which feceded from the reft of the fraternity in 1738, ſæ

P 2

316 ILLUSTRATIONS

" this cenfure fhall not extend to any lodge, or "mafon made in Scotland or Ireland, under "the conflitution of either of these kingdoms; "or to any lodge, or mafon made abroad, un-"der the patronage of any-foreign Grand Lodge "in alliance with the Grand Lodge of England; "but that fuch lodge and mafons shall be deemed "regular and constitutional."

An Appendix to the Book of Constitutions, containing all the principal proceedings of the Society fince the publication of the last edition, was ordered to be printed; alfo a new annual publication, entitled THE FREE-MASONS CALEN-DAR; and the profits arising from the fale of both, were to be regularly brought to account in the charity fund. To preferve the confequence of the Society, the following law was enacted at this time : That the fees for conftitutions, initiations, &c. fhould be advanced, and that no perfon fhould be received into mafonry in any lodge under the constitution of England for a lefs fum than two guineas; and that the name, age, profeilion, and place of refidence of every perfon initiated, and of every brother admitted member of a regular lodge

8

Ċ

1.22

fee p. 285-289; and does not apply to the Grand Lodge in York city, or to any lodges under that truly ancient and respectable banner; their independence and regular proceedings having been fully admitted and authenticated by the Grand Lodge in London, in the Book of Constitutions printed in 1738, p. 1951 lodge fince the 29th of October 1768, fhould be duly registered, under the penalty of fuch mafon made, or member admitted, being deprived of the privileges of the Society.

Lord Petre granted provincial deputations for Madras and Virginia; also for Hants, Suffer, and Surrey. Though, during this prefidency, fome lodges were erafed out of the lift for nonconformity to the laws, many new ones were added; fo that, under his lordship's banner, the Society became truly respectable.

ł

,

1

· On the 1st of May 1777, lord Petre was fucceeded by the duke of Manchester; during whole administration the tranquillity of the Society was interrupted by private diffentions. An unfortunate difpute arole among the members of the lodge of Antiquity, on account of fome of the proceedings of the brethren of that lodge on the feftival of St. John the Evangelift after his grace's election, and the contest was introduced into the Grand Lodge, where it occupied the attention of every committee and communication for twelve months. The complaint originated from the Master, Wardens, and some of the members, having, in confequence of a refolution of the lodge, attended divine fervice at St. Dunstan's church in Fleet-street, in the clothing of the Order; and walked back to the Mitre tavern in their regalia, without having obtained

P 3

318 ILLUSTRATIONS

tained a difpensation for the purpose. The Grand Lodge determined this measure to be a violation of the general regulations refpecting public proceffions*. Many opinions were formed on the fubject, and feveral brethren highly difgusted. Another circumstance soon occurred, which tended still farther to widen the breach. This lodge having expelled three members for irregularity and misbehaviour, the Grand Lodge interfered, and, without proper investigation, ordered, them to be re-inflated. With this order the lodge refuled to comply, conceiving themfelves competent judges in the choice of their own members. This was attended with more difagreeable The privileges of the lodge of Antieffects. quity + were fet up, in opposition to the supposed uncontrollable authority of the Grand Lodge: and, in the investigation of this important point, the original caufe of dispute was totally forgot-On both fides, matters were agitated to the ten. extreme. Refolutions were precipitately entered into on one hand, and edicts inadvertently iffued on the other. Memorials and remonstrances were presented in vain; at last a rupture ensued. The lodge of Antiquity supported its own im-

* For an explanation of the nature of public processions at funerals, fee p. 139.

+ For an account of this lodge and its privileges, fee p. 247 to 254.

Digitized by Google

memorial

ĩ

Ű,

żŗ

1

Ц 20

1 ю

4n

i. Rí

to rh

Gr

to feb

Ŀ

1. Mi

pt

memorial privileges; appointed committees to examine records; applied to the old lodge in York city, and to the lodges in Scotland and Ireland, for advice; entered a proteft againft, and peremptorily refused to comply with, the refolutions of the Grand Lodge; difcontinued the attendance of the mafter and wardens at the future committees of charity and guarterly communications as its representatives; published a manifefto in its own vindication; publicly notified its feparation from the Grand Lodge; and avowed an alliance with the Grand Lodge of all England held in the city of York, and every lodge and majon who wished to act in conformity to the original conflitutions. The Grand Lodge enforced its edicts, and extended protection to the brethren whole caule it had espouled. Anathemas were islued, and feveral worthy men in their absence expelled from the Society, for refuling to furrender the property of their lodge to three perfons regularly expelled therefrom; while printed letters were circulated, with the Grand Treasurer's accounts, highly derogatory to the dignity of the Society. This produced a schifm, which sublisted for the space of ten years,

To justify the proceedings of the Grand Lodge, the following refolution of the Committee of Charity held in February 1779, was printed and difperfed among the lodges:

Digitized by Google

" Refolved,

P 4

320 ILLUSTRATIONS

" Refolved, That every private lodge derives " its authority from the Grand Lodge, and that " no authority but the Grand Lodge can with-" draw or take away that power. That though " the majority of a lodge may determine to quit " the Society, the conftitution, or power of " affembling, remains with, and is vefted in, the " reft of the members who may be defirous of " continuing their allegiance; and that if all " the members withdraw themfelves, the confti-" tution is extinct, and the authority reverts to " the Grand Lodge."

I

2

2

.

47

•

á

1

11. 11. 14

.

Q

This refolution, it was argued, might operate with refpect to any lodge which derived its conflitution from the Grand Lodge, but could not apply to a lodge which derived its authority from another channel, long before the eftablishment of the Grand Lodge, and which authority had been repeatedly admitted and acknowledged. Had it appeared upon record, that, after the eftablishment of the Grand Lodge, this original authority had been furrendered, forfeited, or exchanged for a warrant from the Grand Lodge, the lodge of Antiquity must have admitted the refolution of the Grand Lodge its full force. But as no fuch circumftance appeared on record, the members of the lodge of Antiquity were justified in confidering their immemorial conftitution facred to themfelves while they chofe to exift as a lodge, a lodge, and act in obedience to the ancient conftitutions of the Order.

Confidering the fubject in this point of view, it evidently appears that the resolutions of the Grand Lodge could have no effect on the lodge of Antiquity; especially after the publication of the manifesto avowing its separation ; nor could it have the smallest influence on the members of that lodge, who continued to meet regularly as heretofore, and to promote the laudable purpofes of masonry on their old independent foundation. That the lodge of Antiquity could not be diffolved, while the majority of its members kept together, and acted in conformity to the original constitutions, is felf-evident; and no edict of the Grand Lodge, or its committees, could deprive those members of a right which had been admitted to be vested in themselves collectively from time immemorial; a right which had never been derived from, or ceded to, any Grand Lodge whatever.

Ľ

'n

1

4

ł

To understand more clearly the nature of that conflictution by which the lodge of Antiquity is upheld, we must have recourse to the usages and customs which prevailed among masons at the end of the last, and beginning of the prefent, century. The fraternity then had a difcretionary power vested in themsfelves to meet as 10^{-3} masons, in certain numbers, according to their P 5 degrees.

Digitized by Google

degrees, with the approbation of the mafter of the work where any public building was carrying on, as often as they found it necessary so to do; and when fo met, to receive into the Order brothers and fellows, and practife the rites of masonry. The idea of investing Masters and Wardens of lodges in Grand Lodge affembled, or the Grand Master himself, with a power to grant warrants of constitution to certain brethren to meet as masons, on the observance of certain conditions, at certain houses, had no existence. The fraternity were under no fuch reftrictions. The ancient charges were the the only ftandard for the regulation of conducts and no law was known in the Society which those charges did not inculcate. To the award of the fraternity at large, in general meeting affembled, once or twice in a year, all brethren were fubject, and the authority of the Grand Master never extended beyond the bounds of that general meeting. Every private affembly, or lodge, was under the direction of its particular Master, chosen for the occasion, whole authority terminated with the meeting. When a lodge was fixed at any particular place for a certain time, an attefation from the brethren. present entered on record, was a sufficient proof of its regular conftitution; and this practice prevailed for many years after the revival of mafonry

19. 17. 17. Pt

. . .

3

Ļ

11 1-

2

Z

2

£,

fonry in the South of England. By this authority only, an authority which never proceeded from the Grand Lodge, unfettered by any other reftrictions than the conftitutions of masonry, the lodge of Antiquity has always been, and still continues to be governed.

í

While I have thus endeavoured to explain the fubject of this unfortunate difpute, I rejoice in the opportunity which the proceedings of the grand feast in 1790 have afforded, of promoting a general harmony, by reftoring to the privileges of the Society, all those brethren who had been falfely accufed and expelled in 1779-By the operation of our profeffed principles, and through the mediation of that true friend to genuine masonry, William Birch efg. present Mafter of the lodge of Antiquity, unanimity is now happily effected; the manifesto published by that lodge in 1779, revoked ; and the Mafter and Wardens of that truly ancient affociation have refumed their feats in Grand Lodge as heretofore; while the brethren who had received the nominal fanction of the Society during the feparation, are re-united with the members of the real lodge, and all the privileges of that venerable body now center in one channel.

Though I have confiderably abridged my obfervations on this fubject in the prefent edition, I find it neceffary ftill to record the fentiments P 6 that that I have always entertained. To this I am prompted by a double motive: firft, I confider it a juftice which I owe to the gentlemen with whom I have long affociated; and fecondly, it will convince my brethren, that my re-union with the Society has not induced me to vary a well-grounded opinion, or deviate from that ftrict line of confiftency which I have hitherto purfued.

324 ILLUSTRATIONS

1

t,

SECT. XI.

History of the most remarkable Events in the Society from 1779 to 1791 inclusive.

X7HILE thefe difagreeable altercations were taking place at home, information was transmitted from India, of the rapid progress of the Society there. Many new lodges had been conftituted, which were amply fupported by the first characters in the East. Omdit-ul-Omrah Bahauder, eldest fon of the nabob of the Carnatic, had been initiated into mafonry in the lodge at Trichinopoly near Madras; and had expressed the highest veneration for the institu-This news having been transmitted to tion. England officially, the Grand Lodge determined to fend a congratulatory letter to his highnefs on the occasion, accompanied with a blue

4

1

1

.

5

ž

¢

1

1

ļ

,

t

blue apron elegantly decorated, and a copy of the Book of Conflitutions fuperbly bound. To fir John Day, advocate general of Bengal, the execution of this commiffion was entrufted. In the beginning of 1780, an anfwer was received from his highnefs, acknowledging the receipt of the prefent, and expreffing the warmeft attachment and benevolence to his brethren in England. This letter, which is written in the Perfian language, was enclosed in an elegant cover of cloth of gold, and addreffed To the Grand Mafter and Grand Lodge of England.

This flattering mark of attention from fo didtinguifhed a perfonage abroad, was peculiarly grateful to the Grand Lodge; who immediately refolved, that a letter fhould be prepared and transmitted to his highnefs, expressing the high opinion the brethren in England entertain of his merits, and requesting the continuance of his friendship and protection to the masonic inflitution in the East. The thanks of the Grand Lodge were voted to fir John Day; and a translation of his highnefs's letter was ordered to be copied on vellum, and, with the original, elegantly framed and glazed, hung up in the hall at every public meeting of the Society.

As this letter is replete with genuine good fense and warm benevolence, we shall here infert

-326

fert the translation for the gratification of our brethren.

"To the right worshipful his Grace the Duke of Man-"chefter, Grand Master of the illustrious and be-"nevolent Society of Free and Accepted Masons, "under the Constitution of England, and the "Grand Lodge thereof.

" Much honoured SIR, and BRETHREN,

(f)

ż

名言語

G

ì

ú

an air n

':

ŝ

"An early knowledge and participation of the benefits arifing to our houfe, from its intimate union of councils and interests with the British nation, and a deep veneration for the laws, constitution, and manners of the latter, have, for many years of my life, led me to feize every opportunity of drawing the ties between us still closer and closer.

"By the accounts which have reached me, of the principles and practices of your fraterinity, nothing can be more pleafing to the fovereign Ruler of the univerfe, whom we all, though in different ways, adore, or more honourable to his creatures; for they stand upon the broad basis of indiferiminate and universal benevolence.

"Under this conviction, I had long wifhed to be admitted of your fraternity, and now that I am initiated, I confider the title of an English mason, as one of the most honourable that " that I posses; for it is at once a cement to the friendship between your nation and me, the friend of mankind.

" I have received from the advocate general of Bengal, fir John Day, the very acceptable mark of attention and effeem with which you have favoured me: it has been prefented with every circumstance of deference and respect that the fituation of things here, and the temper of the times, would admit of; and I do affure your grace, and the brethren at large, that he has done ample justice to the commiffion you have confided to him, and has executed it in fuch a manner as to do honour to thinfelf and me.

" I fhall avail myfelf of a proper opportunity, to convince your grace, and the reft of the brethren, that Omdit-ul-Omrah is not an unfeeling brother, or heedlefs of the precepts ha has imbibed; and that, while he teftifies his love and efteem for his brethren, by ftrengthening the bonds of humanity, he means to minifter to the wants of the diftreffed.

ï

2

;

"May the common Father of All, the one omnipotent and merciful God, take you into his holy keeping, and give you health, peace, and length of years, prays your highly honoured and affectionate brother,

> "OMDIT UL OMRAH BAHAUDER." Under

327

Digitized by Google

•

27

1

÷

2

2

Į

..

over -

Under the aufpices of this celebrated chief, there is every reason to expect that our Society will flourish in the East; and it cannot fail of giving pleasure to every zealous brother, to find that the venerable principles of the institution pervade the most distant regions.

: The first testimony Omdit ul Ormah gave of his regard to the institution, was by the initiation of his brother Omur ul Omrah, who feems equally attached with himself to promote the welfare of the Society.

Another event has taken place at Madras, which must be also very fatisfactory to the brethren of England. The divisions and feceffions which had originated in London in 1738, had unfortunately reached India: but by the intervention of brigadier general Horne, who had been appointed, by patent from the duke of Cumberland, Provincial Grand Master on the Coast of Coromandel, an union of the brethren in that part of the world has been effected, and a whole lodge, No. 152, ftyling themfelves Ancient York Mafons, has joined a lodge under his aufpices, and voluntarily furrendered the conflitution under which they had formerly acted. This defirable object being accomplished, and the wifnes of the brethren fulfilled, the general defired their affiftance in forming a Grand Lodge,

The way be an arrest

Digitized by Google

over which the following Officers were appointed, and installed in due form :

Brigadier gen. HORNE, Prov. Grand Master. Ter. Gahagan esq. Deputy Grand Master. Jof. Du Pre Porcher esq. Acting Grand Master. Lieut. col. Rofs, Grand Architect. Lieut. col. J. Campbell, Sen. Grand Warden.

Hamilton efq. Junior Grand Warden.

James Grierson esq. Grand Secretary.

James Amos efq. Grand Treafurer.

Lieutenant-colonel Moorhoufe, and colonel L. Lucas efq. Grand Stewards.

Major Maule, Grand Orator.

1

1

j

4

.

.

ļ

Charles Bromley efq. Grand Sword Bearer.

This Grand Lodge having been regularly established, a proposal was made, that a new lodge should be formed at Madras, under the name of Perfect Unanimity, No. I. This being unanimoufly agreed to, the Provincial Grand Master gave notice, that he should perform the ceremony of confectation on Saturday the 7th October 1787, in commemoration of the union which had been fo amicably formed that day; and requested the proper officers to attend on the occasion. Accordingly, on the morning of the day appointed, upwards of fifty brethren affembled at the houfe on Choultry Plain, in which the public rooms are held, and at half past eleven o'clock the ceremony commenced.

menced. After the preparatory bufinefs had been gone through in Grand Lodge, a proceffion* was formed, and marched three times round the lodge; after which the bufinefs of confectation was entered on, and completed in a manner

* Here follows the ORDER of the PROCESSION. Two Tylers, with drawn fwords. Mvsic. · Brothers Elphinston and Moorhouse, Grand Stewards, with white wands. Bro. Gillespie, as youngest apprentice, carrying the rough fione. Approprices, two and two. Fellow-ciafts, two and two. Mafter Malons, two and two. Brothers Latham and Robion, as Secretary and Treasurer of the new lodge. PAST-MASTER. Brother Taner, carrying a filver pitcher with corn. nothers Gomond and Gonte, carrying pitchers, containing wine and oil. Brothers Home and Horfiman, carrying two great lights. CHOIRISTERS. Brother Roth, Grand Architect, carrying the polified ftone. Brother Donaldson, (36th regiment,) as Grand Sword-Bearer, carrying the fword of flate. Brother Grierfon, Grand Secretary, with his bag. Brother Amos, Grand Secretary, with his gaff. The Longz. covered with white fatin, carried by four Tylers. The worthinful brother LUCAS, as Mafter of the new lodge, carrying the Bible, compasses, and fquate, on a crimfon velvet cuthion, supported by brothers Dalrymple and Chafe. Afliftant Stewards. Brother Sir George Keith, carrying the filver cenfor. Brother Manle, Grand Orator.

Digitized by Google

Third

١Z.

L

2 ċ

k k

i:

ą

4) 21

ł.

-||.

21

ni.

á

ž

Ŀ,

J.

-

i.

ł

с.

j,

a manner fuitable to the folemaity of the occafion. Several old mafons who were prefent, declared they never faw a ceremony conducted with more dignity and propriety.

The following brethren were installed Officers of this new lodge, viz. Colly Lyons Lucas efq. Master; Pullier Spencer esq. Senior Warden; George Robert Latham esq. Junior Warden; George Maule esq. Secretary; John Robins esq. Treasurer.

At two o'clock, the brethren fat down to an excellent dinner, provided by the Grand Lodge; after which many malonic and loyal toafts were drank; and the day was concluded with that pleafing feftivity, harmony, and good fellowship, which has always diffinguished the Society of Free and Accepted Malons.

During the prefidency of the duke of Manchefter, feveral new lodges were conftituted in different parts of the kingdom, and confiderable

6 13

3

j2

Third great light carried by brother Gregory. Brothers Campbell and Hamilton, Sonior and Junior Gunni Wardens, with their columns and truncheons. Brother Porcher, Acting Grand Mafter. Brother Sadlier, as Chief Magistrate. Brother Sir Henry Colby, carrying the Book of Coofficutions. Brigadier. General HORNE, Provincial Grand Mafter, fapported by Brothers Howley and Harris, Affiftant Stewards.

Digitized by Google

additions

X

3

Ľ,

Ľ

ΪŰ

...

r

d

Z

1

X

.

17

2

J,

4

÷

ľ

.

11 11

additions made to the general funds of the Society. The fums voted to diffreffed brethren far exceed those of any former period; and among other instances of liberality, may be specified a very generous contribution, of one hundred pounds, toward the relief of the brethren in America, who had fuffered great loss in confequence of the rebellion there, and whose fituation was very feelingly described in a letter from the lodge No. I. at Halifax in Nova Scotia.

A fingular proposition was made in Grand Lodge on the 8th of April 1778, that the Grand Master and his Officers should be diftinguisted in future at all public meetings by robes, to be provided at their own expence; and that Past Grand Officers should have the privilege of being diftinguisted in a similar manner. This measure was at first favourably received; but, on farther investigation in the Hall Committee, to whom it was referred, it was found to be fo diametrically opposite to the original plan of the inftitution, that it was very properly laid aside.

The finances of the Society occupied great part of the proceedings of the committees and communications during his grace's administration. The debts due on account of the hall appearing to be very confiderable, it was determined to make an application to the lodges to raife 2000l. to pay them off. For this purpose, in in confequence of a plan offered to the confideration of the Grand Lodge in June 1779, it was refolved, that a fubfcription should be opened, to raife the money by loan, without interest, at the difcretion of the subscribers a that 251. should be the sum limited for each fubfcriber, and the number of fubfcribers to be one hundred ; and that the monies fo fubfcribed fhould be repaid, in equal proportions, among the fubscribers, at fuch times as the hall fund would admit. It was also determined, that an honorary medal should be prefented to every -fubscriber, as a mark of distinction for the fervice that he had rendered the Society; and that the bearer of fuch medal, if a master mason, should have the privilege of being prefent at. and voting in, all the future meetings of the Grand Lodge. This mark of attention prompted fome lodges, as well as individuals, to contribute, and the greatest part of the money was speedily raifed and applied for the purpose intended.

ĵ,

ť

i ġ.

ŕ

ŀ

Ċ,

ú

The Stewards Lodge, finding their finances much reduced by feveral members having withdrawn their annual fubfcriptions, applied to the Grand Lodge for relief; upon which it was refolved, that in future no Grand Officer fhould be appointed, who was not at the time a fubfcribing member of the Stewards Lodge.

A mea-

333

Digitized by Google

ż

.

0

D . 2

1 20 ά

4:

Ϊĵ

12,

2

ľö

3

Ą,

h

0.12

1 ł

ii C

1

5

· A measure of more importance attracted the attention of the Society at this period. It had been observed with regret, that a number of worthy brethren in diffres had been subjected to much inconvenience and difappointment from a want of relief during the long fummer recefs, as there was feldom any committee of charity held from the beginning of April to the end of October. To remedy this complaint, the Grand Lodge unanimously refolved, that an Extraordinary Committee should meet annually in the last week of July, or first week of August, who fhould be empowered to administer temporary relief to fuch diftreffed objects as might regularly apply, not exceeding five pounds to one perfon.

This additional increase of the business of the Society induced the Grand Lodge to appoint an Officer, pro tempore, as an affistant to the Grand Secretary, who should hold equal rank and power with himself in Grand Lodge. Many regulations were established about this time; and among others it was determined; that in future no perfon should hold two offices at the fame time in Grand Lodge.

The Grand Lodge of Germany applied for hiberty to fend a reprefentative to the Grand Lodge of England, in order more effectually to cement the union and friendship of the brethren of 334

Digitized by Google.

of both countries, and brother John Leonhardi was appointed to the office. This request being complied with, a resolution passed, that, in compliment to the Grand Lodge of Germany, brother Leonhardi should wear the clothing of a Grand Officer, and rank next to Past Grand Officers in all the public meetings of the Society.

,

ŗ

.

-

.

ĥ

ŀ

ľ

1

ŝ

ļ

,

2

è

2

1

;

This additional cement was highly pleafing; and led the brethren to regret, that no intercourse or correspondence should have subsisted nearer home, between the Grand Lodge of England and the Grand Lodges of Scotland and Ireland, though all the members were fubjects of the fame fovereign. At the communication in April 1782, this important bufiness came under confideration; when, after hearing a variety of opinions delivered, it was unanimoufly refolved, that the Grand Master should be requested to adopt fuch means as his wifdom might fuggeft. to promote a good understanding among the brethren of the three united kingdoms. Notwithstanding this refolution, the wished-for union has not yet been accomplished.

At this meeting alfo, the pleafing intelligence was communicated, of his royal highnefs the duke of Cumberland's intention to accept the government of the Society. This having been regularly flated in Grand Lodge, his highnefs was propofed Grand Mafter elect; and it was refolved, folved, in compliment to him, that he fhould have the privilege of nominating a peer of the realm as Acting Grand Mafler, who fhould be empowered to fuperintend the Society in his abfence; and that, at any future period, when the fraternity might be honoured with a Prince of the blood at their head, the fame privilege fhould be granted. ś

ż

 \boldsymbol{v}

: "1

t;

ç

ų

7

,

3

2

.

At the annual grand feaft on the 1st of May 1782, his royal highness the duke of Cumberland was unanimously elected Grand Master; and it being fignified to the Society that his highness meant to appoint the earl of Effingham Acting Grand Master, that appointment was confirmed, and his lordship presided as proxy for his royal highness during the feast.

On the 8th of January 1783, a very fingular motion was made in Grand Lodge, and afterward confirmed; That the interest of five per cent. on 1000l. which had been advanced for the purposes of the hall from the charity fund, should cease to be paid; and further, that the principal should be annihilated, and funk into the hall fund. However extraordinary it may appear, this event took place; and the money has been regularly brought to account in the hall expenditures. A number of other regulations were confirmed at this meeting, to render the hall fund more productive, and to enforce obedience obedience to the laws refpecting it*. How far fome of these regulations are consistent with the original

Digitized by Google

23~

* The regulations effablished at this meeting were as follows :

ç

1

5

t

Ļ

1. That no brother initiated fince October 29, 1768, fhall be appointed to the honour of wearing a blue or red apron, unlefs the Grand Secretary certifies that his name has been registered, and the fees paid.

2. That no brother initiated fince that time, fhall be appointed Mafter or Warden of a lodge, or be permitted to attend any committee of charity, or grand lodge, unless his name has been registered, and the fees paid.

3. That every petitioner for charity, initiated fince that time, fhall fet forth in his petition, the lodge in which, and the time when, he was made a mafon; in order that the Grand Secretary may certify, by indorfement on the back of the petition, whether his name has been registered, and the fees paid.

4. That every lodge fhall transmit to the Grand Secretary, on or before the grand feast in every year, a list of all perfons initisted, or members admitted, together with the registering fees; or notice that they have not initiated or admitted any, that their filence may not be imputed to contempt.

5. That to prevent the plea of ignorance or forgetfulnefs, a blank form shall be printed, and sent to each lodge, to be filled up, and returned to the Grand Secretary.

6. That the Grand Secretary shall lay before the first quarterly communication after each grand feast, an account of such lodges as have not registered their members within the preceding year, that they may be erased from the list of lodges, or be otherwise dealt with as the Grand Lodge may think expedient.

7. That to prevent any injury to individuals, by being excluded from the privileges of the Society, through the neglect of their lodges, in their names not having be n doly registered, any brethren, on producing fufficient proofs that they have paid the due registering fees to their lodges, shall be capable of enjoying all the privileges of

Digitized by Google

the 338

eriginal plan of the masonic inftitution, must be left to abler judges to determine. In earlier petiods of our history, such compulsory regulations were unnecessary.

At the Grand Lodge held on the 23d of November 1783, an addition was made to the officers of the Grand Lodge, by the appointment of a Grand Portrait Painter; and, at the requeft of the duke of Manchester, that honour was conferred on the rev. William Peters, in testimony of the fervice which he had rendered to the Society, by his elegant present of the portrait of lord Petre.

During the remainder of the year, there was fcarcely any farther bufinefs of importance tranfacted. On the 19th of November, information was given in Grand Lodge, that two brethren, under fanction of the Royal Military lodge at Woolwich, which claimed the privilege of an itinerant lodge, had lately held an irregular meet-the Society; but the offending lodges shall be rigorously proceeded against, for detaining fees that are the property of the Society.

On the 20th of March 1783, an additional regulation was made, "That ten fhillings and fix-pence be paid to the Grand Lodge for "registering the name of every malon initiated in any lodge under "the conftitution after the 5th of May 1783." And at this meeting a very extraordinary refolution passed, "That no lodge "fhould be permitted to attend or vote in Grand Lodge, which had not complied with this regulation."

Digitized by GOOG

ing

1

1 1 1

5 ä

.

ċ

k

ė

Ľ

Ĵ.

ć

di la

þ

j

p

6

339

ing in the King's Bench prifon, and had there unwarrantably initiated fundry perfons into mafonry. The Grand Lodge, conceiving this to be a violent infringement of the privileges of every regular conflituted lodge, ordered the faid lodge to be erailed from the lift; and determined; that it was inconfiftent with the principles of mafonry, to hold any lodge, for the purpoles of making, paffing, or raifing mafons, in any prifon, or place of confinement.

At this Grand Lodge alfo, it was refolved, to enact certain regulations, fubjecting the Deputy Grand Mafter and Grand Wardens to fines, in cafe of non-attendance on the public meetings of the Society; and thefe regulations were regularly confirmed on the 11th of February following.

While those proceedings were carrying on in England, the brethren in Scotland were profecuting their labours also for the good of the craft. The vast improvements made in the city of Edinburgh, afforded ample room for ingenious architects to display their masonic talents and abilities; and there the operative part of the fraternity were fully occupied, in rearing stately manfions, and planning elegant squares.

On the 1st of August 1785, a very pleasing fight was exhibited to every well-wisher to the Q 2 embellishembellishment of that eity, in the ceremony of laying the foundation stone of the South Bridge, being the first step to farther improvement. In the morning of that day, the right hon. the Lord Provost and Magistrates, attended by the Grand Master Mason of Scotland, and a number of nobility and gentry, with the masters, officebearers, and brethren of the feveral lodges, walked from the parliament-house to the bridge in procession*. The streets were lined by the 58th regiment, and the city guard.

The Grand Master having arrived at the place, laid the foundation stone with the usual folemnities. The Grand Master standing on the east, with the Substitute on his right hand, and the Grand Wardens on the west, the square, the plumb, the level, and the mallet, were successively

> • The following Order of Procefion was observed : The proper Officers, bearing the city infignia. The Right Hon. Lord Provost and Magistrates.

> > Band of inftrumental mufic.

A band of fingers.

The Lodges according to feniority, the brethren walking three and three.

Lodge of Grand Stewards.

Nobility and Gentry, three and three.

Office-bearers of the Grand Lodge, in their badges of office. Officers of the Grand Lodge, with infiguia.

Grand Wardens.

Digitized by Google

Deputy 3 G

S GRAND MASTER.

Subfitute G. Mafter. delivered

}

Ľ,

Ĵ(

Ì,

ij

7

R

61

1

[ē]

3

2

)))

1

-

Ŋ

i ũ

0.14 13

27 . 13

340 é

-

1 ċ

5

ł

.

ĉ

delivered by an operative mafon to the Subfitute, and by him to the Grand Mafter, who applied the fquare to that part of the ftone which was fquare, the plumb to the feveral edges, the level above the ftone in feveral politions, and then with the mallet gave three knocks, faying, "May the Grand Architect of the Universe grant a bleffing on this foundation-ftone, which we have now laid; and by his providence enable us to finish this, and every other work which may be undertaken for the embellishment and advantage of this city !" On this the brethren gave the honours.

The cornucopia and two filver veffels were then brought from the table, and delivered, the cornucopia to the Subfitute, and the two veffels to the Wardens, and were fucceflively prefented to the Grand Mafter, who, according to ancient form, fcattered the corn, and poured the wine and oil, which they contained, on the ftone, faying, "May the All-bounteous Author of Nature blefs this city with an abundance of corn, wine, and oil; and with all the neceffaries, conveniences, and comforts of life! and may the fame Almighty Power preferve this city from ruin and decay to the lateft pofterity!"

The Grand Master, being supported on the right hand by the duke of Buccleugh, and on the left by the earl of Balcarras, addressed himself

Q_3'

to

Digitized by Google

34I

to the Lord Provoft and Magistrates in a fuitable speech for the occasion. The coins of the present reign, and a silver plate, with the following inscription, was deposited within the stone.

÷,

τ

t

+) 12

2

21

ż,

æ

1

53

1

ų,

Į.

Jt

t

ANNUENTE DEO OPTIMO MAXIMO, REGNANTE GEORGIO III. PATRE PATRIAE, HUJUS PONTIS QUO VICI EXTRA MOENIA EDINBURGI, URBI COMMODE ADJUNGERENTUR, ADITUMQUE NON INDIGNUM TANTA URBS HABERET, PRIMUM LAPIDEM POSUIT NOBILIS VIR GEORGIUS DOMINUS HADDO, ANTIQUISSIMI SODALITII ARCHITECTONICI APUD SCOTOS CURIO MAXIMUS, PLAUDENTE AMPLISSIMA FRATRUM CORONA, IMMENSAQUE POPULI FREQUENTIA.

OPUS,

UTILE CIVIBUS GRAFUM ADVENIS, URBI DECORUM PATRIAE HONESTUM, DIU MULTUMQUE DESIDERATUM, CONSULE JACOBO HUNTER BLAIR, INCEPTI AUCTORE INDEFESSO, SANCIENTE REGE, SENATUQUE BRITANNIAE, APPROBANTIBUS OMNIBUS, TANDEM INCHOATUM EST IPSIS KALENDIS AUGUSTI A. D. MDCCLXXXV. AERAE ARCHITECTONICAE 5785.

Q. F. F. Q. S.

TRANSLATION.

"By the bleffing of Almighty God, in the reign of George the Third, the Father of his country, the right hon. GEOROE LORD HADDO, Grand Mafter of the Most Ancient Fraternity of Free Masons in Scotland, amidst the acclamations of a Grand Astembly 3. of

Digitized by Google

of the brethren, and a vaft concourse of people, laid the first ftone of this bridge, intended to form a convenient communication between the city of Edinburgh and its suburbs, and an access not unworthy of such a city.

"This work, fo useful to the inhabitants, fo pleasing and convenient to ftrangers, so ornamental to the city, so creditable to the country, so long and much wanted and wished for, was at last begun, with the fanction of the king and parliament of Great Britain; and with universal approbation, in the provosithip of James Hunter Blair, the author and indefatigable promoter of the undertaking, August the 1st, in the year of our Lord 1785, and of the zera of masonry 5785.-Which may God prosper."

An anthem was then fung, and the proceffion returned, reverfed, to the Parliament-houfe. After which the Lord Provost and Magistrates gave an elegant entertainment at Dunn's rooms to the Grand Lodge, and the nobility and gentry who had affisted at the ceremony.

The next public ceremony in which the Society bore a principal fhare, was in laying the foundation ftone of that valuable feminary of learning, the new College of Edinburgh. This Univerfity has for many years been effecemed one of the most celebrated in Europe, and has attracted a great number of ftudents in phylic, and other branches of fcience, from all parts of the world. The eminence of its professions in every branch of learning is univerfally admitted; and it is most fervently to be wished, for the Q Δ honour honour of the kingdom, that the whole plan may be completely executed agreeably to the intention of the original promoters. As this is an event worthy of record in the annals of mafonry, I fhall defcribe minutely the ceremony obferved on that remarkable occasion.

k

i,

1(

*

On the 13th of October 1789, Mr. Robert Adam, architect, prefented the plans of the intended building, at a public breakfaft given by the Lord Provoft, to the Magistrates, the Principal and Professions of the University, of Edinburgh, on the occasion; and explained their uses for the various schools, halls, and houses. The whole company expressed the highest fatisfaction at the design; and it was immediately resolved, that a subscription schould be opened to carry the plan into execution. Monday the 16th of November was then fixed for laying the foundation stone of the new structure.

On the morning of the day appointed for performing the ceremony, the brethren affembled at eleven o'clock in the Parliament-house, to meet lord Napier, at that time Grand Master of Scotland. When the lodges were arranged, the Grand Master sent notice to the Lord Provost and Magistrates, who had affembled in the Council-chamber; and to the Principal, Professions feffors and Students of the University, who had met in the High Church. At half past twelve, the procession began to move in the following order:

Digitized by Google

1ft, The Principal, Professions, and Students of the University, with their mace carried before them. Principal Robertson being supported on the right hand by the rev. Dr. Hunter, professor of divinity; and on the left, by Dr. Handy, professor of church history. The Professors were all robed, and each of the Students had a sprig of laurel in his hat.

2d. The Lord Provoft, Magistrates, and Council, in their robes, preceded by the fword, mace, &c. The Lord Provost being supported on the right and left by the two eldest Baillies.

3d. A complete choir of Singers, under the direction of fignor Schetky, finging anthems as the proceffion moved.

4th. The Lodges, according to feniority, juniors preceding, with their different infignia.

5th. A complete band of instrumental music.

6th. The Grand Stewards, properly clothed, with white rods.

7th. The Noblemen and Gentlemen attending the Grand Mafter.

8th. A large drawing of the Eaft Front of the New College, carried by two operative mafons.

Q5.

Digitized by Google

9th. The

oth. The grand jewels, borne by Paft Masters of lodges.

10th. Officers of the Grand Lodge, properly clothed.

11th. Paft Grand Masters.

12th. Lord NAPIER, prefent Grand Mafter, fupported on the right hand by-fir William Forbes bart. Paft Grand Mafter; and on the left, by the duke of Buccleugh.

A detachment of the 35th regiment from the eaftle, together with the city guard, lined the ftreets.

At one o'clock, the Grand Mafter reached the feite of the College, when the foundation ftone was laid with the ufual ceremonies*. After which the Grand Mafter addreffed himfelf to the Lord Provoft and Magistrates as follows:

"My Lord Provost, and MAGISTRATES, of the City of Edinburgh,

"In compliance with your requeft, I have now had the honour, in the capacity of Grand Mafter Mafon of Scotland, to lend my aid towards laying that ftone, on which it is your intention to erect a new College. I must ever confider it as one of the fortunate events in my life,

• The particulars of this part of the ceremony were exactly fimilar to that observed at laying the foundation stone of the South Bridge, see p. 340.

Digitized by Google

that 11 11

1. 1.

а - у

1

9

1 1

t t

1

È

2

1

1

1

5

2 ŗ

L

Ŀ

that the Craft of Free and Accepted Mafons fhould be called forth, to affift at an undertaking fo laudable, and fo glorious, during the time that, from their affection, I have the honour of fitting in the chair of the Grand Lodge.

"The attention to the improvement of this city, manifested by the Magistrates, your predecessors in office, has, for many years, excited the admiration of their fellow-citizens. The particular exertions of your Lordship and your Colleagues have merited, and it gives me infinite statisfaction to fay, have obtained, the universal approbation of all ranks of men.

"The businefs of this day, equally to be remembered in the annals of this city and of mafonry, will transmit your name with lustre to posterity. Thousands yet unborn, learning to admire your virtues, will thereby be stimulated to follow the great example you have set them, of steady patriotism, love of your country, and anxious desire to advance the welfare, and increase the same, of the city of Edinburgh.

"In the name of the Craft of Free and Accepted Masons, and in my own, I fincerely implore the protection of the Supreme Architect of the Universe on your lordship and your brethren in the magistracy! May you long continue here the ornaments of civil society; and may you hereafter be received into those man-Q 6 fions, fions, those lodges, prepared in heaven for the bleffed !"

Ï.

5.0

-

3

E . I

÷(

12 N G E

Ĺ,

.

1.1.1

3

To this address the Lord Provost, in name of the Magistrates and Town Council of the City of Edinburgh, made a fuitable reply.

The Grand Master next addressed the Principal, as representing the University of Edinburgh, as follows :

"REVEREND SIR,

"Permit me to congratulate you, as Principal, and your brethren, as Profeffors, of the Univerfity of Edinburgh, on the work in which we have this day been engaged.—A work, worthy of your Patrons, who (ever confidering the public good) will not permit the feat of learning, eftablifhed in this ancient metropolis, to bear the appearance of decay, at a time when fo much attention is beftowed on the elegance and convenience both of public and private edifices.

"Permit me, likewife, to congratulate my country, on the probability of feeing the different chairs of the magnificent ftructure now to be erected, filled by men fo diffinguished for their piety, fo eminent for their learning, and fo celebrated for their abilities, as those to whom I now have the honour to address myself.

"Any panegyric that I can pronounce, must fall to far short of what is due to you, Sir, and your honour-

Digitized by Google

honourable and learned brethren, that it would be prefumption in me to attempt to exprefs my fenfe of your deferts. Suffice it to fay, that the Grand Lodge of Scotland, and the lodges depending on it, are most happy, in having this opportunity of affifting at, and witneffing, the laying the foundation, whence it is their earnest wish a building may arife, which, in future ages, may be as renowned for the excellence of its teachers, and as much respected for the propriety of conduct in its students, as the University now is, over which you have the peculiar fatisfaction of prefiding.

"May the Almighty Architect, the Sovereign Difpofer of all events, grant, that the Principal and Profeffors of this College may continue to deliver their inftructions, and the Students to receive their admonitions, in fuch a manner as may redound to the glory of God, the promoting of fcience, and the extension of all useful learning." To which the rev. Principal made the following reply :--

" My Lord,

ş

"From very humble beginnings, the Univerfity of Edinburgh has attained to fuch eminence, as entitles it to be ranked among the most celebrated seminaries of learning. Indebted to the bounty of several of our Sovereigns-diftinguished particularly by the gracious Prince now feated 950 feated on the British throne, whom, with gratitude, we reckon among the most munificent of our royal benefactors—and cherished by the continued attention and good offices of our honourable Patrons, this University can now boast of the number and variety of its institutions for the instruction of youth in all the branches of literature and science.

1

ï

ì

1

5 ġ

ľ

¢

£

Ç

"With what integrity and difcernment perfons have been chosen to preside in each of these departments, the character of my learned colleagues affords the most fatisfying evidence. From confidence in their abilities, and affiduity in discharging the duties of their respective offices, the University of Edinburgh has become a feat of education, not only to youth in every part of the British dominions, but, to the honour of our country, students have been attracted to it from almost every nation in Europe, and every state in America.

"One thing ftill was wanting. The apartments appropriated for the accommodation of Profeflors and Students were fo extremely unfuitable to the flourishing ftate of the University, that it has long been the general wish to have buildings more decent and convenient erected. What your lordship has now done, gives a near prospect of having this wish accomplished; and we consider it as a most auspicious circumstance, that that the foundation flone of this new manfion of fcience is laid by your lordfhip, who, among your anceftors, reckon a man, whofe original and univerfal genius places him high among the illuftrious perfons who have contributed most eminently to enlarge the boundaries of human knowledge.

1

.

"Permit me to add, what I regard as my own peculiar felicity, that by having remained in my prefent flation much longer than any of my predeceffors, I have lived to witnefs an event fo beneficial to this University, the prosperity of which is near to my heart, and has ever been the object of my warmest wishes.

"May Almighty God, without invocation of whom no action of importance fhould be begun, blefs this undertaking, and enable us to carry it on with fuccefs! May be continue to protect. our University, the object of whose institution is to instil into the minds of youth, principles of found knowledge; to inspire them with the love of religion and virtue; and to prepare them for filling the various fituations in fociety, with honour to themselves, and with benefit to their country !

"All this we afk, in the name of Christ; and unto the Father, the Son, and the Holy Spirit, we afcribe the kingdom, power, and glory ! Amen."

Digitized by Google

After

After the Principal had finished his speech, the brethren again gave the honours, which concluded the ceremony.

Two crystal bottles, cast on purpose at the glafs-house of Leith, were deposited in the foundation-stone. In one of these were put different coins of the prefent reign, each of which were previoufly enveloped in crystal, in fuch an ingenious manner that the legend on the coins could be diffinctly read without breaking the cryftal. In the other bottle were deposited feven rolls of vellum, containing a fhort account of the original foundation and prefent state of the Univerfity, together with feveral other papers; in particular, the different newspapers, containing advertifements relative to the college, &c. and a lift of the names of the prefent Principal and Professions, also of the present Lord Provost and Magistrates, and Officers of the Grand Lodge of The bottles being carefully fealed Scotland. up, were covered with a plate of copper wrapt in block-tin; and, upon the under fide of the copper, were engraven the arms of the city of Edinburgh, and of the University; likewife the arms of the right hon. lord Napier, Grand Master Mason of Scotland. Upon the upper fide a Latin infeription, of which the following is a copy :

Digitized by Google

ANNUENTE

Ē

1

3

ANNUENTE DEO OPT. MAX. REGNANTE GEORGIO III. PRINCIPE MUNIFICEN-TISSIMO : ACADEMLÆ EDINBURGENSIS · ÆDIBUS. INITIO QUIDEM HUMILLIMIS, ET JAM, POST DUO SECULA, PENE RUINOSIS; NOVI HUJUS ÆDIFICII. UBI COMMODITATI SIMUL ET ELEGANTIÆ. TANTO DOCTRINARUM DOMICILIO DIGNÆ, CONSULERETUR. PRIMUM LAPIDEM POSUIT. PLAUDENTE INGENTI OMNIUM ORDINUM FRE-QUENTIA, VIR NOBILISSIMUS FRANCISCUS DOMINUS NAPIER, REIPUB. ARCHITECTONICÆ APUD SCOTOS CURIO . MAXIMUS. XVI KAL. DECEMB. ANNO SALUTIS HUMANÆ MDCCLXXXIX. ÆTÆ ARCHITECTIONICÆ IOOIDCCLXXXIX. CONSULE THOMA ELDER. ACADEMIÆ PRÆFECTO GULIELMO ROBERTSON, ARCHITECTO ROBERTO ADAM.

Q. F. F. Q. S.

TRANSLATION.

By the bleffing of Almighty God, In the reign of the most munificent Prince GEORGE III. The buildings of the University of Edinburgh,

Being originally very mean,

And now, after two centuries, almost a ruin,

The Right HOR. FEANCIS Lord NAFIER, Grand Mafter of the Fraternity of Free Mafons in Scotland, Amidft the acclamations

Of a prodigious concourse of all ranks of people, Laid the foundation frome

Digitized by Google

Of

Of this new fabric, In which an union of elegance with convenience, Switable to the dignity of fuch a celebrated feat of learning, Has been fludied : On the 16th day of November, In the year of our Lord 1789: And of the zera of Mafonry 3789. THOMAS ELDER being the Lord Provolt of the City; WILLIAM ROBERT SON, the Principal of the Univerfity; And ROBERT ADAM, the ArchiteCt. May the undertaking profper, and be crowned with fuecefs !

An anthem being fung, the brethren returned, the whole proceffion being reverfed; and when the junior lodge arrived at the door of the Parliament-house, they fell back to the right and left, within the line of foldiers; when the Principal, Professors, and Students; the Lord Provoft, Magistrates, and Town Council; and the Grand Lodge; passed through, with their hats off.

The proceilion on this occasion was one of the most brilliant and numerous that ever was exhibited in the city of Edinburgh. The Provost and Magistrates had very properly invited many of the Nobility and Gentry from all parts of the country, to winnels the folemnity of laying the foundation stone of a college, the architecture of which, it is agreed by all who have feen the plan, will not only do honour to the city, but to the nation, and to Europe. But the number of perfons invited was far exceeded by the immenfe multitude of perfons of all ranks, who, defirous of viewing fo magnificent a fpectacle, filled the ftreets, windows, and even roofs of the houfes, all the way from the Parliament-clofe, down the High-ftreet and Bridge-ftreet, near the fouth end of which the foundation ftone was laid. Above 20,000 were fuppofed to be witneffes of the ceremony. It is, however, worthy of notice, that, notwithftanding fo immenfe a crowd, the greateft order and decency was obferved; nor did the fmalleft accident happen.

354

ber

Having thus defcribed the principal works in which the brethren in Scotland were employed, we shall now refume the history of masonry in England, and trace the occurrences that have taken place there, under the auspices of his royal highness the duke of Cumberland.

ļ

1

۰, ß

-

On the 4th of January 1787, was opened in London, a grand chapter of Harodim. This order is of ancient date, and has been patronifed in different parts of Europe. But previous to this period, there appears not on record the regular eftablifhment of fuch an affociation in England. For fome years it was faintly encouraged, but fince its merit has been further inveftigated, it has received the patronage of fome of

Digitized by Google

of the most exalted masonic characters, and, under the patronage of that amiable nobleman lord Macdonald, now meets regularly at Free-Masons tavern on the 3d Monday of January, February, March, April, October, November, and December; at which meetings any member of a regular lodge may be admitted by ticket as a visitor, to hear the lectures of masonry judiciously illustrated.

The mysteries of the order are peculiar to the institution itself, while the lectures of the Chapter include every branch of the masonic system, and represent the Art of masonry in a finished and complete form.

· Different classes are established, and particular lectures reftricted to each class. The lectures are divided into fections, and the fections into claufes. The fections are annually affigned by the Chief Harod, to a certain number of skilful companions in each class, who are denominated SECTIONISTS; and they are empowered to diftribute the claufes of their respective sections, with the approbation of the Chief Harod and General Director, among certain private companions of the Chapter, who are denominated CLAUSE-HOLDERS. Such companions as by affiduity become possessed of all the fections in the lecture, are called LECTURERS; and out of these the General Director is always chosen.

Digitized by Google

Every

7 ż

4

7

4

3 γ

.1

53.

3

.

1

1

7

.

1

ŀ

1

1.17

ł

1-1

Every Companion who is honoured with a Claufe is, on his acceptance thereof, prefented with a ticket, figned by the Chief Harod, fpecifying the claufe allotted to him. While this ticket is carefully preferved, he is entitled to enjoy all the privileges of a Claufe-holder in the Chapter, and takes rank accordingly. No Claufeholder can transfer his claufe-ticket to another Companion, unlefs the confent of the Council has been obtained for that purpose, and the General Director has approved the Companion to whom it is intended to be transferred, as qualified to hold it. And in cafe of the death, ficknefs, or non-refidence in London, of any Lecturer, Sectionist, or Clause-holder, a Companion is immediately appointed to fill up the vacancy. Thus the lectures are always complete; and once in every month, during the feffion, are delivered, in a mafterly manner, in open Chapter.

This Chapter is governed by a Grand Patron, two Vice Patrons, a Chief Ruler, and two Affiftants, with a Council of twelve refpectable Companions, chofen annually at the Chapter nearest to the festival of St. John the Evangelist. To this Chapter is also annexed a regular constituted lodge, which meets at the fame place on the fecond Thursday of every month, where the usual rites of masonry are performed in a very complete style.

Digitized by Google

In

5 ĺ

14. - X

57.12

1. (

5 13

ĩ

1. L.

Ł

Ċ,

(

đ

1

k

â

•

1

On

In 1788, another event worthy of notice in the annals of majorry, took place, by the inftitution of the Royal Cumberland Free-mafon fchool, for maintaining, fupporting, and educating female orphans, children of indigent brethren. To the benevolent exertions of chevalier Bartholomew Ruspini, the fraternity were first indebted for this establishment. Fifteen children was the number at first limited to be received into the charity, but ten more have been fince added: Under the patronage of her royal highness the duchefs of Cumberland, the fchool was originally established; and to her fostering hand is now indebted for its present flourishing state. The annual contributions have lately confiderably increased, and this laudable institution promifes fair to have a permanent establishment. No child can be admitted into the school under the age of five, of above nine.

On the 10th of February 1790, this inflitution was particularly recommended by the Grand Lodge to the feveral lodges, as deferving encouragement.

The duke of Cumberland continued in the office of Grand Mafter till his death in September 1790; and it may be truly faid, that fuch a valuable acquisition was made to the Society during his administration, as is almost unparalleled in the annals of masonry.

Digitized by Google

On Thursday the 9th of March 1786, his royal highness prince William Henry, now duke of Clarence, was initiated into masonry at the lodge No. 86, held at the Prince George inn at Plymouth.

On Thursday the 6th of February 1787, his royal highness the Prince of Wales was made a mason, at an occasional lodge convened for the purpose at the Star and Garter, Pall-mall, over which the duke of Cumberland presided in perfon.

On Friday the 21st of November following, his royal highnefs the Duke of York was initiated into masonry, at a special lodge convened for the purpose at the same place, and over which the Grand Master presided in person. His highness was introduced by his royal brother the Prince of Wales, who was prefent on the occasion, and affisted at the ceremony.

On the 10th of February 1790, regular notice was given in Grand Lodge, that his royal highnefs Prince Edward, while on his travels, was regularly initiated into masonry in the Union Lodge at Geneva.

The Grand Lodge, highly fentible of the great honour conferred on the Society by the initiation of fo many royal perfonages, unanimoufly refolved, that each of them should be prefented with an apron, lined with blue filk, the clothing

Digitized by Google

359

 \mathbf{of}

of a Grand Officer, and that they fhould be placed, in all public meetings of the Society, on the right hand of the Grand Master, and rank in processions as Past Grand Masters.

5 - 07 X 1

12 14 11

2

1

7 0

1

¢

On the 2d of May 1788, the grand feaft was honoured with the prefence of the duke of Cumberland, the Grand Mafter in the chair; attended by his royal nephews, the Prince of Wales and the Dukes of York and Clarence, with above five hundred other brethren. This Grand Affembly confirmed the re-inftatement of the members of the lodge of Antiquity in all their mafonic privileges, after an unfortunate feparation of ten years; and among those who were re-inftated, the Author of this treatife had the honour to be claffed.

On the 24th of November 1790, his royal highnefs the Prince of Wales was elected to the high and important office of Grand Master of Masons, and was pleased to appoint lord Rawdon Acting Grand Master, who had previously filled that office under his late royal uncle, on the refignation of the earl of Effingham, who had gone abroad, having accepted the governorship of Jamaica.

On the oth of February 1791, the Grand Lodge refolved, on the motion of lord Petre, that, in teftimony of the high fenfe the fraternity entertained of the honour done to the Society by

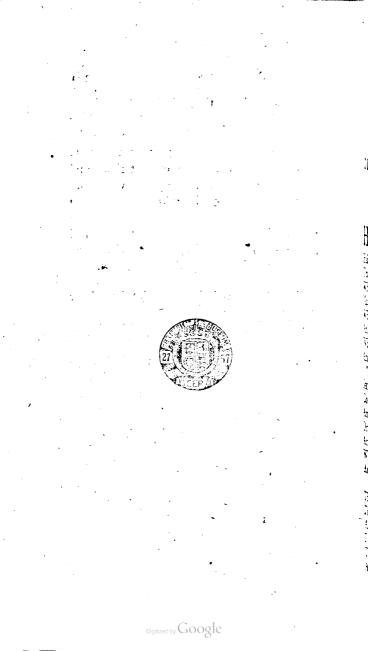

261

by his royal highnefs the Prince of Wales's acceptance of the office of Grand Mafter, three elegant chairs and candlefticks be provided for the ufe of the Grand Lodge; and at the grand feaft in May following, thefe elegant chairs and candlefticks were prefented to public view; but unfortunately the Grand Mafter's indifpolition prevented him from honoring the Society with his prefence. Lord Rawdon, however, officiated as proxy for his royal highnefs, who was reelected with the most joyful acclamations.

Having thus traced the progrefs of Mafonry from its early dawn in England to a recent period, I fhall conclude this work, with a fincere wifh, that an abler hand may profecute the hiftory; that, the principles of the inftitution being clearly underftood, all narrow prejudices may ceafe to operate; and that, the univerfality of the fyftem being firmly eftablished, the Society at large may be regulated according to its original eftablishment.

R

Digitized by Google

COLLECTION

de's

ODES, ANTHEMS, AND SONGS.

ODE I.

HAIL to the CRAFT! at whole ferene command The gentle ARTS in glad obedience ftand: Hail, facred MASONRY! of fource divine, Unerring for reign of th' unerring line: Whofe plumb of truth, with never failing fway, Makes the join'd parts of fymmetry obey: Whofe magic ftroke bids fell confution ceafe, And to the finish'd ORDERS gives a place: Who rears vast structures from the womb of carth, And gives imperial cities glopious birth.

To works of Art HER merit not confin'd, SHE regulates the morals, 'fquares the mind; Corrects with care the fallies of the foul,' And points the tide of passions where to roll: On Virtue's tablet marks HER moral'rule, And forms HER Lodge an universal fchool; Where Nature's myftic laws unfolded stand, And Senfe and Science join'd, go hand in hand.

O may HER focial rules inftructive fpread, Till Truth erect HER long neglected head! Till through deceitful night she dart her ray, And beam full glorious in the blaze of day! Till men by virtuous maxims learn to move, Till all the peopled world HER laws approve, And Adam's race are bound in brothers' love.

R 2

[364]

ODE II.

[Written by a Member of the ALFRED LODGE, at OXFORD, fet to Mufic by Dr. FISHER, and performed at the Dedication of FREE-MASONS HALL.]

> STROPHE. AIR.

WHAT folemn founds on holy Sinai rung, When heavenly lyres by angel fingers ftrung, -Accorded to th' immortal lay, That hymn'd Creation's natal day !

RECITATIVE, accompanied.

"Twas then the fhouting fons of morn Blefs'd the great omnific word; Abafh'd hoarfe jarring atoms heard, Forgot their pealing ftrife,

And foftly crouded into life, When Order, Law, and Harmony were born.

CHORUS.

The mighty Mafter's pencil warm, Trac'd out the fladowy form, And bid each fair proportion grace Smiling Nature's modeft face.

AIR.

Heaven's rareft gifts were seen to join To deck a finish'd form divine,

And fill the fovereign Artift's plan; Th' Almighty's image ftampt the glowing frame, And feal'd him with the nobleft name, Archeture of beauty. Man Archetype of beauty, Man.

[365]

ANTISTROPHE.

SEMI-CHORUS AND CHORUS.

Ye foirits pure, that rous'd the tuneful throng, And loos'd to rapture each triumphant tongue,

Again with quick inftinctive fire,

Each harmonious lip infpire : Again bid every vocal throat

Diffolve in tender votive strain.

AIR.

Now while yonder white-rob'd train Before the myftic fhrine,

In lowly adoration join, [ing note. Now fweep the living lyre, and fwell the melt-

RECITATIVE.

Yet ere the holy rites begin, The confcious thrine within Bid your magic fong impart,

AIR.

How within the wafted heart, Shook by paffion's ruthlefs power, Virtue trimm'd her faded flower,

To opening buds of faireft fruit :

How from majeftic Nature's glowing face, She caught each animating grace, And planted there th' immortal root.

EPODE.

RECITATIVE, accompanied. Daughter of gods, fair Virtue, if to thee

And thy bright fifter, Universal Love,

Soul of all good, e'er flow'd the foothing harmony

Of pious gratulation ; ---- from above,

To us, thy duteous votaries, impart

Prefence divine.

Digitized by Google

AIR,

AIR.

The fons of antique Art, In high mysterious jubilee,

With Pæan loud, and folemn rite,

Thy holy ftep invite,

And court thy liftening ear, To drink the cadence clear

That fwells the choral fymphony.

CHORUS.

To thee, by foot profane untrod, Their votive bands have rear'd the high abode.

RECITATIVE.

Here shall your impulse kind, Inspire the transed mind:

ALR.

And lips of Truth shall sweetly tell What heavenly deeds best, The soul by Wildom's letton smit; What praise he claims, who nobly spurns Gay vanities of life, and tinled joys, For which unpurged fancy burns.

CHORUS.

What pain he fhuns, who dares he wile ; What glory wins, who dares excel !

LE 397]]

ODE III.

[Performed at the GRAND CHAPTER of HARODIM. Written by Brother NOORTHOUCK. Set to Mufic by Brother WEBBE.]

- OPENING.

ORDER is Heaven's first law: through boundless space

Unnamber'd orbs roll round their deftin'd race; On earth, as ftrict arrangements full appear, Suiting the varying feafons of the year : Beneficence divine prefents to view Its plenteous gifts to man, in order true; But chief a mind, thefe bleflings to improve, By arts, by fcience, by fraternal love.

DTVIETON.

When men exalt their views to Heaven's high will, With fleady aim their duty to fulfill,

The mind expands, its ftrength appears, Growing with their growing years, Mounting the apex of malonic fkill. Be this the earnest purpose of our lives, Success must crown the man who nobly ftrives!

CONCLUSION.

Loud let us raife our fwelling ftrains, .

And Harodim proclaim,

Of excellence the name;

Good will to all, dove to each other, The due of every kilful brother,

Who worthily our ancient lore maintains;

Our mirth and our pleafure,

By prudence we measure;

And, cheerfully parting, exchange an adieu ;. 'Till we meet with fresh ardour, our plan to purfue.

R 4

[368]

ODE IV.

[Performed at COACH-MAKERS'-HALL. Written by Mr. BROWN. Set to Mulic by Mr. REMY.]

RECLTATIVE.

WHEN first the golden morn aloft, With maiden breezes whisp'ring fost, Sprung from the east with rofy wing, To kils the heav'nly first-born spring; Jehovah then, from hallow'd earth, Gave Masonry immortal birth; 'Twas then the new creation rung, And thus the Host of Heaven sung:

AIR.

Hail, hail, O hail, thou fource of love, Great Artift of this goodly frame! The earth and fea, the fky above, Thou form'ft to thy immortal frame!

SEMI-CHORUS.

To thee our fire, The cherub choir The air move with feraphic found, Ye breezes fweet, The cadence meet, And waft it o'er the hallow'd ground.

Ten thousand orbial beauties bright, Which long confus d in chaos lay, Thou brought's them forth to give delight, And make the face of Heaven gay.

SEMI-CHORUS.

To thee our fire, &c.

RECI-

[369]

RECITATIVE.

'Twas thus the Heavens in concert rung, While Nature kind from chaos forung, Brought forth her tender infant green, And flowery fweets, to deck the fcene: To finish then the Artist's plan, Of purest mould he form'd the Man; Then gave him an immortal foul, And bid him live, and rule the whole; While angels, from their golden shrine, Sung with angelic strains divine :

A.F.R.

Happy, happy mortals rife, Tafte with us immortal joys, Blooming on yon facred tree, Planted by the Deity, The hallow'd fruit is MASONRY.

Far beyond the pregnant fky, There the hopes of Mafons lie, Mafons happy choice above, Mafons every bleffing prove, Friendship, harmony, and love.

RECITATIVE.

Since perfect love and power divine

First gave our fcience birth, ¹ So friendship shall our hearts entwide, And harmonize the earth; Behold the virgin hither flies, To crown us with her blifsful joys.

R 5

Digitized by Google

AIR,

E 870]

AFR.

Blooming as fair Eden's bower,

Eriendship, goddels heavenly bright, Dropping in a halmy shower,

Breathing concord and delight; Each Malon feels the facred fire Glow with atdour in his heart; The flame infpires him with defire To relieve each other's fmart.

FULL CHORUS.

From Heaven fince fuch bleffings flow, Let every Mafon while below Our noble fcience here improve; "Twill raife his foul to realms above, And make his lodge—a lodge of love.

ODE V.

WAKE the lute and quiv'ring ftrings, Myftic truths Urania brings; Friendly vifitant, to thee We owe the depths of MASONRY; Faireft of the virgin choir, Warbling to the golden lyre, Welcome; here thy ART prevail ! Hail ! divine Urania, hail !

Here in Friendship's facred bower, The downy-wing'd and fmiling hour, Mirth invites, and focial Song, Namelefs mysteries among: Crown the bowl, and fill the glafs, To every virtue, every grace,

То

[37I]

To the BROTHERHOOD refound Health, and let it thrice go round.

We reftore the times of old, The blooming glorious age of gold; As the new creation free, Bleft with gay Euphrolyne; We with godlike Science talk, And with fair Aftree walk; Innocence adorns the day, Brighter than the finiles of May.

Pour the roly wine again, Wake a louder, louder firain; Rapid zephyrs, as ye fly, Waft our voices to the iky; While we celebrate the NINE, And the wonders of the Trine, While the ANGELS fing above, As we below, of PEACE and Love

ODE VI.

[By Brother DUNCKERLEY.] ALMIGHTY Sire ! our heavenly king, Before whofe facred name we bend, Accept the praifes which we fing, And to our humble prayer attend ! All hail, great architect divine ! This univerfal frame is thine.

Thou who did'ft Perfia's king command, A proclamation to extend, That Ifrael's fons might quit his land,

Their holy temple to attend.

R 6

That facred place where three in one, Compris'd thy comprehensive Name; And where the bright meridian fun Was foon thy glory to proclaim. -Thy watchful eye, a length of time, The wond'rous circle did attend : The glory and the power be thine, Which shall from age to age descend. On thy omnipotence we reft, Secure of thy protection here; And hope hereafter to be bleft, When we have left this world of care. Grant us, great God, thy powerful aid, To guide us through this vale of tears; For where thy goodnefs is difplay'd, Peace fooths the mind, and pleafure cheers. Infpire us with thy grace divine, Thy facred law our guide shall be: To every good our hearts incline, From every evil keep us free. All hail! &c. ODE VII. [By the SAME.] HAIL, universal Lord! By heaven and earth ador'd :

All hail ! great God ! Before thy Name we beñd, To us thy grace extend, And to our prayer attend. All hail ! great God !

E: 373]]

ODE VIII.

[Set to Mufic by Dr. ARNOLD.]

ASSIST me, ye fair tuneful Nine, Euphrofyne grant me thy aid, While the honours I fing of the Trine, Preside o'er my numbers, blythe maid ? Ceafe Clamour and Faction, oh ceafe, Fly hence all ye cynical train; Difturb not, difturb not the lodge's fweet peace, Where filence and fecrecy reign. Religion untainted here dwells, Here the morals of Athens are taught ; Great Hiram's tradition here tells How the world out of chaos was brought. With fervency, freedom, and zeal, Our mafter's commands we obey; No cowan, no cowan our fecrets can steal, No babbler our myst'ries betray. Here Wifdom her standard displays, Here nobly the Sciences fhine; Here the temple's vast column we raife, And finish a work that's divine. Illum'd from the East with pure light, Here Arts do their bleffings bestow ; And, all perfect, all perfect, unfold to the fight, What none but a Mason can know.

Digitized by Google.

If

If on earth any praise can be found,

Any virtue unnam'd in my fong; Any grace in the universe round,

May these to a Mason belong:

May each brother his paffion fubdue, Proclaim charity, concord, and loves

And be hail'd, and be hail'd by the thrice happy few

Who prefide in the Grand Lodge above !

ODE IX.

URANIA, hail ! to thee we fing, And all with pleafure own the lay; Which from thy facred fountain fpring,

To clad the free-born fons of day; O fittil attend our meetings here, With peace ferene, and joy funcere.

True joys unruffled, calm repole, In friendthip's facred band behold, The happy recompence of those Who laws and liberty uphold; Who fcorn all bafe, unmanly views, From vice refrain, and virtue chofe.

May each free-mafon good and true, In Britain's ille be ever found;

And in remoteft, regions too,

May love and harmony abound; And all confess true Wildom's power, Till Time and Masons ate no more.

Digitized by Google

2

· [-375]

ODE X.

ARISE, gentle Mufe, and thy wifdom impart To each bolom that glows with the love of our Art; For the blifs that from thy infpiration accrues, Is what all fhould admire, and each mafon purfues.

CHORUS.

Hence Harmony springs, 'tis the cement of love, Fair freedom on earth, and bright union above.

The' malice our joy fhould attempt to control, The' difcord around like an ocean fhould roll; To the one we'll be deaf, to the other be blind, For wildom alone is the ftrength of the mind.

The bright charms of beauty for ever will fhine, Our Art to adorn with a luftre divine, [truth, Till Time, circling round, fhall unfold the great Which thus has united the fage and the youth.

ANTHEM I.

GRANT us, kind Heaven ! what we request, In masonry let us be bleft ;

Direct us to that happy place

Where Friendship smiles in every face :

Where Freedom and fweet Innocence Enlarge the mind and cheer the fenfe.

Where fcepter'd Reason, from her throne, Surveys the LODGE, and makes us one; And Harmony's delightful fway For ever fheds ambrofial day:

Where we bleft Eden's pleafures tafte, While balmy joys are our repaft.

No

[[? 376]]

No prying eye can view us here ; No fool or knave difturb our cheer : Our well-form'd laws fet mankind free, And give relief to mifery :

The poor, oppress'd with woe and grief, Gain from our bounteous hands relief.

Our LODGE the focial Virtues grace, And Wifdom's rules we fondly trace; Whole Nature open to our view, Points out the paths we fhould purfue. Let us fublift in lafting peace,

And may our happinels increase !

ANTHEM IL

BY Maions' Art th' afpiring dome On flately columns thall arife, All climates are their native home, Their godlike actions reach the fkies. Heroes and kings revere their name, While poets fing their lafting fame.

Great, noble," gentifus, good, and brave; All virtues they must justly claim; Their deeds shall live beyond the grave,

And these unborn their praise proclaim. Time shall their glorious acts eurol, While love, and friendship charm the soul.

Hiller at the [377 ·]

ANTHEM III.

"LET there be light !"—the Almighty fpoke, Refulgent ftreams from chaos broke,

To illume the rifing earth ! Well pleas'd the Great Jehovah ftood— The Power Supreme pronounc'd it good,

And gave the planets birth !

In choral numbers Masons join, To bless and praise this light divine.

Parent of light ! accept our praife ! Who fhedd'ft on us-thy brighteft rays, The light that fills his mind-By choice felected, lo ! we ftand, By friendfhip join'd, a focial band !

That love-that aid mankind !

In choral numbers, &c.

The widow's tear-the orphan's cry-All wants-our ready hands supply,

As far as power is given ! The naked clothe—the pris'ner fice— Thefe are thy works, fweet Chasity !

Reveal'd to us from Heaven ! In choral numbers, &cc.

ANTHEM IV.

To Heaven's high Architect all praise, All praise, all gratitude be given;

Who deign'd the human foul to raile, By myftic fecrets fprung from Heaven.

CHORUS.

Sound aloud the great JEHOVAH's praise J

E 378]

SONG I.

[Tune, Attic Fire.]

ARISE, and blow thy trumpet, Fame! Free-malonry aloud proclaim,

To realms and worlds unknown: Tell them of mighty David's fan, The wife, the matchlefs Solomon, Pris'd far above his throne.

The folemn temple's cloud-capt towers, Th' afpiring domes are works of ours, By us those piles were rais'd:

Then bid mankind with longs advance, And through th' ethereal valt expanic,

Let majory be prais'd !

. We help the poor in time of meet, The nated slothe, the kungry feed,

"Tis our foundation: Atons:: We build upon the mobilit plan, n For friendthip tivets man to man, Corrss 3 time. And makes us all as one.

Still londer, Fame 1 thy trumpet blowy Let all the diffent regions know

Frie-malenry is this :

Almighty Wifdom gave it birth, And Heaven has fix'd it here on earth,

A type of future blifs !

[379]

SONG II.

[Tupe, He comes, &c.]

UNITE, unite, your voices raife; Loud, loudly fing Free-mafons' praife: Spread far and wide their fpotlefs fame, And glory in the facred name.

Behold, behold, the upright band, In Virtue's paths go hand in hand; They fhun each ill, they do no wrong, Strict honour does to them belong.

How just, how just are all their ways, Superior far to mortal praife I Their worth, defcription far exceeds, For matchlefs are Free-mations' deeds.

Go on, go on, ye juft, and true, Still, ftill, the fame bright paths purfue, Th' admiring world fhall on ye gaze, And Friendthip's altar ever blaze.

Begone, begone, fly difcord hence ! With party rage and infolence ! Sweet peace fhall blefs this happy band, And freedom finile throughout the land.

SONG HI.

[Tune, Rale Britannia:]

WHEN earth's foundation first was laid, By the almighty Artist's hand,

Twas then our perfect, our perfect laws were Establish'd by his strict, command. [made,

CHORUS.

Hail, mysterious; hail, glorious Masonry ! That makes us ever great and free.

Digitized by Google

L

΄[ 380 **]"

In vain, mankind for shelter sought, In vain from place to place did roam, Until from heaven, from heaven he was taught To plan, to build, to fix his home. Illustrious hence we date our Art. And now in beauteous piles appear; Which shall to endless, to endless time impart, How worthy and how great we are. Nor we lefs fam'd for every tie, By which the human thought is bound ; Love, truth, and friendship, and friendship focially, Join all our hearts and hands around. Our actions still by virtue bleft, And to our precepts ever true, The world admiring, admiring shall request To learn, and our bright paths purfue, SONG IV. [Tune, Rule Britannia.] ERE God the Universe began,

In one rude chaos matter lay, Which wild diforder over-ran, Nor knew of light one glimmering rays. While, in darkness, ever the whole Confusion reign'd without control.

The

Then God arole, his thunders hurl'd, And bad the elements arife;

In air he hung the pendent world,

And o'er it fpread the azure fkies;

Stars in circles caus'd to run,

And in the menue fix'd the Sun.

ní

Then Man he call'd forth out of duft, And form'd him with a living foul; All things committed to his truft.

[381]

And made him ruler of the whole; But, ungrateful unto Heaven, The rebel was from Eden driven.

From thence proceeded all our woes, Nor could mankind one comfort cheer;

Until Free-masonry arose,

And form'd another Eden here ; 'Tis only on malonic ground, Pleafure with innocence is found.

"Tis here the pureft fountains flow, Here naught corrupt can enter in ; Here trees of knowledge stately grow, Whole fruit we tafte, exempt from fin; In friendship sweet we still abound, While guardian Angels hover round.

SONGV

[Written by Brother NOORTHOUCK, and fung in the PROVINCIAL GRAND LODGE at Margate in Kent, June 12, 1786, by Brother ROBSON.]

[Tune, Rule Britannia.]

WHILE trifles lead the world aftray, And vice feduces giddy youth;

Rejoice, my brethren, in this aufpicious day,

That guides a steady few to truth : Raife, raife your voices, ye Kentish Masons all, 'Tis Sawbridge sules, obey his call.

Digitized by Google

Shall

Shall Malonry through Britain spread,

And flourilh every where but here? Forbid it, Virtue! while you our footsteps lead

Kent foremost shall in worth appear : Huzza, my brethren ! to SawbRIDGE raife the Our grateful strains to him belong. [song,

When Harold's crown the Norman gain'd,

In Kent'a hardy race he found; [ftain'd, Whofe fons to cherifh, their ancient fame un-

Preferve it on mafonic ground : True to your duty, your anceftors and land, Let SAWBRIDGE lead a worthy band.

Away with politics and news,

Away with controverfies all;

We're here united, above all party views, And gladly hall the focial call:

Fill, fill your glaffes; let SAWBRIDGE be the toaft, Long may we his protection boaft !

SONG VI.

[ANACREONTIC.]

NOT the fictions of Greece, or the dreams of old Rome, [fume :

Shall with visions mislead, or with meteors con-No Pegasus' wings my short foarings misguide; Nor raptures detain me on Helicon fide.

With the long of Free-malons, of Friendship, and Inspir'd Infpir'd with the theme, the Divinity flies; And thron'd on a rainbow—before her arife Paft, Prefent, and Future—with fplendid array, , In mafonic fucceffion, their treasfures difplay: She views murder'd Merit by ruffian-hand fall, And the grave give its dead up, at fellowship's call! While the craft, by their badges, their innocence prove; And the fong of Free-malons is Friendship and Love!

From those ages remote, see the Muse speeds her To join in the glories the Present display. [way, In freedom and friendship, she sees the true band ' With their splendor and virtues illumine the land. Religion's pure beams break the vapours of night, And from darkness mysterious, the Word gives the light !

While the Lodge here below, as the choirs from above,

Join the fong of Free-malons in Friending and Love!

That the Future might keep, what the Prefent beftows

In rapture prophetic the goddefs arofe, 5

Č,

7

ĸ

As the fung through the Ikies, angels echo'd the found,

And the windsbore the notes to the regions around! The kind proclamation our fong thall retain,

"Twas-"That Malonry long may its luftre maintain :

· And till Time be no more, our fraternity prove,

• That the objects we aim at, are Friendthip and Love !'

[[384] .]]

SONG VII.

[Tune, Rural Felicity.]

YE dult stupid Mortals, give o'er your conjectures, Since Free-masons' secrets ye ne'er can obtain;

The Bible and compasses are our directors,

And shall be as long as this world doth remain. Here friendship inviting, here freedom delighting, Our moments in innocent mirth we employ:

CHORUS.

Come, see, masons' felicity,

Working and finging with hearts full of joy. No other Society that you can mention,

Which has been, is now, or hereafter shall be, However so laudable is its intention,

Can ever compare with divine mafonry. No envy, no quarrels, can here blaft our laurels, No pathon our pleafure can ever annoy: Come, fee, &c.

To aid one another we always are ready,

Our rites and our fecrets we carefully guard; The lodge to fupport, we like pillars are fleady,

No Babel confusion our work can retard. Ye mortals come hither, affemble together, And tafte of those pleasures which never can cloy.

Come, see, &c.

We are to the Master for ever obedient,

Digitized by Google

Whenever he calls, to the lodge we repair; Experience has taught us, that its most obedient

To live within compass, and act on the square. Let mutual agreement be Free-masons' cement, Until the whole universe Time shall destroy : Come, see, &c. [385]

SONG VIII.

[Tune, When Phœbus the tops, &c.] WHILE princes and heroes promifcuoufly fight, And for the world's empire exert all their might, We fit in our lodges from danger fecure, No hardfhips we meet with, no pains we endure;

But each brother cheerfully joins in a fong :

Our rites we renew,

Our pleafures purfue; Thus we waft time along.

To reftlefs ambition we never give way, Our friends and our fecrets we never betray: Henceforth, O ye Heroes, your ravages ceafe, And the laurels ye wear, to Free-mafons releafe: Tho' ye won them by warfare, we claim them by peace.

They are ours, ours, ours, ours, ours; Tho' ye won them by warfare, we claim them by peace.

SONG IX.

[Tune, Hearts of Oak.]

NO fect in the world can with mafons compare, So ancient, fo noble the badge is they wear, That all other Orders, however effcem'd, Inferior to mafonry justly is deem'd.

CHORUS.

We always are free, And for ever agree; Supporting each other,

Brother helps brother,

No mortals on earth are fo friendly as we.

[386]

When first attic fire mortals glory became, Tho' small was the spark, it soon grew to a flame; As Phoebus celestial transcendently bright, It spread o'er the world a fresh torrent of light. We always, &c.

The greatest of monarchs, the wifest of men, Free-masonry honour'd again and again; And nobles have quitted all other delights, With joy to preside o'er our mystical rites. We always, &c.

The' fome may pretend we've no fecrets to know, Such idle opinions their ignorance flow; While others, with raptures, cry out, they're reveal'd,

In free-mason's bosoms they still lie conceal'd. We always, &cc.

Coxcomical pedants may fay what they can, Abufe us, ill ufe us, and laugh at our plan; We'll temper our mortar, enliven our fouls, And join in a chorus o'er full flowing bowls. We always, &c.

SONG X.

[Tune, Goddels of Ease.]

GENIUS of Masonry descend, And with thee bring thy spotless train; Constant our facred rites attend,

While we adore thy peaceful reign ; Bring with thee Virtue, brighteft maid,

Bring Love, bring Truth, and Friendship here; While focial mirth shall lend her aid,

To imooth the wrinkled brow of Care.

Come,

Come, Charity, with goodness crown'd, Encircled in thy heavenly robe, Diffuse thy bleffings all around,

To every corner of the globe: See where the comes, with power to blefs,

With open hand, and tender heart, Which wounded feels at man's diftrefs, And bleeds at every human fmart.

Envy may every ill devise,

And falfehood be thy deadlieft foe, Thou Friendship still shalt to ering rife, And sink thine adversaries low :

Thy well-built pile shall long endure,

Through rolling years preferve its prime, Upon a rock it ftands fecure,

And braves the rude affaults of Time.

Ye happy few, who here extend, In perfect lines, from eaft to weft, With fervent zeal the Lodge defend,

And lock its fecrets in each breaft : Since ye are met upon the fquare,

Bid love and friendship jointly reign, Be peace and harmony your care,

Nor break the adamantine chain.

Behold the planets how they move, Yet keep due order as they run; Then imitate the ftars above,

And thine refplendent as the Sun : That future matons, when they meet,

May all our glorious deeds rehearfe, And fay, their fathers were fo great,

That they adorn'd the universe.

[388]

SONG XI.

[Tune, Arno's Vale.]

WHEN my divine Althæa's charms No more fhall kindle foft alarms, And the keen lightning of her eye Paffes unfelt, unheeded by; When moral Beauty's heavenly form Shall ceafe the frozen foul to warm; When manners thus corrupt we fee, Farewel the fweets of MASONRY!

When Science thall withdraw her light, And Error fpread a Gothic night; When Pity's facred fource is dry, No pearly drop to melt the eye; When Truth fhall hide her blufhing head, And famifh'd Virtue beg her bread; When manners thus corrupt we fee, Farewel the fweets of MASONRY!

But while the fair transport our fight, And moral beauty's charms delight; While Science lifts her torch on high, And Pity thaws the melting eye; While Truth maintains despotic power, And Virtue charms without a dower; While manners thus unstain'd we fee, All hail, the fweets of MASONRY!

SONG XII.

ON, on, my dear brethren, purfue your great lec-Refine on the precepts of old architecture; [ture, High honour to mafons the craft daily brings, Who are brothers of princes, and fellows of kings. We [389].

We drove the rude Vandals and Goths off the ftage, Reviving the art of Augustus' fam'd age; And Vespasian destroy'd the vast temple in vain, Since so many now rife where our principles reign.

The noble five Orders, compos'd with fuch art, Will amaze the fix'd eye, and engage the whole heart;

Proportion's fweet harmony gracing the whole, Gives our work, like the glorious creation, a foul.

Then, Master, and brethren, preserve your great name,

This Lodge fo majeftic will purchafe you fame; Rever'd it fhall ftand till all nature expire, And its glories ne'er fade till the world is on fire.

See, fee, behold here, what rewards all our toil, Invigorates genius, and bids nature fmile : To our noble Grand Mafter let bumpers be crown'd, To all mafons, a bumper, fo let it go round.

Again, my lov'd brethren, again let it pass, Our ancient firm union cements with the glass: And all the contention 'mong malons shall be, Who better can work, or who better agree.

SONG XIII.

HAIL Mafonry, thou craft divine !
Glory of earth, from Heaven reveal'd;
Which doth with jewels precious fhine,
From all but mafons eyes conceal'd :
Thy praifes due, who can rehearfe,
In nervous profe, or flowing verfe ?

Sз

Digitized by Google

All

[39°].

All craftimen true diftinguifh'd are, Our code all other laws excel; And what's in knowledge choice and rare, Within our breafts fecurely dwell. The filent breaft, the faithful heart, Preferve the fecrets of the Art. From fcorching heat and piercing cold, From beafts, whole roar the foreft rends; From the affaults of warriors bold,

The matons' Art mankind defends. Be to this Art due honour paid, From which mankind receives fuch aid.

Enfigns of ftate that feed our pride, Diftinctions troublefome and vain, By mafons true are laid afide, Art's free-born fons fuch toys difdain. Ennobled by the name they bear, Diftinguifh'd by the badge they wear.

Sweet fellowship, from envy free, Friendly converse of brotherhood; The lodge's lasting cement be,

Which has for ages firmly stood. A lodge thus built, for ages past Has lasted, and shall ever last.

Then let us celebrate the praife Of all who have enrich'd the Art, Let gratitude our voices raife, And each true brother bear a part. Let cheerful ftrains their fame refound, And living masons healths go round.

[391]

SONG XIV.

[Tune, In Infancy, &c.] LET Mafonry, from pole to pole, Her facred laws expand, Far as the mighty waters roll, To wafh remoteft land : That Virtue has not left mankind, Her focial maxims prove, For ftampt upon the mafon's mind Are Unity and Love. Afcending to her native fky, Let Mafonry increase; A glorious pillar rais'd on high, Integrity its base. Peace adds to olive boughs, entwin'd, An emblematic dove,

As ftampt upon the mason's mind Are Unity and Love.

SONG XV.

WHEN Heaven defign'd that man fhould know All that was good and great below; This was the happy, choice decree, The bleffings of Free-mafonry.

Hence Peace and Friendship deign to smile, Instructive rules the hours beguile : In focial joy and harmony Are spent the hours of Masonry.

To Beauty's fhrine they homage pay, Its power they know, and own its fway; And this their toaft will always be, Success to Love and Masonry.

S4

bigitized by Google

Of

Of modern learning, ancient lore, Mafons poffefs an ample ftore; At faction fpurn, but loyalty Congenial is with Mafonry.

When tafte and genius both combine, 'To fhape the ftone or draw the line; In fair proportion just and free, All own the power of Masonry.

Whate'er in fculptur'd fkill we prize, Or domes are rear'd, or ftructures rife; Such wonders ne'er mankind could fee, But from the help of Masonry.

An edifice we're proud to own, Of wood not made, nor yet of ftone; Whofe angles, fquares, and fymmetry, Are emblems of Free-mafonry.

It's founded on a brother's love, Relief and Truth its pillars prove; Its corner-ftone is Charity; The building's then Free-mafonry.

By Nature rear'd, improv'd by Art, The manfion view, a mafon's heart, Which ne'er was equall'd, all agree, When modell'd by Free-mafonry.

SONG XVI.

[Tune, Mulberry Tree.]

YE fons of fair Science, impatient to learn, What's meant by a Mason you here may discern; He strengthens the weak, he gives light to the blind, And the naked he clothes — is a friend to mankind.

Digitized by Google

All

All fhall yield to Matonry;

Bleft Masonryb; 7 MOOA. (A Moo Matchlefs was he who founded thee,) And thou, like him finitum al thalt be.

He walks on the level of Honour and Truth, And fpurns the wild pathons of folly and youth; The compass and fquare all his frailties reprove, And his ultimate object is brotherly love.

The temple of Knowledge he nobly doth raife, Supported by Wifdom, and Learning its bafe; When rear'd and adorn'd, ftrength and beauty unite,

And he views the fair ftructure with confcious delight.

With fortitude blefs'd, he's a ftranger to fears, And govern'd by Prudence, he cautioully fleers; Till Temperance flews him the port of Content, And Juftice unafk'd, gives the fign of confent.

Infpir'd by his feelings, he bounty imparts, For Charity ranges at large in our hearts; And an indigent brother reliev'd from his woes, Feels a pleafure inferior to him who beftows.

Thus a mafon I've drawn, and expos'd to your view, And truth must acknowledge the figure is true; Then members become, let's be brothers and friends,

There's a SECRET remaining will make you amends.

Şş

SONG XVII.

[?me, God fave the King.] HALL, MASONRT divine [Glory of ages thine,

Long may's thou reign l Where er thy lodges stand, May they have great command, And always grace the land,

Thou Art divine !

Great fabrics still arise, And graze the azure skies,

Great are thy fchemes l Thy noble Orders are Matchlefs beyond compare : No Art with thee can fhare, Thou Art divine ! Hiram, the architect, Did all the craft direct How they fhould build ; Sol'mon, great Ifr'el's king, Did mighty bleffings bring, And left us room to fing, Hail, royal Art !

SONG XVIII.

[By Brother NOORTHOUCK.] LET drunkards boaft the power of wine, And reel from fide to fide ;

Te

Let lovers kneel at Beauty's shrine,

Digitized by Google

The fport of female pride : Be ours the more exalted part,. To celebrate the masons' Art, And spread its praises wide. To dens and thickets dark and rude For fhelter beafts repair ;

With flicks and flraws the feather'd brood Suspend their nefts in air:

And man untaught, as wild as these, Binds up fad huts with boughs of trees.

And feeds on wretched fate." But Science dawning in his mind,

The quarry he explores; Industry and the Arts combin'd

Improv'd all Nature's flores : Thus walls were built, and houses rear'd, No storms or tempests now are fear'd

Within his well-fram'd doors.

When stately palaces arife,

When columns grace the hall, When towers and fpires falute the fkies,

We owe to mafons all :

Nor buildings only do they give, But teach men how within to live.

And yield to Reafon's call.

All party quarrels they deteft, For Virtue and the Arts,

Lodg'd in each true Free-mafon's breaft, Unite and rule their hearts:

By these, while masons square their minds,

The state no better subjects finds,

None act more upright parts.

When Bucks and Albions are forgot, Free-mafons will remain;

Mushrooms, each day, fpring up and rot,

While oaks firetch o'er the plain : Let others quarrel, rant, and roar; Their noify revels when no more,

Still majonry shall reign.

S 6

Digitized by Google

Our

Our leathern aprons we compare With garters red and blue ;

Princes and Kings our brothers are,

While they our rules purfue : Then drink fuccefs and health to all The craft around this earthly ball, May brethren ftill prove true !

SONG XIX.

COME let us prepare, .We brothers that are Affembled on merry occafion : To drink, laugh, and fing, Be he beggar or king, Herc's a health to an Accepted Mason. The world is in pain Our fecrets to gain, And still let them wonder and gaze on : They ne'er can divine The word or the fign Of a Free and an Accepted Mafon. 'Tis this, and 'tis that, They cannot tell what, Nor why the great men of the nation, Should, aprone put on, And make themfelves one, With a Free and an Accepted Mason. Great Kings, Dukes, and Lords, Have laid by their fwords, Our myst'ry to put a good grace on; And ne'er been afham'd To hear themfelves nam'd With a Free and an Accepted Mason. Anti-

Antiquity's pride We have on our fide,

To keep up our old reputation; There's nought but what's good To be understood,

By a Free and an Accepted Mason. We're true and sincere, And just to the Fair;

Who will truft us on any occasion; No mortal can more The Ladies adore,

Than a Free and an Accepted Mafon.

Then join hand in hand,

By each brother firm stand,

Let's be merry, and put a bright face on; What mortal can boaft

So noble a toaft

As a Free and an Accepted Mafon.

SONG XX.

YE thrice happy few Whofe hearts have been true, In concord and unity found; Let us fing and rejoice,

And unite every voice, To fend the gay chorus around.

CHORUS.

Like pillars we ftand, An immoveable band, Cemented by power from above;

Then freely let pass

The generous glafs To Masonry, Friendship, and Love.

Digitized by Google .

The

[398]

The GRAND ARCHITECT, Whole word did erect Eternity, measure, and space, First laid the fair plan Whereon he began The cement of friendship and peace.

Whole firmnels of hearts, Fair treasure of Arts,

To the eye of the vulgar unknown; Whofe luftre can beam

New fplendor and fame, To the pulpit, the bar, and the throne.

The great David's fon,

The wife Solomon,

As written in Scripture's bright page;

A Mason became,

The fav'rite of Fame, The wonder and pride of his age.

Indiffoluble bands

Our hearts and our hands In focial benevolence bind; For true to his caufe, By immutable laws, A majon's a friend to mankind.

Let joy flow around, And peace, olive bound, Prefide at our mystical rites; Whose conduct maintains Our auspicious domains, And freedom with order unites.

Digitized by Google

Nor

Nor let the dear maid Our mysteries dread, Or think them repugnant to love; To Beauty we bend, Her empire defend, An empire deriv'd from above. Then let us unite, Sincere and upright, On the level of virtue to fland :

No mortal can be

So happy as we

With a brother and friend in each hand.

SONG XXI.

When a lodge of Free-mafons are cloth'd in their In order to make a new brother, [aprons, With firm hearts and clean hands, they repair to And juftly fupport one another. [their ftands, Trufty brother, take care, of eve-droppers beware, 'Tis a juft and a folemn occasion; [know, Give the Word and the Blow, that workmen may There's one asks to be made a Free-mason.

The Mafter ftands due, and his officers too, While the craftimen are plying their ftation; The apprentices ftand, right for the command Of a Free and an Accepted Mason.

Now traverse your ground, as in duty you're And revere the authentic oration, [bound, That leads to the way, and proves the first ray Of the light of an Accepted Mason.

Here's

Here's Words, and here's Signs, and here's Problems and Lines,

And here's room too for deep speculation ; Here Virtue and Truth are taught to the Youth,

When first he's call'd up to a Mason.

Hieroglyphics thing bright, and here light reverts On the rules and the tools of vocation ; [light

We work and we fing, the craft and the king, 'Tis both duty and choice in a Mafon.'

What is faid or is done, is here truly laid down In this form of our high installation ;

Yet I challenge all men to know what I mean, Unlefs he's an Accepted Mason.

The ladies claim right to come into our light,

Since the Apron, they fay, is their bearing; Can they fubject their will, can they keep their • tongues still,

And let talking be changed into hearing? This difficult talk is the leaft we can alk,

To fecure us on fundry occasions , When with this they comply, our utmost we'll try To raife lodges for Lady Free-malons. Till this can be done, must each brother be mum, Tho' the fair-one fhould wheedle and teaze on; Be just, true, and kind, but still bear in mind, • At all times that you are a Free-mason.

SONG XXII.

[Tune, Belleisle March.]

IN hift'ry we're told, how the lodges of old Arofe in the East, and shone forth like the Sun; But all mult agree, that divine Mafonry Commenced when the glorious creation begun ; With jitized by Google

With glory divine; oh, long may'ft thou fhine, Thou choiceft of bleffings, derived from above ! Then charge bumpers high, and with fhouts rend the fky,

To Mafonry, Friendship, and brotherly Love. Cho. With glory divine, &c.

Judea's great king, whole vaft praifes we fing, With wifdom contriv'd, while the Temple he plann'd;

The mysterious Art then took place in each heart, And Hiram with Solomon went hand in hand : While each royal Name was recorded in fame, Their works Earth and Heaven did jointly approve;

Then charge bumpers high, and with fhouts rend the fky,

To Mafonry, Friendship, and brotherly Love. Cho. While each royal, &c.

Then masons were true, and the craft daily grew; They liv'd within compass, and work'd by the fquare;

In friendship they dwelt, no ambition they felt, Their deeds were upright, and their confciences On this noble plan, Free-masons began, [clear; To help one another they mutually strove;

Then charge bumpers high, and with shouts rend the sky,

To Mafonry, Friendship, and brotherly Love. Cho. On this noble plan, &c.

Those maxims pursue, and your passions subdue, And imitate those worthy masons of yore; [guest, Fix a Lodge in each breast, be fair Virtue your Let Wisdom preside, and let Truth tile the door:

So fhall we arife, to an immortal prize, In that blifsful Lodge which no time can remove; Then charge bumpers high, and with fhouts rend the fky,

To Masonry, Friendship, and brotherly Love. Cho. So shall we arise, &c.

SONG XXIII.

[On the Revival of Masonry in Cornwall.] [Tune, Vicar of Bray.] WHEN Mafonry expiring lay, By knaves and fools rejected, Without one hope, one cheering ray, By worthlefs fools neglected Fair Virtue fled, Truth hung her head, O'erwhelm'd in deep confusion, Sweet Friendship too, Her fmiles withdrew. From this bleft Inftitution. Cho. Fair Virtue fled, &c. Cornubia's fons determin'd then Free-mafonry to cherifh, They rous'd her into life again, And bid fair Science flourif.

Now Virtue bright, Truth rob'd in white, With Friendship hither hastens, All go in hand, To bless the band, Of upright Cornish Masons.

Che. Now Virtue bright, &c.

Since

Since Masonry's reviv'd once more, Purfue her wife directions, Let circumfpection go before, And Virtue square your actions; Unite your hands In Friendship's bands, Supporting one another; With honest heart. Fair Truth impart, To every faithful brother. Cho. Unite your hands, &c. Let coxcombs grin, and critics fneer, While we are blythe and jolly, Let fops despife the badge we wear, We laugh at all their folly ; Let empty fools Despise our rules, By Jove, we ne'er will heed 'em, Say what they will, We're Majons still, And will support our freedom. Cho. Let empty fools, &c. But may kind Heaven's gracious hand, Still regulate each action; May every lodge fecurely stand, Against the storms of faction; May Love and Peace, Each day increase, Throughout this happy nation, May they extend, Till all shall end, In one great conflagration.

Cho. May Love and Peace, &c.

[4°4[,]][:]

SONG XXIV.

[Tune, In Infancy.]

HAIL, Mafonry ! thou facred Art, Of origin divine !.

Kind partner of each focial heart, And fav'rite of the Nine !

By thee we're taught, our acts to fquare, To meafure life's fhort fpan; And each infirmity to bear

That's incident to man.

Cho. By thee, &c.

Tho' Envy's tongue fhould blaft thy fame, And Ignorance may fneer,

Yet still thy angient honour'd name Is to each brother dear :

Then ftrike the blow, to charge prepare, In this we all agree,

May Freedom be each Mason's care, And every Mason free: (1991)

Cho. Then finke the blow, Stc.

2 - Andrew Carlon and Andrew Carlon

SONG XXV.

[Sung at a Provincial Grand Lodge for the County of Cornwall, held at Truro on the Feftival of St. John the Bapsift, 24th June 1779.]

[Tune, Cafino.]

COME, ye Maions, hither bring, The tuneful pipe and pleafing ftring, Exert each voice;

Aloud rejoice,

And make the spacious conceve ring :

Digitized by Google

Let

[405]

Let your hearts be blythe and gay, Joy and mirth let all difplay, No dull care Shall enter here, For this is Mafons' holiday. Cho. Let your hearts, &c. Friendship here has fix'd her feat, And Virtue finds a calm retreat, Go tell the Fool, "Tis Wifdom's fchool, Where Love and Honour always meet. Cho. Let your hearts, &c. Social pleafures here invite, To fill the foul with fweet delight, While hand in hand, Our friendly band In love and harmony unite. Cho. Let your hearts, &c. May we oft affemble here, And long the badge of honour wear, May joy abound, And we be found For ever faithful and fincere. Cho. Let your hearts, &c. Take the flowing glass in hand, And drink to your Provincial Grand, Long may he reign, The caufe maintain, And lodges flourish through the land. Cho. Let your hearts, &c.

aitized by Google

°[406]

SONG XXVI.

[Tune, From the East breaks the Morn.] WHILST each poet fings, of great princes and To no fuch does my ditty belong : [kings,

To no fuch does my ditty belong : 'Tis freedom I praife, that demands all my lays, And Mafonry honours my fong :

And Masonry honours my song. Cho. "Tis freedom I praise, &c.

Within compass to live, is a leffon we give, Which none can deny to be true;

Which none can, &c. All our actions to fquare, to the time we take care, And Virtue we ever purfue;

And Virtue we ever, &c. Cho. All our actions, &c.

On a level we are, all true brothers fhare The gifts which kind Heaven beftows;

The gifts, &c.

In friendship we dwell; none but Masons can tell What blifs from such harmony flows;

What blifs, &c.

Cho. In friendship we, &c.

In our myftical fchool, we muft all work by rule, And our fecrets we always conceal;

And our, &c.

Then let's fing and rejoice, and unite every voice, With fervency, freedom, and zeal;

jitized by Google

With fervency, &c. Cba. Then let's fing, &c.

Then

Then each fill a glafs, and the circling toalt pais, And merrily fend it around ;

[407]

r And merrily, &c.

Let us Mafonry hail, may it ever prevail, With fuccels may it ever be crown'd !

With fuccefs, &c.

Cho. Let us Masonry, &c.

SONG XXVII.

[Tune, Balance a Straw.]

WHEN the Sun from the East first falutes mortal eyes,

And the fky-lark melodioufly bids us arife; With our hearts full of joy, we the fummons obey, Straight repair to our work, and to moiften our clay.

On the traffel our Master draws angles and lines, There with freedom and fervency forms his defigns;

Not a picture on earth is fo lovely to view, All his lines are fo perfect, his angles fo true.

In the Weft fee the Wardens fubmiffively ftand, The Mafter to aid, and obey his command; The intent of his fignals we perfectly know, And we ne'er take offence when he gives us a blow.

In the lodge, floth and dulnefs we always avoid, Fellow-crafts and apprentices all are employ'd : Perfect afhlers fome finish, fome make the rough plain,

All are pleas'd with their work, and are pleas'd with their gain.

Digitized by Google

When

[408].

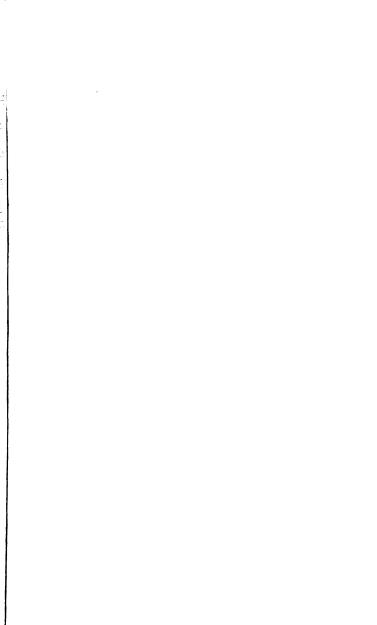

When my Mafter I've ferv'd feven years, perhaps . more,

Some fecrets he'll tell me I ne'er knew before; In my bofom I'll keep them as long as I live, And purfue the directions his wifdom fhall give.

I'll attend to his call both by night and by day, It is his to command, and 'tis mine to obey; Whenfoe'er we are met, I'll attend to his nod, And I'll work till high twelve, then I'll lay down my hod.

THE END.

. . .

A

RECORD OF TREATMENT, EXTRACTION ETC.

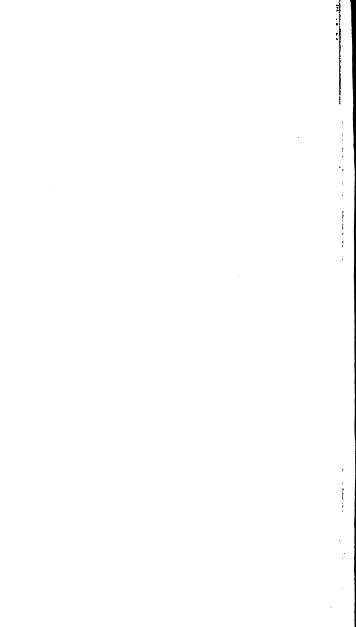

Shelfmark: S&P Ref No.

,

1486 aaa 8 cc1808/2

Microfilm No.

| Date | Particulars | |
|------|--|---------------------|
| Duit | pH Before or Existing | pH After |
| | 4.6 | 8.1 |
| _ | Deacidification Adhesives Adhesives b2 Adhesives b2 Beatstarch paste gelatine glue Lined/Lamipated Inied with Kozu-SHI 23 gsm laminaled with heat set manila | |
| Aug | | |
| 2002 | | |
| | | |
| | Chemicals / Solvents | |
| | CoverTreatment | |
| | Other Remarks | |
| | | Digitized by Google |

CEDRIC CHIVERS. 2002

